CENTRAL HELLOES IN A MODEL NEW HOME.

Fine Headquarters for N. Y. and N. J. Telephone Company.

EVERY ADVANTAGE AT HAND

PLEASANT PLACE FOR OPERATORS TO WORK IN.

Every Detail of the New Office is of the Latest Pattern, and Especially Adapted for Rapid and Satisfactory Service to the 500 Local Subscribers—Manager Runyon Deserves Credit for His Work.

Now that the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has moved their "central" office from North avenue to their new building on Park avenue, near Fourth street, something regarding the change and improvements is in order. It will be remembered that the telephone company have for some time past been desirous of securing permanent quarters and placing their wires underground. The Common Council gave the company the right to put wires underground, and this work has been done in the central part of the city in a manner that has surprised the biggest crank on "tearing up streets." The work was done in such a way that one can scarcely tell today that the streets were torn up.

In the meantime the company purchased the building on Park avenue they now occupy. Arrangements were made under the personal supervision of Manager Charles W. Runyon to have the building fitted up in the most approved method and up-to-date style. The work was started several months ago and is now about completed, with the exception of a few details. In arranging the new office plenty of room was left for an increase in business, which necessitated the present change. The building is one-story with a large and commodious basement. The first floor is very deep and of ample width. It is also light and airy.

In the front part of the first floor on the left is the manager's office fitted in a convenient and modern style. On Mr. Runyon's desk is one of the latest style telephone that can be shifted to suit the user. While sitting at his desk he can call any operator in the office or the chief operator by simply raising a lever and pushing a button. In this office is one of the assistants, Miss Backer, who assists the chief operator, Miss Ett[illegible] and the manager. On the right [illegible] the entrace are located two booths for public use. These are also of the most approved pattern. They differ from the others used in that there is more room inside. The space used for the telephone is very small, thus making more room and giving greater convenience to the user.

An iron fence divides the space between the booths and the other part of the first floor. Directly on the other side of this fence is located the four switch boards, including the board for the selective system. At these boards are Miss Lou Crosson, Miss Nettie Chandler, Miss Edith Hurlbut and Anna Higgins, the four operators, who attend to the numerous calls that come in. These boards are up-to-date in every respect, and every convenience is provided for the operator. Directly back of the operators is a desk where the chief operator is located. She has general supervision over the operators and attends to all questions or business that comes in her department. During the night after 9 o'clock only one operator is employed, and that is Thomas Muir.

In the centre of the first floor is located the battery room, which is arranged according to the most approved plans known. There is also provided a place for storing supplies, and another place for testing telephones, while a very important part of the office is the testing board, which is connected with every telephone that is in use.

The company very kindly appropriated in their new building a good portion of the first floor to be used as a room for the women employed. This room is fitted up with every convenience. Easy chairs, a table and toilet arrangements are provided, while a gas stove is to be a valuable adjunct, so that the women can prepare various articles for lunch when necessary. The building throughout is furnished with the best of furniture and it presents a thorough business-like appearance.

Manager Runyon deserves great credit for the able and efficient manner in which he has attended to the business of the company and at the same time given Plainfield what is considered an exchange second to

A BAD MIXTURE HERE.

POLITICS AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT DO NOT MIX WELL.

It is Said That the Democratic Board of Freeholders of Middlesex is Held Up by Republican Road Commissioner.

It is possible that the building of stone roads in Middlesex county may come to a standstill on account of the Democratic Board of Freeholders and the Republican Commissioner of Roads, Mr. Budd, failing to agree as to which road should be repaired first. The Board has recently selected the road extending from New Brunswick to Old Bridge to be repaired, but Mr. Budd has refused to approve the plans. If the road is built without his approval the county will forfeit a percentage paid by the State.

It is contended by Democratic members of the Board that Mr. Budd has discriminated against the Democratic sections in the county, and that now he has said he would approve plans for the building of a stone road in Cranbury township. He has not announced the reason for this decision, but since Cranbury is noted for the Republican majorities it rolls up, the Democrats feel convinced that this has something to do with his preference for that part of the county.

A Democratic member of the Board of Freeholders in discussing the matter yesterday, said:—"It is strange if a Democratic Board of Freeholders cannot build a road in a Democratic township until all of the roads in the Republican districts have been repaired."

Since the question of politics seems to have entered into the matter there is no telling when the Board and the Road Commissioner may arrive at an amicable understanding. Meanwhile the farmers most interested are complaining about the unnecessary delay in improving the roads.

PLAINFIELDERS IN A RUNAWAY.

Horse Driven by Myron Marsh Cut up Lively Antics.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 1.—A runaway which worked disaster to the rig driven by Myron Marsh and Edward Bloom, of Plainfield, occurred yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock on Broad street.

The horse and buggy belonged to H. DeMott, the undertaker of Plainfield, and was hired to Marsh early in the day to do some collecting with. Marsh says that as he turned the horse around near the station, the animal suddenly took the bit in his teeth and plunged forward towards his home.

Before the horse had gone two hundred yards the two men in the buggy threw it, which effectually stopped his flight, but precipitated the driver and his companion out into the road. Fortunately neither was hurt, but their clothing was a sight, and the buggy was demolished.

The rig was taken to a nearby repair shop, and a telephone message sent to DeMott who came later in the day and took the horse home. Mr. DeMott says the horse is a gentle one, and does not know what made it cut up such antics.

Rev. Mr. Jackson's First Year.

This evening a large gathering is anticipated at the Mt. Olive Baptist church to give expression of appreciation to the pastorate of Rev. E. E. Jackson, and to listen to the annual report of the church. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will be present and make an address. The junior singers, under the direction of Mrs. Fred Mitchell, will sing glee songs, and there will be music by the choir of the church.

Aiding the Children's Home.

Miss Emma Powers, Miss Marguerite Edwards and Miss Anna Edwards, young women living in the borough, have taken a peculiar interest in the Children's Home. Last Saturday a pin-wheel sale was held and the young people did very well in securing funds with which to start their enterprise.

Realty Changes.

The following real estate changes have been recorded in the Somerset County Clerk's office during the past week: Olin L. Jenkins et ux to Nellie P. Lyman, North Plainfield, $1.00. Eliza A. Parse to Nelson Y. Dungan, North Plainfield, $250.

Officers of Board of Governors.

The board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital have elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Wm. L. Saunders; vice-presidents, Charles Schipper, W. E. Lowe; secretary, W. R. Cock; treasurer, H. P. Reynolds.

RETRIBUTION FOR AN OLD HORSE THIEF.

Emerges From Sing Sing Prison to be Arrested Again.

STOLE RIG FROM ROBERTS.

THE OFFENSE WAS COMMITTED FOUR YEARS AGO.

When Apprehended by Mr. Roberts, a Few Months After He Stole It, the Thief Declined to Tell Where it Was—Subsequently Relented When He Got in Prison—Property Was Recovered.

Word was received by Dan Roberts, the North avenue liveryman, yesterday, telling him that John Towers, alias James Smith, who is accused of stealing a horse and carriage belonging to Mr. Roberts four years ago, had been arrested at Sing Sing yesterday morning just as he emerged from State Prison there after serving a four years term for the same offense. This morning Harry Roberts went to Sing Sing to appear formally against Towers in order that application can be made for extradition papers. Towers was indicted by the Union County Grand Jury three years ago, and as soon as he is extradicted he will probably be put on trial.

Towers hired the rig of Roberts for the ostensible purpose of driving to Piscataway one morning. He did not return that night or the next day, and it was then concluded that the outfit had been stolen. Every effort was immediately made to catch the thief and secure the return of the horse and buggy. The attempt was unavailing for a long time, however. Finally, after several months, a man was arrested at White Plains, N. Y., on the charge of stealing horses. From the evidence produced against him it was found that he had made a regular business of it. Mr. Roberts was apprised of the fact and his son Harry, and John Meeker, an agent for the Grand Union Tea Company, who had seen the man with the stolen horse the day that he secured it, went to White Plains and succeeded in identifying him. Harry Roberts endeavored to get Towers to tell where the horse was to be found, but the thief maintained that he knew nothing about it. Later he was convicted and sent to State Prison.

After he had been in prison for sometime Towers wrote a letter telling where he had sold the horse. It was to a liveryman at Stamford, Conn. A few days later Mr. Roberts went there and found his property. After a few days he succeeded in regaining control of it, but not until after he had spent $125 in searching for it.

Subsequently Towers was indicted by the Grand Jury of Union county, and now after he has served three years in Sing Sing he will be brought to New Jersey, unless Governor Roosevelt declines to sign the extradition papers, and be compelled to undergo trial and sentence here. Towers has a lawyer, however, and will fight the attempt to extradicte him.

R. D. WILLIAMS TAKES A WIFE.

Simple Friends' Ceremony Used to Tie the Nuptial Knot.

Richard D. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Williams, of West Seventh street, was married this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock to Miss Ella H. Lippincott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Lippincott, of Rancocas, this State. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride and was witnessed by the members of the families of the two parties. The simple Friends' ceremony was used.

Miss Lippincott is an accomplished young woman. After the ceremony the couple left for a short trip, and on their return will reside in this city in a new house which has been built by the groom on West Sixth street.

Has Blood in His Eye.

A short time ago some persons, being very thoughtful, stole a number of small chickens owned by G. O. Stevens, of Compton avenue, which he was raising for his use. Mr. Stevens feels very thankful that the thieves left the chicken coops, and says that if they wait long enough he will have some more chickens. He does not say what will happen if he catches the thieves.

CENTRAL EMPLOYES ARE DISSATISFIED.

Committee Appointed to Wait on President Maxwell.

OLD HANDS ARE LAID OFF.

WORK OF NEW DEPARTMENT HEADS IS NOT SATISFACTORY.

A Meeting of the Malcontents Held Monday Night and the New Order of Things Discussed—Conference Arranged With Mr. Maxwell for Either Today or Tomorrow to Talk Over Affairs.

According to the Sun, there is disaffection among the employes of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, due to radical changes that are being made in all the departments. The men say that the company is adopting the methods of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad. New men, they assert, have been brought from the west and placed in charge of departments, and men who have spent the best part of their lives in the service are being pushed aside to make room for younger ones. Old conductors, according to the same authority, are being reduced to brakemen, brakemen to flagmen and flagmen to laborers, while some laborers are being discharged.

At a meeting of the malcontents Monday night a committee, consisting of one man from each branch of the service, was appointed to wait on President Maxwell and lay their grievances before him. It is understood that Mr. Maxwell has expressed a willingness to receive the committee and discuss the situation with them. The conference will be held either today or tomorrow, and the committee will report the result to the main body at a meeting to be held Monday night. If the result is not satisfactory to the men, negotiations will be entered into with the dissatisfied Delaware, Lackawanna and Western employes with a view to taking some action in the matter.

ASK TO LOOK FOR BABY.

CIRCULARS RECEIVED BY THE PLAINFIELD POLICE.

Chief Grant Receives a Batch of Circulars Aimed to Assist in Running Down the Kidnapped Clarke Baby.

Chief of Police Grant received from the New York police today a number of circulars containing a picture and description of Marion Clarke, who was abducted on May 21st. The authorities here have been asked to look for the child, and also for the nurse girl, Carrie Jones, who is supposed to have kidnapped the little one.

The circular is as follows:

ARREST FOR ABDUCTION.

Carrie Jones, twenty-one years of age, five feet two inches tall, dark hair and eyes, pale face, high cheek bones, teeth prominent in upper jaw, American by birth; wore a white straw sailor hat with black band, military pin on one side, blue check shirt waist, black brilliantine skirt, black lace bicycle boots, white collar with black tie.

Abducted Sunday, May 21, 1899, Marion Clarke, daughter of Arthur W. Clarke, of this city, and described as follows: Twenty months old, light complexion, light hair, blue eyes, had twelve teeth, four in upper jaw, four in lower jaw and four in back, there is a space between two front upper teeth; red birth mark on buttock.

Wore red rose colored dress, white silk cap, black stockings and black buttoned shoes.

Make careful inquiry and distribute these circulars in all institutions, foundling asylums and places where children of the above age are received. Send all information to

William S. Devery,
Chief of Police.

Police Department, City of New York, 300 Mulberry street.

Row Among Italians.

As the result of a fight between Italians Tuesday on the Terrill road, several arrests have been made and the parties interested will appear before Justice Nash tonight. Ex-Sheriff George Kyte, of Fanwood, makes the complaint, and Constable Mattox made the arrests yesterday. From what can be learned of the matter it would seem that two families celebrated Decoration Day by indulging in a free fight, in which fists, feet and knives were used.

Vets Ready to Celebrate.

In the Fourth of July celebration to be held in this city the Spanish-American War veterans in this vicinity will take part. They have arranged to place an appropriate float in the parade and they will all appear on this float.

SENATOR KEAN FOR THE OLD TICKET.

Believes McKinley and Hobart Are Winners in 1900.

SAYS JERSEY IS FOR G. O. P.

THINKS HIS PARTY IS IN FINE FIGHTING TRIM.

The Senator Says its Leaders are in Harmony and Will go Into the Battle Next Year With a Solid Front and Every Prospect of Success—Names Delegates at Large to National Success.

In an interview given out yesterday Senator John Kean is quoted as follows:

"You may quote me, if you wish, as saying that there is a practically unanimous sentiment in the Republican party in this State in favor of the renomination of McKinley and Hobart. The State convention, I believe, will send a solid delegation for their support. Every Republican should be proud of the record President McKinley has made, while Mr. Hobart has shown consummate tact and ability as the presiding officer of the Senate, and is the most popular vice-president we have ever had. It was because of his earnest, conscientious discharge of public duties that Mr. Hobart's health was impaired, but I hear that he is rapidly regaining strength and vigor, and I expect to see him again with Major McKinley heading the Republican ticket. That cannot help but be a winning ticket in 1900."

"How about New Jersey? Can the State be relied upon for a Republican majority next year?" Senator Kean was asked.

"With McKinley and Hobart, without doubt. In 1896 we carried the State by 87,692 plurality. That, of course, was a tremendous landslide, due largely to the Democratic slump on the silver issue. New Jersey is a sound money State, and so long as our friends the enemy continue to incorporate 16 to 1 in their platform there will be no danger of the State going Democratic at a National election. Mr. Hobart will, of course, add strength to the ticket, and New Jersey can be depended upon to roll up a handsome Republican majority.

"The Republican party in New Jersey was never in better fighting trim than it is at present. It has control of the State government and a large majority of the county offices, and is not rent with discord or weakened with factional fights, as is the Democracy. Its leaders are in harmony, and it will go into the battle in 1900 with a solid front and with every prospect of success. The delegates-at-large to the Republican National convention will be United States Senator Sewell, United States Senator Kean, Franklin Murphy, chairman of the State Committee, and Barker Gummere, of Trenton. General Sewell will be chairman of the delegation."

RED MEN HAD A CONFAB.

Long Named Tribe Enjoyed a Pleasant Night of it.

At the meeting of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe of Red Men last night, two new members were adopted, and two more elected. After the business had been transacted, Great Senior Sagamore Newcorn, of Miantonomoh Tribe, gave a talk. Addresses were also given by Messrs. Houseman, Green, Wilson, Shelvy, Carney and Nash.

The usual game of quoits followed, in which the members were divided into sides, captained by Mason and Voorhees. Several games were pitched, in which Mason's side was victorious.

Theodore Mason, Mr. Westcott and Asa Pope were appointed by the tribe to meet the joint committees from other organizations on the evening of June 6th, to make preparations for Independence Day.

Got a Cage of Rats.

Don't say "rats" to Lawyer William Newcorn today, or he will be likely to show you a trap full of them. Six of them are the result of a raid he made upon their domicile last night, all young ones, who, with their mother, have been making their home in the lawyer's office, and incidently gnawing his papers to pieces nights. Last night the trap was set and these six babies were foolish enough to run in, but the wary old mother was too sharp to be caught.

To Hold Sunday-School at Noon.

Beginning with the third Sunday in June the session of the Sunday-school at the Park Avenue Baptist church will begin at 12 o'clock noon instead of at 2:45 o'clock. This will be only an experiment at first, but if it proves successful that will be the time for the session all during the summer months.

HUNTERSTON OPENED.

SEVERAL DESIRABLE CHANGES MADE IN THE HOTEL.

The Most Important is the Making of a Ball Room Where the Ladies' Parlor Was—House Redecorated Throughout.

The Hotel Hunterston, under the management of Major Coleman, opened for the season today, and the guests that arrived found the house in the most perfect condition that it has been in since it was first erected. Many changes have been made in the first floor plan. The most important is the making of the large parlor in the northern end of the hotel into a big ball room. The ball room will accommodate a large number of couples, and has a beautiful floor for tripping the light fantastic toe. It is the intention of the management to have frequent balls and receptions this season, and therefore social life will be gay at the house.

What was formerly the ladies' billiard parlor on the opposite side of the house has been changed into the ladies' parlor, and fitted out in elegant manner. The entire house has been redecorated in the interior with paint and paper and presents a charming appearance.

The billiard room will be removed from the south side of the house, off from the dining room, to the basement where the cafe is located. What was formerly the annex dining room is remodeled into a palm garden, with a picturesque outlook towards Netherwood Heights.

Major Coleman has booked a large number of prominent and wealthy people for various periods during the season, many of them being military and naval men, with whom he has large acquaintance on account of his hotel experience in Washington. Among those who are expected to spend a short season at the hotel is Miss Annie Gould, who will visit the place previous to her annual trip to Europe.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Coleman in looking after the guests are Charles B. Reilly, of Baltimore, who was at the Coleman House in Asbury Park last season, and B. H. Moulton, of Buffalo, who was prominently associated with Miss Gould's charitable work among the soldiers last summer. There is a large staff of other employes, all of whom are experienced in hotel life.

DEATH WAS NATURAL.

County Physician Gave a Permit to Remove Remains of "Aunty" Washington.

The remains of Mrs. Annie C. Washington, the aged colored woman who died alone on Cottage place Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, were taken to A. M. Runyon & Son's establishment last night, where they will await word from the woman's relatives in Virginia. It is said that she has children in that State who will be notified at once. She was a widow, and lived all by herself.

Dr. F. W. Westcott, the county physician, viewed the remains late yesterday afternoon, and gave a permit for removal. He did not express an opinion as to the cause of her death, but there is no suspicion of foul play. She was about 65 years of age.

Little People to Play Actress.

Eight or ten little people of the borough are preparing to give a play Saturday evening in former Mayor William L. Saunders' barn. The little folks call themselves the "Daughters of Liberty" and have written the play themselves. Attendance will be by invitation, and after the presentation of the drama a dance will be held. Those interested in it are the children of Edward Hooley, Frank Curtis, A. E. Faber, Mr. Howard and Mr. Saunders.

Roof Was on Fire.

This morning at 9 o'clock Patrolman Wenzenried sent in an alarm of fire from Box No. 16, corner of Front and Richmond streets, in response to a fire that broke out in the roof of the building occupied by White & Kearns, blacksmiths, on East Third street. The fire was started from a spark from a nearby chimney. By the time the department arrived the fire was out and the damage was very slight.

Do Not Want Icehouse Rebuilt.

A petition is being circulated to be presented to the Common Council protesting against the erection of a large icehouse on the property near Grant avenue, where the fire occurred a few days ago. The petition is being signed by residents in the immediate vicinity, who believe that the erection of such a building would be hazardous to the adjoining property.

Changes at the Library.

The new addition to the Public Library is finished and the work of moving the books from the shelves of the old building to the new, is begun. When this is done several changes in the interior of the Library will be made.

NEW HOME PLANNED FOR HOPE CHAPEL.

Parent Society Decide to Expend $7,000 for the Edifice.

$5,000 WAS BEQUEATHED.

NEW STRUCTURE TO BE BUILT NEAR THE OLD ONE.

Committee Appointed Last Night With Power to Go Ahead and Erect the New Edifice—It Will be Necessary to Raise Only $2,000 From Private Sources—They Expect to Build This Summer.

At a congregational meeting held at the Crescent Avenue church last evening a committee, composed of Isaac W. Bushmore, Robert H. Cook, H. C. Squires, John Bushnell and S. A. Cahoone, were given the power to go ahead and erect a new church edifice for the worshippers at Hope chapel on the property purchased some time ago from E. M. French & Co.

It has not yet been decided whether the building will be of frame or brick, there being a division of opinion. The total cost of the structure will be about $7,000, and it will be 45 x 60 in dimensions. It is intended to make the seating capacity of the new church about three hundred, and have it arranged so that it will join the present building and if necessary the buildings can be thrown in one, thus making a seating capacity of nearly eight hundred.

There is a frontage of 150 feet on Fourth street, and it is the intention as the present structures wear out and becomes unfit for use, to tear that part down and replace it by new additions.

Bids were received some time ago for erecting the new church, but the committee has not yet awarded any of the work. This will be done at an early date, and the work of building will be started if possible so the structure will be completed before cold weather sets in.

It will be remembered that the sum of $5,000 was bequeathed to the trustees of Hope chapel by the late Mrs. VanDeventer, and this sum will pay for the largest part of the work, and the balance about $2,000 can easily be raised to complete the building.

The growth at this chapel has been phenomenal. Starting eleven years ago with but a handful of workers, it is today one of the most prosperous and influential church homes in the city. Under the pastorate of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell the members have attained a high standard of proficiency in Christian work. The need of a new and more modern church home has been apparent for a long time, and the members are now rejoicing to know that their hopes are to be realized.

CROWNING THE MAY QUEEN.

The Month of Spring Flowers Bid Farewell in Festival Style.

Forty-two young men and women dressed in airy costume and going through the mazes of pretty figures, made a pleasant sight in Washington Hall last night on the occasion of the May Queen festival given there for the benefit of the Calvary Baptist church.

The arrangements were made by the Misses Howell, of Fanwood, two members of the church, who interested themselves in this entertainment. Aided by a committee from the church, consisting of Spencer Conway, Henry Barsal, Mrs. Susan Wallis, S. S. Reid, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Brown, Miss Anderson and M. Robinson, preparations were made to hold this festival.

A great of work was spent on the decorations of the hall, and it was made to look as much like fairyland as possible.

The scenes portrayed were the crowning of the May queen and tableaux. The programme was varied with several selections by the chorus, and the play was interspersed with light music. The audience was made up of many white people, who came to help along the good cause.

Making People Happy.

H. L. Overbaugh, a popular machinist at Potter's Press Works, home 118 Elmwood place, says he suffered untold agony from bunions and corns. Big shoes, so-called cures, nor anything else, gave any relief until completely cured by Mr. Brown, foot specialist, at 145 West Second street. H. Laing, painter, 166 Manning avenue, says for years his bunions kept him in misery. He tried everything he ever heard of without doing any good until advised to see Mr. Brown, who has completely cured his feet. Mr. Laing says he went to Mr. Brown's office almost a cripple and when he left he felt like a new man. He can now wear close fitting shoes and walk and work with ease and comfort.

5,000 LADEN WITH GOLD.

Said to Be Waiting at Dawson for the First Returning Steamer.

THE BIGGEST YIELD YET.

Indications Are That the Yukon Will Probably Be Free of Ice By the Fourth of June.

Rare Luck of Charlie and Lee Carr, Near Deadwood, S. D.—Stumbled on a Gold Mine and the Entire Country Side Is Wild Over the Big Find—People Are Staking Claims With a Rush.

Seattle, Wash., June 1.—Advices from Dawson, state that there are evidences of the most wonderful output of gold recorded.

Five thousand men are in waiting at Dawson to take the first boats up the river, and most of them are miners, with from $1,000 to $50,000 each in dust.

The White Pass and Yukon Railroad Company has issued bills of lading on more than $1,000,000 worth of gold that is to come out on one of the first river steamers.

There is every indication that the river from Dawson to White Horse Rapids is now open. The lakes will be free from ice by June 4. Fully 2,000 people and thousands of tons of freight are at Lake Bennett waiting for the first steamers.

Stumbled on a Gold Mine.

Deadwood, S. D., June 1.—Charlie and Lee Carr have made their fortunes. They are two young cattlemen in Custer county, in the Southern Black Hills, who heretofore have lived uneventful lives, but by a good stroke of fortune they are now no longer hunting lost cattle or stray horses in the deep ravines of their native hills.

They climbed the steep side of a mountain to a point about fifty feet above the creek level, and almost immediately found a ledge of free gold. They traced the outcroppings along the mountain ridge far enough to convince them that it was extensive.

The news of the discovery soon started a big rush of people in from all parts of the country. Claims were staked in no time for several miles around, and there was a rush for the Recorder's office.

Tried to Kill His Wife.

Oyster Bay, June 1.—John Dann, a carpenter of this village, attempted to kill his wife, Elizabeth, with an axe. The pair had separated. Dann boarded at a local hotel and Mrs. Dann lived at the Cove with her children. Both are well known.

He went to his wife's house, and stealing silently into his wife's room raised an axe above her and brought it down with great force. His aim was uncertain, and the blow glanced, making a severe wound just back of the ear on the right side of the victim's head.

Captain Marks Wins His Fight.

Montreal, June 1.—Capt. Marks of the Helvetia, who refused to give up his vessel at Valleyfield until his claim for wages was settled, has come out a victor. The Quebec Government having refused to interfere in the matter, the owners have agreed to pay the Captain's claim and he will now give up the vessel. Acting United States Consul Gorman went to Valleyfield and succeeded in effecting a settlement. Capt. Marks has left the vessel and took up his quarters at the hotel in Valleyfield. He has become a regular hero among the Valleyfield people, owing to the manner in which he stuck up for his rights.

Want General Wheeler for Governor.

Birmingham, Ala., June 1.—Numerous newspapers in the State are urging Gen. Wheeler for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination. Every Democratic paper in the Eighth district, which Gen. Wheeler represents in Congress, has come out for him, which leads politicians to believe that Wheeler's friends are sounding Democratic sentiment with a view to entering him in the race. Newspapers in middle and east Alabama are seconding the nomination, and everywhere it is declared that Wheeler could restore Democratic unity and sweep the State.

Russia's Proposal Rejected.

The Hague, June 1.—The American plan of arbitration was formally presented to the sub-committee of the Peace Conference. The Americans absolutely reject the Russian proposal to make arbitration compulsory in the case of international rivers and interoceanic canals. This is deemed by the diplomats here as a gentle hint that America will build the Nicaragua Canal and that when it is completed no other nation shall interfere with its management under any pretext.

Killed a 26 Foot Shark.

Wilmington, Del., June 1.—The crews of two sturgeon fishing boats had an encounter with a whip-tail shark in Delaware Bay. Five men were injured before the shark was killed. It was taken to Bowers Beach, where it is now on exhibition. From nose to tail the fish measures twenty-six feet.

The Fall Broke Her Neck.

TROOPS FOR ALASKA.

Will Take the Place of Those Ordered to Manila.

Chicago, June 1.—Under directions from the War Department, Brigadier General Anderson commanding the Department of the Lakes has ordered Company E, Seventh United States Infantry to Alaska. The company is stationed at Fort Sheridan, Captain C. S. Farnsworth is in command.

The soldiers are to do garrison duty in place of a company of the Fourteenth Infantry, which has been withdrawn and sent to Manila. Company E will leave for San Francisco at once from which place it will be transported by water to Skagway or Taiha.

General Anderson is interested from a military standpoint in the settlement of the Alaska boundry point. He is the American army officer who about a year ago went to Alaska with a force of soldiers and drove out of the territory the Dominion police that had rendezvoused there, it was supposed for the purpose of taking possession of valuable lands belonging to the United States.

Clew to the Pelican.

San Francisco, June 1.—The Merchants' Exchange has received from Captain Thunell, of the American schooner Hermann, a clew to the missing steamer Pelican, which left Puget Sound for China in the early part of last year. Captain Thunell says that he picked up a bottle on the shore of Portage Bay containing a slip of paper on which was written:—

"Latitude 50 north and 175 west. The ship is sinking. We are leaving in frail boats.

(Signed) "M. PATTISON.

The Pelican was never heard of after her departure.

Nearly All Nebraska Men Ill

Omaha, Neb., June 1.—Surgeon R. P. Jenson, of the First Nebraska who has just returned from Manila in charge of the body of Colonel Stotzenburg, has alarmed all the friends of the volunteers by his startling information as to their condition. He says less than 100 of the boys are able to return to Nebraska, and does not think even that number can get back now. They have been worn out by the guerrila nature of the fighting and the loss of sleep and the intense heat.

Jealous Husband Shoots Three.

Reading, Pa., June 1.—Laura Leisey, aged 26 years; Frank, her 6-year-old son, and Harry Good, aged 28 years, were shot and seriously wounded by Edwin Leisley, husband of the woman, during a picnic in Dick's Woods, near Ridgewood, about four miles below this city. The shooting was the result of jealousy and Mrs. Leisley, particularly, was dangerously injured.

VOLUNTEERS FOR MANILA.

President May Issue a Call at Any Time for 6,000 More Men.

CABINET CABLES OTIS.

Conference Held at Executive Mansion by President, Secretary Alger and Gen. Corbin.

General Otis Asked to Indicate at Once How Many More Men He Will Need—Secretary Alger Talks of the Situation—Only 24,000 Men in Philippines When Citizen Soldiers Leave.

Washington, June 1.—President McKinley, Secretary Alger and Adjt.-Gen. Corbin held a long conference at the Executive Mansion relative to reinforcing Major-Gen. Otis in the Philippines.

Gen. Corbin submitted figures to show that after the arrival of all the regular troops now under orders to go to the islands and after the withdrawal of the volunteers Gen. Otis will have about 24,000 men.

The President cabled to Gen. Otis asking whether or not this number will be sufficient.

In the event he insists upon having not less than 30,000 men, a call for 6,000 volunteers will be issued. Gen. Otis was urged by the President to indicate his desires immediately, as it would require some time to recruit men for the volunteer force.

It is now regarded as an absolute certainity that President McKinley will issue his call for a portion of the 35,000 men authorized by Congress.

Secretary Alger, after leaving the Cabinet, said:

"I have just cabled to Otis giving him definite information as to the number of regulars he would have after the volunteers are withdrawn. Including the Nineteenth Infantry, which was delayed at Ponce by the stranding of the transport Meade, he will have 25,000 regulars. I asked him if more than that number would be required.

"We desire his information because if volunteers must be mustered in it will require all the time between now and the end of the rainy season to muster them in, equip them and transport them to the scene of action.

"We could, if necessary, furnish Gen. Otis with about 5,000 or 6,000 additional regulars without calling for volunteers, but the sending of the additional regulars would reduce the troops at the military posts in this country to a minimum and cramp us somewhat in Cuba and Porto Rico."

Gilmore A Prisoner Well

Washington, June 1.—The following despatch was received at the Navy Department:

"Escaped Spanish prisoner reports seeing Gilmore and some sailors well. Gillmore allowed horse. BARKER."

Lieut. J. C. Gillmore and fourteen enlisted men were captured by insurgents at Baler, on the east coast of Luzon, on April 12. They composed a landing party from the gunboat Yorktown, which had been sent there to rescue the Spanish garrison from the rebels who were besieging it.

Two Bold Kidnappers.

Kellysburg, Pa., June 1.—The congregation of the M. E. Church, presided over by the Rev. Thomas L. Zweigig, had assembled outside of the doors of the church when they saw Mrs. Beishley approaching, followed by her grandaughter, Miss Smith.

Suddenly a man came from the shadow of the trees and presented a paper to Miss Smith, aged fourteen, and told her it was a warrant for her arrest. The girl ran to her grandmother, who told the man he was mistaken.

The man seized the girl in his arms, lifted her into a carriage that stood close by and drove off. It was done so quickly that the clergyman and the congregation had no chance to interfere.

A posse, however, was quickly organized, and after a hard chase the carriage was overhauled and a fierce struggle took place for the possession of the girl. The stranger, who was accompanied by another man, was overpowered and the girl rescued.

Marion Clark's Trinkets Returned

New York, June 1.—It is now believed that the detectives are on the right track in the Marion Clark kidnaping case and that the kidnapers will be arrested and the child restored to her parents within a few days. It is thought that the child is not in New York but has been taken to Boston.

A communication from the kidnapers has been received by the police. A parcel containing a number of little trinkets worn by the missing baby on the day she was stolen has reached Chief McClusky's office, to bear silent but eloquent testimony that at least one person knows where she is. Who this person is the police do not know, but the knowledge that she is alive will urge them to renewed efforts, as it has inspired the careworn parents with new hope.

The board of Aldermen has raised the reward to $10,000 for the return of the child and arrest of the kidnappers.

Aeronaut Falls 500 Feet.

Kansas City, Mo., June 1.—Howard Twiss, son of a former Mayor of Kansas City, Kan., attempted to make a balloon ascension and paracaute jump at Chelsea Park, a suburban resort. He ascended about 500 feet, when the balloon capsized. The parachute failed to work and young Twiss, the balloon and the parachute tumbled to the earth. Luckily, the young aeronaut fell into the branches of a big tree, through which he tumbled to the ground. The doctors say he will live.

Troops to Subdue Indians.

Miles City, Mont., June 1.—Agent Clifford, at the Cheyenne reservation, has called for additional troops, and fifty men have been rushed from Fort Keogh. Trouble is breaking out all over the reservation and the small number of troops already there is not sufficient to stop the red man's thirst for blood.

YELLOW FEVER IN SOUTH.

One Case Which Resulted Fatally Reported By New Orleans Health Board.

IT IS NOT EPIDEMIC.

The Board Declares That There Is Not Another Case in New Orleans and Not a Suspect

State Health Officer for Texas Has Notified the Southern and Texas Pacific Railroads That Neither Passenger Nor Package Can Be Brought From New Orleans Into the State of Texas.

New Orleans, La., June 1.—The Louisiana State Board of Health gave notice to the several other Boards of Health in accordance with an agreement made this spring as to yellow fever cases, that an autopsy showed that Miss Johanna Grillo, who died here on Sunday, had yellow fever. The case was regarded as suspicious, but not until after the autopsy could the character of the disease be determined with certainty. Miss Grillo was of Italian origin, but a native of New Orleans. The Board of Health declares that there is no other case in New Orleans in the slightest degree suspicious and says there should be no fear of any prevalence of the fever.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company was notified by the Texas Health Officer that no passengers or baggage from New Orleans would be allowed to enter Texas. No other quarantines have been reported, the other Health Boards keeping their agreement not case of yellow fever until the disease showed evidence of being epidemic.

The New Orleans Board of Health doubts whether Miss Grillo died of yellow fever, as she was sick with tuberculosis.

Austin, Tex., May 31.—State Health Officer W. F. Blunt received a telegram from Dr. Souchon, City Health Officer of New Orleans, notifying him that yellow fever had again made its appearance in that city. Immediately upon receipt of this telegram Dr. Blunt telegraphed General Superintendent Van Vleck of the Southern Pacific and General Superintendent Thorn of the Texas and Pacific railways as follows:

"Do not sell tickets over your line from New Orleans to any Texas point. Do not bring any person or thing from New Orleans, either by express or freight, into Texas until further orders:

Dr. Blunt telegraphed Dr. Souchon as follows:

"We have decided to quarantine against all places on announcement of first positive case of yellow fever."

The quarantine established by Dr. Blunt against New Orleans has virtually tied up all traffic on the Southern Pacific and the Texas and Pacific roads in Louisiana, as passengers and freight are debarred from entering Texas from New Orleans.

Dr. Blunt established quarantine inspection camps on the Louisiana border for every railroad entering the State. He received the following telegram from Dr. Souchon this evening.

"I deeply regret your action; send inspector to judge himself. No other case anywhere."

In answer to a telegram from Superintendent Van Vleck of the Southern Pacific Dr. Blunt telegraphed:

"You can handle New York freight through Algiers and passengers and freight coming from connecting lines at New Orleans, if they do not stop there for the present. Freight that has left New Orleans for Texas can come in. Passengers en route now had better be returned to New Orleans."

The same telegram was sent the Texas and Pacific relative to freight through Westwego. All railroads have telegraphed the State Health officers, signifying that they will abide by his instructions.

Washington, June 1.—The Surgeon General of the Marine Hospital service has received confirmation of the development of a case of yellow fever in New Orleans, but no additional information has come to him. As precautionary measures, he has ordered Dr. Van Ezdorf of his force to return to New Orleans, and also has given directions to Drs. Carter and Murray to go there.

Coal Miners' Wages Advanced.

Altoona, Pa., June 1.—The bituminous miners have won their victory of a wage scale. All the leading coal operators in Blair, Cambria, Bedford, Somerset, Clearfield Centre, Jefferson, Indiana, Elk, Cameron, Clinton and Huntington counties posted notices granting the advance asked by the men. This includes most of the mines represented in tidewater shipments from Pennsylvania, and has an important bearing on the Eastern market.

Put Arsenic in the Coffee.

Huntington, W. Va., June 1.—Mrs. Harriet Billups, living in Union District, drank a cup of coffee. An hour later she was seized with acute pains, and died soon afterward. Her little neice, 5 years old, says she saw an aged man put something in the cup of coffee from a bottle. Physicians claim the woman was poisoned by arsenic.

Discouragement Caused Suicide.

New York, June 1.—Joseph Howard, an actor, 31 years old, was found dead in his room by his landlady. Howard had been dead two days. An empty bottle which had contained morphine was found on a table near the body. The police believe the man had become disheartened and killed himself.

OWNERSHIP IS SETTLED

An Insane Man Owns the Famous Emma Gold Mine

Topeka, Kan., June 1.—William J. Wood, Jr., an inmate of an insane asylum here, has just been legally declared the rightful owner of the famous Emma gold mine, at Aspen, Col., valued at $2,000,000. The mine for the past ten years has been owned and operated by the Aspen Mining and Smeltering Company, of which Jerome B. Wheeler, of New York, is president.

Since its discovery on April 17, 1878, the Emma mine has caused nearly a dozen persons to commit suicide. It was in a large degree responsible for the downfall of Robert G. Shenck, who was charged with promoting its stock while Minister to Great Britain.

It was discovered by William Wood, John Anderson and Frank Harris. They could not make it pay and abandoned it, but they did not dispose of their ownership. In 1880 J. B. Wheeler & Co., of New York, sent out a prospector, who found pay dirt in large quantities. The firm immediately began a search for the original owners.

Detectives discovered that Wood and his companions had been killed by Indians in New Mexico, that Mrs. Wood had died of grief in Montreal, Canada, and that six of the Wood children were in Kansas. Four of the boys sold their interest in the mine for $500 apiece, but Emma and William refused to sell. This did not deter Wheeler & Co. from operating the mine, which paid more than $10,000 a month.

When Emma and William Wood learned this they went to Aspen. Emma was good looking, and an employe of the Emma mine fell in love and eloped with her, he having first stolen $50,000 of the company's money. Both died in poverty with the yellow fever six months later in Mexico.

William fell down a precipice and fractured his skull, which caused him to lose his mind, and the other boys died in poverty.

For a Confederate Reunion.

Washington, June 1.—Plans are being made to hold a grand reunion of Confederate veterans at Glen Echo, Md., on the Potomac River, a few miles from this city, on June 7 and 8. It is proposed to have this reunion similar in nature to the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The preparations have been for some time in charge of a committee from the R. E. Lee Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the proceeds of the entertainment to be given in connection with the reunion will be used for the support of ex-Confederate veterans of Virginia who are in needy circumstances.

President McKinley has accepted an invitation to attend the exercises of the opening day of the reunion and he is expected to address the veterans. Gov. Tyler, of Virginia and Gov. Lowndes of Maryland will also be present, together with many other persons of prominence.

Schley's Nebraska Trip.

Omaha, Neb., June 1.—The special Union Pacific train from Ogden bearing Rear Admiral Schley and party passed into Nebraska. There were ovations at various large towns in the State. At each city the special stopped for half an hour while the people flocked around the train and the Admiral made short speeches.

At North Platte the people outdid all others. The train stopped there an hour, and a crowd of 10,000 welcomed the Rear Admiral. Buffalo Bill lives there, and he loaned all his tally-hos and other show trappings to the citizens and a grand parade was arranged. From there the train went straight through to Omaha.

Now He's a Millionaire.

Victoria, B. C., June 1.—By the allowance of the appeal in the case of Hobbs vs. the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway Company by the Supreme Court of Canada, E. V. Hobbs, a second-hand dealer of Douglas street, in this city, becomes a millionaire. His victory entitles him to the ownership of what is known as the East Wellington mine. Several years ago Hobbs bought 160 acres of land comprised in the railroad grant.

He has been robbing and murdering here for two years.

Killed in an Initiation.

Blood-poisoning and lockjaw resulted.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Nearly Burned in His Coffin.

Fall River, Mass., June.—That Carl Atheno's performance of suspended animation did not end in the subject being burned to death is due to the fact that the fire in his temporary coffin was discovered just in time. Atheno went to sleep on Monday night in the Nickelodeon and intended to wake up on Saturday night. His coffin was incased in a larger box and earth piled on top of it. An electric light fastened inside the coffin showed the face of the sleeper when any one peeked down a wooden tube.

When Atheno went to sleep on Monday night he left a contract which called for night watchers, and left also directions as to the method of waking him up if anything unusual occurred. The watchers were startled to see smoke issuing from the wooden tube, and there was lively work for a few minutes getting the right body of Atheno from his coffin. The sheet which covered the performer and the pillow were found burned through, and the charred piece of the pillow nearly touched the cheek of the Greek.

The watchers tried in vain to awaken Atheno, and finally gave it up as a bad job, and placed him in the coffin on the stage, where he remained until this afternoon, when he responded to his own directions about waking. He says he did not feel the flame in the coffin, nor did he suffer any effects from the smoke.

It is believed that a cigarette thrown down the tube caused the fire.

In a Reign of Terror.

Manila, June 1.—Friendly natives arriving here from the country around San Isidro and San Miguel report that a reign of terror has prevailed since the American troops were withdrawn from those parts of the island. The insurgents, who are returning there, deal vengeance upon their countrymen who have shown any friendship toward the Americans while they were in occupation of the territory. The friendless declare unoffending persons are being murdered daily, and that their houses are being burned and their property confiscated.

Plenty of sympathizers with the insurrection remained during the Americans' stay, and they have been reporting those instances of friendless toward our troops.

The refugees add that the inhabitants were oppressed badly by the native soldiers before the American occupation but that their condition is worse now.

Canal Report Made Public.

Washington, June 1.—The State Department has made public an official abstract of the report of the Nicaraguan Canal Commission as presented by Admiral Walker, the head of the commission. The report itself covers 136 typewritten pages, and is accompanied by eleven appendices. The synopsis given out merely confirms the facts printed from time to time regarding the old commission's work. The report probably will be used as a basis for the work of the new commission which is to undertake the work on a larger scale.

Brooklyn's Damage is Serious.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 1.—An examination of Rear-Admiral Schley's former flagship, the cruiser Brooklyn, shows that she was seriously injured on the vertical keel when she struck a hidden obstruction off the Battery while the vessel was making her way to the North River. It is likely that the Brooklyn will have to go into dry dock for repairs.

Asleep for Fourteen Days.

Westboro, Mass., June 1.—Michael Murphy has been asleep for the last fourteen days, and despite the efforts of physicians to awaken him, he lies as a dead man except that he breathes and can take nourishment. Many persons have come to Murphy's home to investigate the case, which is puzzling the medical profession.

To Take Dreyfus Back to Paris.

Paris, June 1.—The steamer Lafayette has arrived at St. Pierre with officers and men and will bring Captain Dreyfus home from prison on Devil's Island for a new trial here. The feeling here is almost unanimous that Captain Dreyfus will be a free man again inside of a very few weeks.

Plumb is Dead.

New York, June 1.—There will be no trial by a jury of his peers for J. Neal Plumb, who shot and killed Alexander Masterton on May 3, in the Burlington Hotel, in West Thirtieth street. Plumb died in Bellevue Hospital of erysipelas.

Dr. Jacquemin Acquitted.

Morristown, N. J., June 1.—Dr. Theodore Jacquemin was so little worried over his trial that he was not even present in court when the jury brought in its verdict which acquitted him of the charge of ruining the life of Abbie J. Perry.

The Game of Location.

The following game is very amusing as well as instructive:—Any number of persons may play. First choose a leader, and give him a United States map. Then provide the other parties with paper and pencil. The leader calls off the name of a town or city, and requests the members to write its location on the paper. Some answers are very amusing and cities are moved wonderfully.

Fish Are Easily Tamed.

Small fish, such as Prussian carp and minnows are easily tamed. All that is necessary is to feed them yourself regularly morning and evening, and sit beside them as often as you can so as to accustom them to your presence. Small earth worms and caterpillars are the best food, but be careful not to give many at a time. Gold fish are not so easily tamed.

His Proposal.

Miss Strongminds—Mamma, how did papa act when he proposed to you?

Mrs. Strongminds—He didn't act at all. He just stood in the corner and said yes.

The Paterson Press thinks that an excellent suggestion as to a means for securing property assessments at as near approach as possible to "true value," as the organic law provides, is offered by the Jersey City Journal, namely, by employing experts to value the property. If this was done once in five years the ratings could be allowed to stand for that period, and the assessors would only have new ratables to list. This plan would be expensive, but it would equalize the burden of taxation, and in every city would lower the rate of taxation. The Journal puts this construction on the phrase "true value:" "There is a general impression that the law required all property to be listed at full value, that is cost price, but this is not the fact. The constitution provides that property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws and by uniform rules, according to true value. If the practice provided for a seventy-five per cent. rate according to the true value, it would be legal, and it would be fair valuation."

The Railroad Employe says: "It is generally accepted in railroad circles that Mr. J. Rogers Maxwell will succeed himself as president of the Central, a fact which is extremely gratifying to the employes of the company. During the many years of Mr. Maxwell's administration the men have always found in him a warm friend and sympathizer, ready and willing at all times to listen to any grievance they might bring to his attention. Would that there were more railroad presidents of Mr. Maxwell's stamp."

Former Senator Wm. D. Edwards will be Jersey City's representative on the commission that is going to inquire into the proposed consolidation of all the cities and towns of Hudson county. Mayor Hoos yesterday tendered him the appointment and he accepted.

OUT OF THE DEEPS AT SANTIAGO.

The Reina Mercedes is at the Portsmouth navy yard to be overhauled and repaired. This fine cruiser was the last of Admiral Cervera's fleet to be sunk. She was not in the engagement of July 3, remaining inside while the other warships attempted to run the blockade. On the night of July 4 the Mercedes was beached under El Moro. It is not known whether she was attempting to escape or whether the Spaniards themselves intended to sink her near the Merrimac, thus blocking the entrance to the harbor. However, she went to the bottom under a storm of American shells. She was raised and towed to Newport News by the Merritt Wrecking Company.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Pastor Shott, of Scotch Plains, who has gone into the sleuth and Parkhurst business into that community, has created a storm-centre of dismay among the sports and fast young men of that place. He has been threatened with physical violence and warned to go slow, but the dominie is fired by this to greater zeal, and declares his purpose to wage a still hotter fight against secret and open vice.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

* * * * *

When it is settled in Union whence the three candidates on the county ticket shall come from the Republicans will roll up their sleeves and get to work. If the Senator is to be chosen in Elizabeth, then the Sheriff and County Clerk will have to be named by Plainfield and Rahway, but neither can lay claim to both and hope for harmony. Senator Cross may be anxious to attain the honor of an appointment to a judicial position, but his friends believe it would be better politics to renominate him for Senator.—New York Press.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The Asbuay Park Press thinks there is a call for economic reform in the administration of police justice down that way. The assessment for a "plain drunk" is $1 and costs, and in default the offender is sent to Freehold jail for four days. This is cheap for the culprit who has tarried too long at Dr. Wink's soda fountain, but it comes high for the country. The Press figures up that each such case costs the taxpayers $5.95, not including the prisoner's board.

Governor's Day at the State House in Trenton every Tuesday is fast becoming a thing of the past. The time was when every Tuesday brought to the State House scores of politicians from all parts of the State. The practic inaugurated by Governor Voorhees of coming to Trenton two or three and not infrequently as many as four times a week, has played no little part in putting an end to the crowds on Tuesdays. The governor is accessible at any time, whether it be on Tuesday or some other day, and the fact that his coming to Trenton is not limited to Tuesdays is now pretty well known.

The staid and steady regime of the patrons of one of Plainfield's club cars has been rudely shaken in such a manner that the act is likened unto a bombshell being dropped in their midst. The club car has figured largely in political matters, but when it comes to social matters, all are not of the same opinion. Thus it is that there is a stir of more than passing comment.

It appears that some of the best families, patrons of the club car, have occasionally been in the habit of journeying to and from New York in company with a servant, maid or attendant. This has been considered no breech of etiquette, but it has been a little distasteful to certain ones.

Recently the grievence appeared in the form of a letter which was sent to the members of the club car, who had the audacity to take a servant with them while riding in the car, and the epistle didn't do a thing but raise a rumpus of good-sized proportions. The writer of the letter no doubt is now fully acquainted with the opinions of those to whom the letter was sent, and he may be sorry he sent it. Whether he is or not, suffice it to say that undoubtedly the practice will continue despite the attempt to stop it.

Harry Marks, of New Brunswick, has returned from a short visit with Phillip S. Leichtentritt, of Central avenue.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee 15 and 25c.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 1—Now that Postmaster Coriell has been removed from office, speculation is rife as to who his successor will be. Former Mayor Brakeley is in charge of the affairs of the office at present, but a regular appointment will have to be made some time before long. Dr. Brakeley is out for it, and so is Adam Dealaman. Mr. Dealaman came near getting the appointment in place of Coriell, but the latter beat him by a few.

Mrs. Fred Wilcox, wife of Councilman Wilcox, who went to Stroudsburg last week to spend the summer with her sister there, was recalled home yesterday by the illness of her little daughter Margaret. The child has scarlet fever and is under the care of Dr. Brakeley. That is the only case known in the borough and it is not thought that it will spread.

Mrs. Stephen Brown gave a surprise party to her son Tuesday night, in honor of his visit to her from Bristol, Conn., where he is employed. Invitations were issued to a number of young people, and the evening was made a merry one for all who were there. Mr. Brown returned to Bristol yesterday morning.

Miss Elizabeth and Miss Mary Martine, accompanied by their brother Irving, of New York, are visiting their grandparents in Flemington for a few days.

Mrs. John Wherley and children, of Somerville, spent Tuesday with Mayor and Mrs. Swackhamer.

Charles Dunham and sister, Miss Dunham, took in the excursion to Mauch Chunk Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schenck spent Tuesday with friends in Somerville and Raritan.

Mrs. John Miller, of Front street, has returned from a visit with relatives near Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swackhamer spent Decoration Day with friends in Roycefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Hamilton have returned from a visit in Washington.

The Author Of "The Choir Invisible."

By Jeanette Devoe.

"The Choir Invisible" has been read by most women of intelligence and refinement. Many have reread it, and some have read it half a dozen times, finding in its exquisite pages an enduring charm and delight. Though written by a man, it is essentially a woman's novel, as, appealing particularly to feminine tastes, it has doubtless been read more widely by women than any other work of fiction.

The author is James Lane Allen. Tens of thousands of women are familiar with his works—"The Choir Invisible," "A Kentucky Cardinal," "Aftermath," "Summer In Arcady" and other stories, but of his characteristics and personality comparatively little seems to be generally known. It is of these particularly that I write.

JAMES LANE ALLEN.

James Lane Allen is a native of Kentucky, the descendant of generations of country gentlemen, and was born and reared in the "blue grass" country, which Kentuckians insist produces the noblest men, the most beautiful women and the finest horses in the world.

His ancestry leads back, on his father's side, to Colonel William Payne of Virginia, an officer of the Revolution. On his mother's to Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish stock of the same period.

His mother, from whom he inherited much of that grace and tenderness which characterized the life pictures his pen has so exquisitely portrayed, was a woman of rare charms and high intellectual qualities. From his earliest childhood he was much in her society. She was his first teacher.

As a boy he developed a taste for reading, which was carefully fostered and directed by his mother, whose gentle and refining influence is in later years shown in his published works and to whom he pays reverential tribute in their dedication.

Being much alone in boyhood, he spent his days with books or in the woods and fields, where a deep love grew unconsciously within him for the gentle landscapes which he has so delightfully painted in story and sketch.

Of the world outside he knew but little until he was sent to the Kentucky university, once Transylvania university, the first college founded west of the Alleghanies and during the last three-quarters of a century the alma mater of many distinguished men. He devoted himself especially to the study of the classics, and when he received his degree of master of arts he was accounted one of the most proficient Greek and Latin scholars in the country.

It was originally his purpose to fit himself for a professorship in classics; but, as he himself says, "liking college work less and literature more," he gave up teaching, to which he had been compelled to resort for a livelihood, owing to financial reverses of his father, and began his career in letters, which was to be his life work and which happily is not yet finished, though a high measure of success has been attained.

Though the literary work of James Lane Allen was begun with maturer powers and wider culture than most writers exhibit in their first publications, he did not at the outset find success in literature a primrose path. He was destined to know the pang of having his manuscript rejected when his finances were at a low ebb. But merit such as his could not long go unrewarded. His first notable work was a series of magazine articles on the "Blue Grass Region." The field was new, the work was fresh, and the ability of the writer was recognized. Then followed stories and sketches, nearly all of which had a background of Kentucky landscape, and running through them was a thread of Kentucky history and incident.

The first of Mr. Allen's stories to attract wide attention was "John Gray," which was subsequently rewritten and amplified, the title being changed to "The Choir Invisible." This title was suggested by this couplet from George Eliot's famous poem:

So shall I join the choir invisible
Whose music is the gladness of the world.

"The Choir Invisible" is perhaps Mr. Allen's most popular work of fiction and has been most widely read and admired by women of culture and refinement.

James Lane Allen is now about 50 years of age, tall and handsome, genial, companionable and kind hearted. In him are happily blended the qualities of the true gentleman—strength and gentleness.

Wellesley's First Club House.

A CORNER IN THE LIBRARY.

Two buildings have been erected on the grounds of Wellesley college this year of widely different uses. One is the beautiful new $100,000 Houghton chapel, dedicated, of course, to religious services. The other is the Shakespeare clubhouse, built by the past and present members of the Shakespeare society and devoted to the study of dramatic art and to all sorts of good times in general.

The chapel is to be dedicated June 1. It was given by Mr. and Miss Houghton of Boston, in memory of their father. The commencement this year will be held within its walls on June 27.

It is an imposing building of light gray stone with steeple. The edifice is cross shaped and has a large seating capacity, a much needed benefit at the college. There will be several stained glass memorial windows, one in memory of the late President Helen A. Shafer, given by a single class. Another is to be given in memory of the late Professor E. N. Horsford of Cambridge, for years one of the most generous financial aids to the college. The communion table is also a memorial of President Shafer, presented by one class, and the beautiful sedilia are given by various classes.

Altogether the furnishing of this chapel has afforded a vent for practical giving that does credit to Wellesley's alumnæ.

The Shakespeare house gives scope for the domestic energies of the favored few who have the proprietor's right to enter its charmed precincts with private latchkeys. No housekeeper ever took more pride and pleasure in preparing and settling her home and in presiding over it than have these Shakespeare girls in fitting up their clubhouse. They allude to it always as "the house," and it is a suitable name, for it is the only building at Wellesley that can be called a house. All others are college buildings or dormitory halls and cottages.

The hostesses of the Shakespeare house have found it a joy that their building is unfinished. It went into use as soon as the place was inclosed and weatherproof. Its plain stage and audience room were at first the only finished things about it. The hardwood floors of this room and the library under it have only recently been laid.

SHAKESPEARE CLUBHOUSE, WELLESLEY.

The architecture of the building is that of an Elizabethan college. Its exterior is composed of panels of stucco, painted light gray, set between bands of dark chocolate.

Down stairs are the large, low ceiled library, a cloakroom, a kitchen, a pantry with dumb waiter, so that refreshments can easily be served up stairs after a play, and a dressing room connected by private stairs with the stage. There is also a mysterious room into which no stranger is ever admitted. It is said to be for the Shakespeare girls to retreat to when there are other girls' guests in the library.

Up stairs are the audience room, back of which is a small serving room for refreshments, and on either side of the stage a small apartment, one a sort of withdrawing room, the other a hallway for the stairs to the dressing room.

The stage has no scenery, nothing but heavy drapery curtains and electric footlights. Here rehearsals go on.

The up stairs hall is destined to be a picturesque feature of the building when completed, for, as one ascends the stairway, one comes suddenly upon a sort of room with a great square embrasure filled with tiny paneled windows and overlooking a bower of green outside. Under these windows are to be placed deep window seat couches filled with cushions. When the walls are paneled and the hardwood flooring is laid on the hall and stairs this will be one of the most delightful nooks in the whole house.

It is the library under the audience room that is the heart of the Shakespeare house. And the heart of the room is the great brick fireplace, in which a log could be burned and over which is a fine portrait of the master genius of the place. Among its curious treasures are a piperack, which certainly has no use except to serve as an ornament, for it is guiltless of pipes; a warming pan and a beautiful brass facsimile of the quaint old candlestick in Shakespeare's bedroom at Stratford-on-Avon.

The library seems cozy for its size, because of its low ceiling studded with heavy beams. It is lighted by two rows of small paned windows, which open out on hinges, like doors, five on either side of the room. These are prettily draped with simple curtains.

The room contains a piano, one or two couches laden with pillows, a well filled bookcase, steamer and easy chairs, a tea table, a chafing dish table and various other tables holding plants or books. Its walls are covered with dark green denim, which was tacked on over the rough board sheathing by the unaccustomed, but energetic hands of the college girl. It shows off the well chosen pictures to perfection, and it is safe to say the task of putting it on was thoroughly enjoyed, for one of the chief charms of the house is thus stated by the Shakespeare girls:

"It's the one place at college where, figuratively as well as literally, we can drive nails."

Now, as all college students know, the driving of nails, tacks or even pins into the walls or woodwork of their rooms is of necessity strictly forbidden. What a relief it must be to the Wellesley Shakespeare girl that at last there is a place where she may drive nails or do anything else she pleases quite away from many of the college restrictions!

Altogether, when a Shakespeare girl settles the fortunate visitor down on the wicker settee or in a steamer chair, pokes up the smoldering fire into a bright blaze and lights the alcohol lamp under the brass kettle, the visitor is content to sit still a long, long time, and enjoy the pretty place and pretty serving.

The Shakespeare house will always be memorable as the first clubhouse erected on Wellesley grounds, and already it is a distinct and charming feature of undergraduate life. There the college girl must be the hostess and the breaker of bread. She is also by turns the maid who keeps the place neat and the cook who prepares delicious messes to eat and drink.

Each Shakespeare girl seems to have a proprietary interest in "the house." It is the heart and core of their college life to them. In its retreat they can regale themselves on sandwiches, olives and tea when the college fare palls on their jaded appetites.

On its stage they can, all winter long, rehearse, safe from cold and storm, the play that is to be given out of doors in June. There they can study the works of the master of English literature with the well selected aids on their bookshelves. And there, in the mysterious snuggery that no outsider may behold, they can enjoy themselves in ways unknown to any but the college student. Homesickness is no longer known among the Shakespeare girls at Wellesley for "the house" has become unto them a real little home.

Wien. Hier starb Feldmarschall-Lieutenant Edmund Hoffmeister, Edler v. Hoffenegg, Inspektor der Armee-Schießschule und Präses der Kommission zur Beurtheilung der Stabsoffiziers-Aspiranten.—Der hiesige Stadtrath hat beschlossen, auf der nächstjährigen Pariser Weltausstellung eine Filiale des Wiener Rathhauskellers mit einem Aufwande von etwa 100,000 Gulden zu errichten.—Ein elfjähriger Schulknabe und ein zehnjähriges Mädchen wurden dieser Tage im Prater als Taschendiebe verhaftet.

Aussig. In der Nähe von hier fielen jüngst während eines Gewitters unzählige schwarze Steine nieder, von denen einzelne Faustgröße hatten. Viele dieser Steine, die man für Meteoriden hält, wurden gesammelt und der Reichsanstalt in Wien übersandt.

Bozen. Ein großer Felssturz, der nächst Sopravilla bei Cles die Straße verschüttete, begrub zwei Personen, Emanuel und Theodor Visintainer, unter den Trümmern. Nach großen Mühen gelang es, die Leichen zu finden.

Budapest. In der Kerzen- und Seifenfabrik „Flora," welche einen Flächenraum von 6500 Quadratklafter umfaßt, brach Feuer aus, durch welches die eigentliche Fabrik, das Maschinenhaus und 16 Gebäude, in denen sich die Fettstoff-Magazine und die Kellereien für die Vorräthe befanden, zerstört wurden. Der Schaden wird auf 1,000,000 Gulden geschätzt, der aber durch Versicherung gedeckt ist.

Debreczin. Hier hat ein Pistolenduell zwischen dem Untersuchungsrichter Szoellessy und einem Studenten stattgefunden. Vereinbart war 25 Schritte Distanz, zweimaliger Kugelwechsel, fünf Schritte Avance. Der Untersuchungsrichter erlitt eine schwere Verletzung am Unterschenkel. Die Ursache des Duells war thätliche Beleidigung.

Pisek. Neulich Nachts wurde die Kanzlei der hiesigen Bahnstation erbrochen. Der Thäter entwendete eine große Anzahl von Werthpapieren, sowie Dokumente und Druckforten.

Pola. Der Torpedokreuzer „Aspern" lief hier dieser Tage glücklich vom Stapel.

Stanislau. Im Brunnen der hiesigen Landwehrkaserne wurde die Leiche des Reservisten Budzynowski gefunden, welcher zwei Wochen zuvor verschwunden und als Deserteur steckbrieflich verfolgt war. Der Brunnen war während dieser zwei Wochen benützt worden.

Teplitz. Hier hat ein von der Stephanshöhe abgestürzter Felsblock ein Haus in der Pragerstraße demolirt.

Schweiz.

Bern. Bei Bassecourt unweit Delsberg ist unlängst eine ausgedehnte alte Gräberstätte aufgedeckt worden, die, den zahlreichen Funden nach zu schließen, burgundischen Ursprungs sein und aus dem 5. oder 6. Jahrhundert n. Chr. stammen dürfte. Die meisten Fundstücke sind Waffen, nämlich Schwerter, Dolche, Aexte, Lanzen verschiedener Form, Pfeilspitzen, Dreizacke und Schildtheile (Schildbuckel). Besonders bemerkenswerth sind Wehrgehänge, die fein mit Goldfäden und Messingdraht umsponnen sind. Die zu Tage geförderten Topfwaaren, von rother und grauer Farbe, haben ausschließlich Kugelform und sind von primitiver Arbeit. Die Museen in Delsberg, Bern und Basel theilen sich in die Funde.

Zürich. Das bekannte Züricher Hotel „Baur en ville" ist um die Summe von 2,250,000 Francs an Herrn Jacques Laßmann in München, Besitzer des Hotel „Oberpollinger" daselbst, verkauft worden.

Appenzell. Der Alpensteinklub gedenkt beim Wildkirchlein ein Scheffel-Denkmal zu errichten.—Für Errichtung von Denkmälern auf appenzellischen Schlachtfeldern sind bis jetzt 1799 Francs gesammelt worden.

PROVE ALL THINGS.

This Old, Old Command Is Easy To Fulfill in Plainfield.

To win a wager, an English Marquis stood on London Bridge and offered for an hour British sovereigns ($5) for five shillings ($1.25). He could not find a customer. There are several good reasons why the ordinary mortal could not be induced to buy, but no reason can be given why Plainfield people will not accept the following convincing proof about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this:—

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 442 West Second street, says:—"I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than from anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly, or retained one position for any length of time, sharp, acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such trouble and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others who suffer from kidney complaint."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

THE JOYS OF HEAVEN

ETERNAL PERFECT HAPPINESS WITH THE BLESSED TRINITY.

Aided by the Light of Glory, Mortal Man, His Risen Body Purified, Shall Feast His Vision Upon the Unveiled Splendors of the Divine Essence.

That there will be perfect happiness in heaven is evident from the very nature of that reward. Nothing indeed will be lacking to the fullness of our joy. But this happiness is to be the happiness of a rational creature. We are not to be transformed into other beings; we are not to become angels. Rational creatures we are and rational creatures we shall remain in spite of meaningless hymns that attempt to picture a theological absurdity and a philosophical impossibility.

Now, perfect happiness has been defined as the "harmonious action of all our faculties." There must be action, for there cannot be happiness in inactivity. Sleep is not happiness, torpor is not happiness, idleness is not happiness. Activity is the natural state for the living being, but if we would enjoy true happiness our activity must not be the exercise of half of our powers and the slumber of the rest, but the concordant movement of all our faculties, each one playing the part allotted to it by a wise Maker. Hence, since the crowning gift conferred upon man is his reason, the leading part in heaven's activity must be assigned to the wondrous power of mind. It is well known that the object of intellectual energy is truth, and that the only object which can fully satisfy our mental longings is infinite truth or God himself. The leading occupation consequently of the elect soul will consist in the knowledge of God and in the overwhelming love that will flow from that understanding of the infinite.

But what will be the precise nature of this cognition? To grasp this clearly, we must bear in mind that outside of Revelation our knowledge of God in this life is only through his works. We wander through the world, and we see everywhere the result of his power. We consider these manifestations of divine power, we dwell upon them, we analyze them, we study them, and from their perfections we glean some faint idea of the greatness, the wisdom, the power and the skill of the Creator. It is like the student of the great masters, who thoughtfully contemplates the outlines, the rich colors, the expressive features of the different characters in some famous painting and therefrom arrives at a certain insight into the artist's skill and ability.

But this kind of knowledge is imperfect knowledge, because it is indirect and through a medium; although outside of revealed truth, it is the only knowledge we have of God in this life. We cannot see him with our eyes. We cannot grasp him intuitively with our minds. Go to the highest mountain peak, traverse the trackless ocean, and everywhere will be found traces of his footsteps, everywhere the imprint of his hands, but he himself escapes us. Thus we only see God's works, and examining these we come to a conception of himself, but that conception is vague and obscure. Revelation, however, clearly unfolds to us that, through divine generosity, the human race has been lifted up to a far higher plane than the purely natural and that the crowning glory of this elevation is to consist in the direct and immediate vision of God in the life to come. It will be the principal exercise of the blessed to gaze, not through a glass, not obscurely, but directly and face to face, upon the unveiled splendors of the divine essence. Aided by the light of glory, mortal man shall feast upon the sight of the Blessed Trinity, upon one nature, yet three persons; three persons distinct, yet not separable, without superiority and without subordination, each one of the three equal in essence to the others and all living a life of ineffable perfection that knows neither change nor shadow. This vision is to constitute the essential element of man's happiness and of man's occupation in heaven, and from this vision will burst forth transports of love as the soul grasps infinite truth, infinite goodness, infinite beauty.

Another question that is much discussed is the following: Is heaven a place? Is heaven merely a condition or state of existence, or is it over and beyond this a place? And if so can its precise position in the astronomical universe be determined?

It is perfectly apparent that this question cannot be raised with regard to the disembodied spirits, for souls have no parts. What is a simple substance cannot be said to be in place, because it does not occupy room. At the most it can be said to be present to a place. Consequently the question, "Is heaven a place?" need not disturb us if we confine our contemplation only to the soul. But since we profess belief in the resurrection of the body and since bodies are in place it necessarily follows that heaven must be a place.

Where is this place? In the middle ages many of the theologians accurately defined it. Dante instructs us with great exactness on the position and the divisions of the "Christian heaven." In the early ages St. Gregory tells us, "To reach heaven man must pass through degrees of atmosphere and then through trackless depths of air until he comes to the outermost bounds of space and there beholds the elect." However, a calm consideration of the records of Revelation forces us to one conclusion, that, although we know from the inspired records that heaven is a place, we cannot determine its precise locality in the astronomical world. Nevertheless it is the general teaching of Catholic theology that among the scenes and places of man's future habitation will be this planet, not as we have it now with its winters and summers, with its biting winds and enervating atmosphere, but as it will be after the great day of judgment, when, according to the clear teaching of holy Scripture, the world is to be deluged by fire, and in the purifying elements of fire the world is to be renewed and regenerated. The world will then be transformed into a scene of changeless and surpassing loveliness, a fit dwelling place for glorified man.

I muse on joy that will not cease,
Pure spaces clothed in living beams,
Pure lilies of eternal peace,
Whose odors haunt my dreams.

Moreover, we are taught by our masters in theology that we shall rise again in our own body. There have not been wanting doubters who boldly assert that this is an impossibility, because the particles that once formed the body go back to mother earth, there to remain. In answer to this difficulty we urge that for the body to rise the same it is not necessary that every particle existing in the body at death should be in the risen body—nay, more; we know that this will not be the case, because the risen body will be purified from its imperfections and endowed with new and marvelous properties.

Does not science teach us that even in this life there is a continual change going on in our bodies, and that within seven years every particle has undergone a change? Yet do our friends think that we are not the same? Do they deny our identity? Then why attack the resurrection of the flesh on the ground that it will not be the same body unless the particles are identical with those that formed the human frame during this life? The body will be substantially the same, though the present infirmities will vanish. The scars, the unsightly wounds, the repellent seams of sorrow, will pass, for the body is to be perfect. Hence we must exclude from the future life everything that savors of imperfection.

We are often asked what are the gifts which are promised to this "glorified" body. The apostle of the gentiles calls it a spiritual body. He does not mean thereby that it will be transformed into a spirit, for that would be an impossibility, but he means that other forces will be added to those already possessed, so that matter will be sublimated, as it were, and raised above its present condition.

A welcome result of this inestimable gift will be that the risen body will be freed from the necessity of food, of drink, of sleep and of all those functions, which, by their very nature, belong to the animal life of man. It must not be inferred from this statement that the senses will be deprived of their lawful pleasures in heaven, but they will not be "weighed upon with heaviness and utterly consumed with sharp" cravings as they are at present. Food and drink are demanded now to supply the waste in our frames caused by the corroding elements. Where there is no waste and no decay, there will no longer be need of nourishment for the support of life and of strength. Neither shall we need sleep. Do the angels before God's throne ever grow weary in the contemplation of his infinite beauty? Do they ever fold their wings in the inactivity of slumber? Assuredly not. Neither shall we bury ourselves there in the oblivion of sleep. All that wearies us, all that fatigues us will be no more, and we shall no longer be forced to "steep our brows in slumber's holy balm" in order to give new energy to tired eyelids and to weary limbs.

Precious as these gifts must be, what shall we say of that other priceless treasure that will be lavished upon us, the absence of suffering? When we gaze around us now, are not our hearts torn by the spectacle of agony that meets us on every side? Look at the blind, those who have never seen the beauty of a human face, who have never been gladdened by the clear glow of the sunrise or the bright glories of the sunset, who have never looked into the crystal depths of flowing water, nor upon the smiling meadows sown with flowers and ferns. There are those also whose founts of hearing have been closed, who have never known the rich melody of the human voice, nor the sweet comfort of a friend's greeting. And there are other sufferings too dreadful to think of, the mangled limb, the gaping wound, the charred hand, the leprous frame. But these pains are as nothing compared with the soul agony, when the blackness of unhallowed crime has darkened the soul and shut out therefrom, more effectively than prison bars, the sunlight of God's grace. What more dreadful lot can be imagined than to sit down with the blackness of despair in the soul, because the light of God's encouraging presence has been banished? In the future life there cannot be any soul darkness, but in all the vigor, all the freshness of unclouded mind, without one ray of sorrow, without one ray of suffering, we shall enjoy the pure light of happiness that is changeless, of happiness that is endless.

What a consolation in the hour of trial. How the clouds fade away and the shadows pass when we reflect that all afflictions are but for a time, and that the end will come and the end must come. As Father Faber so beautifully says:

Rest comes at length, though life be long and dreary;
The day must dawn and darksome night be passed,
Life's journey ends in welcome to the weary,
And heaven, the heart's true home, will come at last.

—Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, S. J., in Donahoe's Magazine.

The Means to an End.

All things around us and in us are felt to be beginnings, and the curtains of the unseen world, as if lifted by the wind, wave ever and anon into our face and cling to it like a mask we see through or think we see. Neither can we resist the conviction that this world is for us only the porch of another and more magnificent temple of the Creator's majesty, wherein we shall enter still further into the Creator's power and learn that to be in the Creator's power is the creature's happiness.

The base ball game between the High School nine and the Bachelors Saturday afternoon, will be the last game for the High School for the season. The nine will disband then for the summer.

The law students' base ball club is a permanent organization now, that is for the season. The nine will be made up of the following students, who have signified their willingness to play ball this year: Edward O. Clark, Charles Dolliver, John VanWinkle, Walter Hetfield, Jr., Lewis Bird, Harvey Linbarger, William Henry, George Crevilling and William Nash.

The Cranford Athletic Club played great ball Tuesday and won two games. The one in the morning was with the Brooklyn High School and was won by a score of 14 to 11. MacLarty, Plainfield's old pitcher, occupied the box for the home team and struck out 9 men. His support was bad or the score would have been much more one-sided. The afternoon game was with the Perth Amboy Athletic Club team and was won by a score of 7 to 5. Tabor pitched a great game for the Cranford team and he was ably backed up with Hall behind the bat.

GOLF.

The addition of the Park Golf Clubhouse is completed and is now being used.

Next Saturday play in the junior scratch tournament at golf will be continued for the E. S. Hooley cup. The play will be in the morning.

Judging by the scores made last Tuesday on the Park Golf Club grounds there needs to be a radical change in the handicaps. This will be perfected in a few days.

Among the enthusiastic golf players is W. J. Roome, of Washington Park. Mr. Roome recently took a fancy for the game and is progressing favorably under the direction of Richard Cass, the expert.

FENNER FAMILY TOGETHER.

Descendants Formed a Permanent Organization at Their Reunion.

Last Tuesday at Weston, Somerset county, where the Fenner family held its annual reunion, a permanent organization was effected. Amos Fenner was chosen president, and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, of this city, was made secretary. A committee, composed of Horace J. Martin, Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Wortman and John Fenner, were appointed to arrange the details for the reunion to be held in 1900 at the same place.

There were over eighty persons present at the reunion and a fine programme was presented, consisting of recitations and music. A feature was the rendering of a descriptive song entitled "The Fenner Family." This was sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle, and after all joined in the singing of the piece, Horace J. Martin sang it into a gramaphone, after which it was reproduced for the benefit of those present.

Time for Payment is up.

Today the time for payment of assessments on the Watchung avenue improvement in the borough is up, and up to noon Collector Geo. F. Brown received over $1,000. An effort will be made to have the Mayor and Council extend the time for payment for another thirty days, which will probably give all sufficient time to settle under the present conditions.

The Borough Graduates.

MRS. VETRELLA RETALIATES.

Caused the Arrest of Morris Rock, but Couldn't Prove Her Charge.

Mrs. Streel Vetrella, the Italian woman who was arrested last week upon the complaint of Morris Rock, her neighbor, who charged her with assaulting him with a broom stick, was the cause of Rock's arrest yesterday on the same charge.

Rock and Mrs. Vetrella live in a house on West Fourth street and use the same yard. Because the woman did not ask permission to use a part of the clothesline that Rock said belonged to him, he ordered her away, and was struck by the broom stick for his interference.

That was the story that was told before City Judge Runyon Saturday morning when the case was tried in his court. He dismissed the woman, warning her, however, not to repeat the performance. The woman swore out a complaint before Justice Nash, and had Rock arrested on a state warrant. After listening to the stories of both parties, Justice Nash dismissed the prisoner, telling him that he was not guilty.

FALL CAMPAIGN TO HAVE EARLY OPENING.

New Jersey Politics Assuming a Lively Form Now.

FIGHTS IN ALL SECTIONS.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE A MUCH SOUGHT AFTER PLUM.

A Trenton Correspondent Thinks There Are Troublous Times for Republicans at Several Points—Democrats See a Chance to Win the Senate—Elections Promise to be the Most Exciting Held.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 2—Although this is what is called an off-year in New Jersey politics, yet the campaign for the fall elections, which has already begun, promises to be one of the most exciting, in many of the counties, that has ever occurred. The fervor of the politicians in the counties where State Senators are to be elected is at a high pitch, indeed. And it is scarcely less in those counties where Sheriffs and other officers will be chosen. Essex, Monmouth and Somerset are ablaze with the interest which is being manifested, and Salem and Gloucester, it seems, are not calm by any means. Camden looks all serene, because, being a strong Republican county and Senator Johnson being slated for a reelection, there is no reason for a quarrel in the organization of the dominant party. That organization is nearly as perfect as can be; so much so, that it has made Camden the safest Republican county of the State, not even excepting Essex, which once in a while is considered doubtful.

The Sheriff's office in most of the counties is more sought after than that of Senator or Assemblyman, or, in fact, any other in the gift of the people, because its emoluments are so large and its duties so light. The average office-seeker would rather be a Sheriff than anything else. This year Sheriffs will be elected in all of the counties with the exception of Passaic, Somerset, Bergen and Cape May. In Essex and Hudson the remuneration attached to the office is said to be nearly as large as the salary of the President of the United States. Of course, it is only natural to expect that the candidates for this fat berth are numerous in each of the eighteen counties, and that there will be a very hot fight in most of them between the rival political parties. There are now Democratic Sheriffs in the counties of Passaic, Somerset, Bergen, Hudson, Warren, Hunterdon, Monmouth, Sussex and Middlesex, all the others being Republican. The Democrats are reasonably sure of holding their own, and perhaps they may make gains in Salem and one or two other close counties.

Should the Democrats get in good fighting trim and make an effort, such as their party used to do in former years, they might succeed in electing a sufficient number of Senators to control the next Senate. With old-time vim and enthusiasm, backed by a recourse to practical politics, they could be successful in the counties of Monmouth, Somerset and Salem. It is not so long since these counties showed a Democratic tendency. In fact, Monmouth county is normally Democratic, and Salem and Somerset have had as many Democratic as Republican officials within the last quarter of a century.

Republican difficulty is Democratic opportunity. In Somerset the Republican clans are yet at war, and there is no sign of an armistice. It looks as if the Reed faction has been successful in the contest over the postmastership of Somerville. The report is that while the Thompson faction has apparently yielded with grace to the inevitable, yet a sting remains, and it will be felt for some time to come. In the selection of a candidate for the State Senate Mr. Thompson is likely to exert more influence than he did in the postmastership contest. Should the factions keep up their wrangling then the much-desired opportunity will arise for the Democrats to prepare for a battle, which, if properly managed, will result in a victory for their ticket.

WANTS HER MONEY BACK

MISS PHILBROOK THINKS SHE IS NOT TREATED SQUARE.

Brings Action for $300 Damages Against Three Plainfield Parties—Case to be Heard in Elizabeth Next Thursday.

Argument will be had next Thursday before Judge Atwater in the Elizabeth District Court in three suits recently brought by Miss Mary Philbrook, the first New Jersey woman lawyer. Last February three attachment suits were brought before Justice E. D. Moffett by VanZandt & Voorhees for $38.33; Pope & Runyon for $13 50, and Hetfield & Gallup for $8.50 against Alfred and Annie Singer, and certain goods were attached upon which Mary J. Mayhew, mother of Mrs. Singer, had given a 30 days' mortgage for $77.91 on property in Wall township, Monmouth county, this State. This mortgage not being satisfied, Attorney W. S. Angleman, of this city, April 29th, filed a bill to foreclose the mortgage on the property. Miss Philbrook, having given her check to pay this and other mortgages, now brings three suits for $300 each, claiming damage for illegally attaching and detaining her goods. Attorney Angleman asks for non-suits on the ground that the declarations set forth are insufficient. Murphy & Blatz are associated with Miss Philbrook.

IT IS DEWEY HEIGHTS

S. D. DRAKE CHOOSES A NAME FOR DENTON PROPERTY.

Honors the Great American Naval Man—To Widen Woodland Avenue to Eighty Feet—Improvements are Contemplated.

Dewey Heights!

Such is the title that Silas Dewey Drake, irrepressible and ambitious boomer, has decided upon for the name that the Denton farm will hereafter be known by. Mr. Drake decided on Dewey Heights in The Daily Press office this morning.

Ever since the great American naval man fought the battle in Manila bay and cleaned out the Dons, Mr. Drake has looked upon him as a man after his own heart. It is well remembered how the doughty Silas had his own middle letter made to stand for Dewey, after the hero of Manila had sanctioned the change in a personal letter, and now the boomer brings additional fame to the warrior by naming his new real estate venture Dewey Heights. As the battle of Manila was the crowning cap of Dewey's career in public service so the far famed Silas calculates that Dewey Heights shall be the glorious climax to his own record as a real estate man. Mr. Drake has built towns, school houses, churches and opera houses, elected women to public office and turned things topsy-turvy generally, but on top of it all he proposes to settle down in Plainfield for the rest of his life and make Dewey Heights the one great and lasting monument to his real estate endeavors.

"Why, boy," exclaimed Mr. Drake in The Press sanctum this morning, "when I went to bed last night my right arm was hanging limp and tired by my side as a result of the many times that persons shook my hand yesterday and congratulated me on securing control of this property. People wondered what Drake was coming to Plainfield for. Didn't they? Eh? Well, I told them they would hear something drop. I haven't lost a minute since I have been here. No, not a minute, have I? Eh?"

According to the plans of Mr. Drake the lots on the tract will be 75 by 200 feet in size, and will front on three avenues to be laid out and telford paved. It is also intended to widen Woodland avenue, which bounds one side of the property, to eighty feet along the tract. Those who buy lots will not be allowed to put up a house costing less than $4,000. The work of surveying the property will be commenced immediately.

TALK OF A STRIKE ON JERSEY CENTRAL

President Maxwell Refuses to See a Committee.

A FEELING OF DISCONTENT.

MEN DID NOT LIKE TO GIVE THEIR PEDIGREES.

Some of the Employes Were Reluctant to Fill Out the Blank and as a Result They Were Threatened With Dismissal—Committee From Labor Organization Trying to Adjust the Trouble.

The trouble among the employes of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, as indicated in the story printed in yesterday's Press, is still brewing and it is barely possible that it may result in a strike.

About a month ago each employe received a blank form which he was supposed to fill out and forward to the company. When filled out, the paper gave a pretty complete account of the man's history There was considerable opposition to filling out the paper, and it is said that only a very small number of the men have sent in the papers properly filled out. A subsequent order commanded the men to obey the first one on pain of dismissal. Despite that, it is said, no more men have sent in the blanks.

Instead, a committee of the employes called on President Maxwell to protest against the order. This committee represented the different unions supported by the employes of the road. It is said that Mr. Maxwell refused to discuss the matter with this committee, and announced that he would deal only with the men as individuals and not through their organizations. This has brought things to a head, and while a committee will try to bring about a settlement, it is thought its efforts are doomed to failure because the stand taken by Mr. Maxwell at the first interview is one that it would be hard for him to recede from.

At Communipaw the employes of the road are not inclined to say much about their differences with their employers. They said that they were waiting to hear the report of the committee, which was to make another attempt to have a conference with President Maxwell at the New York office of the company. This committee is made up of one member from each of the different orders of the Knights of Labor, to which the engineers, firemen, conductors and other employes of the road belong.

TO CONTINUE THEIR MEETINGS.

Hot Weather Not Allowed to Interfere With Endeavor Work.

The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held last night at the home of Miss Myra Runyen, of Lafayette place.

The usual reports were read and routine business transacted. After the business had been finished a social hour was enjoyed. Among other items of business brought up was the subject of discontinuing the Friday evening prayer meetings during the summer.

All through the hot months the attendance at these meetings is slim, and some of the members have thought it would be a good thing to omit them. That was not the opinion of the majority at the meeting, however, and it was decided to continue them as usual. The monthly business meetings will not be held, but will be postponed until September 7th.

THE NEW FIRE HOUSE.

EQUIPPED WITH EVERYTHING FOR QUICK WORK AND COMFORT.

Possession Taken by No. 3 Hose Wagon Yesterday—George Feiring and George Mehl, Jr., on Duty in the West End.

At last the change in the fire department is completed and Plainfield is enjoying now far better fire protection than ever before. Possession was taken of the new engine house in the West End yesterday afternoon, and while there are a few details yet to arrange everything is practically in readiness for answering alarms of fire.

The new engine house is one of the most complete for its size to be found anywhere. In the main it is modeled exactly after the present fire headquarters, and there is plenty of room to answer every purpose for which it is intended. The building, which is of brick, and resembles headquarters, is located on West Fourth street, on the line of the trolley, directly opposite Darrow avenue, and it is an imposing building.

The building is so arranged that there is room for the old hook and ladder truck, which will be placed there, and No. 3 hose wagon, formerly Alerts wagon. For the present the truck will not be stationed in the West End. The hose wagon and the gray team, driven by George Feiring, are now located in the new house, and Mr. Feiring, assisted by George Mehl, Jr., will be on duty there.

There is also arrangements for four horses in the house and just as soon as the city buys two more horses they will be placed there for the truck.

The house is provided with a large sleeping room that is both light and cool. Adjacent thereto is the toilet room, and several closets, while a bathroom with wash basins are a convenient addition to the comfort of those on duty. There are also two sliding poles, one at either end of the house in front. A comfortable room is located in front to the right of the bedroom, where a desk will be placed, and used for an office. The telephone is also in this room.

The building inside is finished in hard wood and is so arranged that the best service possible will be obtained. The electrical appliances were completed yesterday.

A drying tower for the hose is a valuable addition and this is well arranged at one side. The house is heated by steam and the most approved system is used. In the bathroom there is a tank where water can be heated by gas in the summer time. The surroundings about the house are pleasant and roomy, and many improvements have been made in the grounds.

Now that the change has gone into effect the new call system is in force, and the rearranged box calls will now be used.

JUSTICE TIED THE NUPTIAL KNOT.

Colored Couple Made Husband and Wife by Justice Mosher.

Justice of the Peace J. E. Mosher appeared in a new role last night, that of officiating at a colored wedding. It is needless to say that he performed the ceremony with all the pomp and dignity that the occasion warranted.

The couple who were bound together in the bonds of holy matrimony were Rev. Davy Blow and Miss Ella Johnson, both of this city. The ceremony took place at the groom's home, 345 Cottage place, and that is where they will reside.

The bride was dressed in white, as was also the bridemaid, Mrs. Bettie Lengon, who stood up with her. Sherman Robinson was the best man.

Mr. Blow is a native of Virginia, but has lived in this city for five years. He does evangelistic work among the people of his own race, and two weeks ago occupied the pulpit of the Fillmore Baptist church.

A New Merchant.

Another business deal was consumated yesterday when J. M. Smalley and Ben Crane, doing a butcher business under the firm name of Smalley & Crane, sold out to Charles F. Koch, a well-known butcher of New York. Mr. Crane will remain in the employ of Mr. Koch, and Mr. Smalley will retire. Edward Lutz will also remain at the store, as will also the bookkeeper, Miss Mamie Porter.

Business Men to Meet

Mayor Rockfellow has called a meeting of the committee appointed recently by Mayor Smalley, of the borough, to provide ways and means for the benefit of the business men. The committee meeting will be held next Tuesday evening. It has not yet been decided where the meeting will be held.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST MAY CONSOLIDATE.

A Conference With That End in View to be Held.

OBLIGATIONS TO BE MET.

FIRST CHURCH MORTGAGE MAY BE FORECLOSED.

Conference to be Held This Evening at the Home of Henry VanMiddlesworth—Not Enough Support in the City for Two Churches of the Same Denomination—Scheme Finds Considerable Favor.

The first State conference of Disciples of Christ will be held this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, 111 Elmwood place, when a strong effort will be made to unite the two local churches of that faith. If this cannot be effected there will be a forclosure of the First Disciples church on Grove street, and the second church will go it alone as at present. There is a disposition on the part of the members of both churches to consolidate and thus make one strong congregation.

For sometime past it is known that the First Church of Christ has been in a state of decline and the support accorded has been small. At a recent meeting in Philadelphia of the denomination, B. W. Hand was fully recognized as a representative of the Second Disciples church, of this city, and many are desirous that he should take the lead in consolidating the two churches.

The financial affairs of the First Disciples church is such that the property is liable to be taken out of the members hands, unless certain obligations are met, and from present indications it does not look as though the members would be able to pay up. If the two churches can be united there is every evidence that the present church property can be held and the debts liquidated at an early date, and thus there would be a strong congregation of Disciples which would no doubt grow in numbers and interest.

SOMERSET COURTS.

Liquor Licenses Granted—An Exemplar Order From England.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 2—George Toman and Edward Stryker, of Bound Brook, and J. E. Ellingham, of Frankfort, were granted bottling licenses by Judge Bartine, Friday. The license of the Middlebrook Hotel was transferred to H. Vogel.

The TenEyck will case is set down in the Orphan's Court for June 8.

The copy of an exemplar order, from the Lord High Chancellor of England, appointing Mary Jane Mountford guardian of her minor children and directing her to apply to the Orphan's Court for an order to transfer their property to her present home in England, was presented by Surrogate Spencer. Judge Bartine granted the order.

IS A HOLE IN THE GROUND A WELL?

Legal Question Which is Puzzling Justice Collins, of Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 2—The case of John Kane against E. L. Walworth, of Westfield, was called before Justice Collins yesterday morning. The suit is to recover the cost of sinking a well on the premises of Walworth by Kane.

The main questions in dispute were: What is a well? Does a hole in the ground without water in it make a well? If not, how much water must there be in it?

Decision was reserved.

Mortgage for Half a Million.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 2—A mortgage for $500,000, given by the Essex-Union Water and Light Company to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New York city, was placed on record yesterday in the County Clerk's office. The mortgage covers the plant of the Essex-Union company, as well as those of four other companies in Orange, West Orange and Clinton township, which have been absorbed by the Essex Union Company.

IDENTIFIED HIS MAN.

HARRY ROBERTS PICKED AMONG TWENTY-FOUR PRISONERS.

Horse Thief Anxious to Face Charge in Union County, and Hopes for Easy Treatment—Young Wife is Steadfast.

Harry Roberts, of this city, and Prosecutor English, of Elizabeth, went to Sing Sing yesterday to identify James Towers, who was arrested just as he was leaving prison Wednesday, on the charge of stealing a horse from Dan Roberts, of this city, five years ago. Young Roberts, from whom Towers hired the rig, succeeded in picking out the horse thief from among twenty four other prisoners arraigned in court at the same time.

Towers realizes that there is a strong case against him and he is anxious to be extradited to New Jersey and face the charge in the Union county court. He thinks that if he does not make a defense he will fare better at the hands of the court, especially since he has just served a long term in prison.

After Towers stole the rig from Roberts, and before he was arrested on the charge which sent him to prison, he married a respectable and pretty girl in Brooklyn. All through his troubles his young wife has remained steadfast to him and is now doing all that she can to have the Union county charge disposed of in an easy manner.

UNCIVIL IN HIS TALK.

ADAM FRITZ AGAIN CHARGED WITH USING PROFANITY.

Coroner DeMott is the Complainant—Third Charge Against Him Within a Year—A Jury Trial Next Tuesday.

Adam Fritz, the well-known horse dealer, is again in trouble. And, strange to relate, Adam has not the characteristics of his illustrious namesake of Garden of Eden history. He is possessed of an uncivil tongue, it is alleged, and his loquacious proclivities have involved him in the law's clutches for the third time within a period of twelve months.

How it all happened will be explained next Tuesday morning before Recorded Long. The facts in the case, however, are that Mr. Fritz went into the undertaking establishment of Henry DeMott on Somerset street on Decoration Day and a quarrel ensued between the men.

When Marshal Campbell put in an appearance and arrested Fritz, the latter was administering a tongue-lashing to Mr. DeMott. The charge against the accused is using indecent language in public. When the case is heard next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock a jury of six reputable citizens of the borough will listen to the testimony and determine the truth or falsity of DeMott's charges.

Mr. Fritz will be arraigned tomorrow morning before City Judge Runyon for also using profane language toward Oscar F. Pierson in this city last week. The accused will be defended by Councilman Hetfield, who caused his arrest some months ago on a similar charge.

FATHER WHIPPED BY SON.

Dispute About Family Affairs Ended in Son's Arrest.

Louis Sprigg and his son Charles, have, until last evening, resided together on Howard street, Prideville, but there was a lively time at the Sprigg house last evening and now father and son do not speak. Just what started the trouble is not known, but it was a family trouble, and the result was that the father and son engaged in a fight. The father is carrying a bad cut on the nose, with several bruises on his forehead, while the son is carrying the imprint of several teeth in his forearm. It was an exciting contest and a close battle.

The father was worsted and secure the services of Marshal Schenck, who arrested the son. This morning the son was arraigned before Recorder Long, and after hearing the story of both parties sentence was suspended.

The death of Miss Mary Alice Snodgrass, aged thirty-four years, sister of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, occurred yesterday in this city, where she was living. Dr. Snodgrass will take the remains tomorrow to West Virginia, where they will be interred at the native home of the deceased. Miss Snodgrass was a graduate of the Ohio Wesleyan University, and was a successful teacher in the High School department in Illinois and Ohio schools.

CHEAPER FOR COUNTY TO CARE FOR INSANE.

It Costs County $42,000 a Year as Now Arranged.

THERE ARE 247 DEPENDENTS

A FEW STATISTICS THAT ARE OF INSTRUCTIVE INTEREST.

It is Thought That the County Would Save at Least $10,000 to Build and Maintain Its Own Asylum for Care of Insane—It is Seldom That Relatives Contribute to the Support of Insane Persons.

The question of the proper care for the county's insane is a subject which, it would seem, will stand a good deal of discussion. The increase in the number of insane constitutes one of the social problems of the age which threatens to assume alarming proportions, and which seems at present almost unsolvable. A few statistics on the subject will prove of interest.

The number of insane patients sent to the asylum at Trenton during the fiscal year of 1857-8 was 23; in 1860-1 it was 22; in 1864-5, 25; in 1870-1, 49; in 1875-6, 49; in 1880-1, 144; in 1885-6, 155; in 1890-1, 155; in 1895-6, 255. The number now in the asylum is about 240.

The appropriation for their maintenance for the fiscal year of 1899-1900 is $42,000. It is thought that the county could save at least $10,000 a year of this expense by building an asylum of its own and maintaining its insane at home.

Elizabeth has about half the population of Union county, but considerably more than one-half the insane patients from the county come from Elizabeth.

The deaths and discharges together of Union county patients number less than twenty a year on an average. Occasionally a patient is discharged as cured and remains well; but oftener he is again committed to the asylum after a time in much the same condition as when he first entered it. In nineteen cases out of twenty, once a man is admitted he becomes a permanent resident of Morris Plains, and leaves there only in a coffin. Some of the patients seem to be almost absolutely forgotten by all their kith and kin. They are as dead to the world as if in their graves.

In very few cases (fewer than 20 of the 240) is the cost of their maintenance paid for other than by the county. A man of property and income is responsible for the care and maintenance of a son or daughter, but the same man can not be compelled to pay for the maintenance of a brother. So it happens that in nearly all cases there is no one who is able to pay that can be compelled to pay. Practically, then, the public supports all insane people. County Collector Wood says the relatives of each person committed are diligently looked up, and if it is possible to collect any money toward the inmate's support it is collected. If we had a county asylum where patients would be visited oftener by relatives and seen oftener by neighbors and acquaintances, it might result in somewhat more money being collected through unknown relationships coming to light, but it would seem that no great increase is to be hoped for.

PRETTY NEW YORK WEDDING.

Dr. Norman Probasco Would Have Been Best Man but for Illness.

The society notes of New York papers described yesterday a pretty wedding which took place Wednesday afternoon in St. John's Episcopal church, St. John's place, when Miss Georgia Hutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert John Hutton, was married to James Taylor Hanan. Dr. Norman Probasco, son of Dr. J. B. Probasco, of East Front street, was to have been the best man, but was not sufficiently recovered from his recent attack of typhoid fever to act in that capacity, and his place was taken by Addison J. Hanan, a cousin of the groom.

Improving the Store.

Mr. Carson, manager for Crosby & Hill, is continually improving the appearance of the interior of the big department store by changing the location of certain departments. He has also placed his private desk near the cashier's office, which is also a great improvement, and during the heated term an electric fan will cool the atmosphere of that portion of the store.

30 000 MEN ARE NEEDED

Gen. Otis Says It Will Take This Number to Control the Philippines.

HIS LATEST STATEMENT.

Cablegram From Commander of Forces in the Philippines Laid Before the President.

No Decision Yet Reached Regarding Call for More Troops—Natives Savagely Attack Americans—Captain Tilly's Murder Avenged by Smith and His Command.

Washington, June 2.—The following official statement considering the military operations in the Philippines has been given out at the War Department:

"General Otis telegraphs that he is still of the opinion that 30,000 troops will be necessary for the effective control of the Philippines."

This means that a call for at least 6,000 volunteers for service in the Philippines will be made.

The regulars now with General Otis or on the way to Manila, number 24,000, and they include every man that can be spared.

When General Otis's cablegram was received it was immediately laid before President McKinley. Secretary Alger and the President were in conference for some time after the receipt of the message.

Secretary Alger said that no decision had yet been reached regarding the call for troops.

"It may be necessary to muster in a larger army," he said, "but 5,000 volunteers will probably do."

The following dispatch was also received from General Otis:

"Manila, June 1.

"Smith reports from Negros that he has punished insurgents who murdered Captain Tilly; that eastern coast of Island is now under American flag and inhabitants ask protection against robber bands. Bands pursued into mountains by us and native troops and severely punished. OTIS."

GENERAL SMITH.

Secretary Alger and Secretary Hay have conferred over the Philippine situation and the work of the Peace Commission. It is believed that Professor Schurman and Worcester and Colonel Denby, the civilian members of the commission, will be recalled soon.

Manila, June 2.—The natives who have occupied the lines around San Fernando attacked the outposts of the Fifty-first Iowa Infantry, wounding two men.

A reorganization of the American forces has been made. General Lawton will command the lines around the city from Caleocan to Pasay, and General MacArthur all lines to the north.

Train Wrecker Held for Murder.

Philadelphia, June 2.—Coroner Dugan held an inquest in the case of John H. Short, who was injured in the wreck on the line of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Longacres curve, near Tamaqua, May 16, and died May 25 in the Episcopal Hospital. Inquiry developed the fact that the spike which caused the wreck had been placed on the track by Oliver H. Ohle of West Penn Township, who was committed to prison without bail to answer the charge of murder, as were also Louis Steigerwalt and William Henniger, both of the same village, who were held as accessories before and after the fact. The act of Assembly of 1891 provides that any person who places any obstruction on a railroad track, thereby causing a wreck that results in death, may be held for murder.

"Dum Dum" Bullets Barred in Warfare.

The Hague, June 2.—A resolution was adopted in the Peace Conference here prohibiting he use of "dum dum" bullets. The resolution was carried by eighteen votes to three. Italy and Austria voted with England in the negative. It was also resolved to prohibit the use of explosives from balloons, and also the use of explosive bullets. On more important proposals an agreement was found to be impossible. The conviction grows stronger than at first that the work of the conference is doomed to failure.

Playing for His Release.

Columbus, Ohio, June 2.—William Shields, a new recruit at the army barracks here, was caught apparently trying to gouge out his eyes with a safety pin. It is the opinion of the officials that he was simply trying to create sympathy, as he has been sick and wants to be released from the service.

Deer's Joke May Prove Dear.

St. Louis, June 2.—Fisherman Herman Verholt has sued Millionaire Henry D. Laughlin, of this city, for $10,000 damages. Verbolt claims that a deer in Laughlin's private park drove him in the water and kept him there for several hours, causing a severe illness.

Will Cost $8,000 to Repair Brooklyn.

Washington, June 2.—Capt. Wildes, acting commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, has advised the navy officials it will cost $8,000 to repair the cruiser Brooklyn, and will take twenty days.

CLOUDBURST IN NEBRASKA

Considerable Damage Done to Farms and Live Stock Killed.

Omaha, Neb., June 2.—A cloud burst deluged several villages. Many cases of drowning of live stock are reported. Barns and sheds were swept away in the torrents. Every bridge on the East Bow creek, from its source to the Missouri, has been carried away. A terrific hail storm struck Roseland. Seventy-five per cent. of the window lights in the south and west sides of buildings were broken. One hailstone measured 6 inches in circumference. The storm only covered a small area, but grain is pounded flat into the ground, and the fruit is all knocked off in this small area. Similar reports come from Arapahoe and Winside. Near the latter place a big beer hall was struck by a gale that tore portions of the building away and scattered the timbers in the adjoining fields. John Prince, having been belated and on his way home had stopped at the beer hall to gain the protection of the building for himself and horses. Mr. Prince, comparatively uninjured, picked himself up in a field many rods away from the building when the cyclonic wind had passed by. His horses were killed.

Will Cost a Lot of Money.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The members of the Board of Naval Bureau Chiefs, who will be called upon to decide as to the nature of the repairs and changes to be made upon the captured Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes, are somewhat divided in opinion. A conservative estimate of the cost of refitting the Mercedes so as to entitle her to a place on the naval lists is placed at about a quarter of a million dollars, which would be about 25 per cent of her value. The naval bureaus are scarcely disposed to expend so much of their indefinite appropriations for this purpose.

Slaughtered by Cubans.

Quincy, Ill., June 2.—Captain John A. Hoefer, formerly of the volunteer cavalry, has received a letter from his brother, a member of the Second Cavalry, near the Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, stating that last week 27 members of Troops K and I of the Second Cavalry were massacred by Cuban soldiers. The letter says that the American comrades of the victims were forbidden by orders of their commander to return the fire, but are eagerly awaiting an opportunity of evening up the score. What gave rise to the slaughter is not given by Hoefer.

Section Hands Run Down.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 2.—A hand car loaded with section hands was run down by a west-bound fast freight on a curve of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railroad near Coolville. William Dishiel, of Coolville, aged 18, was instantly killed; Otis Dodd, a track hand, had his spine broken and is supposed to be fatally injured; Thomas Flaherty, Jr., foreman of the gang, is seriously cut and bruised, and six other men are more or less injured. The dead and wounded were taken to Coolville, where the injured are being cared for.

Convict Kills Convict.

Trenton, N. J., June 2.—John Weiss, a convict, confined in the State prison in this city, was stabbed to death by Albert Brown, a fellow prisoner. Weiss and Brown were in the bake shop and got into an altercation. Brown seized a large bread knife and thrust it through Weiss's lungs. The wounded man died about three hours later. Weiss was sent here from Essex County last year to serve two years for forgery. Brown is from Hudson County, where he was known as "Kid Miller." He was sentenced in 1897 for ten years for breaking and entering.

Lineman Dangerously Shocked.

Connersville, Ind., June 2.—During the electrical storm here, lightning struck the electric light wires and ran along to where J. H. Brown was trimming an arc lamp, enveloping him in a sheet of flame for an instant, and struck him unconscious to the earth. When brought to, half an hour afterward, he seemed none the worse, except a slight burn on his hand and a feeling of numbness all over his body.

An Ex-Soldier Shot.

Leavenworth, Kan., June 2.—William T. Maloney, an ex-soldier, was shot and fatally wounded by Timothy Foran. Foran had been out on a carousal, and was coming along the street with a pistol in his hand. Noticing Maloney standing in a doorway, he shot him down without a word passing between them or any provocation. Foran resisted arrest, and it took four policemen to handle him.

Says Shooting Was Accidental.

Springfield, Ohio, June 2.—George Nicodemus, who was shot by Martin Bloucher, bartender for Mrs. Krumholtz, is still alive, but his life hangs by a thread. The physicians absolutely refuse to let any one see Nicodemus unless the Coroner insists on an antimortem statement. This will probably be requested. Bloucher repeats that the shooting was purely accidental.

Cut Rates for Chicago Lovers.

Chicago, June 2.—Regular marriage excursions on steamboats will be run from here to St. Joseph, Mich., soon. Tickets will be sold to Chicago entitling the holders to a free marriage at St. Joseph, and a magnificent "bridal cabin" on the return trip. The steamers City of Chicago and City of Louisville are to engage in the novel traffic.

Shot Three, But Only Shooter Will Die.

Mayville, Mich., June 2.—George Stalker, Jr., a young man living near Mayville, while angry at his father, shot him in the head and neck. He next shot his mother in the back and himself through the head. The father and mother, it is thought, will live, but the son will probably die.

Violent Death of Minister.

Paterson, N. J., June 2.—The Rev. E. Hughes a Lutheran minister, of Saddle River, was struck by an express train No. 5 on the Erie Railroad. He received injuries that soon resulted in his death.

UNITED STATES CURRENCY

That Is What the Insular Commission Recommends for Use in Porto Rico.

NO MORE SPANISH BILLS

The Spanish Bank, it Is Ordered, Will No Longer Be Allowed to Issue Bills.

The American Dollar of 100 Cents to Be Substituted for the Double Standard Dollar of 100 Cents and the Peso of 60 Cents—A Liberal Policy Advised by Commissioners.

Washington, June 2.—The report of the Insular Commission appointed to inquire into the affairs of Porto Rico has been made public.

It recommends that the Spanish bank be no longer allowed to issue bills; that United States currency be substituted as soon as possible for Porto Rican money at the expense of Porto Rico, and that the single standard of the American dollar of 100 cents be substituted for the double standard of the dollar of 100 cents and the peso of 60 cents.

The report advises a liberal policy as to concessions for improvements. They should be granted, it says, only after advertisement, should be sold to the highest bidder, subject to the control of the Island government, and should be regulated in the interest of the people.

Washington, June 2.—Secretary Alger has sent orders to Major General Otis to let various volunteer organizations in the Philippines determine by vote whether they will be mustered out at San Francisco or at their homes in the United States.

As the pecuniary advantages of muster out in San Francisco are greater it is probable that the volunteers will decide on that course.

The money that will be saved by some of the regiments through muster out in San Francisco amounts to quite a neat little sum. The men of the Tenth Pennsylvania, for example, will gain $127 to $201 each in travel pay.

Ohio Republicans Meet.

Columbus, O., June 2.—The Republican State Convention has convened here to nominate candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, State Auditor and a Judge of the Supreme Court. Thousands of members of the party are swarming into the city, and special trains from all directions arrived with delegations.

Senator M. A. Hanna is on the ground, and so is Senator J. B. Foraker. It is conceded that none of the candidates has thus far developed strength enough to secure the nomination on the first ballot, and it is thought that a compromise candidate is likely to win. In the conference between the leaders it can be seen that the State administration forces are using every effort to defeat Hanna and retire him from control, so far as the Buckeye State is concerned. His followers are determined to avoid what would be accepted as a defeat for the Administration.

There are many candidates for all the offices, there being eight aspirants for the nomination for Governor alone. These are ex-Judge George K. Nash of Franklin county, formerly Attorney-General of the State and subsequently made Supreme Court Justice, one of the leading candidates for Governor at Zanesville in 1895, when Gov. Asa. S. Bushnell was nominated. Harry M. Daugherty of Fayette County, who is Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee; Albert Douglass, Ross county; Lieut.-Gov. Ashbel W. Jones of Mahoning county, who has been Lieutenant-Governor for two terms under Gov. Bushnell; Linn W. Hull, of Erie county, formerly Judge of the Court of Common Pleas; Frank A. Durban, Muskingum county; Robert M. Nevin of Montgomery county, who has held a number of local offices in his county, and General William P. Orr of Miami county, who is Quartermaster-General on Gov. Bushnell's staff. Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati is also mentioned occasionally.

The State Central Committee selected Congressman William S. Kerr of the Fourth district to be temporary chairman of the convention. There are 813 delegates in the convention.

Three Men Hurt in Explosion.

New York, June 2.—Three persons were badly injured in an explosion of naptha at the dyeing establishment of Ernest Scheer, 433 Third avenue. The proprietor of the place, Ernest Scheer was seriously burned about the body, as was also Maurice Manensky, a dyer, living at 663 East Fifth street. Fireman William Clark of Truck No. 7, was cut by falling glass, an artery in his neck being severed.

Killed His Comrade.

Washington, June 2.—Private Dock M. Thorpe, of Company A, Fifth United States Volunteers, while emptying his revolver at Policeman Acton, shot and instantly killed Private Aaron Bishop, of Company G, same regiment. Policeman Acton who had reproved the man for drinking and boisterous conduct at the Pennsylvania Railroad station, received a bullet in his arm.

Minnesota for Henderson.

St. Paul, Minn., June 2.—Messrs. Tawney, McCleary, Heatwole, Stevens, Fletcher, Morris and Eddy, the Minnesota delegation in the lower house of Congress, with Congressman Spalding of North Dakota, met here and resolved to support Gen. David B. Henderson of Iowa for Speaker of the House.

Wheel Rider Killed.

Binghamton, June 2.—Elmer E. Scatchard, proprietor of the Oneonta Knitting Mills, was killed in a bicycle accident. He was riding down Fonda avenue hill when the forks of his machine broke, throwing him violently to the ground.

Fifty Sick of Ice Cream.

Eastport, L. I., June 2.—About fifty persons are ill here as the result of eating impure ice cream. The ice cream was eaten at a church festival.

I am acquainted with the case of the wife of a house painter in Brooklyn, who had the grip, and was confined to the house for three months. She was in a listless state and suffered terribly with nausea. It so happened that a friend had given some Ripans Tabules to this lady's sister who had suffered from indigestion, and as they did her so much good she thought she would try them on Mrs. Hill, feeling sure that if they did her no good they would at least do no harm. The patient was then in the hands of her physician, but soon she was so much better that her neighbors noticed the change and asked about it. She then said that she had changed her doctor, and laughingly added, my new doctor is colored—chocolate color. It seems that as soon as she began to take the Tabules she began to mend. The nausea disappeared and she began to feel that the future still had days of sunshine in store for her.

THE DEAD CAME TO LIFE.

Louis Peters Who Was Believed to Have Been Murdered Turns Up.

SAVED TWO MEN'S LIVES

Disappeared About a Year Ago Under Suspicious Circumstances—Two Boats Found Upside Down.

Peters Enlisted in Army, Fought Bravely at San Juan and Was Unexpectedly Discovered in Washington—The Two Fishermen Who Were Charged With Murder Are Still in Jail.

St. Louis, June 2.—A most remarkable romance in real life was developed here by the return of Louis Peters, who mysteriously disappeared a year ago. He is a brother of John W. Peters, of this city, a wealthy fish dealer.

Two men at Ripley, Tenn., narrowly escaped lynching on his account. Once they had been tried for their lives and are still in jail at that place, charged with murder. The news that he has been found alive and well will bring them liberty and joy.

Peters resides at Washington, Mo., and was sent to a lake owned by his brother, near Ripley, with $400 to pay off some men who were employed there fishing. He found the little place all right, but were suspicious of the men for fear they would hold him up.

He arrived there on April 29, a year ago, and two days later was missing. A search showed that two boats were turned upside down in the lake, and Peters' hat was found floating near by. The oars had drifted to shore.

The searchers found fresh tracks leading from a log house to the shore, where the two boats had been found. Six men who lived in the house were arrested.

Soon after the facts were noised about a mob gathered and determined to lynch the two men.

John W. Peters arrived that day, however, and, although the circumstances were strong against them, he insised that the men have a fair trial by jury, and the crowd dispersed.

When the trial came, John W. Peters gave his testimony and he was sa fair and impartial in his answers that the jury could not agree and the men were held in jail pending a new trial.

In the meant time Louis Peters' mother died and left him a small estate, and his children in Washington filed a suit in partition to have the property divided on the theory that their father was dead. A St. Louis attoorney visited Washington to appear in the court for the children. To his great surprise he found the missing Louis Peters. He had a wonderful story to tell.

He was out in his boat on the lake in the evening with the money in his pocket when a man came out in another boat and made for him. He supposed that his motive was robbery, so when he came close Peters struck him with his oar. A struggle ensued, in which the boats were overturned.

Peters swam to shore. Then he called. No response came. He imagined he had murdered a man who probably had not intended to rob him. He left the country with a volunteer regiment, fought at San Juan and has his honorable discharge to show for it.

The man he had struggeld with was one of the men arrested having gone out for a night's fishing. He also swam to shore. He told the story but was not believed. The tracks were his.

Convict Dies in Prison.

Davis, on Morris Creek, is dead, of consumption. Dr. Davis was shot from ambush while driving to see a patient, and Clendennin was convicted of the crime on circumstantial evidence, after a most exciting trial.

Two persons, a man and a woman, were arrested and committed to the Rockland County Jail in New City. They have had the child with them for several days in a farmhouse a few miles from Sloatsburg, which is near St. John's.

The woman is Ada McNally, who comes from a family of some prominence in Goshen, N. Y., and who once was a school teacher in St. John's. The man says he is her husband. They used the names of James and Jennie Wilson.

SAVED FROM FATHER'S RAGE

Connellan Tried to Kill Negro Who Assaulted His Daughter.

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 2.—There was strong talk of lynching here when it became known that a negro named Charles Lester of Long Island had brutally assaulted Mary Connellan, the 6-year-old daughter of Michael J. Connellan, on the Glenville road and left her for dead. As the girl, returning home from school at noon, was passing through a dense part of the woods she was seized by Lester. She screamed, and her cries were heard at her home.

Her father seized a revolver and ran to her, and the negro fled. Connellan found his daughter unconscious where Lester had left her. Her mother came hurrying up and cared for her, while Connellan organized a little band and started in pursuit of Lester. Hiram See was the first to catch up with Lester, and he held the negro up at the point of a pistol on Miss Helen M. Gould's farm. When Connellan came up he pulled out his pistol and exclaimed: "Die now, you dog." Some one struck his arm upward and the shot went in the air. Connellan then jumped on Lester, knocked him down and pummelled him. Lester was brought to Tarrytown, and he pleaded guilty of assault. The police were afraid to keep him here, and he was hurriedly sent to the county jail at White Plains for safe keeping.

The feeling here against negroes is bad. Only a short time ago Harrison Howard, colored, shot and killed John Ledwith, one of the most prominent citizens of Tarrytown. The condition of the Connellan girl is precarious. Lester was seen hanging around Glenville an hour before the assault, and he then tried to entice other little girls away.

Six Drowned at Toledo.

Toledo, O., June 2.—Six unidentified persons were drowned in the Maumee River. It is thought that they were three men and three women. About 9 o'clock the crew of the steamer State of New York heard cries for help, and when the searchlight was flashed over the river three persons were seen struggling in the water. A man and a woman sank before a lifeboat was launched. The third, a woman, disappeared when the lifeboat was within a few feet of her. Shortly before the accident a small boat with three young couples was seen near the scene of the drowning.

Buffalo Dock Men Strike Afresh.

Buffalo, June 2.—Almost all the dock freight handlers are on strike again, 2,000 men being involved. If their grievances are not adjusted the grain shovellers will quit in sympathy. The trouble started in the Lehigh Valley freight house where the men assert that their trucks were overloaded. The men demanded that the agreement as to truck loads be kept. Bitterness is added to the situation by the retention of many non-union employes along the docks.

Overwork Killed Him.

Kokomo, Ind., June 2.—Rev. E. T. Gregg, pastor of Grace Methodist Church here, died after four day's illness, caused by overwork. The malady was a peculiar one, baffling all physicians. His father, mother, sister and his wife's father all died within a few months. He was formerly stationed at Peru, Roanoke and Decatur. He was 38 years old.

Mr. Murray Marked.

It is unlikely that Assemblyman Murray will be renominated in Union. His "I propose" and "I object" in the last run of House debate have been adopted at his home in Plainfield, where the Republican clan "proposes" to nominate another because they "object" to Murray.—New York Press.

This is the edict that we have been expecting from the powers that be in political circles. Mr. Murray was undoubtedly too independent for the servile followers of the corporations in the last Legislature. The Plainfield statesman had convictions and he did not allow them to be smothered under political pressure in the State House. So far as we were able to judge Mr. Murray did not espouse or advocate a single measure in the last Legislature that was not conceded to be fair, but the fact that he did not truckle to certain influences makes him a mark for political retirement. We do not know whether Mr. Murray intends to strive for another nomination this fall, but if he does it will be interesting to see how he fares.

Asking Pointed Questions.

The State Department of Banking and Insurance is about to turn a searchlight upon the methods and financial conditions of the building and loan associations doing business in New Jersey.

Wm. Bettle, chief of the department, has had prepared for distribution a form of the report which these associations will be required to render to his department.

Some of the questions in the report, if truthfully answered, and they must be duly verified and sworn to, may be the means of causing some of the associations to go out of business. The report of an association made upon the blank that has been prepared will be most complete, as the forty-six searching questions and eleven tabulated statements, many a one hinging upon another, are calculated to expose any existing family skeleton, no matter how securely it may be locked up in the association's closet.

THE PEACE CONGRESS AT THE HAGUE.
All the world is profoundly interested in the peace conference now being held in the Palace of the Woods, at The Hague. The important work of the conference is being done by committees. Baron de Staal, the czar's representative and chairman of the conference, and Count Munster of Germany are prominent figures.

A Worthy Charity.

An enterprise or movement that has for its aim the making of poor babies' lives brighter and more healthful immediately appeals to the softer and kindlier qualities of mankind. But it is a fact, however, that the City Union of King's Daughters is seriously in need of funds to re-establish their baby camp on the mountain, which was totally destroyed by fire last winter. Such an institution as this is worthy of all the small support that is necessary to maintain it, and The Daily Press believes that in calling attention to the needs of the enterprise it will suffice for a few of the wealthy Plainfielders to open their pocketbooks to the extent of contributing promptly the $300 that is required to carry on the work in a successful manner this season. Come, ye philanthropists, help along such a noble cause.

The Cranford Chronicle believes that the first spike driven in the track of the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company was also the first spike driven in the coffin of the Union county boulevard. For so solemn an affair The Chronicle seems to be in a wonderfully joyous condition. The Chronicle's glee is the Elizabeth Journal's gloom, however. Our Elizabeth contemporary views the situation thusly: "If the boulevard plan has been destroyed the people of Union county have lost not only $250,000 but, what is far more important, a plan which would have been worth at least $5,000,000 in taxable property within the five or ten years following its completion. No county in this State has such a chance for making and building up a magnificent boulevard. If it is dead its demise will be most sorrowfully mourned before many years are over, and by the very ones who killed it."

The Newark News points out that when Senator Kean is reported as saying that the delegates at-large from New Jersey to the Republican National convention would be Senators Sewell and Kean, Franklin Murphy and Barker Gummere, there is good reason to doubt the genuineness of the interview. Mr. Kean is not in the habit of indulging in such indiscretions, and if the work of the Republican State convention has been cut out for it a year in advance, the junior Senator is the last man who would make public announcement of the fact.

An exchange says that a certain newspaper printed an item to the effect that a certain resident, whose name it did not give, had better stop kissing his hired girl, or he might be found out. Twenty-seven men called on the editor and immediately stopped their paper and accused him of interfering in their domestic affairs.

The man who would wear a straw hat need have no fear of "rushing the season" now. Yesterday was the opening of the straw hat season.

The five-year term of the Union County Clerk is worth $40,000 to the incumbent. No wonder that the candidates are numerous.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

It is announced that the fight for leadership supremacy in Somerset county, between Senator Reed and Chancery Clerk Thompson, is over and that harmony prevails. That is right. There is no room or margin for inter-party fights in Somerset. Nor is it seemly or natural that two such able and upright Republicans as Reed and Thompson should quarrel. Both are men of great resolution and independence of character. They think and act for themselves. Neither allows other people to think for or boss him. They should therefore respect each others rights. Being human they are liable occasionally to make mistakes, and "put the foot in it," but we can overlook this because we know that they are mistakes of the head and not of the heart. They are staunch and true men; that we all know.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

George Taggart, formerly of Plainfield, but who is now connected with the staff of the Dramatic Mirror in New York, is forging to the front as a writer of popular songs. His "Moth and the Flame" has been one of the most popular pieces of the past season, and now "Wait Till My Ship Comes In" appears upon the scene. This latter piece has just been issued to professionals, and it is said that it will become one of the few songs that will catch the popular fancy next season. The words are very pretty, and the music by Max S. Witt is catchy. Mr. Taggart's many friends in his old home will be pleased to learn of his continued and growing success as a song writer.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The continued success of "The Great Ruby" at Daly's Theatre in New York is really remarkable. When Mr. Daly made such a bold move as the placing of a play of this kind on his stage, he of course expected success. The undertaking was too large a one to be thought of if he did not. But he could not have looked forward to any such success as has been attained. The run of the play has already been nearly the longest of the New York season, and it may yet prove the longest before it is done. Nearly 150 performances have already been given and there is as yet no announcement of the close.

A CHANGE IS NEEDED.

A Woman Taxpayer Says the Local Government is Not Popular.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The report of the meeting of our "representative men" last week has been read with interest. The policy pursued by our city officials has had a tendency to drive several families of wealth and prominence from our midst, and more will follow as soon as they can dispose of their property. This feeling prevails to a greater extent than you are aware. Mr. Martine "hit the nail on its head" when he said "the present municipal government seemed devoted to the idea of making a Paris of Plainfield in short order, irrespective of the hardships, injustices and embarrassments that they heaped upon the property owners." Surely the "Golden Rule" is not their text, but the cowardly big boys pouncing on the little boy. Many of our property owners are women, with no representative, not even a vote, and if you will notice, Mr. Editor, these defenseless women are the ones that are first compelled to comply with their unjust orders. Mr. Martine echoed the opinions of many when he said, "The city officials draw a line here and a circle there and all within those lines must be so and so, irrespective of whether the conditions warranted it or not." It is a pity to drive people away or keep them from coming to our beautiful city. Woman Taxpayer.

—The reception and entertainment mentioned in yesterday's Press as being held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin, of Park place, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Steiner, of the same street.

GRAIN-O BRINGS RELIEF

Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c. per package.

THEY ARE HERE AT LAST.

We refer to the sample garments of Ladies' Muslin Underwear, which many of our customers have been so impatiently waiting for. We are sure, however, that all those who have waited will be more than repaid by the opportunity to secure exquisitely fine garments at only two-thirds their value. Made by the celebrated Galland Bros. They are marvelously beautiful and wondrously attractive to those who appreciate fine goods, fine work and cheap prices. We buy at ⅔ regular price. We sell them in the same way. They are now on sale. Those who call first will secure the choicest bargains.

ABOUT SHIRT WAISTS.

The warm weather reminds of your needs in this direction. If you have seen our line of waists then you do not need to be told about them. If you have not seen our waists then by all means see them before you make your selections. We have more desirable waists, better in finish, better fitting, more variety and more choice styles than all other concerns in this city. That is a broad statement, but a true one as you can easily ascertain by investigation. It is equally true of pique, duck and crash skirts. They are new, well made, fit perfectly and are inexpensive.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed.

THE OLD ADAGE.

"WHAT IS WORTH DOING AT ALL IS WORTH DOING WELL"

The Notion of Economizing Time By Slighting Work is as Foolish as Robbing Peter to Pay Paul—Learn to Distinguish Tasks Which Are Duties and Those Not.

The adage that "What is worth doing at all is worth doing well" is as well known as the truth that the proverb is oftener quoted than practised. Life is such a whirl of duties, there is so much to be rushed off in a given space of time, that the hurried and harried houseworker does things with what the oldfashioned country people call "a lick and a promise." This notion of economizing time by slighting work is as foolish as to rob Peter to pay Paul. Sooner or later—and it is generally sooner—Peter must be paid, and oftener with interest. The room that was only half dusted yesterday will look more untidy to-day because of the fluff collected in the corners and the deposit of dust on the rungs of the chairs, and the whole apartment will have to be thoroughly dusted. So the time spent yesterday in flecking the impalpable, but perceptible, powder from the mantel shelf and in wiping off the polished table tops was really time thrown away. This morning the price of a former morning's neglect must be paid.

So with the ugly tear that was hastily mended last evening. It took much less time to run together the sides of the rent than would have been used up in laying another piece of stuff under the hole and neatly darning down the edges. But the first time that a strain comes on that weak spot—rip! go to the thin edges, and the last end of that tear is worse than the first. Now, profiting by experience you patch and darn it. But who will give back to you the precious time spent last night in superficial work? Those minutes are as much wasted as if you had sat with folded hands while they ticked themselves away. Indeed, the folded hands would have been a better investment than the careless stitches, for they would have meant beneficial rest, and therefore gain, while loss.

It is time the American housekeeper appreciated the great truth that time and nerves are too precious to be wasted in performing that which avails naught. Suppose you do not "turn off" as much work as your neighbor, what difference does that make? If you have done what you could, thoroughly and conscientiously, you have done all that it is your duty to do. To do well is better service than to do much.

Our dear Mrs. Prestiss says:—"If you could once make up your mind, in the fear of God, never to undertake more work of any sort that you can carry on calmly, quietly, without hurry or flurry and the instant you feel yourself growing nervous and like one out of breath would stop and take breath, you would find this simple, common sense rule doing for you what no prayers or tears could ever accomplish."

"Ah!" some weary woman sighs, "If one could do that! But there are so many Mustbe's in my life that I have no time to do any one of them thoroughly!"

Are they all Mustbe's? There are hosts of things that come to us women in the garb of essentials that are really only Maybe's. The great thing is for us to learn to distinguish those tasks which are not our duties, which, as sweet Leslie Goldthwaite learned by experience, "must be crowded out." Let them be crowded out! Never mind what other people think you ought to do. That is not the point.

The problem to be solved is what God and you know you ought to do. When you decide that, and then take up with both hands each duty that he assigns you, bravely and calmly and with a determination to perform it as unto Him, the flurry and hurry will disappear and the needed strength will come.

Work accepted in this spirit must of necessity be well done. It cannot be nervously hurried out of the way, only half performed, because of the hundred and one other claims.—Marion Harland.

Rose Bags.

Iris and lavender are very fragrant and nice in their way, but they do not compare with the June rose bag in freshness or perfume. Tom Moore knew whereof he spoke when he chanted the song of the shattered vase and the perfume that "clung to it still," for in all probability he had a feminine relative whose delight was to rise with the lark and pick York roses in which to embalm her purple and fine linen. As rose bags were made then so they are made to-day, provided that one knows the secret of success, which is to allow the petals to dry perfectly before tucking them away among one's lingerie. Prepare the petals as one would for a pot pourri, by leaving them on a newspaper in the sunshine or in a warm, dry room. It will take fully twenty-four hours, possibly longer, to dry them thoroughly. They should be shaken up and turned occasionally to insure the evaporation of all the moisture. When quite crisp and withered put the petals in bags of net, thin silk or muslin, and scatter with a few drops of good rose essence. This will stimulate and bring the perfume out, as a damp day brings out the odor of the sweet-grass basket made by the Indians.

Sun Bonnets the Rage.

Sunbonnets of every description are seen in the shops and exchanges, and there is no doubt that they are to be the rage. The average out-door girl must possess at least half a dozen of these creations. In the country they are indispensable. Sometimes she fashions them herself, but this is no small task, and requires time and taste and skill.

Nothing could be more becoming and picturesque than some of the lovely combinations of muslin, lace and ribbon which are already shown. They are in plain colors or flowered in bright colors, to suit every taste. Some are soft and drooping and others are made on stiffened forms. They have strings or they have not, but the strings, if there, are unlikely ever to be tied. It would seem to indicate that the sumer girl intends to pay some regard to her complexion, and not go hatless in the sun as she did last season.

The Dictum of Dress.

The Rich, Stately Velvets Are to Return in the Fall.

I am glad to be able to say that in the fall we are to have a return of the rich and stately velvet gowns. There will be plain velvets in all the richest colors, among them purples in the darkest shades, ruby, cardinal and garnet, and one or two of the deep blues.

As a rule, deep blue does not light up well at night, but the new color card has a couple of rich deep shades on which the light falls with magnificent effect. Ruby and cardinal are regal under the gaslight, but garnet looks better in daylight. The purple shades in this card have a subtle difference from those in fashion now, but I think those for fall and winter richer and more royal. These are the plain velvets.

There are also dozens of designs of velvet cisele. This means that there is a heavy, firm satin background, with raised velvet flowers upon it. One sample I saw had the ground of a metallic gray satin, with large flowers and leaves in rather conventional design upon it. These were gray also, but of a much darker shade. Indeed they appeared to take a dozen shades as the light fell upon them in different lines. This velvet cisele will cost enormously. Some of it will be from $10 to $15 a yard.

There are other designs where the raised figurs are in colors to represent sprays of flowers and single blossoms. One had the satin ground of a sort of russet or olive green with great velvet pansies in natural colors, sometimes six or seven different varieties displayed upon one sample of half a yard. Some call this embossed velvet.

There are figured velvets, too, where the design must have been printed on. These are mostly in soft effects, where much dark red, blue and green mingle and produce oriental designs, reminding one of the coloring of the walls in some of the rooms in the Alhambra.

Persian patterns are also shown among the events which are now casting their shadows before. All the silks and satins will be in richer and more artistic designs than they have been, and while the actual coloring is as brilliant in its component parts the general effect is more pleasing.

Taffeta and foulard, india and pongee are all in vogue and will be until the fall days come, when grosgrain, satin duchesse, peau de soie, faille and rhadames will take their places. Grosgrain, it is expected, will be the best liked. Armure silk is also one of the thick silks for autumn and winter. This is an excellent quality and it wears admirably well.

In one of the big ribbon importers' houses they told me that the black velvet ribbon craze was but in its infancy. Tons of this ribbon are on their way and being manufactured here. They are to be applied in the most lavish manner upon all sorts of garments, and many of them will be wrought into figures on garments as the satin ribbons were on those of this spring.

The average woman who is now getting her summer attire into perfection does not seem to realize that the gowns, coats and capes that she may want to wear next fall are nearly all done. There are mountains of them. Among them are many velvet effects and crepons of deep and rich crinkle. There are no end of rough stuffs, woolly stuffs, hairy stuffs and curly stuffs and woolly and hairy plaids, so coarse and harsh in texture that one may be pardoned for believing that they were originally designed for horse blankets. They are made into skirts and cut so that the fronts are bias. Where, as often is the case, the coloring is high, it is effectually toned by the black velvet ribbon before mentioned.

Homespuns, cheviots in Scotch effects and tweeds, as well as coverts, are seen. The plaids are in camel's hair and Scotch twill, each having its own especial fleece to make it look richer and heavier.

Broadcloth is advanced a point in dignity, and while it is to be used for tailor costumes these are made and so elaborately trimmed that they are too elegant for simple street wear, and are for visiting where handsome dressing is obligatory. A favorite trimming is applique of Limerick lace, or point de venise, with possibly a little fine raised hand embroidery.

Provinz Brandenburg.

Berlin. Die sechsjährige Brandstatistik, welche der jüngste Verwaltungsbericht des Magistrats enthält, umfaßt die Zeit vom 1. Januar 1889 bis 31. März 1895. Die Gesammtzahl der stattgefundenen Brände betrug 31,411, darunter 383 Groß- und 888 Mittelfeuer. Nahezu 6000 Mal wurde die Feuerwehr zur Ablöschung von Gardinenbränden herbeigerufen. In 21 Fällen lag nachweislich Brandstiftung vor. Von den sonstigen Brandursachen sind in 654 Fällen die Brände auf Unvorsichtigkeit mit Licht zurückzuführen, und in mehr als 1000 Fällen war die Ursache überhaupt nicht zu ermitteln.—Zum 100jährigen Geburtstage Lettes fand kürzlich im Festsaale des Rathhauses eine Gedenkfeier des Lettevereins statt. Zwei Töchter und drei Enkel Lettes waren anwesend.—Die russische Regierung hat bei den hiesigen Schwartzkopf'schen Werken 48 Lokomotiven für die transsibirische Eisenbahn bestellt.

Klüden. Ein zehnjähriger Knabe, Sohn des hiesigen Besitzers Schulze, hatte mit anderen Knaben in der benachbarten Waldung mit Streichhölzern gespielt und dadurch einen kleinen Waldbrand verursacht. Aus Furcht vor Strafe lief er davon und erhängte sich im Walde.

Lichtenrade. Die Gemeinde, die seit Jahren mit ihrem Pfarrer Klein, Schwiegersohn des verstorbenen Hofpredigers Kögel, in Fehde lebt, hat mit Ausnahme von fünf Familienvorständen den ihren Austritt aus der Landeskirche beim Amtsgericht schriftlich erklärt. Das Dorf zählt etwa 400 Einwohner.

Hannover. Wie in Iserlohn treten auch hier die Windpocken ziemlich heftig auf. Die Regierung hat sofort die nöthigen Schritte gethan, um ein Ausbreiten der Krankheit zu verhindern.

Papenburg. Die Hoffnung auf die Rettung des hier beheimatheten eisernen Schiffes „Linda Part" hat man jetzt allgemein aufgegeben. Es unterliegt keinem Zweifel mehr, daß das schmucke Schiff, das mit einer werthvollen Mahagoniladung von Laguna in Südamerika nach Falmouth beordert war, untergegangen ist. Das Schiff stach am 29. Dezember v. J. von Laguna in See und hätte in einer Reisezeit von 45 bis 60 Tagen seinen Bestimmungshafen erreichen können. An Bord des Schiffes befand sich der Kapitän des Schiffes Schnieders mit Frau und Kind, der Steuermann Ultena und der Koch Magnus, Beide Familienväter, sowie die Matrosen zum Sande und Mühlmann. Außer vorgenannten Personen fanden noch vier brave Seeleute den Tod in den Wellen.

Frankfurt. Auf dem hiesigen Friedhofe fand man eine fremde Dame, die bewußtlos auf einem Grabe saß. In's Spital gebracht, gab sie in einem lichten Augenblick an, Griesbach zu heißen und aus Eger zu sein. Sie starb bald darauf unter Vergiftungserscheinungen. Nachforschungen über die Identität der Unglücklichen blieben bisher erfolglos.

Hanau. Die Thierschutzvereine von Frankfurt a. M., Offenbach und Hanau haben sich zu einer freien Vereinigung zur Förderung gemeinsamer Interessen zusammengeschlossen. In einer hier kürzlich stattgehabten Zusammenkunft wurde beschlossen, auch die Thierschutzvereine von Aschaffenburg und Darmstadt zum Anschluß an die Vereinigung einzuladen. Es sollen regelmäßig jährlich zwei Versammlungen abgehalten werden, im Frühjahr und im Herbst, und zwar sollen dieselben abwechselnd in den verschiedenen Städten tagen, in denen die betheiligten Vereine ihren Sitz haben.

Barth. Die älteste Einwohnerin von hier, Sophie Seebuhr, ist nach kurzem Krankenlager entschlafen. Sie hat ein Alter von 101 Jahren 4 Monaten erreicht. In den letzten Dezennien bereiteten ihr mildthätige Herzen eine sorgenfreie Existenz. Einen Arzt hat sie nur einmal gebraucht, vor circa 13 Jahren, als sie sich einen Fuß verstaucht hatte.

Vierraden. Hier brach in dem zweistockigen Speicher des Ackerbürgers Menß Feuer aus, das sich auch schnell über mehrere andere Gebäude verbreitete, so daß in kurzer Zeit die Scheunen des Kaufmanns Pettack und der Ackerbürger Pahl, Keller und Sauvage in Flammen standen; sämmtliche Gebäude brannten vollständig nieder.

Provinz Posen.

Posen. Verschiedene polnische Damen hatten von der hiesigen Polizeibehörde ein Strafmandat über 100 Mark erhalten, weil sie polnischen Sprachunterricht an Schulkinder ertheilten. Nunmehr hat eine dieser Damen, die sich mit der Bitte um Erlaubniß zur Ertheilung des Unterrichts an die Regierung gewandt hatte, die Antwort erhalten, daß die Genehmigung zur Ertheilung des polnischen Lese- und Schreibunterrichts an schulpflichtige Kinder nicht ertheilt werden könne.

LESSON X, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 4.

Comments by Wm. K. Fisher—Subject: Christ Crucified, John 19: 17-30—Golden Text: The Son of God Who Loved Me and Gave Himself for Me, Gal. 2: 20. (Commit Verses 28-30.)

The revised version reads: "He went out bearing his cross for himself." This was the rule; those who were to be crucified were compelled to carry their own cross. One writing of this custom says: "There was a kind of savage irony in making a man carry the implement on which he was to suffer.

In the advance of this sad procession went a man, according to custom with a sign upon which was inscribed the nature of the crime for which the one following was to suffer; then came "four soldiers, under a centurion, with the hammer and the nails, and guarding Jesus." After these came the two robbers, each carrying his cross, and followed by four soldiers." The multitude that followed was mainly made up of those who rejected the Saviour, but there were also some who had received the truth, and remained loyal to him; to Mary and the other women who wept, he said: "Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me." The agony and suffering which Jesus went through was much more intense than we usually think. On account of exhaustion, weakness and soreness from the scourging he had received, he was unable to carry his cross alone, and to Simon of Cyrene was given the exalted honor of assisting him.

"Where they crucified him" is a very brief account of an act of so much importance. The crucifixion took place at about 9 o'clock, which was regular time of the morning sacrifice of the lamb, which up to that time was a type of the Lamb of God who was offered that morning "once for all."

Schaff says: "The cross was not so lofty and large as in most medieval pictures, the feet of the sufferer were only a foot or two above the ground—a fact of some weight, as showing that Jesus suffered in the midst of his persecutors, and not looking down from above their heads."

Speaking of death by crucifixion, Farrar says: "It seems to include all that pain and death can have of the horrible and ghastly—dizziness, cramp, thirst, starvation, sleeplessness, publicity of shame, long continuance of torment, horror of anticipation, mortification of untended wounds—all intensified just up to the point at which they can be endured at all, but all stopping just short of the point which would give to the sufferer the relief of unconsciousness. "That is the death Christ suffered for us.

"And Pilate wrote a title and put it on the cross. And the writing was, Jesus of Nazareth the King of the Jews."

The sign, carried in advance of the criminal, upon which his crime was inscribed, was afterwards put upon his cross. It is said that Pilate saw personally to the sign that was to be put on the cross of Jesus; in designating Jesus as the King of the Jews, he did so out of sarcasm to the Jewish people, but he thus unthinkingly proclaimed the innocence of our Saviour.

To the request of the Jews in the 21st verse, Pilate answered, "What I have written I have written."

Peloubet says: "He might almost have said, What I have written, God has written."

The soldiers who took the Saviour's garments were those who had had charge of his crucifixion. "The clothes of executed criminals," says the Cambridge Bible, "were the perquisites of the soldiers on duty." "By his garments," his sandals, girdle, outer robe, head dress, etc., is meant. His coat, without seam, was the tunic or under garment, which reached from the neck to the feet.

Concerning verse 25, "His mother's sister was probably Salome, the mother of John himself, and wife of Zebedee." "Mary Magdalene was probably so called from Magdala in Galilee, the town where she may have dwelt; she was not the bad woman restored of Luke 7:39, but had been cured by Jesus of demoniacal possession, and thenceforth was one of those 'which ministered unto him of their substance', (Luke 8:2, 3)."

"When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son!"

"The disciple whom he loved," was John, the writer of this Gospel.

Tradition tells us that John and the mother of Jesus lived together twelve years, and that John did not leave the city, even for the purpose of preaching the Gospel, as long as Mary survived.

Peloubet says: "Each of the seven words on the cross expressed some characteristic element of his nature or his work; the first, 'Father forgive them, for they know not what they do,' expressed his feeling toward his enemies; the second, to the robber, 'To-day thou shalt be with me in Paradise,' expresses his mission to save sinners; the third, 'Behold thy son; behold thy mother,' shows comfort in bereavement; the fourth, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me,' shows he was tempted like we are, but he triumphed; the fifth, 'I thirst,' was an example of patience, and the right expression of a desire or need of relief; the sixth, 'It is finished,' shows us that we can realize we have fought a good fight, and finished our course; the seventh, 'Father, into thy hands I commend my Spirit,' shows how we are to pass from this life."

A Primitive Custom.

The cinchona is robbed of its bark for the sake of the quinine which it contains. Resins, rubbers, barks, fibres, tans, dyes, lacquers, seeds and fruits—the list has no end. Many of these are due to modern enterprise; it is curious to note, however, that wood tar is prepared just as it was in the fourth century before Christ. A bank is chosen and a hole dug, into which the wood is placed and covered with turf. A fire is lighted underneath and the tar slowly drips into barrels placed to receive it.

Where Gout Is Unknown.

Gout is rarely known among the working classes of Ireland. Their immunity from this complaint is thought to be due to the fact that their food consists largely of potatoes.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 4—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Wheat and tares.—Math. xiii, 24-30.

In the parable of the wheat and tares a field is sowed by the husbandman with good seed. But before it springs up an enemy steals in in the darkness of night and sows tares, a very noxious weed resembling the wheat, with the wheat. Both spring up. The servants of the husbandman inquire if they are to pull up the tares, but he, realizing that in so doing they would endanger the wheat also, replied, "Let both grow until the harvest." Then the separation could be safely made. According to Christ's own explanation, the field is the world, the sower of the good seed is the Son of Man, the sower of the tares is satan, the wheat represents the children of the kingdom of heaven, the tares the children of the devil. The harvest is the end of the world, when God will separate the good and the evil.

What does this parable teach? It seems to declare against all discipline in the church, but this cannot be its real significance. Discipline is clearly taught in other portions of the word of God, and Scripture does not contradict Scripture. It must certainly therefore only intend to declare that there should be a spirit of patient forbearance and tolerance in the church and in Christ's kingdom, because of the impossibility of having a perfectly pure church in this world and because an intolerant spirit is calculated to do more harm than good. With this as the key to the solution of the parable several important facts are set forth.

1. Good and bad will always be found in the church and world. Wheat and tares will ever be entirely separated in this life. The perfect state is a Utopian dream. The ideal church is in heaven, not upon earth. The old dispensation had its false prophets as well as its good. The apostles had their Judas and the early Christian church its Ananias and Sapphira. It will always be so in this life.

2. Rash, intolerant attempts to root up evil at any cost do more harm than good. How many blackened pages of history prove the wisdom and truthfulness of Christ's words! Zealous reformers in state and church might profit well by a frequent, prayerful study of this parable.

3. The harvest will come when God will make the separation. Then it will be done without injury. We need never sanction or condone evil, but in the spirit of this parable, which is the spirit of Christ, we can patiently tolerate and endure until God Himself decides the issue, whether He do it now or postpone it till the day of judgment.

Bible Readings.—Job xx, 4-9; Dan. xii, 2, 3; Math. vi, 1-7; vii, 1-6; xxiii, 23-33; xxv, 31-46; John v, 28, 29; vi, 66-71; Acts v, 1-11; I Tim. iv, 1-5; I Pet. ii, 1-3; Rev. iii, 1.

Our Motives.

Every individual should be able to assign a reason for any particular act he may perform, and, while he may blunder in the performance, there should be left the sweet reflection that he meant well. This, however, is not always a sufficient excuse for failure.

There should always be intelligent action, wise planning, connected with a pure motive. Indeed some motives are so imperfectly understood, so crude and so ill considered, that it is exceedingly important to obey the gospel injunction, "Try the spirits." Personal interest may seem to justify the doing of a thing which in itself may be good, but which if done even with a good motive may greatly damage some persons beyond recovery—as, for instance, a wholesome motive may prompt one to acquire a fortune which may involve many questionable methods of the acquirement of property.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Retain Your Ideals.

Let each one obey what is deepest, highest, purest in him. That is the word, the revelation, the Adesh of God. He that allows the consideration of carnal comfort, even of carnal necessity, to stand in the way runs the risk of losing the highest self in him. The struggle for existence in a truly spiritual man points to absolute fidelity to the ideal, while hunger and fatigue stare him in the face. The whole question of worldliness and asceticism centers here. The bread that man eats is a small matter and the sure accompaniment of what he holds as his highest pursuit. But he that sacrifices his ideal to his bread finds when it is too late that man does not live by bread alone. —Episcopal Recorder.

The World Passeth Away.

It is a solemn truth that "the world passeth away and the lusts thereof." The very things the world desires and longs for fail to satisfy. They see that change and decay are busy ever. Their best laid plans are thwarted. Their fountains of delight are constantly failing. Men grow weary of a profitless quest for happiness. There is no solid assurance save as a man's life harmonizes with God's will. "He that doeth the will of God abideth forever."—Christian Inquirer.

Be Contented.

Do not quarrels with your lot in life. Do not complain of its never ceasing cares, its petty environment, the vexations you have to stand, the small and sordid souls you have to live and work with. Above all, do not resent temptation. That is the practice which God appoints you and is having its work in making you patient and humble and generous and unselfish and kind and courteous.—Drummond.

Another Application.

The golden rule applies all around, even to business transactions; therefore, if we wish to keep it, we must be willing to sell to others at the same rates as we would they should sell to us.—Lutheran.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 4, "Wheat and Tares"—Text, Math. xiii, 24-30.

"Let both grow together until the harvest."

No fact is more apparent than that good and evil are closely mingled in this world. Fault is often found with the church and reflections cast on religion because there are unworthy people in the church membership. It is undeniable that many who have at some time made a profession of religion have fallen far away from their first faith and are living sinful lives. They do much harm to the cause of Christ. In many cases they should be firmly dealt with. The same is true of some League members. After kind care has been given them and all proper means of persuading them to correct the evil course has failed such persons should be asked to withdraw and, if necessary, should be expelled from membership. This is not in any sense or degree assuming the position of judge of their future and eternal condition. Nor does it in any manner free us from the obligation to do all we can to save such ones from their sins. It simply cuts them off from the participating in the privileges of membership which are allowable only to those who desire them sufficiently to maintain their obligations. No good end is secured in permitting the openly and notoriously wicked to remain members of the church or League, but much harm is done.

To persecute and injure those who are evil is contrary to the spirit of Christ. The promise of a world where there is no sin is given us, but we have no commission or warrant to try to make this world the place by exterminating those whom we disagree with and think in error. God is still the ruler and lets them grow. Inquisitions have committed many murders, but they never benefited the church nor the world. We have not the wisdom sufficient to always discriminate wheat from tares. Doubtless, if we were to try to rid the world of all evil persons, we would in our zeal and ignorance sacrifice some of the purest and best because of our lack of understanding of their motives and work.

It is also quite probable that the presence of the evil and sin of men helps us by spurring us to resist in our own lives the temptations under which we see others fall and also develops our virtues by calling out our energies to reform our fallen friends. This is not paradise, but preparation for it, and however we may weep over sinners and hope for the day of salvation, we may still thank God that we have been allowed to live in a sinful world, since it brought, through the Father's love, a Saviour from sin. Use more effort in trying to be good wheat yourself, and you will have less inclination to spend time in tare pulling.

The Canadian Superintendent.

One of the most noted, if not the most prominent, men in Canadian Methodism is Dr. Carman. Since the union of all the various branches of the Methodist church in the Dominion there have been no bishops, but he has been general superintendent, which means the same thing, practically, under a different title. He is one of the ablest men in the denomination and deservedly held in high esteem. He was born in Ontario, in 1833. He is a graduate of Victoria university. He has been chancellor of Albert university and bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church of Canada before the consolidations. He is deeply interested in the League and during the past season made many addresses to chapters in California during a trip to that state, where flowers were blooming while his own land was white with snow.

Help a Little.

A kind word will often reach a heart seemingly closed to all good influences. It is impossible to tell by outward appearances all a person's feelings. The most hopeless and hardened, as we think them, may, after all, be accessible. Our carelessness and disregard are often as much in fault as their hardness. A touch of sympathy shows a brotherly heart, and this will thaw and warm a soul disheartened and almost discouraged. It costs you some effort to break through your reserve and approach another. It is hard to "talk religion," but if you will try it a little you will find your own interest growing and heart becoming enlisted in the work. For your own sake, for the next one's sake, help a little. Not the big things at first, but the little things of kind greeting and helpful service, are your task.

Sow an act and reap a habit; sow a habit and reap a character; sow a character and reap a destiny.—Thackeray.

Railroad Men May Strike.

Jersey City, N. J., June 2.—Unless there is a radical change in the policy which seems to have been mapped out by the management of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, it is not at all unlikely that a big strike will result. Conferences of employes have been held and a committee appointed to confer with President Maxwell, and report back to the main body at once.

Arrested in Kentucky.

Clifton, W. Va., June 2.—The alleged thief who broke into Tedroe's boarding house and stole five gold watches and $100 in cash from employes of the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Railroad Company was captured at Catlettsburg, Ky., by a Columbus (Ohio) officer, and returned to Meigs County.

DOLLS OF NOTED WOMEN.

The Tender Affections Bestowed on Their Little Wax Figures.

Miss Jean Ingelow possessed a special waxen favorite that she named Amelia. Amelia went everywhere Jean did, and she was introduced to all the agreeable people who came to the Ingelow house, her dresses were always made from a piece of whatever cloth Jean wore, and when games or merry times were enjoyed in the nursery Amelia was placed wherever she could take in the fun with the rest of the young folks. An ill-advised bath on a hot day was so hopelessly destructive to Amelia's painted beauty and sawdust constitution that the Ingelow family pronounced her quite dead. Her funeral was well attended, and for many months Jean sorrowed for Amelia and refused ever to take another doll to her heart.

Not only her own big doll family, but all dolls, fine or shabby, large or small, black or white, which came Annie Thackeray's way shared the tender affection of her overflowing heart. When a very little girl she believed dolls were quite as much alive as real babies, and if they lost heads or arms the missing members would grow again.

Florence Nightingale's dolls all enjoyed very indifferent health. Time and again disease stalked through the nursery and laid the dolls so low that their lives were quite despaired of, but the little girl, who was to grow up to be a ministering angel to thousands in real suffering, always pulled her babies through their worst attacks.

When, at 14 years of age, George Sand heard some one laugh at the idea of so big a girl still playing with dolls, like Jane Welsh, she concluded to give them up. With tears and hearty hugs she bade every one of them adieu and locked them in a garret closet.

Tiny Houses.

The most magnificent palaces built by man for dwelling places sink into insignificance when compared with some of the houses constructed by insects. An interesting example is the brickmaker, who lays bricks with the skill of a mason, making a house of tiny bricks or pellets laid regularly and so evenly there is no chinks between them. It makes its own bricks and lays them up with no help. These brick houses are usually fastened to the leaf of some water plant.

An insect called the floscule lives in a glass house which is often found broken by naturalists—whether from the stones of some enemy or not is unknown. The floscule has a long foot stalk which it fastens to a water plant and remains moored the rest of its life. It is very sensitive and at the slightest alarm retreats into its glass dwelling. When it emerges it seems to be a film of smoke at first for there are glasslike filaments attached to its lobed body which search for food in the water which is stowed beneath the insect in its queer transparent home.

THE NATION'S OWN.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West Exhibition Soon to Appear in Elizabeth.

The appearance of "Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World" at Elizabeth, June 6th, will be the occasion of an immense outpouring of people. For this important event the various transportation lines are making extra preparations to handle the crowds and will offer very low excursion rates, and in some instances special trains will be run.

The Buffalo Bill Show, always an instructive and interesting exhibition, has added many new and thrilling features for this season's tour, the most noteworthy and timely being a magnificent reproduction of the Battle of San Juan, which will be presented with great accurateness as to detail, and participated in by hundreds of actual survivors of that historic struggle, including a number of Roosevelt's Rough Riders. With the realistic scenery, the din and roar of the musketry and cannon, the fierce battle raging all the while, the spectator will easily imagine himself at the very scene of the struggle. All the wild west features that have made this exhibition the talk of two continents for years past are still retained, while many new people from strange lands have been added, including a number of Filipinos and Hawaiians.

MONEY THE ROOT OF THIS EVIL.

Argument About Payment of $5 Caused a Fight.

Samuel Neiger, the Italian who was arrested yesterday and brought before Justice Nash, charged with assaulting James Myerander, on Decoration Day, will be given a hearing tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Myerander says that Neiger was under the influence of liquor, and came up to his house that day bent on picking a fight. Neiger boarded with Myerander for several months before his marriage, which occurred recently, and owed him $25.

While the landlord was out Neiger removed part of his effects, so the plaintiff says, but being caught in the act, his brother-in-law paid $20 of the $25 and then Myerander permitted the other to remove his things.

The balance of $5 bothered Neiger, so when he came to see Myerander Tuesday the conversation turned upon that topic and ended in Neiger's alleged assault.

Myerander is an old man, and could not defend himself. His son came to the rescue, however, and beat Neiger off. William Newcorn is Myerander's counsel, and Murphy & Blatz will look after Neiger.

Rivalry Among Shiners.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 2.—Special Officer Dougherty, of the railroad force, was in Westfield last night to settle the dispute between the rival Italian bootblacks at the station. Louigi has been sole bootblack for a year past. Frank Severadge, lately released from Trenton, where he was sent for shooting a man at the Elizabeth station, claims priority, and has established a rival chair. So far the contestants have not come to blows, but they nearly pulled the clothing off of a prospective customer. The matter will be referred to the superintendent for settlement.

Many Routine Matters Were Transacted Last Night.

DETAILED STREET REPORT.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR PAYMENT OF AVENUE ASSESSMENTS.

Petition Received for Macadamizing Orchard Avenue and a Complaint About Westervelt Avenue—$150 Voted to Warren Engine Company to Help Buy the Members New Uniforms.

The warm weather of last evening did not affect the amount of business to be transacted and the session was a little longer then usual. All the members were present including the Mayor and Corporation Counsel.

Clerk Rowley presented the report of Collector George F. Brown, which also includes the clerk's report. It is as follows: Taxes and interest, $957.92; special school tax, $243; Board of Health, $763; Watchung avenue assessment, $1,611 59; rent of 106 Duer street, $10; license, $30; fines, $5; received from Plainfield Street Railway, $10; received from Somerset county, account of borough licenses, $855; balance May 1st; $4,561.74; disbursements, $5,262.73; cash June 1st, $3,038.85; borough fund, $1,626.21; Watchung avenue fund, $1,412.64.

Among the petitions received was one from Henry A. McGee and other residents of Orchard avenue, asking to have their street macadamized, and agreeing to pay their proportionate share for the work. In a long series of complaints some unknown person presented a petition to the Council asking to have Westervelt avenue between Grandview and Mountain avenues macadamized. The petition was presented through Mr. Swackhamer, who did not care to divulge the petitioner's name. The paper cited the awful condition of the street in the spring and summer, when it was sometimes impossible to get through the street on account of the mud especially. The petitioner stated that the former administration had agreed to macadamize the street, but nothing had been done.

Mayor Smalley attested to the truth of the statements made in the petition, but Mr. Valiant objected to being cited as a part of a former administration that had agreed to macadamize the street. The matter was simply received and filed.

Wm. Newcorn, from Miantonomoh Tribe, I. O. R., petitioned the Council to appoint a committee of three to meet with the general Fourth of July committee, and Mayor Smalley left the matter in the hands of President Swackhamer.

Chairman Clark, of the street committee, presented a detailed account of the work accomplished in his department through the past month. During April $691.58 was expended and $1,255.26 was spent in May, of $3,500 appropriated to the street work, $1,946.84 has been expended, leaving a balance of $1,553 16 on hand. During the month there was used 858 tons and 1,775 pounds of crushed stone in various parts of the borough, and the sum of $456.93 was expended for labor.

Mr. Clark reported under the head of miscellaneous macadamizing the sum of $9, and explained by saying that a few persons desiring that fine crushed stone be placed in front of their property from the curb to where the macadamizing begins had agreed to pay the cost if the borough would do the work, and thus it was done. Mr. Burtis thought this a bad practice to establish. Mr. Valiant thought if the street committee used good judgment there was no harm to result, although he agreed with Mr. Burtis in a measure. Mr. Clark stated further that the people for whom this work was done were reponsible, and while the borough was repairing and macadamizing streets it was an easy matter to do the little extra work and thus have it done right.

Mr. Valiant offered a resolution to the effect that a warrant for $3,000, certificate and interest on account of Watchung avenue improvement, be drawn, and another resolution that such an amount be drawn to pay note of $3,000 on account of the Watchung avenue improvement, which is now due.

Mr. Valiant stated that warrants had been drawn for a sum of $2,900, and there was only $2 500 to the credit of the borough.

Mr. Rogers made a motion that the Council appropriate the sum of $150 for the benefit of the members of Warren Engine Company to assist them in purchasing new uniforms. He said

SCOTCH PLAINS AWAKE.

REV. M. M. SHOTT'S COTTAGE PRAYER MEETINGS A SUCCESS.

His Efforts are Gradually Working Up to the Point of Inaugurating an Organized Crusade Against Vice.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 3 —The cottage prayer meetings recently inaugurated by the Rev. G. M. Shott, pastor of the Baptist church, have been fairly well attended this week considering the warm weather. As The Press stated a few days ago, these meetings are held for the purpose of awakening the citizens of the town to a realization of the prevalence of a state of immorality that Mr. Shott claims has existed here for a number of years. While there is a slight attempt on the part of some of the citizens, who are not in sympathy with Mr. Shott, to make light of his efforts and to discourage him in continuing the good work, it is believed that the majority of the citizens will give him their support. Already many of the best people have expressed themselves in sympathy with the reverend gentleman in his laudable efforts to precipitate a crusade that will result in eradicating the evil which Mr. Shott maintains now exists.

The outcome of this movement will be watched with interest by all. That it will be a benefit to the community cannot be denied. It is expected that Rev. Mr. Shott will give some plain talk to the members of his congregation at tomorrow morning's services. The energetic efforts he has already put forth are believed to have sown the seed that cannot but prove beneficial to the moral as well as the spirtual welfare of Scotch Plains.

CURIOUS PRANK OF NEW MARKET LAD WHO WANTED A SWIM.

Told His Parents That Big Boy Threw Him in, But This Proved to Be a Fable—Father Saw Him Do the Trick.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, June 3—The ends to which the young lads about here will go to to enjoy a swim in the lake, was well illustrated this week in the person of Roy Dunham, a ten-year-old boy, who has been so anxious for a dip in the water these hot days, that he has not stopped to take off his clothes but has gone in the water wearing coat, knee pants and underclothing.

Roy's parents used to think it strange afternoons lately when their boy would return from school dripping wet, with his clothes dropping water at every step, and more surprised when he would tell them that he had been forced to take an involuntary bath at the hands of a big boy, who, the little fellow alleged, threw him into the pond.

When this performance had been repeated three times, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, his parents resolved to see who this great bully was, and Roy's father accordingly walked down towards the schoolhouse yesterday afternoon about time for school to be dismissed, to see who was playing this dastardly trick on his boy.

When Roy came out of school his father followed him down the road towards the lake, but as no big boy was around the elder Dunham concluded that Roy's persecutor was not on hand that day. But he persisted in dogging the boy's footsteps until he reached the pond, when what was his surprise to see the lad plunge boldly into the water and sport about in its cooling depths until ready to go out. Then the boy hurried off towards home and doubtless would have told the same tale over again only the father reached home as soon as he did and administered a sound spanking to his young hopeful. It is needless to say that next time Roy wants to bathe in New Market lake he will enter the water minus his garments.

THROUGH TRAINS TO RUN TO NEWARK

Central Yields to Request of Newark Business Men.

IT WILL BE EXPERIMENTAL.

PASSENGER AGENT BALDWIN WRITES TO BOARD OF TRADE.

The Service Will Begin June 25th—Trains Will Leave Plainfield at 10:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m Returning From Newark at 4:30 and 5:30 p. m.—Newark Business Men are Jubilant Over the Change.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, June 3.—The Central Railroad has yielded to the demand from Newark for a through train service between this city and Plainfield. It will put on such through trains, beginning June 25th, and has signified its intention to do so by a letter to the Board of Trade.

General Passenger Agent Baldwin says that the trains will be put on experimentally. This is entirely satisfactory to the merchants of this city that have been moving in the matter.

The letter sent by Mr. Baldwin to the committee on commercial affairs of the Board, which is in answer to the request of the committee, is as follows:

"In answer to yours of May 19th ultimo I would say careful consideration in connection with the issuance of our next train schedule will be given to the request of the Newark Board of Trade for the establishment of a continuous passenger train starting from Plainfield between 10:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., and a corresponding train returning from Newark between 4:30 p. m. and 5:30 p. m.

"It is not out of place to add that this company's policy has always had in view the adjusting of its passenger train service so as to come nearest to meeting the reasonable requirements of its patrons in keeping with which it some years ago established a service of the same character as you now solicit, which was not a success and it therefore became necessary to so change the time that an excellent service was accomplished by transferring at Elizabethport, which service is still in force.

"Our disposition, however, is to again establish the continuous service experimentally, which will become effective from June 25th, 1899."

This letter is signed by H. P. Baldwin, general passenger agent.

PLAINFIELD RED MEN VISITED NEW BRUNSWICK BRAVES.

Delegations From Both Local Tribes Journeyed in a Stage—Speeches and a Good Time Generally Enjoyed.

A large delegation of Red Men visited New Brunswick last evening, where they were royally entertained by Shanda Tribe, No. 180. Two stages and a private carriage were used to carry about 30 members of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, No. 193, and an equal number of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, while quite a number went by wheel.

Entertaining speeches were delivered by Great Senior Sagamore Newcorn, Deputy Great Sachem Westphal, Sachem Houseman and Justice V. W. Nash, of Plainfield. A humorous recitation by John Carney, of Tribe No. 193, convulsed the Red Men and led to a renewal of the "pipe of peace." Music and a substantial collation followed. The Plainfield Red Men report a pleasant evening.

HORSE'S PREDICAMENT.

Fell Through a Platform and Was Astride a Beam When Found.

One day last week one horse of a valuable team owned by John Morton, the ice dealer, met with an accident that nearly caused the loss of its life. Sometime before 4 o'clock in the morning the animal got out of its stall and backed out on a platform used as a place to wash wagons. The heavy weight of the animal caused a break in the platform, and the animal fell through astride of some beams. He remained in that position until 4 o'clock, when he was discovered by the men when he went to feed the horses. Mr Morton was called and together with the aid of a veterinary surgeon the horse was extricated from his position. After several hours' hard work the horse was put in a fair way to recovery. This team is a very valuable one, as Mr Morton paid $400 for the two horses.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 3—Bella Anderson, alias Carrie Jones, who kidnapped Marion Clark, was arrested at White Oak Ridge, six miles from Summit, in Union county, last night by State Detective Edward Kelly, and was brought to the Union county jail in this city and locked up at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

As soon as Detective Kelly had bid goodbye to the young woman who has set the world agog by kidnapping the baby, he came into the County Clerk's office and was there seen by a Daily Press representative, to whom he told the exciting story of the arrest and the thrilling incidents that followed one another in rapid succession since that time.

The Anderson girl is well-known by Detective Kelly. He has followed the kidnapping case from the very beginning, with the idea that it might develop a New Jersey end, and he therefore acquainted himself with every detail so as to be ready to act if there were any clews to arise in his section.

After the arrest of Wilson and his wife at Sloatsburg, Thursday, and the facts that leaked out in relation to their case, Detective Kelly became came convinced that the Anderson girl was none other than the much-wanted Carrie Jones. Late yesterday afternoon Kelly located Miss Anderson at the home of a farmer at Oak Ridge.

He immediately went before Justice of the Peace Hughes and swore out a warrant for her arrest. Getting his horse and buggy he drove rapidly to the place where the suspect was staying. He found her as he had expected. She was taking life easy and did not seem to be in any fear of arrest.

"Why, how do you do?" exclaimed Miss Anderson when Detective Kelly met her.

The detective nodded his head in response to the greeting, and said stiffly:

"Bell, I've got a warrant for your arrest and I want you to come with me. You're wanted for the kidnapping of the Clark baby.

The girl gave a little scream and swooned for a moment, but she quickly recovered her composure and said that she was ready to go. Before the start back to Summit was made a number of reporters arrived at the house, having been "tipped" off as to where the detective had gone. On the way back the girl confessed to being "Carrie Jones" and to having kidnapped the Clark baby. She retained her composure to a remarkable degree. She implicated the "Wilsons," who are none other than Mr. and Mrs. Mark Beauregard, and said that they had planned the kidnapping and she had acted as their instrument in securing the baby.

Detective Kelly took the girl to his house and kept her under guard over night. During that time she made a confession, and swore to it before Jus-

OLD MRS. HART GETS PART OF HER MONEY.

A Long Disputed Case Has Been Settled.

BEEN IN CHANCERY COURT.

JUSTICE HART RETAINS POSSESSION OF $4,000.

Mrs. Hart Formerly Lived at Scotch Plains and It Was Alleged That Her Westfield Nephew Obtained Possession of Her Property by Undue Influence and Improper Compensation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 3.—After pending in the State Courts for the past three years, the action of Sarah Ann Hart, eighty years of age, formerly a resident of Scotch Plains, against Justice Levi Hart and wife, of Westfield, to compel the return of property valued at about $10,000 on the charge of using undue influence in securing it without proper compensation, has been settled. The case was heard last before Vice Chancellor Reed.

Three years ago the aged Mrs. Hart was living in Scotch Plains with a demented son. Justice Hart was her nephew and he induced his aunt to bring her son to Westfield and live with his family. After she had been there a short time Mrs. Hart deeded all of her property over to Hart and his wife, in consideration of the agreement that she and her son should always have a home with them. Soon after this the aged woman's brother at Bound Brook heard of the proceedings and induced his sister to leave her nephew and come and live with him. Subsequently suit was brought against Justice Hart to have the property reconveyed to his aunt, it being alleged that undue influence and improper compensation had been used to secure control of it.

Justice Hart has been fighting the case bitterly, but within the last few days the case has been settled satisfactorily to the parties concerned. The terms of settlement required Justice Hart to return to his aunt property to the value of $3,100, and the balance of her previous possessions, amounting to about $4,000, is to be retained by him. Mrs. Hart will be cared for by other relatives in the future.

ROYAL BLUE'S CLOSE CALL

YOUTHFUL TRAIN WRECKERS OBSTRUCT THE TRACK.

They Wanted "to See the Train Go Up in the Air"—Obstruction Removed Just in Time — Confession Secured.

Passengers on the Royal Blue Line express train that passes through this city between 11 and 12 a. m. will be surprised to learn that but for the watchfulness of a railroad employe last Saturday the train might have been wrecked. The story came out yesterday when Detective Pearson, of the Jersey City police force, arrested Emil Mades, fourteen years old, of No. 3 Cliff street.

The boy admitted that he and another boy had put an obstruction on the track for the purpose as he explained of "seeing the train go up in the air."

According to young Mades, he and Harry Hausen, aged ten years, of No. 97 Fulton avenue, placed a piece of iron about a foot long and weighing about seventy pounds, crosswise on the track under the Greenville bridge. William Wilson, a trackwalker, removed the obstruction and described the boys to the police. After Mades confessed Hausen was arrested.

ADAM WANTS A TRIAL.

Proposes to Compel Pierson to Try to Prove Charge of Profanity.

The examination of Adam Fritz, charged by Oscar F. Pierson with using profane language in public, has been adjourned to next Wednesday morning. When the accused was arraigned this morning before Judge Runyon in City Court Mr. Pierson expressed a willingness to withdraw the charge.

At this suggestion Fritz became highly indignant and in an excited manner declared that he wished to have Mr. Pierson produce his witnesses to prove to the court that he had used the language charged.

Adam is full of fight and maintains that he is being abused and persecuted.

BY THE SAD SEA WAVES.

SEASHORE PEOPLE PREPARING FOR A BUSY SEASON.

Property Owners are Able to Get High Rents This Season—Problem of Band Concerts in Asbury Park.

Asbury Park hotel proprietors have more inquiries at this season of the year than have ever been known before. Real estate agents are kept on the move every day showing and renting cottages. Property owners have been able to get more rent for their cottages this year than has been the custom. Unfortunately for those who own small stores the demand for this class of property this year is comparatively weak. This can be accounted for by the fact that the number of such stores have increased so rapidly of late that the supply far exceeds the demand.

While Asbury Park and Ocean Grove will enjoy an era of prosperity, the same is true at Allenhurst, Deal, Bradley Beach, Avon, Belmar and other adjacent resorts. The large number of new cottages erected at Allenhurst within the last year and the extensive improvements made to Allenhurst Inn, represent an expenditure of at least $200,000. The Spear property, which has but recently come into the possession of the Coast Land and Improvement Company, has been transferred into a colony by itself, with new buildings going up and a grand exhibition of landscape architecture. At Deal the same activity is manifest. New cottages are being built on every side.

The City Council is just now wrestling with the question of getting a band to give concerts in the Asbury and Fifth avenue pavilions alternately during the season. So many applications have been received that the music committee is in a quandary to know which band to recommend. "Founder" Bradley has drawn the line on Italian bands.

THE BRAKEMEN PROTEST

DISSATISFIED BECAUSE VANLIEW IS BAGGAGEMASTER.

Old Trainmen Complaining Because He was Not in Line for Promotion—Superintendent Won't Treat With Committee.

A committee appointed by the dissatisfied Jersey Central Railroad men went to the station at Communipaw, Jersey City, yesterday to have an interview with Superintendent Freck. The committee was not successful. A subordinate informed the committee that Mr. Freck would not meet any committee, but would deal with the men individually. It is said that the committee will try to see President Maxwell next Monday.

It is understood among the railroad men in this city that one of the things that is contributing to the dissatisfaction among the employes of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, especially those engaged in the passenger train service, is the action taken by the new officials of the company in relation to Frederick VanLiew, of LaGrande avenue, this city.

For several years past Mr. VanLiew has been stationmaster at Communipaw, but under the new regime he was recently removed from that place. Subsequently he was put to work again, but as a baggagemaster. Inasmuch as VanLiew was not in line for promotion in train service, not having acted as a brakeman, the brakemen immediately charged that it was an injustice to make him a baggageman over their heads.

It is understood that the case was called to the attention of the brakeman's organization, and the union has taken up the matter in the hope of preventing a like occurrence in the future.

Saw the Queen.

Mrs. Thos. W. Morrison, of Plainfield, formerly of this city, in writing to a friend in this city from London, says that she had an excellent opportunity to see Queen Victoria when driving through Hyde Park. The Queen at the time was within twelve feet of Mrs. Morrison, and she says that Her Majesty looked very well indeed for one who is eighty years old. There was no crowd or excitement incident to the Queen's appearance, which Mrs. Morrison thinks was in strange contrast with what would have occurred in this country were the President's wife to go out driving in a public park.—New Brunswick Home News.

ONCE PROMINENT IN DEMOCRATIC POLITICS IN MIDDLESEX.

Suddenly Overcome While Working in His Garden and Died Before Physician Could Get to His Side—Engaged in Jewelry Business in New York—Leaves a Widow and Two Children.

John M. Dayton, a well-known citizen of Plainfield, died suddenly at his home, 31 Elm place, early this morning. Mr. Dayton was an early riser, and this morning, as had been his custom since the advent of warm weather, he went into his garden to work. This was about 5:30 o'clock. About an hour later he was seen by some members of the family to pitch forward and fall. His wife hastened to his aid and found Mr. Dayton unconscious. J. E. Townsend, the mable dealer of Front street, assisted in removing the unfortunate man to the house and Dr. Endicott, the family physician, was notified. Before he reached the house Mr. Dayton died. Death was due to apoplexy.

The deceased is survived by a wife and two children—a son and daughter. He was about 53 years of age and a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, and was also an attendant at the First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Dayton formerly resided in Dunellen, and while there was prominent in the Democratic party of Middlesex county.

Mr. Dayton's health had been considered good and his death came as a great surprise and shock to his family and friends.

COUNTY STOPS CITY WORK.

Must Get Freeholders' Permission to Disturb Somerset Street Bridge.

This morning Freeholders Logan and Lutkins, of Somerset county, and Freeholder Tier, of Union county, met at the Somerset street bridge, and discussed the advisability of allowing the city the privilege of making an opening into the side of the stone bridge on Somerset street so that the surface water from Park avenue and adjoining streets could be run off into the brook. This action was taken owing to the fact that Street Commissioner Gavett intended to go ahead and do the work without obtaining permission.

The work was stopped yesterday, hence the meeting of the members of the Freeholders. It was the opinion of the Freeholders that permission would gladly be given, but they are desirous that Contractor Ferrier, of New Market, a master mechanic, shall do the work. In view of these facts there will be a meeting Monday morning of the bridge committees from both Union and Somerset counties when a decision will be reached. The Freeholders want the work done right, and they know if Mr. Ferrier does it there will be no trouble. He has done considerable work for the Freeholders and they want him to do this job.

JURY WAS MIXED.

Action of Whitaker Against Powers is Not Yet Settled.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 3.—The case of Luther M. Whitaker against M. Powers, of Plainfield, came up for trial in the township rooms yesterday afternoon before Judge Toucey. Walter Hetfield, of Plainfield, looked after the interests of Powers and Paul Q. Oliver appeared for Whitaker. The suit was to determine the ownership of a certain carload of flagstone and Mr. Whitaker was given the verdict. There was some trouble in regard to giving the verdict. The jury came in and said that they found for the plaintiff in execution, but after they had filed out of the room one of them was talking to Lawyer Oliver when he discovered that they had made a mistake as they wished to find for the claimant in execution. This called for a large smile on the part of Mr. Oliver and he had the jury returned to the court room. Mr. Hetfield made several forcible remarks in regard to the jury and said that he would carry the matter to the higher courts.

William Pearson, who has been visiting his son, Frank Pearson, of East Fifth street, sailed today on the Lucania for Manchester, England.

SON OF ARKANSAS JUDGE.

The Alleged Kidnaper of Baby Marion Clark is Named Barrows.

HE HAS MANY ALIASES.

Has a Splendid Education But Has Caused His Father and Friends Much Trouble and Worry.

Found Guilty of Blowing Up Little Rock Athletic Assocation's Club House With Dynamite—Verdict Reversed on Second Trial — Kidnaping Had Been Planned At a NeW York Hotel.

New York, June 3.—Mrs. Cosgriff has positively identified the woman known as Jennie Wilson as one of the kidnappers of Baby Marion Clarke.

The identification was made in the New City Jail.

The kidnapping trio—Wilson, his wife and Belle Anderson—lived since last August at 13 Varick place—the Mills Hotel Annex.

It was here the kidnapping plot was formed. Wilson, known at Varick Place house as Beauregard, told the hotel people that he was a reporter on an evening paper.

Belle Anderson, who answers the description of Carrie Jones, the nurse, left the Varick place house three weeks ago. Wilson's wife left ten days ago, at the time the baby was stolen, and Wilson was last seen there last Saturday.

Wilson's real name is George Beauregard Barrows. His father is a Judge and bank President in Little Rock, Ark. After stabbing a man and blowing up a building with dynamite in his native town he came to this city.

Four years ago, under an assumed name of James Arthur Wilson, he married in Jersey City Addie Margaret McNally, daughter of an editor at Goshen, N. Y.

Since then he has been employed as a private detective in a Broadway store, in the circulation department of an evening paper, and was one of Capt. McCullagh's election deputies.

Recently he drove an electric cab. His audacity is shown by the fact that after his wife was arrested and Baby Clarke recovered he came to New York, hired a cab and drove to the Clarke residence.

The trio were all members of the Salvation Army. Belle Anderson, or Carrie Jones, has not been found.

The officers at New City refuse to deliver the kidnappers to the New York officers, saying they must stand trial there.

Carrie Jones, the nurse girl who disappeared when Marion Clarke, was kidnapped on Sunday, May 21, has been found in Summit, N. J., at her aunt's house. She at first denied that she was Carrie Jones or that she had ever known the Clarkes. On being closely questioned, however, she broke down and confessed that she was Carrie Jones and that she had abducted the child. She was taken in the house of Justice of the Peace E. B. Kelly, where she was detained for the night.

Miss Jones says that the plot for stealing the child was planned by Barrows and his wife and that the child was to be held for ransom and that she was to have half of what money they got out of the deal in the way of rewards.

Society Event in Manila

Manila, June 3.—The United States Philippines Commission gave one of the most brilliant balls Manila has ever seen. It was one of a series of entertainments intended to foster friendship between the Americans and the natives. The Commission has the handsomest residence in Manila, overlooking the harbor. The grounds were illuminated and the house was decorated. The newly appointed Judge, Gen. Otis, a number of other American officers and many wealthy natives were present.

His Poem Settled His Fate

Washington, June 3.—During the examination into the sanity of Dr. Thomas G. Addison, son of the late Dr. Addison, for many years rector of Trinity, here before Judge Bradley, the doctor had a fair chance of getting free until he asked permission to read an original poem. Permission was given, but at the twentieth stanza the Judge had him stopped and committed him to an asylum.

Tried to Sell Green Goods.

New Albany, Ind., June 3.—John Anderson, of Evansville, was arrested here by Chief of Police Adams on a charge of attempting to sell green goods. Anderson had been trying to sell Benjamin Jenke $100 worth of bogus money for $15 in legal coin. He claimed that he was representing Louisville people. Commissioner Cardwill bound him over to the Federal Court. A number of checks, drawn on the Bank of Commerce, at Louisville, were found in the prisoner's pocket.

Died at Son's Wedding.

Philadelphia, June 3.—Samuel C. Le Maistre, aged fifty-two years, of Asbury Park, N. J., died at the wedding reception of his son, Charles H. Le Maistre, and Miss Florence H. Clothier. The festivities were drawing to a close and Mr. Le Maistre was bidding the bridal couple good night when he sank unconscious into his son's arms, dying in a few minutes. Death was due to heart disease, superinduced by excitement.

Mother and Child Burned

Kansas City, Mo., June 3.—Mrs. E. H. Bland, of 1434 East Eighteenth street, was fatally burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove. She was filling the reservoir from a jug when the fluid ignited. A child, 1 year old, which she held in her arm while tampering with the stove, was severely burned.

PRICE MAKES SCENE.

Charges Moss With Subornation of Perjury —Ejected From Mazet Inquiry Room.

New York, June 3.—You led Dr. Parkhurst into that Grand Jury room to commit perjury," Captain Price shouted at Lawyer Moss in the Mazet inquiry.

In the uproar which followed, Moss demanded that Price and his lawyer H. C. Henderson, be ejected from the court room.

"I stand on my rights as an American citizen!" declared Henderson. "I will not go!"

When two sergeants-at-arms tried to put Henderson out, he fought them. The whole court room was in a terrific uproar. The members of the committee jumped to the bench, all shouting at once.

"He has drawn a knife!" cried Mazet suddenly.

"Captain Price, I call on you as an officer of the law to preserve order and put this man out of the room!"

Captain Price led his own lawyer out of the room, still protesting.

The knife was one with which Henderson had been sharpening a pencil. He had put it in his pocket before the struggle began.

Secretary Alger May Resign

Washington, June 3.—Secretary Alger has left Washington for a three weeks' visit to Detroit, and it is said that upon this trip depends whether he will stay in the Cabinet or not. The Secretary is going to make a tour through Michigan to investigate the situation in regard to his Senatorial prospects, and decide whether or not he will enter the campaign against Senator McMillan. If he decides to enter the Senatorial race, it is said, his resignation from the Cabinet will follow.

A Call to Silver Democrats.

Louisville, June 3.—The most important action taken at the session of the Ohio Valley League of Bimetallic Clubs was the appointing of a committee to arrange for a meeting of representative Democrats of the United States to formulate a plan of campaign for 1900. It was practically decided to call the meeting for July 20 at Chicago.

President Tarvin appointed the following committee: Gen. E. B. Finley, Ohio; John P. Altgeld, Illinois; George Fred Williams, Massachusetts; John Overmeyer, Indiana; W. J. Semonin, Kentucky, and Allen W. Clark, Indiana. There can be little doubt as to what sort of a platform the league desires. Free coinage at 16 to 1 will not be overshadowed by the anti-trust plank, but the latter will receive much prominence. Planks demanding Government and municipal ownership of franchises and anti-expansion laws will be the other important features.

Improvements at Santiago.

Santiago De Cuba, June 3.—Work was begun on the 150-foot extension of the Royal Dock by Mr. Bennett of New York. The repairing of the structure was also commenced. About $40,000 has been appropriated for the improvements to the dock, and of this sum nearly $15,000 was subscribed by the importers of this city. When the work is finished deep draught vessels will be able to load and discharge at the dock, thus saving much time and lighterage charges. Work is also under way on the Marina street Government warehouse. This building, which will be 400 feet long, will be used by the Commissary Department. At present it is necessary to store everything in open sheds, which results in damage to many goods.

Handsome Woman Suicides

G. K. NASH FOR GOVERNOR

The Ohio Republican Convention Nominates Him on Second Ballot.

THE HANNA CANDIDATE.

Ex-Congressman Caldwell, of Cincinati, the Convention's Choice for Lieutenant Governor.

The Nominee for First Place on Ticket Formerly Attorney General of Ohio—Dougherty Gives the Winning Candidate a Hard Race on First Ballot—The Platform Lauds Army and Navy.

Columbus, O., June 3.—George K. Nash of Columbus, the candidate of Senator Hanna and the National Administration for Governor of Ohio, was nominated for that office by the Republican State Convention in session here. Mr. Nash was formerly Attorney-General of the State, and was subsequently made Supreme Court Justice. He was a leading candidate for Governor in 1895 when Gov. Asa S. Bushnell was nominated.

Nash was nominated on the second ballot.

The nomination of Judge Nash was made possible by the desertion from the anti-Hanna forces of George B. Cox, the Cincinnati leader. He had been counted with the anti-Administration crowd, and, holding eighty-six votes from Hamilton county, was a power in the convention.

On the first ballot Daugherty received 211 votes and Nash 289, with 82 for Nevin, 76 for Jones and 66 for Douglas. As it required 407 to nominate, a second ballot was taken. The full strength of Hamilton county was not given Nash on the first ballot but the fact that he secured any recognition caused many of the smaller counties, on the second ballot, to throw their votes for Nash.

After several efforts order was restored and the call on the second ballot began. On this ballot Cuyahoga county voted: Nash, 13; Daugherty, 41; Douglass, 2; Nevin, 2. Hamilton county went solid—86 votes—for Nash and the convention went crazy. When Lorain county was reached Nash had 502 votes and Daugherty 130, and a few minutes later the necessary 407 had been cast in Judge Nash's favor. A great roar went up from the Franklin county candidate's hundreds of friends, and pandemonium reigned in the convention for five minutes. It was Stark county's votes which settled the nomination.

The second ballot resulted: Nash, 461; Daugherty, 298; Jones, 27 Douglas, 43; Nevin, 38; Darban, 31. After Stark county's vote had given Nash 408 votes, 407 being necessary to a choice, James W. Holcomb strove for five minutes for recognition so that he might move to make Nash's nomination unanimous. The chairman, however, insisted that the roll-call should proceed, and the Secretary went on with the call amid the greatest turmoil.

As soon as the call was completed Halcomb secured recognition and moved on behalf of Daugherty to make the nomination unanimous.

This was done with an earsplitting whoop. The second ballot was not announced. As the choice had been made unanimous, Daugherty ascended to the stage and promised loyal and unswerving support to Nash.

Ex-Congressman John A. Caldwell of Cincinnati was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor.

The platform was adopted amid great enthusiasm. It reaffirms the St. Louis platform and indorses earnestly the administration of President McKinley and lauds the achievement of our army and navy in the war with Spain. The platform commends the President for his modification of the civil service rules and demands the enactment of a law similar to the Hanna Subsidy bill.

Requisition for Rainey Refused

Springfield, Ill., June 3.—Gov. Tanner has denied the requisition for the extradition of Dr. James M. Rainey, who is wanted in Nebraska for embezzlement or larceny as bailee. Rainey is now under arrest at Chicago. The Governor bases his refusal to grant the requisition on two grounds—first, that the prosecuting witness has been engaged with the prisoner as a partner in business, and between partners there can be no embezzlement, and, second, because the requisition papers were not drawn up in the proper form.

Ross was found to be short $1,200 on money orders and $600 on cancellations when the inspectors went to investigate. Ross fled, and has never been apprehended.

TROOPS MUST LEAVE CUBA

Major Castellanos Wants to Drive United States Soldiers Off the Island.

ALMOST STARTED RIOT.

He Rode Through Guanabacoa and Harangued the People in the Public Square.

Greeted With Storm of Hisses and Some of His Hearers Directed Stones, Eggs, Vegetables and Other Small Fruit at His Head—No Change at Present in Cuban Rule.

Havana, June 3.—A conference between Governor-General Brooke and Gens. Wilson, Wood, Lee, Carpenter and Ludlow was held at the Salon Trocha, and Gen. Brooke was assured that affairs throughout the island were in a satisfactory condition. Gen. Brooke's main object in calling the conference was to unify the work of the commanders of the different provinces and to seek to make the island Government more centralized. This proposal was opposed by the Generals who maintained that each of them knew best the needs of his own province. They urged that permission be granted to them to use their own judgment as far as possible. Gen. Brooke finally agreed that this would be the best plan.

The idea of establishing a rural guard was voted down as unnecessary. The plan to inaugurate public works for the purpose of relieving needy Cubans was deemed inadvisable. Such works as are necessary will be taken up as occasion demands. There was on discussion of the payment of the Cuban Army, as this is considered to be satisfactorily progressing.

The Generals all expressed the opinion that there was no necessity for a change in the present system of administration, they considering it the best possible for the Cuban people under the present conditions. The visiting Generals have returned to their headquarers.

Major Castellanos, second in command of the Havana Regiment, stationed at Guanabacoa, almost started a riot at tha place. He rode through the town on horseback, calling upon the people to meet in the public square. There he harangued them, declaring that his men had not laid down their arms for $75. He said the soldiers still had their weapons, and no power on earth could take them from them. Finally he declared that if the Americans were not ou of Cuba by Jan. 1 he was in favor of the Cubans taking the field and driving them out. His radical utterances created great excitement. A storm of hisses greeted his revolutionary threat, and some of his hearers began to throw stones and vegetables at him. Others took his part. A majority however, disapproved, and Castellanos was eventually driven from the square.

Hoboes to Hold a Convention.

Dansville, Ill., June 3.—Under direction of Charles Noe, a wealthy man of Sycamore, Ill., who styles himself a "society tramp," a convention of "hoboes" has been called in this city to meet on June 15. Over 10,000 small posters have been put up in many parts of the country at the expense of Noe. A great number of Chicago tramps have organized to get in readiness for convention work.

Work on the Texas Northern.

Fort Worth, Tex., June 3.—The directors of the Texas Northern Railway have given orders for the construction of the grading of the roadbed from Anderson to Stoneham. The contract was let to F. B. Johnston, and work on the same is to begin at once. The grading of the roadbed is to be commenced June 10, and is stipulated to be completed by August 15.

Guards on Duty at Lynching.

Lexington, Ky., June 3.—State troops will go to Clay County to prevent a lynching during the trial for murder of Jim, Tom and Dee Baker, accused of killing Wilson Howard and Burch Stores in April, 1898. Manchester, the county seat, is dominated by the Howard faction. The troops are now drilling. They will carry their Gatling gun along.

Goat Ate the Marriage License.

St. Louis, June 3.—The wedding of T. H. Bryson, formerly a merchant in this city, and a widow living at Hernando, Miss., was delayed by a pet goat. The animal ate up the marriage license, which was left in the pocket of Bryson's coat. Bryson had to drive thirty miles for a new license and the wedding was delayed for two days.

Stabbed at a Church Festival.

Gallipolis, Ohio, June 3.—At a church festival over at Wyoma, Wilson Kanode and Walter Canterbury quarreled over a Miss Jones, with whom both were enamored, when Canterbury drew his knife and stabbed Kanode three times in the breast and stomach, inflicting serious, if not fatal wounds. Canterbury is under arrest.

An Old Farmer Cremated.

Osgood, Ind., June 3.—A fire broke out in James H. Smith's barn, at Haynes's Corner, and Mr. Smith, who is old and feeble, entered the burning structure to try and save a valuable and favorite horse. He was never seen again. It is supposed the maddened animal jumped upon him in its fright and killed him.

Poison in Up in a Capsule.

Fort Scott, Kan., June 3.—A capsule, supposed to have been filled with quinine but which had evidently been filled with poison, caused the death of Miss Ora Hale, a member of one of the wealthy families of this county. Miss Hale took the supposed quinine for a cold and died in a few minutes.

Spaniard Refuses to Surrender.

Manila, June 3.—Lieutenant Martinez, of the Spanish port at Baler, on the east coast of Luzon, refuses to surrender. The steamer Utanus returned from there and reported him still holding off the Filipinos. He refused to leave.

WEST AND SOUTH SHAKEN.

Earthquakes Liven Up Things at San Francisco and Knoxville.

San Francisco, June 3.—A shock of earthquake was felt here. It was the most severe the city has felt for thirty years, though it lasted only thirty seconds. The movement was very pronounced from east to west and then half way toward the north, giving a twisting motion. In high buildings of new construction the motion was terrifying, but no damage resulted.

In the Palace and other hotels many frightened guests rushed out, but they were soon reassured. At the Odd Fellows' Building, Seventh and Market streets, a heavy capstone fell down from the third story and plunged through the sidewalk into a beer saloon. Some fragments crushed in the hat of a man and other pieces bruised a woman who was in the place. The saloon was wrecked, but no one else was hurt. From telegraphic reports it seems the earthquake was mainly local, as it was not felt at Sacramento or in the San Joaquin Valley.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 2.—A severe electrical storm, accompanied by a light ea thquake shock, passed over this city. Lightning struck the City Hall, seriously injuring Policeman Wayland.

Gov. Poynter Put Out of His House.

Lincoln, Neb., June 3.—Gov. Poynter was turned out of the house he has been occupying and his family is now at a hotel. It was not because the Governor could not pay his rent, but because the landlord wanted possession. Last winter the Legislature appropriated $25,000 to buy a gubernatorial mansion. The Governor is quite thrifty, and as the act carried an emergency clause he supposed the new house would be ready by June 1. So by the payment of a bonus he secured a cancellation of the two years' lease he had taken in January. The law gave the selection of a mansion into the hands of the Board of Public Buildings. Almost every man who owned a mansion offered it for sale to the State, and for several weeks the Board has done nothing but examine houses, with the result that it is hopelessly divided and cannot agree on which one to purchase. The landlord insisted on having his house according to the lease, and the Governor had to get out.

Captain Marks Again in Trouble.

Montreal, June 3.—Captain Marks of the steamer Helvetia, who relinquished his vessel to the owners after his claim for wages had been paid, is again in trouble. When the Captain was threatened with arrest he hired about thirty men to assist the crew in guarding the ship. These men now demand to be paid, but the Captain refuses to pay them, saying it is the duty of the owners to bear the cost of guarding the ship from unlawful attacks. A number of the men threaten to take proceedings against the Captain, but he is not at all disturbed. He has taken a home at Valleyfield and purposes to stay there until the whole trouble is settled.

Express Train Held Up.

Omaha, Neb., June 3.—Union Pacific train No. 1 was held up at Wilcox, Wyo., by masked robbers. The express car was completely wrecked by dynamite, the safe blown open and contents taken. Engineer Jones was injured by flying debris. The robbers escaped to the mountains. According to the officials of the express company here, the bandits obtained only a nominal reward for their daring crime. A posse under command of the Sheriff of Carbon County is in pursuit and are confident of capturing them.

May Have Fallen From a Train.

Athens, Ga., June 3.—A rigid search for ten days has failed to find John A. Benedict, cashier of the Exchange Bank, who has been missing since May 22.

Benedict, who was noted for his probity and sober methods, had an option on a cotton mill invention and was touring South Carolina in its advancement. He wrote his wife on May 22 from Greenwood, S. C., and since then nothing has been heard from him.

Alleged Japanese Spies Executed.

Seattle, Wash., June 3.—According to Oriental papers received by the Kinshi Manu, Japan is much aroused over the report from Shanghai that twelve Japanese spies had been captured by Russians at a place called Tosang, presumably on Liao Tung Peninsula.

Particulars of the affair were meagre, but it is understood that the men were executed, in a fortress without a trial.

Pepper Used by a Lynn Thief.

Lynn, Mass., June 3.—Mrs. Mary A. Gurney, who keeps a lodging house here, is the victim of a "pepper" thief. A stranger who had called on the pretence of hiring a room presented a $10 bill with which to pay a week's rent, and while the woman was taking the change from her pocketbook threw pepper in her eyes, struck her on the head, snatched the pocketbook, which contained about $100 and escaped.

Want Him Dead or Alive.

Leitchfield, Ky., June 3.—Jim Cate Dugan, it is charged, assaulted the ten-year-old daughter of Widow Stevenson. The Sheriff went to arrest him, but failed, as Dugan resisted. The County Attorney has issued a warrant to bring him, dead or alive.

A Boy's Sad Suicide.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Esterhazy Confesses.

London, June 3.—The Daily Chronicle says that Major Count Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy called at his office with a confidential friend, and, after declaring that the time had arrived when the whole truth should be told, although hitherto by reason of constant orders and inducements he had kept silence on the essential point, made the following statement:

"The chiefs of he army have disgracefully abandoned me. My cup is full and I shall speak out.

"Yes," raising his voice and glaring around, "it was I who wrote the bordereau. I wrote it upon orders received from Sandherr."

Esterhazy, the Chronicle says, then proceeded to explain that for months before 1893 moral proofs had been obtained of leakages, which were only possible through an officer belonging to the Ministry of War, and it was necessary to catch the guilty party by material evidence. Hence the bordereau.

Paris, June 3.—The Court of Cassation has decided unanimously in favor of a new Court-martial for Dreyfus.

An Important Decision.

Albany, June 3.—Attorney General Davies has rendered an important decision under the amended veteran dependent act. The poor authorities of the town of Middleburg, Schoharie County, refused to extend relief to an indigent veteran of the civil war, holding that, as he drew a pension, he was not entitled to any assistance from the town.

The Grand Army post of that village took up the case and appealed to the Attorney General, who now decides in favor of the veteran, holding that under the law as amended it is for the relief committee of the post in the place where the application is made to determine whether the applicant shall receive support.

Minnesota for Henderson, Too.

St. Paul, Minn., June 3.—The Minnesota delegation, seven in number, in the Fifty-sixth Congress will vote solidly for Gen. David B. Henderson, of Iowa, for Speaker. For the past week, Mr. Tawney, representing the First district, has been in correspondence with the Minnesota members, six of them met at the Windsor Hotel. After a short talk it was found that all those present were enthusiastically in favor of Gen. Henderson.

Chicago, June 3.—Congressman A. J. Hopkins has withdrawn from the speakership race in favor of Col. D. B. Henderson, of Iowa. This, with the support already pledged to the Iowa man, will in the opinion of politicians here, land the Speakership for Mr. Henderson.

Boston, June 3.—The Massachusetts Congress delegation openly announce their support of Henderson for the Speakership. This can be stated as positively planned.

Put an End to His Misery.

Newark, N. J., June 3.—Adolph Langerman was found sitting against a tree, dead, in the Dark Woods at Avon avenue and Bergen street, guarded by his Skye terrier. Langerman had committed suicide. There was a hole in his right temple and a revolver was at his side.

Will Not Call For Volunteers.

Washington, June 3.—At the Cabinet meeting, after considering the latest cable report from General Otis, it was decided that a call for volunteer troops to serve in the Philippines is not necessary. It also has been decided to undertake no more large expeditions in the rainy season, which has now set in.

Man Killed By a Train.

Rye, N. Y., June 3.—An eastbound train struck a man here, crushing his skull and cutting off both legs. The man was still alive when picked up, but he died before medical aid could reach him. From papers found in his clothing he is believed to have been Robert Hazenwood, of No. 1954 Third avenue, New York.

Fractured the Actor's Skull.

Coney Island, N. Y., June 3.—Walter G. Walling, a performer with Haverly's minstrels, and a cousin of former Chief of Police Walling, of New York, was the victim of an assault and robbery by a negro here. He is in Flatbush Hospital with a fractured skull.

IRONICAL IFS.

If you don't keep a secret it's no longer a secret.

If you can't have what you like try to like what you have.

If we could neither laugh nor cry life would not be worth living.

If a man would get along smoothly he should do his level best.

If you trust to luck for happiness you'll be in luck when you get it.

If a man has common sense he seldom makes use of it in a love affair.

If a man ever indulges in mature deliberation it's when he has a note to meet.

If the day breaks before you get up you should not expect to find the whole day before you.

If you think you resemble a great man say nothing. The resemblance may cease the moment you open your mouth.—Chicago News.

Lawyers After "Dunn Act."

The Lawyers' Club of Newark, the most influential organization of legal minds in the State, has decided to bring proceedings to test the constitutionality of the Five Counselors Act, known more popularly as the "Dunn Act."

The law was passed at the instigation of Congressman John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth, who, when he forsook the paint brush and pot, desired to become a lawyer, but was unable to at that time on account of the rigid rules concerning an apprenticeship in an established lawyer's office. Mr. Dunn was subsequently elected a member of the Assembly from Union county and while serving as such succeeded in securing the passage of the Five Counselors Act, which provides that any one who can secure the recommendation of five counselors at law in good standing may be entitled to take the examination provided for aspiring lawyers by the Supreme court, and if they pass they must be licensed to practice.

It is urge by many of the legal lights of the State that this law has opened a way for the admittance of a large number of incapable and vicious lawyers in New Jersey. An unsuccessful attempt to repeal the law was made at the last, and several preceding sessions of the Legislature.

From Army to Business.

Four thousand of the volunteers in the Phillippines have asked for permission to be mustered out over there, with travel pay, as they desire to remain and take part in the business and industrial developments of the Islands. Gen. Otis has been instructed to grant this request, under such conditions as he might see fit to impose. He has issued an order that men who wished to receive their discharges to enter civil life would be allowed land travel pay, and be given a certificate good for free transportation to the U. S. on an army transport at any time within one year, and that those who would re-enlist after discharge would receive travel pay for the entire distance to and from the old homes. Notwithstanding this big inducement—more than $600 a man—a comparatively small portion of the men have reenlisted. Gen. Otis has made no report as to the number, but unofficial advices say that not more than enough men to form two regiments have been secured.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON'S MISSION.

The arbitration commission to consider the question of the disputed boundary between British Guiana and Venezuela, which some years ago came near causing serious trouble between the United States and Great Britain, will meet in Paris June 15. Ex-President Harrison will appear before the commission on behalf of Venezuela. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison will make a tour of continental Europe after he has concluded his duties before the arbitration commission. The commission will probably continue in session four or five weeks.

No better evidence of the desire and the purpose of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to accommodate the communities they serve, even when they are not assured of clearing expenses on a certain service, is needed than in the agreement to put on through trains between Plainfield and Newark at the request of the Board of Trade of the latter city. General Passenger Agent Baldwin has had considerable experience in this direction, and it has been such that he does not believe that it will be a profitable one for the company. However, the Newark merchants have been so earnest in their solicitation and so persistent in their efforts to get the through train service, that the railroad company has finally agreed to accommodate their requests, though they scarcely believe the service will return the expenses it will entail. But in railroad business the same as other lines the old axiom, "nothing ventured, nothing gained," offers a reason for experimenting with the through service.

If things continue to progress in the New York Produce Exchange as favorably for the Plainfield members for the next few years as they have in the past few, there is no reason to believe but what the citizens of the Eldorado of the East will be the whole powers that be in that great commercial institution. The annual election of officers was held yesterday, and Councilman Elliott T. Barrows, of the Third ward, was advanced from vice-president to president of the Exchange. President of the Council Fred T. Andrews, also of the Third ward, was advanced from the position of secretary to vice-president of the Exchange. And further than that Councilman John Valiant, of the borough, was reelected as a member of the board of governors. No other town, with the exception of New York city, is so well represented among the officers of the Produce Exchange as Plainfield.

The Duke de Arcos, the new Spanish Minister, who has had the honor to reopen diplomatic relations between Spain and the United States, is a man of common sense as well as a diplomat. He proved it some time ago by marrying an American girl. When asked to express an opinion concerning Cuba, the Phillippines and the late war with Spain, he replied: "You will please excuse me. I come to let bygones be bygones. Spain is waiting and watching; she has the past, you have the future. I do not wish to talk of the past. I come here to meet friends, many of them very old ones, not enemies."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Elston M. French, of North Plainfield, is being put forward by his friends as the prospective candidate for Senator of Somerset. Mr. French is a very fine young man, very popular and fully qualified to fill that position with honor to himself, the Democratic party, the people of this county and State. — Bound Brook State Centre.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Dr. Nice, who will address the young men's rally at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, is a graduate of a German university, and was also attached as surgeon to the German Army. He is a violinist of rare ability, and will both speak and play at the service. Dr. Nice is now engaged in the prison work of the Salvation Army. He addressed the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. about two years ago.

City Councilman John M. Bergner, of Trenton, couldn't find his four false teeth and jumped to the conclusion that he had swallowed them. Following this conclusion came awful pains in his stomach. Doctors were sent for to come with saws and knives. Just as they were about to begin carving Bergner up his wife found the teeth under his pillow. Then the pains vanished and the doctors collected their fees.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

that the members had agreed to raise $1,050, and the motion provided that when that sum is raised that the Council donate the $150, making in all $1,250, which purchases uniforms and overcoats.

Mr. Clark and Mr. Swackhamer favored the motion, but the Mayor took exception to it and voted against it. He thought it was a good deal of money to appropriate at present, when an effort is being made to reduce the tax rate. The motion prevailed with one dissenting vote, that of Mayor Smalley.

Mr. Rogers offered a resolution providing for an appropriation of $75 for the extra fire protection during the Fourth of July.

At this time Mr. Clark stated that he had been in touch with many persons affected by the Watchung avenue opening, and he was of the opinion that if the time for paying assessments should be extended to July 1st, that a greater portion of the several amounts would be paid in. He had found the residents willing to abide by the decision of the courts, and he thought the time should be extended one month. He offered a resolution authorizing the collector to accept interest at the rate of 6 per cent. before July 1st, and this was adopted.

Mayor Smalley said that Mr. Kiely, who had received the contract for laying crosswalks in the borough, had not kept his agreement. This matter was referred to the street committee, as was also the matter of having Greenbrook road put in proper condition by the Plainfield Water Supply Company, who had recently torn the street up.

After Mayor Smalley had extended to the Council a cordial invitation to attend the meeting of the Plainfield Advancement Association next Wednesday evening, the Council adjourned.

Epworth League Officers.

The annual business meeting of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church was held last night. Stafford; fourth vice-president, Miss Louella Crowther; secretary, Charles W. Sprague; treasurer, Albert Steiner.

Mrs. Foster Much Improved.

D. N. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue, who was to sail today for Venice to see his daughter, Mrs. John Gray Foster, who is ill there, has received a cablegram announcing Mrs. Foster's condition as much improved, so he will not take the trip. Mrs. Foster accompanied the Honeyman party on their last trip, but when in Venice was attacked with typhoid fever, and had to remain behind.

Rev. C. E. Herring, of Watchung avenue, has returned from Minneapolis, where he attended a meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church.

At the Same Time She Was Aiding Her Own Dear George.

A suspicious noise behind the portieres attracted the attention of the impetuous young lover. He fancied he had heard it once before, but the cuddlesome young girl who was snuggled closely in his arms made him almost oblivious of what was going on around him. But now he was sure, and it was only the work of an instant to deposit his lovely burden on the sofa and rush to the other end of the room. His worse fears were realized, for as he tore the curtains apart he caught sight of a man's coat tails disappearing into another room.

"What does this mean, Agnes?" he demanded, facing the girl, who stood pale and trembling.

"I can't tell you an untruth, George," she answered bravely. "It was papa."

"You knew he was there and you didn't tell me?" again he demanded.

"Yes, George," she said firmly, but without any anger in her voice. "I knew it. We arranged it all beforehand."

"Do you mean to say you went through all those performances of sitting on my lap, snuggling up in my arms and kissing and hugging me when you knew your father was watching us?"

"It is all quite true, George," she confessed. "In fact, before you came papa had me rehearse some of the positions with my brother, so that I could do them nicely—put some soul into them, as he expressed it."

"Blackmail!" cried the young man. "I was foolish enough to think you really cared for me. Just because my father is a rich man you think you can bleed us by threatening to bring a breach of promise suit. But I tell you your father's evidence of what he has seen and heard wouldn't be worth a cent against our family influence."

"I guess the evidence would be conclusive enough," replied the girl with a laugh, rendered bitter by his insulting tone.

"Foiled!" hissed the young man, as the terrible reality dawned upon him.

"O, George!" cried the girl, as she threw her arms around his neck, "this thing has gone far enough. There is not going to be any breach of promise suit. You know papa is in the kinetescope business. He wanted to get up a new series of pictures, and I promised to help him out on condition that he would give his consent when you went and asked him if you could marry me."

He Got Something.

Believing it to be the duty of every postmaster in the United States to sleep in the post office, and thus be on hand to guard its interests at all hours, we moved our bed from "The Kicker" office several months ago. While the office closes at 9 o'clock in the evening, any of the boys who come banging at the door from that hour to daylight can arouse us and get their mail. On Monday night last, about the hour of midnight, we were aroused by some one fixing six bullets into the door. We got out of bed and asked who it was and what he wanted, and a strange voice replied that if we didn't hand him out a hatful of letters he'll fill the old building full of lead. He added that he also wanted a drink and a hair-cut, and that we'd better be lively about it. We were lively. We do not run a saloon and a barber shop in connection with the post office. We got down our guns and opened the door and shot three bullets through the stranger's whiskers and three more through his hat, and the way he went galloping down the street would have made a cowboy jealous. Our esteemed contemporary heard of the incident and used it as a foundation of the article headed: "Our Postmaster a Would-Be Murderer!" But we are not kicking about it. His weekly circulation is down to 168 copies, and nine-tenths of his readers are cross-eyd or drunk half the time.

FRENCH WOMAN'S MAKE-UP.

Art of Applying Rouge So That Its Use Will Not Proclaim Itself.

"If women will insist on making up, why don't they take the pains to do it artistically?" demanded the woman just back from Paris. "Really the most noticeable feature about the woman one sees after a trip abroad is the careless way they daub their faces with paint and powder. Now the Parisian woman learns the art and applies it as such."

"Do tell us about it," said one of her friends.

"In the first place," replied the traveller," a woman who knows how the thing is done gets the proper colors. She never buys for day use a paint with purple tinge. If she is a burnette she gets powder and rouge for brunettes, while if she is a blonde she buys blonde materials. These come both for day and evening use, and, of course, she must put them on in the light in which she is to appear, and, of course she must put them on in the light in which she is to appear. The first thing she does after getting the proper material is to wash her face with a tiny bit of soap on the cloth, then rinse in clear water and dry with a soft towel. If it is to be a day appearance, let her go to the brightest window in the room and, with the assistance of her hand mirror, apply her make-up. The rouge for day use is a liquid, and should be applied with a bit of soft rag. All that is required is a little dab on the upper part of the cheeks, which is promptly rubbed down and blended with the fingers. The several little dabs are given to the lower part of the cheek, on the jawbone, that must be rubbed up and under. Never color the little spot immediately in front of the ear or the centre of the cheek, for nature never does. The next step is to fix the lips, and the color for them is always different from that used on the cheeks and is always a liquid. This should be put on very carefully and so as to appear darker on the inner edge. Now comes the powder which should be put on the forehead and rubbed off until there is none to be seen. Then the slightest suspicion is rubbed on the nose and around the mouth and as promptly rubbed off, as the object is only to take off the shine.

"After this you go to the brows and eyelashes, and, whatever else you do, don't use a pencil for the daytime. You can buy a little box with a cunning little mirror in the top and a cunning little brow brush and a bar of what appears to be India ink at the bottom. That is the one and only thing used by the French woman. The brush is moistened, rubbed on the India-ink-looking stuff, and then applied to the brow and lashes, but it must be put on the hair and not on the skin.

"That is the way the French woman gets herself up for appearance during the day, or when she is to appear under the electric light. And she generally is clever enough to wear a hat which shades her face just a bit at least. Of course, men can only surmise, they can never say positively that she paints.

"But how about the make-up for evening wear?" asked her two friends as she stopped speaking and applied herself to the third course of her luncheon.

"Oh, well, almost any of these women we see about us would pass muster in gas or candle light. That is one reason why they look so much like caricatures. They make up in a dark room with the lights turned on, and they are really now, all of them, looking at the make-up of every other woman with disgust and congratulating themselves on knowing just how the thing is properly done. Almost any rouge or powder will do for gas or candle light, but it is best to apply after the daylight fashion, only making it more intense. But when it comes to electric lights there must be no careless work. If you do, it is a dead giveaway."

The Curse of Familiarity.

In their strife for mental equality with men, says a writer in the Ladies' Home Journal, women have unintentionally broken down a fine reserve of manner which previously lent them an air of mystery, of superiority, in the best sense, than which no element is more successful in holding a man's interest, love and respect. The young woman who greets a man friend with "Hello, old man!" or its equivalent in modern slang, might in return be called "a peach," but she would be a peach with the bloom rubbed off.

Every day I become more convinced that at the root of the increasing evidence of widespread marital unhappiness would be found the familiarity that breeds contempt. When a boy climbs a tree for green apples or cherries, whichever he prefers, he constantly sees a better one higher up beyond his reach, until he nearly breaks his neck to get the one out of his stretch, partly hidden by foliage. And so man's ideal woman hangs at the tip-top of the tree of knowledge. If the ideal drops into his hands he throws it to the ground as worthless and begins to climb again. Would it be reasonable to think, after working so hard for cherries, that he would value them long if he ate a surfeit of them?

Greek Beauties

The women of Greece are extravagantly fond of cosmetics and not artistic in using them. They paint their cheeks bright red, the eyebrows and eyelashes deepest black and tint the veins a delicate blue. The result of this chromo fashion is that by the time they reach forty the women of this classic land are ugly old crones, yellow and wrinkled.

Girls are betrothed in early youth, and their marriage dowry consists of linen and household furniture, money not being a requirement. Their education is very limited, and does not consist of music and painting, as one might imagine, but dancing, conversation and ease of manner. Household duties are also included in this limited curriculum, and every girl is instructed in the art of making rose jam, Turkish coffee and various delicious sweetmeats. Beauty and the art of pleasing, which when beauty is gone will stand them in excellent stead, are considered the only necessary requirements for a woman. To be pretty and to be popular is the only aim in life of the Grecian woman.

THE FAILURE :: OF :: DRESS REFORM.

By Lillian De Crafi Davis.

Dress reform seems to be a failure. It is fast becoming a byword. The corset has triumphed. American women, who for a time we almost persuaded to follow the lead of the stray enthusiasts, have come back to their sex—and to their stays. They no longer try to imitate the impossible women of ancient Greece.

I have come to this conclusion after asking many prominent women what they thought about corsets. Here is what the perennial, ever blooming Lillian Russell had to say on the subject:

"Are corsets harmful? Of course not—the right kind. Singers all wear them. They can't hurt any one provided they fit. If corsets of necessity confined the muscles and hindered development, how could women sing in them? Singers' voices depend entirely upon the play of the abdominal muscles. Some sort of a corset is a necessity to women with well developed figures. Slim girls can afford to go without them perhaps. But here is the difficulty: Slim girls don't stay slim if they are healthy. It is my opinion that corsets have come to stay."

Mrs. Theodore Sutro's well corseted outlines have long been familiar to Sorosis, women's conventions and intellectual assemblages. Mrs. Sutro says:

"Even an intellectual woman likes her dresses to fit. And what modiste can fit them without corsets? I have always tried to use sense in dress matters. I don't have my dresses made to weigh heavy. I don't squeeze into them to suffocation, as you can see. There are national peculiarities in dress the world over. Frenchwomen do the tight lacing, Dutchwomen wear the innumerable petticoats, English women wear the aggressively comfortable 'common sense' clothes, but American women dress simply as a rule. I don't think dress reform without corsets will ever achieve much. It's too negligee."

Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, distinguished for beauty, brilliance and worldly prestige, is also a champion of corsets. She says:

"The need for corsets was long felt, and even in ancient times women wore bandages or straps to support the bust. This became more necessary as the position of women became less private. The natural form unrestrained and the loose flowing gown are now relegated to oriental localities, where women are slaves, and to harems. Women in civilized life need more clothing. The corset came when men and women began to mingle as equals in society. It is a delicate device, both useful and beautifying. It may be used or abused, according to the woman who wears it."

Della Fox, whose constitution was proverbial until her recent unfortunate illness, laughed "reform" to scorn.

"I am a man in corsets when on the stage as well as a woman," she said. "How would my trousers fit without them? I think corsets would be a good thing for men to adopt. Prizefighters would look lovely in them. Do they ever hurt? How absurd! Imagine going about without them. No woman with her reason could or would go without them."

How about Zaza? Of course Mrs. Carter wears corsets. They fit her tight, too; nothing erratic about them. When asked for her opinions, she said just what all the others say:

"Corsets are necessary.
"Corsets are beautiful.
"Corsets are healthful.
"Vive la corset!"

Anna Held had never heard of dress reform. When its aims and purposes were made plain to her in bad French, she replied in worse English:

"Heavens! I have not seen American ladies in no corsets. They do not go on the stage, do they? How imbecile! French ladies would not do that, you bet. Il fant for decency, you know. See how nice my dress fits? Mon Dieu, but I would be ruined if I did not have the corsets! Is it the style in America, did you say? Impossible! I hope I shall never meet these funny women. I should laugh. I should be rude. Who could help that?" etc., for the immortal Anna is loquacious.

Viola Allen as Glory glories in the corset. "I admire some features of dress reform," she said, "though I have not adopted them. I wear corsets made to order and light, hygienic clothing. I will show you some of my everyday things to give you an idea. See these silk tights. I have them in black and colors. Then these silk undervests weigh almost nothing. The corsets fit every curve of my figure and give all over. They are not 'armor clad,' you see—only a few slim bones and steels. Only foolish women wear brass rods up and down them nowadays for the lightning to strike. I don't."

A QUEER OLD WORLD.

If virtue would allure like sin
How easily might goodness win.

If right went laughing by like wrong
The devil would lose half his throng.

If day sought pleasure like the night
Dawn need not blush to face the light.

But virtue seems so cold and proud
That merry sin attracts the crowd.

And night has such a solemn air
Men follow wrong, the debonair.

And care so eats the daytime up
At night they seize mad folly's cup.

And drink forgetfulness 'till dawn,
And so the queer old world goes on.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A STRANGE STORY.

BY G. W. S. ANGELL.

It was one of our Friday night symposiums at the Cosmos Club, and as our particular clique was made up of Merton, from the Geological Survey; Herring, of the Fish Commission, together with Long, from the Agricultural Bureau; De Forrest, of the Army Medical Museum, and myself, then serving as Washington correspondent for a New York paper, it is needless to say that the talk had run the entire gamut of art, literature and science, and had for the moment settled on the belief in dual personalities.

"I tell you, gentlemen," said Merton, with the authoritative air by which he always attempted to settle questions under discussion, "that while I am willing to admit that there may be some things almost impossible to prove or disprove scientifically, yet this talk about dual personality, subconscious mind and all such stuff is, vulgarly speaking, simply rot." And he lay back in his chair with a self-satisfied air, as though there was nothing more to be said on the subject.

Long took up the argument, and the debate grew rather warm as the pros and cons were laid down in that excathedra way which we young men are apt to affect. Dr. De Forrest had thus far taken no part in the discussion, but had smiled once or twice at our assertions in a way that assured us, who knew him so well, that he had a good story to tell if we could only draw him out.

"Come, Doctor," said Long, as he ordered a fresh round of brandies and soda for the crowd, "you ought to know something about this question, for you told us last week that you had studied under Charcot when you were in Paris."

De Forrest selected a fresh perfecto from the box at his side, lighted it in his usual careful way and blew a few rings of smoke, which he watched float lazily toward the ceiling, before he spoke.

"Well, boys," he began, "as Merton has just said, there are some things which we cannot as yet decide by purely physical methods. We cannot weight the soul in our most delicate balance, though the scale sinks if we add but the fraction of a hair, nor can we by our most subtle reagents analyze that vital spark we call life in our laboratories. I do not care to-night to speak of the many curious phenomena which I witnessed during my studies in Paris, for they might furnish you with a clew to the story which is to follow; but I'll tell you a little incident in real life which occured when I was very young in my New York practice, and then leave the question for you to decide.

"When I established myself in New York, back in the sixties, fresh from my studies at Vienna, I joined the Bohemia Club. That was not its name, but as none of you are old enough to remember the club it will do as well as any other, and I shall take the liberty of changing the names of the actors in my story as well, for obvious reasons.

"We were a rather jolly crowd at the Bohemia, for we worked hard at our different lines all day and then met at the club in the evenings for relaxation and to compare notes. You see we were young then, and not authorities in our several branches, as you all are here," and he smiled in his quizzical way as he looked round our little circle.

"There were two Southerners in the club," he continued, "both M. D's, and although greatly alike in their features and marvelously so in their dress, they were totally different in character, and I suppose it would be hard to find in any club two men further apart in their moral and mental qualities. Whiting had been a practising physician for a year or more and had already a large clientele. He was a splendid fellow, large of frame but straight as an arrow, with great brown eyes that looked you squarely in the face when he spoke, and, with all his physical strength, kind and gentle as a woman. He was loved by every one at the club, where we knew him as the soul of honor and generous to a fault.

"Davis, on the other hand, though he was of the same olive hued type and enough like Whiting in features to be his twin brother, had a sneering expression on his face, and when he looked at you with his eyes half closed and that cynical smile on his lips he made me think of the copperhead of his own Louisiana swamps. He was a heavy drinker, and spent money enough at the club, but he was never known to do a kind act, and we were sure he never spent a dollar on any one else unless he saw that he would gain some advantage in return.

"Both of the men had ample means of their own, but Davis had never practiced, so far as we knew, and where he got his title of doctor from or where he lived no one seemed to know. Some said that he was an expert chemist and dabbled in alchemy as well, but he made no close friends, and seldom spoke of his own life.

"It happened that Davis and Whiting had never met at the club, as each came but seldom, but we often chaffed one about the other, and from their facial resemblence dubbed them the two Dromios. Jekyll and Hyde would have been more appropriate, but this was long before Stevenson's book was written.

"Whiting always resented any chance allusion to his double, although good natured at the rest of our chaff, and seemed to doubt the actual existence of Davis, whom he had heard of but never met, and thought we were simply trying to put up a game on him. Naturally the more he scoffed at the reality of Davis the more we nagged him, until finally in sheer desperation he proposed to give a quiet little dinner for four of us, at which Robinson, an artist and fellow club-member, myself, Davis and Whiting were to be the quartet.

"Davis promised to be there, if possible, and said he was already acquainted with Whiting—of course by reputation only, he added with that cynical smile we all hated. On the night of the dinner Robinson and I were on hand early, for we were anxious to see the meeting between Davis and Whiting, and had made several bets with the other fellows as to whether Davis would snow up.

"Whiting appeared punctually as usual, but though we waited until midnight Davis failed to materialize. Of course this settled the matter in Whiting's mind for the time being, and he made us set up several bottles of wine to drink to the health of his mythical counterpart, as he called him.

"The next night, however, he came to the club, and drawing Robinson and me aside, said:—'Boys, this matter has gone too far. I like a joke, but I think it is rather rough for you to keep it up.' And on our expressing our ignorance of his meaning he showed us a letter from Davis regretting his inability to be present the night before, and saying that he was too ill at the moment to make his regrets in person.

"'But, my dear fellow,' said Robinson, 'if you really think us guilty of this letter will you kindly explain how it happens to be written on your own paper?'

"Whiting grabbed up the note and seemed frightened for the moment, for at the head of the letter was his crest and the envelope bore the impression of his private seal, which he always wore on his watch chain. He looked at it searchingly, and then left the club without a word.

"After this occurrence we ceased bantering him about Davis and passed the word around to the other fellows to drop it, for we saw that the matter worried him greatly and feared the effect of our chaff on his high strung, nervous temperment. Davis came to the club less frequently during the winter, but at every mention of Whiting's name he smiled and said he was sorry they did not hapen to meet.

"One day, early in the spring, Whiting sent a note asking me to come up to his den after dinner, as he had something of importance to tell, and begged me not to fail him. I had often been to his office on Madison avenue, but had never visited him at his rooms on —th street. It was a quiet neighborhood, west of Ninth avenue, and the house was one of a row of old fashioned frame buildings still in good repair, but backed up against their rear were several ramshackel old tenements, nearly deserted by tenants.

"I had not seen Whiting for some months and was shocked by the change in his appearance. There were dark circles under his eyes and a strange hunted expression in his face. He grasped my hand eagerly and drew a chair for me in front of the grate fire, for the evenings were still cool.

"'Doc,' he exclaimed suddenly, after we had lit our cigars and talked glittering generalities for a few minutes, 'that fellow Davis is killing me by inches.'

"'Why, old man,' I said, 'so you have come to believe in him at last.' I started to laugh, but checked myself when I saw the expresion of his face.

"'What is it, my dear boy?' I asked, soothingly. 'It certainly can't be so serious. What has he been up to now?'

"''Tis damned queer business,' said Whiting excitedly, 'and I can't imagine his motive; but these are the facts. For several weeks this fellow has dogged my footsteps, and after I have made a professional call and left the usual prescription he has sent a note to the patient imitating my handwriting and changing the medicines for others, which, had they been taken as directed, would have in some cases proved fatal. Fortunately the druggists have telephoned me that there was some mistake and I have been able to correct it. But of course this constant changing of prescriptions has affected my practice terribly, and people are beginning to think that my mind is unbalanced.'

"'But, my dear fellow,' said I, trying to quiet him, 'why not give up your practice for a few weeks and take a decided rest, and meanwhile we will deal with this fellow Davis as he deserves.'

"'But that is not all,' continued Whiting, despairingly. 'It is true I don't need the income from my practice, and work more from the love of it than for the fees, but he has gone still further and dared to call on Miss Wiley, my fiancee, and tell her many of the foolish escapades of my college days, the secret of which I thought was buried in my own breast. I have tried to explain them away, but of course cannot deny the tales, and I fear it is all over for me in that quarter. I can't see how she could listen to the cad or where she could have met him.'

"Davis' actions seemed to be more inexplicable than ever, and I longed to get hold of the brute and force an explanation from him; but, hiding my anger, I tried to quiet Whiting, and finally prevailed upon him to take a heavy dose of choral, which I prepared, and to try to get a night's rest, promising to see Miss Wiley shortly and attempt to patch up matters.

"I left him asleep on his lounge, and, as it was still early, walked over to Madison avenue, determined to call on Miss Wiley, whom I knew slightly, and tell her of Whiting's condition.

"There was a light in the drawing room, and, ringing the bell, I gave my card to the servant, and he ushered me in unannounced. Miss Wiley sat at the piano, her hands on the keys, while standing at her side and looking down ardently into her upturned face was—Davis.

"For a moment I could not speak and seemed glued to the floor, but Davis quickly advanced and, after a few polite inquiries about my health and his dear friend Whiting, pleaded an engagement and left.

"His presence in the house and his unmistakable loverlike attitude made it very painful for me to speak, but remembering the condition of poor Whiting and how heartbroken he seemed, I ventured to speak about Davis and asked where she had met him.

"'Oh, I have only known him a few weeks,' she said. 'He called with a letter of introduction from Dr. Whiting and said they were fellow students in the South. He has been most kind and attentive to me, and is teaching me some of his own songs.' And she rattled on about his divine voice, while I sat speechless at the new complication of affairs.

"At last I blurted out, 'Would you kindly let me see the letter of introduction?' adding that Dr. Whiting had promised me letters to some of his friends in Europe and I wished to see his methods.

"I felt that this was a most feeble excuse, but could think of nothing else, and of course Miss Wiley was too polite to express her surprise at the strange request. Going to a dainty writing desk in the corner she came back and handed me the letter.

"There was no doubt of the chirography being exactly similar to Whiting's. I saw the same old fashioned capitals and crisp, sharp endings of each word, and as for the signature, his bank would have sworn to it. Besides, there was his crest and seal, which I now knew so well. I don't know what I said in thanking her, for my head was in a whirl, but I had enough sense to say good night and quickly withdraw.

"How Davis could have obtained the paper and seal, or how he learned of all those college scrapes of Whiting's, I could not imagine. But I saw that his relations with Miss Wiley had gone so far that it would do no good for me to interfere, and that I should only be snubbed by her for my impertinence in meddling in other people's business.

"Whiting was out when I called at his rooms next morning and his servant told me that he had gone to the country for a rest and left no address.

"It was perhaps a month afterward that he turned up at the club one night, looking more ghastly than ever. He would not say where he had been and positively declined to discuss the Davis matter.

"I know he talked wildly about hypnotic control and kindred subjects, until we thought his mind affected, and tried to calm him, but he grew more and more excited, until finally I saw him turn pale and clutch the back of a chair, and noticed a little stream of frothy blood oozing from between his clenched teeth as he staggered out of the room.

"I jumped up from the sofa and followed as quickly as I could, but when I reached the front door he was gone, and I met Davis just coming in. He walked leisurely into the cafe and leaned against the mantelpiece. To my excited inquiries about Whiting he simply smiled and said he had not noticed him going out, but I saw him scratching a small red spot from his cuff with his finger nail and felt sure they must have met.

"'Gentlemen,' said Davis, in his drawling voice, 'I beg you will congratulate me on my approaching marriage, and pardon my not mentioning the lady's name in the club. Steward, please take the orders.'

"Most of us refused to drink with him, for we despised the man, and I left him chatting with a few of his particular cronies and went up to Whiting's room. I heard afterward that Davis left very shortly after I did.

"Whiting had not come home and I spent the night hunting through hotels, police stations, hospitals and even the Morgue, for I felt sure that he had ruptured a blood vessel in his lungs, which must quickly prove fatal. But I could find no trace of him, and finally, utterly worn out, went to my rooms to toss about until midday with a horrible nightmare, in which Whiting and Davis were struggling in one another's grasp, each striving to kill the other.

"At lunch I picked up a morning paper and scanned the society news listlessly until my eyes lit upon the rumored engagement of Dr. J. H. Davis, formerly of New Orleans, and Miss Isabene Wiley, the well known belle, &c.'

"I sat musing over the strange vicissitudes of fate and wondering what had become of poor Whiting. Suddenly a newsboy rushed into the restaurant calling extras, and the first heading I saw was:

"'Sudden death of Dr. Davis.' I eagerly read the usual detailed account of how he had been found that morning dead in his bed, evidently, the paper stated, from a ruptured blood vessel, as the bed clothing and carpets were saturated with blood, but no wound was found on his body.

"Strangely enough, he lived in one of the old tenements back of Whiting's home, and measurements which I made subsequently showed that his rooms and Whiting's must have been on similar floors and directly back to back. Remembering the stolen notepaper I tried to find some entrance between the two houses, but the walls were solid, and even the wall papers showed naught but a few little cracks due to their many years' service.

"'This, gentlemen,' said Dr. De Forrest, drawing his glass and taking up his hat and cane from the sofa,' is a story of actual life, and if any of you have an explanation to offer I should be happy to hear it.'

We could say nothing for a moment, and then the irrepressible Merton found his tongue. "But how about Dr. Whiting?" he asked.

"As for him, gentlemen," said Dr. De Forrest, solemnly, as he stood by the open door, "I know nothing further except that he was never found. But I have my theory. Good night!" And he closed the door.

BONNIE BESSIE.

"Bonnie Bessie" every one called her and rightly enough, for of all the highland lassies who gathered at the little kirk Sabbath mornings not one was half so pretty and winning as Bessie.

Squire Renfrow, of the Red Pass, was desperately in love with Bessie, and sought to make her his wife in spite of difference in rank. He was a bachelor, something over two-score years old, and he wanted Bonnie Bessie for his wife.

"If the lassie thinks she can fancy me," he said, addressing Bessie's grandmother, "I'm ready and willing to lead her to the kirk to-morrow, and if a good, true husband and some gold and silver will make her happy, she'll be as happy as a queen at the Red Pass."

Bessie listened with wide, startled eyes, burning cheeks and quivering lips. She held her peace, standing tall and slim in a sort of stunned silence until her gray haired lover had taken his leave. Then she burst forth into vehement, passionate protest.

The old grandmother suffered her to storm until her passion had spent.

"Well, 'tis o'er now, and ye'll simmer down and keep quiet, mebbe. I've let ye have yer say, and now I'll have mine. We're poor folk, me and ye. I found it hard to get bread when I had but my own mouth to feed, and since I've been burdened wi' ye I've gone to bed mony a night fit to cry wi' hunger. But I've borne it all and done my best, and always been willing to gi' ye a share o' my last crust."

"But, dearest, grandma—"

"Now, look here, my lass," interrupted the old woman, lifting her bony finger and glowering fiercely upon Bessie. "If ye're fule enou' to refuse this good fortin' that ends it 'twixt us two. Ye pack out o' my house and ne'er cross the threshold again."

The Springtime came and the wedding day was close at hand, when, one evening, just before the gloaming, Bessie went to fill her pitcher as usual at the rocky spring near by. She had accomplished her task and lifted the pitcher to her shoulder and had started for the cottage, her white, shapely feet twinkling prettily below the short petticoats as she stepped from stone to stone in crossing the little brawling stream, when suddenly she uttered a stifled cry, and, staggering to a moss-grown boulder, sat down and put the pitcher hastily on the ground, pressing her hand on her heart and trembling all over.

"It's his ghaist; it's his ghaist!" she cried, "and oh, how sair he looked at me! He has come from his grave. I dare na, dare na do it. Oh, forgive me, Jamie, that I ever thought o' it."

She drew a silken cord which encircled her throat from her bosom as she spoke and kissed the slender hoop of silver which depended from it. "I'll never ha' peace if I marry the squire," she said, "and I ought na to ha' it. I shall feel I am a traitor. And oh, Jamie, Jamie, after all, I love no one but you and never can."

Suddenly she rose, with resolution stamped on every feature. Leaving her pitcher there, she tossed back her abundant locks as she finished this abjuration, and went speeding away through the falling darkness with the light foot of a chamois.

When she reached the Red Pass the bright glow of the warm ingleside lit the windows. She approached the nearest one and pressed her sad, tired yet resolute face against the glass.

A minute, and she tapped lightly against the glass. The squire turned quickly, stared and then started to his feet.

"Well now, well now, what's the meaning of this?" he cried, rushing across the room and throwing up the window. "Bessie, my lass, what's happened?"

"Something that never should ha' happened," she answered, looking at him with a sort of desperate defiance and drawing the gold ring from her finger as she spoke. "I've come to give this back to you, Squire Renfrow. I was wrong ever to let you put it on."

"Why, child, what do you mean?"

"Take your ring," she said. "You've heard of Auld Robin Gray, maybe, haven't you?"

"Yes, I have. But what then?"

"Well, I had a Jamie once," she went on, clutching at the little silver ring suspended from her neck, a great throb of pain shaking her. "He gave me this, and I can't ever wear any other ring. He—he—went off to seek his fortune," with another repressed sob, "and he was lost at sea. I tried to forget him, but I cannot. I can't keep my promise to you, Squire Renfrow—I—I couldn't feel like she did to Auld Robin Grey—I should hate you—I should—" and here she broke down completely.

He took the ring she offered and paused for a moment. A look of unutterable pain and regret came into his eyes.

"So," she said slowly. "You have come to tell me this and to ask for your freedom? And you really think, too, you have seen Jamie's ghaist?"

"Yes, and I shall never return to grandmother again. I dare not. So I am going away."

"Bessie, my darling," cried a voice, as his strong arms clasped her. The next moment she was on the breast of her lover, who had come back alive and safe.

A few days after there was a happy marriage at the kirk, Squire Renfrow himself giving away the bride, our Bonnie Bessie.

IF A MAN COULD FORTELL

All the experiences of a lifetime, the necessity of Life Insurance as a means of protection might not be so marked. Even then, it would be profitable from an investment standpoint. As human wisdom, however, does not include a knowledge of the future, Life Insurance is necessary as an absolute means of protection.

BROKE HIS ARM.

Six-Year-Old Lad Fell Fifteen Feet From Loft to Barn Floor.

Clarence, the six-year-old son of J. W. VanSickle, the butcher, of North avenue, had a narrow escape from being killed yesterday afternoon. The little fellow had climbed to the hayloft in his father's barn at their home at 313 East Third street, for the purpose of throwing down hay in his zealous efforts to help the man who has charge of the horses.

In some manner he lost his footing and fell to the floor, a distance of nearly fifteen feet. He was rendered unconscious and it was some little time before he come to and was able to crawl to the house where he was attended by Dr. Jenkins, the family physician.

The unfortunate lad's injuries consisted of a broken right arm and a severe contusion of the right eye which was completely closed. He was otherwise bruised about the body.

He will be held for a time, and if there are no signs of improvement he will be arraigned before Recorder Long, and a hearing will be given.

CARRIE JONES CAUGHT.

tice Hughes and witnesses.

This morning Detective Kelly took the girl before Justice Hughes for formal arraignment and he made out papers to commit her to the Union county jail for ten days to await developments.

Early this morning a swarm of New York detectives, reporters and other interested ones arrived at Summit. The detectives were armed with papers demanded that the Anderson girl be turned over to them to be returned to New York immediately. Detective Kelly declined to recognize the right of the New York detectives to take such action. This immediately precipitated a row between the New York and New Jersey officials, and the former grew threatening in their tone and manner over the refusal of the Summit officer to give up the prisoner.

Fully 3,000 people tried to gain admittance to the town hall when the girl was arraigned. After the justice had taken action committing her to Detective Kelly fought his way through the crowd and went to the Summit Hotel. There he awaited the coming of Arthur Clark, the father of the kidnapped baby, who wanted to identify her.

Detective Kelly had planned to leave Summit with his famous prisoner at 10 o'clock, going to Newark by the D. L. and W, and then from that city to Elizabeth by trolley. Mr. Clark did not arrive at 10 o'clock, however. Then it was agreed to wait till the 12:05 train. He arrived on that. Excitement was at a fever heat when he got to the town. He was hurried to the hotel and up to the room where Miss Anderson was being guarded.

"That's her, that's Carrie Jones," he fairly yelled when he saw the face of the girl.

"How do you do, Mr. Clark," said the girl in a subdued tone.

"You've led me a long chase, but I've got you at last," exclaimed Clark.

Clark was very excited and Detective Kelly decided that the interview had best be cut short. In the meantime it became known about town that Kelly intended to leave town on a train. Instead of doing this, however, he quietly made arrangements to have a horse and buggy ready as soon as Clark had identified the girl, and to get her out of the hotel by a back door without being seen.

This was arranged with success and by 12:30 "Carrie Jones," Detective Kelly and a half dozen other trusted men were driving at a rapid pace towards Elizabeth across country. They arrived at Elizabeth unheralded, and in a few minutes the young woman was a guest of Warden Dodd.

What will be done with her now is a matter to be determined upon later.

When the New York detectives found that they had been outwitted at Summit, they secured rigs and drove pell-mell to Elizabeth, there to find the girl out of their reach. They are wild over the way they were treated.

BAD FALL FROM BICYCLE.

C. E. Hepburn's Wheel Came in Contact With a Stone With Serious Results.

Charles E. Hepburn, the druggist, was severely injured last evening while on his way home. He was riding his wheel on East Second street and when nearly opposite Thompson's old livery establishment took a header by reason of coming in contact with a good-sized hard-head stone which lay in the street. The fall was so severe that for a moment Mr. Hepburn was completely dazed, and when he was picked up by Fireman H. C. Bush, who noticed the mishap from fire headquarters, he was found to be injured so severely as to be unable to walk. He was assisted to his home at 410 East Second street by C. V. D. Corle, and Dr. Jenkins, the family physician, summoned.

The doctor found Mr. Hepburn suffering from a severe cut on the right leg near the knee. His patient also complained of internal injuries. It is not believed, however, that the accident will prove to be anything but a severe shakeup, from which the unfortunate man will recover in a few days.

POLITICAL SLATES IN UNION COUNTY.

Many Aspiring Candidates in Both Parties.

DEMOCRATS ARE ACTIVE.

THINK THEY SEE A CHANCE TO CAPTURE SOME PLACES.

Several Men Who are Anxious to be Named for the Office of Sheriff—Plainfielders are in the Fight and Will Do Their Best to Get a Share of the Plums—A Democratic Picnic.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 5—The Union county Democrats are going to have an outing August 31st which they expect to make a big affair. It will be by water to College Point or Whitestone, L. I. This is the day the slate will be made up for the fall campaign, when a Senator, County Clerk and Sheriff will be chosen besides three Assemblymen.

Owing to the bitter struggle among the Republicans this year for these offices the chances of the Democrats are thought to be improving in the county.

Freeholder William J. Swain, of Summit, is a candidate for Sheriff, and so is Jacob Glaser, of Elizabeth. John L Crowell, of Rahway, it is said, would not be averse to running for County Clerk. Former Sheriff Hicks, of Elizabeth, is talked of for State Senator.

There promises to be a number of Richmonds in the field by the time the outing takes place.

The Union county political slate which it is whispered is most favored by the Republican party leaders is Joseph Cross, of Union, for Senator; William Howard, of Rahway, for County Clerk, and Robert Houston, of Elizabethport, for Sheriff. The trouble, however, is that Sheriff Kirk, of Plainfield, wants to be County Clerk, and so do J. T. McMurray, of Plainfield, and Assemblyman George A. Squire, of Elizabeth.

Freeholder J. Martin Roll, of Springfield, would, it is said, like to be Sheriff.

The slate favored by the leaders leaves Plainfield without any of the plums, and that Gibraltar of Republicanism will hardly submit to be thrown down a second time in this fashion.

The death of William Colgan, City Surveyor of Elizabeth, creates a vacancy that it will be difficult for the Democrats to fill. There is very little available timber, and this was conceded by the way in which year after year Ernest L. Meyer, Republican, was chosen.

Thomas Mackessy is said to be a candidate, and Mr. Meyer would like to get it again.

ALL WANTED CUPS.

L. W. Randolph Sold 2,000 Glasses of Soda Water Saturday.

Saturday was a big day for L. W. Randolph, the popular Front street druggist. He advertised to give away a tin cup to every purchaser of a glass of soda, and as a result he gave away 2,000 cups. Miss Giles, of Sixth street, was in charge of the cups and distributed them to the people as they left the store. The crowd began to arrive during the forenoon, and increased steadily until the cups were all gone about 10 o'clock in the evening. The crowd was so large at one time in the evening that Patrolman Saunders was sent for to clear a passage way into the store, it being impossible for people to get in and out. The cups given away makes a nice souvenir, and inside appears the advertisement of Mr. Randolph. Up and down the various principal streets during the evening there was a clatter of cups and the advertisement proved to be a profitable one.

He Was D. and D

James Frazer was arrested on West Fourth street at an early hour Sunday morning by Patrolman Watson, who charged him with being drunk and disorderly. He was released by Mayor Rockfellow to appear in court this morning, which he did and upon pleading guilty to the charge preferred by the officer was given a reprimand by Judge Runyon and given his liberty, sentence being suspended.

A Good Story Teller.

There will be an entertainment at the Park Clubhouse, Thursday evening, at 8:15 o'clock. Among the entertainers will be Lieutenant Franklyn Hart, of the Naval Reserve. Mr. Hart is a good story teller and a singer as well. The committee in charge of the affair is composed of Elston M. French, Edward T. Wilson and Henry D. Hibbard.

WRONG MAN COMPLAINED

TROUBLE BETWEEN ITALIANS CAME TO A FIZZLE IN COURT.

Nager and Mirando Quarreled About Money Matters and Got Into a Fight—Son Acted as the Complainant for Latter.

Sam Nager and Dominick Mirando, Italians, living in the vicinity of Terrill road, became involved in a quarrel over money matters May 28th. They finally came to blows and in a few moments a lively scrap was the result. Mirando appears to have got the worst of the bout and he caused Nager's arrest on a charge of assault and battery. Justice Nash issued the warrant and Constable Mattox made the arrest.

The defendant secured the services of Frank Blatz as counsel while William Newcorn represented the State.

Saturday afternoon when the trial began the case fell through from the fact that it was shown that James Mirando had made the complaint and not Dominick, who is the father of James, and it was he who had the fight. Therefore, at the suggestion of counsel for the defendant, the case against the accused was dismissed. It is expected that a warrant will be issued for Nager on the complaint of Dominick Mirando.

ALERTS CASH GONE NOW

OLD VOLUNTEERS TURN THEIR FUNDS TO A GOOD PURPOSE.

A Balance of $340 on Hand—After Giving Mrs. Townley $25 They Gave the Rest to the Hospital and Children's Home.

The Alert Hose Company, one of the oldest volunteer fire companies in the State, whose members were composed of some of the most representative and influential citizens of Plainfield, held a meeting Saturday afternoon at their rooms on West Second street for the purpose of making a final disposition of the funds left in the treasurer's hands at the time the company went out of active service with the introduction of the paid call system. The amount of money on hand was found to be $340 There were various opinions expressed by the members of the company as to the best disposition of the funds.

After a free discussion of the matter it was decided to present Mrs. Townley, wife of Driver William Townley, with $25 as an appreciation of the many favors she had done for the company, and to divide the remainder of the sum between the Muhlenberg Hospital and the Children's Home.

After the meeting Foreman Roger F. Murray offered to treat and it was unanimously agreed to adjourn to Randolph's soda fountain.

ADVERTISING THE IDEA.

Business Men Realize That What Plainfield Needs is Paying Publicity.

Mayor Smalley has called a meeting of the business men of the city for next Wednesday evening. The meeting will be held in Coward's Hall on East Front street, where the former gathering met. The special committee appointed to devise ways and means for an organization will meet tomorrow night and discuss the situation and try to evolve a method which can be successfully undertaken by the business men.

Their report will be presented at the public meeting, and at that time it is probable that a permanent organization will be effected. The idea of advertising the city's advantages in a liberal manner has become a popular subject for discussion, and one of the first undertakings of the organization will probably be along that line.

Death of a Bartender.

The death of Charles Bracher, aged 30 years, occurred last evening at Dreyer's Hotel, on Somerset street, where he was a bartender. Mr. Bracher came to Plainfield from Brooklyn, and for sometime has suffered from erysipelas which caused his death. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan was the attending physician and he did all in his power to cause restoration to health, but all efforts were unavailing. Mr. Bracher recently came to this city and is not known except to Mr. Dreyer and his family.

Royal Arcanum Committee.

D. W. Littell, L. B. Woolston and J. E. Townsend, of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, have been appointed a committee to attend the burial of their late brother, John M. Dayton The Arcanumites presented a beautiful floral piece. The funeral will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

—"The Pledge" will be discussed in open parliament at the young people's meeting in Trinity Reformed church tonight. Visitors are always welcome.

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS WERE OUT IN FORCE.

Charles W. Fisk Leads in Hillside Club Contest.

NEW FACES ON PARK LINKS.

SCORES MADE IN PLAY SATURDAY FOR M'CUTCHEN CUP.

A Bit of Sensation Caused by the Phenomenal Score of a Supposed Novice—Placed at Scratch and Made Highest Net Score While Being Carefully Watched by a Number of Spectators.

The largest attendance of the season was recorded at the course of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club last Saturday. The beautiful weather brought the enthusiasts out in crowds and all day the grounds and clubhouse were filled with people. The special attraction for the day was the final play for the Chapman cup between Charles W. Fisk and Parker W. Mason. The former won by 3 up and 1 to play. This makes the second consecutive time that Mr. Fisk has won this cup and he will be obliged to win it a third time to become the permanent owner of it. The play throughout was close and very exciting.

The usual social features were enjoyed at the clubhouse and in the evening many remained to enjoy the excellent dinner served by Steward Ivamy.

There was the usual large attendance at the Park Golf Club course Saturday and the popular game was played continually throughout the day. In addition to the regulars on the course there were many new faces who appeared for the first time. The greens are now in superfine condition and good scores are becoming the rule under the efficient coaching of Richard Cass, the expert teacher.

Saturday morning there were very few players on the course who were entered in the junior scratch tournament, and owing to the small number of entries the tournament has been extended another week.

In the afternoon play for the Mrs. C. W. McCutchen cup was continued with considerable enthusiasm, and some excellent scores were made. F. P. Taylor was low man, with a net score of 94. The scores recorded are as follows:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
F. P. Taylor	97	3	94
F. S. Overton	123	22	101
M. Dryden	132	30	102
H. D. Hibbard	127	22	105
E. T. Douglass	132	26	106
George Worth	136	30	106
G. W. Faber	111	3	108
G. W. Cooley	125	14	111
Volney Green	139	18	121
W. J. R. Thiers	135	12	123
Aubrey. Crowe	127	0	127

There was a bit of a sensation at the course Saturday over one of the scores made. A short time ago the handicaps were made and one player received a very good handicap. His score which followed was exceptionally low, lower in fact than a majority thought it should be. As a result the handicaps were rearranged and this player was placed at scratch, and the next time he contested another player accompanied him around the course. The result was his score was the highest net score recorded. In this regard it can be said that the honor of a player is at stake, and if he "fixes" his score it is a gross injustice to other players. If possible this will be avoided.

A tea was given at the clubhouse in the afternoon, at which Mrs. Chas. A. Reed presided, assisted by Mrs. E. T. Douglass. The attendance at the tea was large and greatly enjoyed by all

For Aid of Babies' Camp.

An ice-cream, cake and candy sale, for the benefit of the babies' camp supported by the City Union of King's Daughters, was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Skillman, 1326 Watchung avenue, by Miss Ethel Skillman, Miss Constance Wilcox, Miss Grace Wilcox, Dudley Wilcox and Frank Wilcox. Tables decorated with flowers were scattered about the lawn, and here during the afternoon the young people dispensed ice cream and delicious home-made cakes and candies. The profits were $5.

Summer House Opened.

Councilman Geo. P. Mellick's new summer house near the Hillside Tennis and Golf clubhouse was formally opened Saturday evening when the owner took possession and entertained a few of his friends. The house is complete in every particular, and just the place to pass the very warm weather.

Engagements.

The engagement is announced of Miss Emma F. Gillem, of 113 Duer street, to Leonard S. Smith, of 109 Duer street.

The engagement is also announced of Miss Grace C. Smith, of Park avenue, and William H. Olmsted, of Bank place.

FIRE IN RINK BUILDING.

CAUSED BY TENANT BAKING BREAD AT 3:15 A. M.

Might Have Been a Serious Conflagration if Not Discovered as it Was—Third Fire at Brady's Icehouse.

The fire department was obliged to answer to two still alarms yesterday, but in neither case did the fires amount to much, although the first at 3:15 o'clock yesterday morning might have proved a serious one. It was in the appartments occupied by the captain of the Salvation Army and his family, in the rink building on Watchung avenue.

The captain's wife was baking bread at that hour with an oil stove. They evidently were unconscious of an impending fire, but a man named Thomas, residing in an apartment beneath them, smelled the smoke. He hastened to headquarters and gave the alarm. Assistant Chief Jennings and Driver Wm. Ross hastened to the scene of the fire with No. 2 hose wagon. An investigation proved that the fire was behind the walls, and after tearing off several strips of board twelve inches long, it was discovered that two 2x4 inch studs were almost burned through. If this had not been discovered in time no doubt a large conflagration would have followed. Through the use of extinguishers the fire was soon put out and little damage resulted.

The second "still" was at the site of Brady Brothers' icehouse, which was recently destroyed by fire. In some unknown manner the sawdust, lying about the place caught fire and was blazing fiercely. This makes the third time that the department has been called to that place. No. 2 hose wagon was taken out, and in a little while the fire was extinguished The damage was very slight.

RIDING ON SIDEWALK.

EIGHT OFFENDING CYCLERS ROUNDED UP BY THE POLICE.

All Caught on West Front Street in Evona—Released on Own Recognizance, but Only Three Appeared in Court.

Numerous complaints having been made by the residents of Evona that the sidewalks were being used frequently by wheelmen to the annoyance of pedestrians and in violation of the city ordinance, Chief Grant has given the matter his attention and notified the policemen to stop the practice and arrest the offenders.

Though the weather was exceedingly warm yesterday, Roundsman Frederickson was particularly alert and kept his eye on the wheelmen.

Between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock the Roundsman had swooped down upon the sidewalk riders and by sundown had gathered in the following:

Russell Randolph, West Third street; Charles Hyde, Clinton avenue; Lizzie Allison, 135 Orchard street; John McCullough, North Plainfield; Edward Allen, Somerset street; Fred L. Stillman and wife, 816 Grant avenue; A. Sutsphen, 22 Vanderpool street, Newark.

These people were all detected riding on Front street near Clinton avenue. They were released on their own recognizance to appear in court at 9 this morning. Charles Hyde, John McCullough and Edward Allen kept their promise and were before Judge Runyon at the appointed hour. The judge administered a severe reprimand to them and then suspended sentence. The others who failed to appear will be looked up by the police and cited before the magistrate.

MAYOR ACTED AS JUSTICE.

Mr. Smalley Discharges Mr. Sprigg With a Warning.

Saturday evening the case of Lewis Sprigg, who was charged with disorderly conduct, came before Mayor Smalley in the borough court room at 7 o'clock. S. S. Swackhamer appeared for the defendant, and upon certain technical objections being interposed the defendant was discharged by the Mayor, and in so doing Mayor Smalley stated that there must be no more disorderly or misconduct, and earnestly urged the defendant to maintain peace and harmony in his home hereafter.

Very Gratifying Accession.

At the communion services of Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning a very gratifying accession to the church was the receiving of ten persons into full membership, five on confession and five by letter. The fact that four of the five persons who joined on confession were members of the Sabbath-school was the occasion for thankfulness to God by parents, pastor and teachers.

Mrs. David Boice and daughter Miss Boice, of Park avenue, are taking a trip out of town.

DAILY PRESS TO AID BABIES' CAMP FUND.

Popular Subscriptions to Raise Needed $300.

THE WORK APPEALS TO ALL.

MONEY REQUIRED TO RE-ESTABLISH THE CAMP.

The Daily Press Will Start the Subscriptions With $5, and Will Act as a Medium for Those Who Desire to Contribute to the Fund—Small Amounts Will be as Welcome as Large Ones.

In making the lives of little tots brighter, healthier and happier by the visit to the Baby Camp on Johnston's drive during the heated season for the past few years the City Union of King's Daughters has been doing a noble and worthy work that appeals to the softer and kindlier side of life. Starting in a small way, the camp last year became an institution that at the end of the season convinced those who recognized and appreciated its work, to be an indispensible detail in the philanthropic work of this vicinity, because it reached a class of persons whom no other movement sought to aid. Its particular purpose was to care for the poor little babies.

Those who have observed or are acquainted to any extent among the poor families of Plainfield are able to realize what a work like this means. It means that the city nurse made a trip each morning and gathered up little girls, some not yet able to walk, from the poorest homes of the city, where life is a contradiction of what most of us delight to associate with baby days. Once the children arrived at the camp there was a wide change from the scene that most of the little guests had become accustomed to. Rugged and wooded land formed a protection on all sides save for the narrow road cut out for the stage to wend its way in and out of the camp. In the center of the cleared spot stood a quaint, substantial structure, a visit to the interior of which showed the handiwork of those who had planned for the purpose of making the stay of the little guests one of extreme pleasure and benefit. In and out of this rustic little resort the juveniles romped, played or slept, as their varying moods suggested, all day. But watching over them with a motherly eye was the city nurse, who fed this hungry little one with rich milk, rocked her neighbor into a slumber, soothed the fretful one with a piece of bread, explained a simple little game for another's amusement, and kept a supervising eye on the whole party. It was a pretty picture and one that could not but touch the heart of the older visitor.

As the sun was setting in the west, and the camp was swept by a cooling, refreshing breeze, the babies were rounded up and bundled into the stage again and returned to their homes, the livelier and the happier for their day's experience. These incidents were repeated day after day all summer, a work which appeals to everyone.

For this summer the City Union of King's Daughters were making plans for a resumption of their baby camp endeavors on a liberal scale, but last spring a forest fire on the mountain crept close to the camp and in a few minutes it was laid in ashes and the work of several seasons totally destroyed.

Some weeks ago, however, the King's Daughters commenced to plan for rebuilding the camp. The matter was gone over and it was found that $500 would be needed to put the camp in as good conition as it was last summer. Then they commenced to figure. They figured and they figured, but do their very best they found themselves short about $300. The season for their good work, if they are to continue, is nearly at hand. Whatever is to be done must be consummated quickly.

As stated, $300 is needed to re establish the camp in fine shape and make it one of the splendid philanthropic institutions of Plainfield. The Daily Press believes that the people of Plainfield will give liberally and readily for the camp's needs if the matter is brought to their attention in the right manner. The Daily Press is ready to do its share. It will start a popular subscription fund and agree to act as an agent for the City Union of King's Daughters in the enterprise, accepting such amounts as may be offered and turning them over to the proper committee. Each day it will publish the list of donors and the amounts given. No matter how small the sum it will be welcome. Every penny counts towards reaching the aggregate sum needed. It is to be

PROVES A GOOD BUYER

PAYS PRICE, GETS CHANGE, BUT THE CHECK IS N. G.

Somerset Men are Swindled—They Would Like to Meet This Man With a Glib Tongue and False Money Orders.

A clever swindler in the garb of a farmer has appeared near Somerville, who, after purchasing a bill of goods, offers a check for a larger amount than the bill and asks for the change. He first tried his hand in the village store at Neshanic. Then he appeared at Bound Brook as a drummer and went to Simon's clothing store. He gave a check for $40 and took the clothing and change.

At Amerman & Reger's grocery at Raritan he bought 100 pounds of sugar, gave a check for $18 and took the change. At E. Vanfleet & Son's shoe store he bought shoes for himself, wife and child, the bill amounting to nearly $10. He gave a check for $14 and received the change.

The swindler's checks have always been drawn to the order of Jacob Foster and signed by John T. Cox, a wealthy farmer at Readington, formerly Sheriff of Hunterdon county. Mr. Cox declares them all forgeries.

The fellow is slim, with a light mustache.

REPUDIATES MORTGAGE.

DISCIPLES' CHURCH CLAIMS THAT FORMER PASTOR IS RESPONSIBLE.

Present Congregation Declines to Assume the Obligation and as a Result it Will Probably be Carried Into Court.

The First Disciples' church has received service of a notice of foreclosure of mortgage of $2,000, as a sequel to the troubles which were aired through the courts several months ago at the time Pastor B. W. Hand resigned and took part of the congregation with him.

The peculiar legal situation is that the church refuses to recognize the existence of the mortgage, and at a recent meeting was so recorded. The mortgage exists, but whether legally or not must be determined later by the courts, for the church has retained Counselors Codington & Swackhamer to fight the foreclosure.

It is claimed that the pastor and the trustees without any sanction from the congregation put a mortgage on the church in 1895, and the church would have liked it had Hand taken it with him when he went

KILLED ON THE TRACK.

Peter Saums' Father Lost His Life by Not Hearing the Warning Whistle.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 5.—John Saums, aged sixty years, father of Peter Saums, of North Plainfield, was instantly killed at the Hamilton street crossing of the Central Railroad Saturday afternoon. He was walking the track, and on being deaf was unable to hear the whistle of the engine that was approaching him from the rear drawing a westbound freight. He was hurled forty feet. His skull was fractured and his arm and leg were broken. Engineer W. B. Smith stopped his train so suddenly that it caused a car to leave the track, crashing into a signal tower and standpipe near the station, demolishing them and blocking the westbound track for some time.

DINED AT THE HUNTERSTON.

Bachelors' Club Had a Good Time After Their Ball Game.

The Hotel Hunterston at Netherwood, which is now open for the season, has a number of guests already and more are expected this week. Some important improvements have been made to the hotel and the house is now in first-class condition for the reception of guests. The beautiful grounds have been placed in an inviting condition and are now as picturesque as formerly. PASTOR SHOTT WANTS CHURCH MEN TO HELP

If Scotch Plains is to be Reformed He Must Have Aid.

DOES NOT PROPOSE TO QUIT.

SAYS THAT HE IS RECEIVING MUCH ENCOURAGEMENT NOW.

He Has Been Appealed To To Go Slow, But Declares That He Will Not Do So—Is Afraid Another Boy May be Swallowed Up by Hell or Another Girl Lost—Appeal for Help.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 5.—Rev. G. M. Shott, pastor of the Baptist church, continued his sermons yesterday concerning the morality of the town and his efforts to raise its standard. Though the day was warm and not inducive to church going except to the old worshippers, the edifice was well filled at both the morning and evening services.

The sermon in general was an appeal to the Christian people of the town to live their lives so as to be models to their weaker brethren and sisters. "I plead earnestly and fervently from the pulpit Sunday last for volunteers for this work," said the minister, "and they have been responding slowly ever since by word, letters, handshakes and offers of financial aid. Sometimes the response would be accompanied by a moistened eye. If you are going to stand by me now is the time for your prayers and support. The church should be first in your lives even before the home and above all before the social life. Some have so many engagements that when a spirit of revival starts in a church they have to look over their notes and generally say: 'Pastor, I have another engagement for that evening.' Let not your social life entangle your Christian career. I have been approached by some and told that this was hardly the time and to wait. But I say I am a soldier under orders and will obey.

"What do you want to wait for? For another boy to be swallowed up in Hell or another girl lost? Now is the time to strike! Others say property has decreased 10 per cent. in valuation since I began my crusade. I suggest to those people, if they are good business men, to buy up some of the property in town which is decreasing so rapidly. It will rise again, for property always rises with the moral standard of a community and not by the number of saloons, etc., you have.

"I feel sorry for this old church and its membership because of the notoriety some say this matter has given the town—simply because the pastor of the church is preaching the Gospel."

Mr. Shott has had all the financial aid offered him that will be necessary to carry on the work which he has started and will push to the end.

An amusing side of the notoriety part of the case came to light Saturday when Dr. Lambert, of Glenside Park, came before Judge Clark and asked to have Charles N. Flanders bound over to keep the peace. The doctor, who is a New York specialist, has until recently lived in Mrs. Flanders' cottage on the mountains. A short time ago he concluded to make a change and go to Glenside Park to live. In severing the relation of landlord and tenant trouble was started and the doctor claims Mr. Flanders became very much excited and threatened to do him harm. Judge Clark advised the doctor to think over the matter before taking any further steps, and also explained to the doctor that it is still safe for any one on the streets.

To Be Placed in a State Institution.

Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, of East Second street, went to Vineland this morning, taking with her a young girl to be placed in the State Institute for feeble minded children, Governor Voorhees having notified Mrs. Woodruff that there was a vacancy in the institute and selecting the Plainfield girl as the next in order.

Still Pending.

BACK TO RANK AND HONOR

Court of Cassation Has Ordered Dreyfus Back From Devil's Island.

INNOCENCE PRESUMED.

The Captain's Cross of Legion of Honor to be Returned to Him With Military Belongings.

Decision of Court of Cassation Places Captain Dreyfus in New Position—To Return to France Immediately for New Court Martial—The Trial to Take Place at Rennes.

Paris, June 5.—After a three-hours' session the Dreyfus sentence of life imprisonment on Devil's Island for treason was quashed by the Court of Cassation.

The assembled Judges of all the branches of this supreme tribunal of France then ordered that Dreyfus be given a new trial before the military court to sit at Rennes.

The decision places Dreyfus in the position of a "prevenu"—an accused man who, while awaiting trial, is presumed to be innocent.

The Colonial Minister has instructed M. Deniel, the chief official at the penal settlement at Cayenne, to restore to he prisoner his military belongings and his cross of the Legion of Honor.

Albert Dreyfus will then resume his rank as Capt. Dreyfus.

He is to be placed in charge of a Lieutenant of the Gendarmerie and addressed as "Mon Capitaine."

He will return to France immediately, it is expected, on the steam packet

CAPT. DREYFUS.

Jaiffray, now at Cayenne, landed at Rochefort, on the west coast, and given into the hands of the military authorities there for conveyance to Rennes, which is in that region.

By agreement between the defence and the Goverment Prosecutor, probably the court-martial will deal only with the bordereau. So the proceedings will be brief and formal.

Then will come an order for his rehabilitation on the parade ground of the Military School on the Champs de Mars, where he was drummed out of the army Jan. 5, 1895, after his sword was broken and he was stripped of insignia of rank.

If Du Paty de Clam dies in the Cherche Midi prison, where five years ago he sent Dreyfus, dramatic justice will be done, but this fellow has not abandoned hope.

Washington, June 5.—The decision in the Dreyfus case excited much interest in official and diplomatic quarters, particularly at the French Embassy, and the disposition was to accept the conclusions of he Court as final and for the best interests of all concerned. Those holding responsible posts were unwilling to discuss the a case which has aroused such keen feeling, but in a well-informed quarter it was said that the decision was particularly important in taking the trial to the quiet Brittany town of Rennes. This removes the case from the excitement and contention of Paris, and allows the future inquiries to proceed calmly.

Suicide a Convict's Wife.

Boston, Mass., June 5.—It is accepted as a fact that the woman who committed suicide in San Francisco, and was known as Mrs. Herbert Clark, was the wife of Clarence Murphy, former teller of the Salem Savings Bank, who is now in States Prison. Murphy was detected in 1893 in a shortage amounting to about $47,000. On the day of the discovery he excused himself from the director's room for a moment, and, taking $500 more, escaped with his horse and buggy. Just before his detection he had married Miss Margaret Sullivan, of South Boston, who inherited a comfortable fortune from her father, Colonel Stable Barry Sullivan, and had lived with her sister in a hndsome house in East Sixth street. She was a very handsome girl and was infatuated with Murphy, although the marriage was strongly opposed by her family.

$18,000,000 in Gold Expected.

Seattle, Wash, June 5.—The steamer Humboldt, seven days from Skagway, brings news of the opening of navigation on the chain of Alaskan lakes and rivers to Dawson. The Yukon is also clear of ice.

The steamers on the lakes, when navigation was first opened, charged $100 for passage to Dawson, but the Canadian boats cut rates to $65, and then the Americans dropped to $2.50. The fight is still going on.

The first shipments of gold dust will come out by the inland water route, and are expected at the Seattle Government Assay Office by June 15, a month sooner than by the old ocean route. Miners arriving say that the shipments this season will be $18,000,000.

The Longest Electric Road

Lima, Ohio, June 5.—The longest electric railway in the world, 153 miles, will be built from Toledo to Dayton. Work will commence at once, building both ways from this city. A company with half a million capital will be organized for the purpose by Lima people.

CAUGHT IN A SHAFT.

A Man Whirled 180 Revolutions in 30 Seconds and Lives.

Binghampon, N. Y., June 5.—Frank Nevel, an employe at the Sydney Novelty Works had an experience that nearly cost him his life. He was mending a belt and stood on a ladder which leaned against a shaft that was making 380 revolutions a minute. The ladder slipped, throwing him against the pulley, which caught his clothing and dragged him lengthwise onto the shaft. His head projected into an adjacent wheel, and he was whirled with frightful velocity, his feet striking and tearing out the bridging overhead. As soon as possible the machinery was stopped and his body removed. He was thought to be dead and the Coroner was summoned. Suddenly he spoke, and his voice startled his fellow employes. It was found that though badly bruised no bones were broken.

Mr. Nevel is the first man ever caught on a shaft who lived to tell his experience. He said he realized that death was near, but grasped the shaft and clung to it while whirled about. The sensation at first was something delightful, but the rapid motion soon caused him to lose consciousness. When he regained it his head was still whirling, and he thought he was still on the shaft. He made 180 revolutions in thirty seconds. He will soon be able to attend to his work again.

Killed by Storm in Kansas

Kansas City, June 5.—Two people were killed and several were injured in a fierce storm general throughout Kansas. A deluge of rain, amounting to from three to four inches, was followed by a wind storm approaching the proportion of a tornado. Near Valley Centre Mrs. William Thompson, sixty years of age, was struck by lightning and killed and eleven miles northeast of Stafford George W. Ritter was killed and two of his family were injured, their house being blown away.

Restoring Gettysburg Park.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 5.—The Gettysburg Battle Field Commission has begun the work of restoring the battleground as nearly as possible to its appearance when the great battle occurred in July, 1863. The numerous springs are being walled in to preserve them in their places, cannon are being arranged in the position of every battery that took part in the battle, and all he buildings on the thirty-five square miles of the battle-ground are being restored to their original appearance.

Great Fun for Rough Riders.

East Las Vegas, N. M., June 5.—Great preparations are being made here for the Rough Riders reunion on June 24, 25 and 26. An elaborate three-days' programme is being arranged for the entertainment of the Rough Riders, guests and visitors. On the first day there will be addresses by Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, Lieut.-Col. A. O. Broadie, President of the Regimental Organization, and Lieut. J. D. Carter, Secretary of the organization.

Probably Capt. Crapo's Body.

Providence, R. I., June 5.—A body was found on Charlestown beach, on the southern coast of the State, by Capt. Charles Church, and there is every reason to believe that the remains are those of adventurous Capt. Thomas Crapo, who on April 26 left this city in a nine-foot dory, the Volunteer, for a trip to Cuba. He was last seen by Capt. Church and the men at the life-saving station at Point Judith, which he passed on May 3.

Repentent Wife Returns.

Wilmington, Del., June 5.—Samuel Clark had a quarrel with his wife at York, Pa., one week ago. He removed to New Castle, where he obtained work in the Delaware Iron Works. Clark was surprised to see his wife and daughter at the works. The woman acknowledged she was in the wrong, and the husband agreed to return home. Then his wife informed him that her father had died and left her $25,000.

Another Wage Scale for Coal Miners.

Birmingham, Ala., June 5.—The Tennessee Coal and Iron Company announced another advance of 2½ cents a ton in the wages of its 6,000 coal miners. This is the fourth advance since March 1, making the total increase 10 cents a ton, or 25 per cent. Higher prices for iron, which control the miners' wage scale, caused all these advances. Other operators will make a like raise, 10,000 in all being affected.

Blind Man a Murderer.

Uniontown, Pa., June 5.—Mrs. Minerva Monaghan was murdered in her home on Jefferson street by Councilman William McCormack, who was also seriously injured by her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude McGogan, and his rival, Richard Diffenderfer. The tragedy was committed in a fit of jealousy. The murderer is blind, and it is marvelous that one in his condition could commit the crimes he did.

Predicts a Subsidy Bill.

Washington, June 5.—Chairman Payne, of the House Ways and Means Committee, in an interview, expressed the opinion that the next Congress would pass a bill for the encouragement of the merchant marine by granting subsidies. He also expressed the opinion that a currency bill would be passed.

Death and Disaster on Klondike Trail.

Victoria, B. C., June 5.—Passengers by the steamer Danube, from the North, bring stories of death and disaster to prospectors on the Edmonton trail. At least fifty boats, they say, have capsized on the Great Slave Lake since last summer, resulting in the drowning of many prospectors.

Hot Weather Benefits Foreign Crops

London, June 5.—The hot summer weather which has recently set in has been very beneficial for wheat in Great Britain and on the Continent. Reports received from the principal grain producing centres are favorable for a good crop.

Bank Accountant Missing.

Ottawa, Ont., June 5.—John H. Henderson, an accountant of the Union Bank, has been missing since June 29, and it is charged that by false entries he robbed the bank of about $30,000.

The Most Absurd and Extravagant Demands Made By Cuban Claimants—Complained That Fields Near Santiago Were Disfigured By the Graves of Our Heroic Dead Soldiers.

Washington, June 5.—The Army Board of Claims, organized to examine the Cuban claims in the province of Santiago has made its report to the War Department. The report is signed by Major Boardman, of the Fifth Immunes, president of the Board, and he gives the Cuban character about as black an aspect as ever given in a public report. The report has not been made public, but the following extracts show its character:

"We have the honor to report that all the business before the Army Board of Claims has been disposed of, except the claim of Brooks & Co., for $3,000 for the use and destruction of one lighter.

"Since our connection with the board dating from February 24, 1899, to the present day, we have investigated and disposed of fifty cases, involving, in round numbers, $450,000. Of this sum we have found only $8,500, which we think the United States either in law or morals is called upon to pay, and in recommending that this sum be paid we were prompted more by the spirit of equality than strict justice.

"Our duties upon this board have brought us in contact with every class and condition of Cuban citizenship, and we regret to report that qualities and characteristics have been revealed in the prosecution of these investigations which are not creditable to any people. Ninety five per cent. of the claims considered were conceived in a spirit of dishonesty, and supported almost entirely by the most unblushing falsehoods. In truth, the most absurd and extravagant demands were made, and universally a crowd of witnesses compassed us about, ready to swear to any proposition which was deemed necessary by the unscrupulous claimant whose tool they were, to aid in robbing the United States Government. Unmindful of the fact that the United States had expended large sums of money, and sacrificed some of her brightest and purest men for Cuban liberty, still we find these people demanding that rent be paid them by the United States for the land which the American soldiers occupied while actually fighting Cuba's battle around Santiago. Worse still, they complained bitterly that their fields should be disfigured by the temporary graves of our peerless patriotic dead. They have also endeavored to make the United States pay for property and repair losses for which the Cuban and Spanish armies were responsible damage done long before the American army landed upon the island of Cuba.

"Such a want of appreciation, such beastly ingratitude, would cause the callous-hearted cowardly coyote to cover homself with shame. Yet, the average Cuban claimant, with an air of persecuted and injured innocence, makes his demand as though he were the benefactor and the Americans the beneficiaries. They are as conscienceless as a cancer and as cruel as they are cowardly. We sincerely hope that when these cases come before Congress for payment that the facts may be known as we know them, and that justice may be dealt out strictly to this lot of deliberate would-be robbers.'

No More Yellow Jack.

New Orleans, June 5.—Dr. W. H. Sanders, Health Officer of Alabama; Glen Andrews, member of the Alabama Board of Health and Health Officer of Montgomery; H. H. Haralson and H. A. Gant, members of the Mississippi Board of Health and Health Officers of that State, and W. W. Ashten, Inspector of the Louisiana Board of Health, after a thorough investigation of the health conditions of New Orleans, including all the hospitals and infirmaries, have reported as follows on the yellow fever situation:

"We have been unable to find any other case of suspicious illness in the city, an dhave not been able to trace the source of infection in the case reported. The State and local health authorities have afforded us all reasonable assistance in this investigation. We deem it unnecessary and unwise for any State or city to quarantine against New Orleans under the present conditions."

Cars Blown Away.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 5—Word has reached this city that a freight train on the Chicago and Illinois Railroad near Watseka Ill., was struck by a cyclone while running at a good rate of speed and the wind carried five cars out of the train and blew out two tracks for a distance of sixty feet, together with a good portion of the road-bed. Two cars loaded with barrels and two loaded with heavy lumber were lifted bodily from the tracks and thrown into a ditch, while an empty box car was hurled clear off the tracks.

The Alameda Gold Robbery.

San Francisco, Cal., June 5.—Willard R. Green and J. R. Porter, who were taken to the police headquarters and questioned in connection with the mysterious disappearance of $25,000 in gold from the steamship Alameda on her trip from Sydney to this port, were released by the police after a few hours at headquarters. The police have concluded that Green and Porter had no connection with the disappearance of the money.

His Uniform Was Dazzling.

Washington, June 5.—Resplendent in a gorgeous uniform and escorted by Secretary of State Hay and two secretaries of the Spanish Embassy, the Duke de Arcos, the newly accredited Minister from Spain, was formally presented to President McKinley. The Duke's uniform was the most dazzling seen in this city for months.

WHO WILL BE SPEAKER?

Something of a Turn in Tide in the Race for Speakership Honors

HENDERSON IN THE LEAD

Westesn and Northwestern States Are Said to be Very Nearly Solid for the Iow Congressman.

Discussion Regarding the Reason for Selecting May 30 as National Memorial or Decoration Day—Idea Originated Among Maryland Women—Other News From the National Capital.

Washington, June 5.—Something of a turn in the Speakership tide has been experienced here within the past day or two, and among those best posted in political affairs it is conceded that the strong support for Col. Henderson, of Iowa, which is coming to the surface every day, gives him an encouraging prospect to capture the coveted honor. The western and nothwestern States will go, it appears at present, very nearly solid for the Iowa man, and the support that has been pledged to him by eastern admirers puts him somewhat in the lead of other aspirants. The withdrawal of Hopkins from the race has increased Henderson's prospects to a considerable extent. A good many Congressmen in the Middle States have also pledged themselves to support the Western man.

New York, June 5.—Sixteen members of the Sixty-fifth Congress, comprise the Republican delegation from this State, have swung into line for David B. Henderson, of Iowa, for the Speakership. The caucus of the New York men will be held in porlor D R of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, when a formal endorsement of the Iowan probably will be recorded.

The President has begun his round of diploma distributing, making his first appearance in this capacity at the commencement of the law school of the Howard University, the large colored institution of Washington. The exercises were very interesting. From now on the President will be in demand for commencements.

There has been a great deal of discussion this year as to why May 30 was selected as Decoration Day. Some have said that it was on Gen. Grant's suggestion that a National Memorial Day was selected. The idea originated among the women of Maryland, who put flowers upon the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers once a year during the War of the Rebellion. By the time the war was over, the custom had spread to other States, and it had almost become general among the Northern people, but it was not until 1869 that Gen. John A. Logan, as Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, appointed May 30 for that purpose. In his order he called the day Memorial Day. It is said that he selected May 30 because it corresponds with the date of the last honorable discharge given a soldier in the Union Army in the war between the States. Within the last few years he name has gradually been chnged from Memorial Day to Decoration Day.

Gold is coming into the United States Treasury at such a rapid rate that the clerks find it difficult to count it and put it away in bags. In fact, some one has remarked that Uncle Sam now has more gold than he can count, and that for the first time in his history there is more gold in the United States than any other country in the world. It is said that with what this Government now holds and what is in circulation the total comes very near one thousand million of dollars On the 1st day of May Uncle Sam presented as a consolation purse to Spain $20,000,000, and since that time the gold has been pouring in in such a stream that the hole made is nearly filled and the Treasury statement for last month shows that there is $261,281,301.67 of gold coin and bullion in the Treasury.

Now that the President's civil service order has been promulgated for several days, those affected are beginning to understand that the President was letting down the bars and putting in office hordes of clerks that are now carried on the temporary rolls have found that they read the order wrongly, and that the bars are not to be let down so very fast. The special section to which the civil service reformers took so much exception, was the one allowing temporary clerks to be transferred to the regular rolls by the appointing power. This was thought to affect a large number of clerks appointed in the War Department during war times. Since the order was issued, Secretary Alger, at the War Department, and Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn have been beseiged by the temporary clerks with requests to be placed on the regular rolls. To their amazement, all these clerks have been told that it was not the intention of the President, nor the meaning of the change in the rules, to transfer them to permanent places. This would be creating new clerkships, a thing which the President never intended, nor would the law allow.

Joy in the Race to Stay.

Washington, June 5.—Representative Charles F. Joy, of St. Louis, has announced in Washington that he is to be a candidate for the Speakership to the last, and said it would be premature to speak of the effect of the withdrawal of Representative Hopkins Mr. Joy counts upon the solid support of the Missouri delegation.

Was a Premeditated Riot.

Paris, June 5.—It was a premeditated riot that took place on the weighing ground of the Auteuil race course. The object of the rioters was to insult President Loubet, and, perhaps, in the heat of faction and fight to get rid of him.

SAW HIS SISTER KILLED

Brother Failed to Recognize the Girl Who Committed Suicide.

Chicago, June 5.—Miss Jessie Ettinger, nineteen years old, threw herself in front of a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger train at Clark and Addison streets and was killed almost instantly.

Among those who saw the accident was Everett C. Ettinger, her brother. He had been on a Clark street electric car, only a few feet away from the railroad crossing, and joined the throng that surrounded the mangled form of the girl without recognizing it.

"It's too bad," he said, as he went to his home.

"Have you seen Jessie?" asked his mother as she met him at the door. "We have looked all over for her and she can't be found."

Half an hour later news of her death was brought to the house. The girl had been melancholy for several days.

Mob May Burn a Negro.

Atlanta, Ga., June 5.—Harvey Mennifield, a negro, who assaulted the little eight-year-old daughter of Mr. John Smith near here, is surrounded by a mob in the swamp fifteen miles from Atlanta, and if captured he may meet a similar fate to that of Sam Hose, who was burned at the stake near Newnan. The mob chased the negro several miles, and his capture and death are regarded as a matter of only a short time. Mannifield's victim died from her injuries.

Says Charges of Barbarity Are False

Chicago, Ill., June 5.—The Times-Herald has received a cablegram from Professor Dean C. Worcester, of the Philippines Commission, denying statements of barbarity on the part of American soldiers which have appeared in some of the American newspapers. Professor Worcester states that such of the charges made by these newspapers as have come to their attention are in "the main grossly exaggerated and in some cases absolutely false."

Husband and Wife Fight Duel

Clayton, Ga., June 5.—News has just reached here of an unusual duel between husband and wife which happened three miles south of this place. Moses Shirley, a well-known farmer, returned to his home in the evening, and it is reported his wife assaulted him with a clawhammer. He wrestled with her and secured the weapon. She then hurled a heavy buggy wrench at him, and finally became so violent that he shot her twice in self-defense.

COMING EVENTS.

June 5—Association Volunteer League at Y. M. C. A. 8 p. m.

Elizabeth is contemplating extensive street improvements in the direction of permanent pavement, the same as Plainfield is, and at a meeting of the Elizabeth Council last week bids were received from companies desiring to do the work. Inasmuch as this city will be going through the same experience in a few weeks it will be interesting to know how the bids run. The bids for asphalt ran from $2.09 per square yard to $2 50 per square yard, the proposals being submitted for lake and rock asphalt, the latter being the highest quality. The trapblock proposals varied from $1.42 to $1.75 per square yard; the telford from 84 cents to $1 15 per square yard, and brick from $1.71 to $2.23 per square yard.

The borough is certainly to be congratulated for the way in which her taxpayers have come forward and settled their taxes. Of the 1898 personal tax there is only $20 remaining unpaid, while of the poll tax there is about $60 unpaid. Collector Brown has used the limit of the law to secure this money, and many persons threatened with arrest have come up and settled rather than go to jail. Mr. Brown will coutinue to enforce the law and make every person pay up or take the consequence.

The Philadelphia Record observes that "like the use of the bicycle, the use of the automobile contrivances will raise up new advocates for better roads. What was denied to suffering horseflesh may be conceded to human beings who kick their way along the highways and to the desire for speedier and safer propulsion in the horseless carriages. From this point of view the new inventions are likely to prove a boom to those who do not use them as well as to those who do."

David B. Henderson, of Iowa, will be the next Speaker. The Ohio delegation has decided to support his candidacy on Hanna's orders, and that insures his election. This means President McKinley will have more influence in Congress than he has possessed since becoming chief executive.

A Washington (N. J.) paper suggests Former Congressman Cornish as the Democratic State leader. The Hunterdon County Democrat names Congressman Daly. The Bayonne Herald nominates Allan L. McDermott upon whose broad shoulders the mantle of Leon Abbett rests.

WILLIAM WALDORF ASTOR HAS A GRIEVANCE.
William Waldorf Astor, who draws a fortune annually from American real estate holdings and lives in princely style in London and at his magnificent English country home, Cliveden, is angry at American editors. He says they have misrepresented and caricatured his grandfather, father and himself.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The boys at fire headquarters are again breathing easy. 'Tis not because any member of the department feels that his job is in danger, but from the fact that the new ventilators leading from the dormitories to the roof are giving entire satisfaction. Friday night was the first that the firemen have experienced the beneficial effect of fresh air. That necessary adjunct to even a firemen's peaceful slumbers is now supplied in abundant quantities and it is as fresh and fragrant as new mown hay. When the writer dropped around at fire headquarters the fire laddies were in a peaceful frame of mind and wore a gratified expression that was expressive of appreciation for the comforts provided them by the city.

STRAY THOUGHTS.

Who are the most objectionable in a car—the women who spread their gowns over too much sitting space or the men who barricade the isle with their feet?

Do not always judge too harshly a householder by the pictures on the walls. They may have been gifts from persons that he or she couldn't afford to offend, and so offended their own taste instead.

The wisest woman will sometimes show her weakness when it comes to the question of consulting a fortune teller.

The reason many a man does not marry is that he is too much engaged.

It doesn't matter if beauty is only skin deep, provided the skin is worn right side out.

The woman who is told what she said when she was delirious must feel a good deal as the sober man who is informed of his antics when he was drunk.

A woman confers upon herself a doubtful honor when she reforms a man by marrying him.

"The stars are peeping," says a poet. Well, that's what the peephole in the drop-curtain is for.

And now it is reported that a St. Louis woman died from pneumonia contracted while attending a faith-cure meeting.

That Throbbing Headache

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

DOES COFFEE AGREE WITH YOU?

If not, drink Grain-O—made from pure grains. A lady writes: "The first time I made Grain-O I did not like it but after using it for one week nothing would induce me to go back to coffee." It nourishes and feeds the system. The children can drink it freely with great benefit. It is the strengthening substance of pure grains. Get a package today from your grocer, follow the directions in making it and you will have a delicious and healthful table beverage for old and young. 15 and 25c.

THEY ARE HERE AT LAST.

WELL WORTH WAITING FOR, THEY ARE, TOO.

We refer to the sample garments of Ladies' Muslin Underwear, which many of our customers have been so impatiently waiting for. We are sure, however, that all those who have waited will be more than repaid by the opportunity to secure exquisitely fine garments at only two-thirds their value. Made by the celebrated Galland Bros. They are marvelously beautiful and wondrously attractive to those who appreciate fine goods, fine work and cheap prices. We buy at ⅔ regular price. We sell them in the same way. They are now on sale. Those who call first will secure the choicest bargains.

ABOUT SHIRT WAISTS.

The warm weather reminds of your needs in this direction. If you have seen our line of waists then you do not need to be told about them. If you have not seen our waists then by all means see them before you make your selections. We have more desirable waists, better in finish, better fitting, more variety and more choice styles than all other concerns in this city. That is a broad statement, but a true one as you can easily ascertain by investigation. It is equally true of pique, duck and crash skirts. They are new, well made, fit perfectly and are inexpensive.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 5.—Front street, on which Street Commissioner Staats has been working during the past week, is quite changed in appearance. The roadbed has been dug up and a foundation of heavy stones laid, over which has been spread fine stone and macadam.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 5.—A four-horse stage load of members of the Baptist church and congregation will attend the association meeting to be held at New Market tomorrow. The stage will leave the church promptly at 7 o'clock in the morning and all three sessions will be attended, the stage not returning until after the evening service. As the New Market church is the mother of this church unusual interest has been shown in the meeting for tomorrow.

Scotch Plains misses the usual Saturday game of baseball. Since time immemorial the town has been represented on the diamond with a strong team, but this year from lack of interest by the players no club was organized.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 5.—Sunday was, for the first time in over a year, a dry town. At Friday evening's meeting of the Township Committee the town attorney, Paul Q. Oliver, was notified to see that all saloons and hotel bar rooms were closed on Sundays and that the law in regard to the same were enforced. This was done and as a result many a man with an awful thirst got around early this morning to get an eye opener. It is safe to say that more bottled beer will be delivered about the town next Saturday than for a long time.

William J. Alpers, of this town, has been taken into the firm of Watson & Gibson, the New York brokers and bankers, for whom he has filled a position for fourteen years.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

No Wonder the Editor Was Stunned With Surprise.

The country journalist, having concluded his work of devil, printer, bookkeeper, job printer, reporter, editor, press hand, mailing clerk, solicitor, compositor, and ad solicitor for the day, had sat down to study out what string to pull to get enough money to meet a note of $14.38 coming due next Saturday, when a man he did not know came into the office and sat down without being asked to do so. For a minute he looked around the place and at the presiding spirit of it before he spoke.

"You are," he said slowly, "the proprietor of this establishment, and it is a newspaper office?"

"It is," replied the wondering editor.

"And this is your product?" he said, holding up the week's issue. "A newspaper?"

"Yes."

"The herald of a noisy world?" said the visitor dreamily.

"Yes."

"The million-fold multiple of thought?"

"Yes."

"The hasty record of the world's affairs;

"Yes."

"The molder of public opinion?"

"Yes," said the journalist, looking worried.

Man's daily doings done in ink?"

"Yes."

"The richest treasures of the art preservative of arts?"

"Yes."

"The Archimedean lever that moves the universe?"

"Yes," and by this time the editor was getting ready to escape by the window.

"And all for a dollar a year," said the visitor, still in that dreamy tone, as he let his soft blue eye fall over the page. "It's a durn shame," he went on, going down into his pocket, "here's two dollars, and I'll send you in a cord of wood and a bushel of apples and four gallons of cider next week." Then he got up and went out without so much as saying "good-by" and the editor gazed stupidly at the two-dollar bill on his knee.

Whirled About a Shaft.

Rahway, N. J., June 5.—At the Essex Felting Mills Charles Schweitzer, a machinist, was caught by a shaft, whirled about a number of times and thrown twenty feet to the floor. The only clothing left on him was one trousers leg. He has been unconscious since the accident. No bones were broken. It is thought there is a congestion of blood in the brain. He is not likely to recover.

Fought Over a Game of Cards.

Vincennes, Ind., June 5.—Policeman James Bouchie and Harvey Lane, a saloonkeeper, fought over a game of cards. Lane pounded Bouchie's face to a mass. In the encounter the officer pulled his gun and attempted to shoot the saloonkeeper, but the revolver was wrenched from his grasp. Bouchie, badly worsted, went to his home and got a Winchester rifle and returned and shot three times at Lane, but without effect.

Prominent Merchant Suicides

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—Samuel Hexter of the firm of Hexter Brothers, wholesale clothing merchants, died here from injuries received by jumping from a second story window of his home on North Broad street. Mr. Hexter's mind had been clouded for some time as the result of shock due to witnessing his brother being crushed to death in an elevator accident.

Dug His Last Grave.

Wooster, Ohio, June 5.—Daniel Bales, aged forty, sexton of the cemetery at Apple Creek, Wayne County, dug the grave of a neighbor. He walked a short distance to his home and went to a room to change his apparel to attend the funeral. A moment later his wife heard him fall, and, going to his room, found him lying on the floor dead.

Nash's Partner May Run Against Him.

Cleveland, O., June 5.—The leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor is Congressman Lentz, of Columbus, who, it is said, has twice as many delegates as his most formidable rival, Col. Kilbourne. Lentz and Judge Nash the Republican candidate, are law partners. They have been associated in the practice of law for years.

Farmer and Wife Murdered.

Austin, Texas, June 5.—One of the most horrible murders known in the criminal annals of Texas was committed near Manor, this county, the victims being G. W. Engburg and his wife, a well-to-do young couple who resided on a farm there. The crime was discovered when the two bodies were found lying in the bedroom of their home.

Refused to Name Her Relatives

Saratoga, N. Y., June 5.—Miss Minnie Sullivan, of Allegheny City, Pa., who came here recently, and would not disclose the names of her relatives, died very suddenly at the City Hospital. She was twenty-eight years of age.

Choked to Death.

Columbus, Ohio, June 5.—Edward D. Crowe, who has been suffering from a dropsical affection for some time, was seized with a fit of coughing and choked to death before he could be relieved.

Even the Beasts of the Jungle.

Tommy: Is that a he or a she lion, papa?

Pater: Which one, dear:

Tommy: That one with its face scratched and the hair off the top of its head.

Pater (with a sigh): That must be the male, my son.

His Idea.

Little Willie—Pa, what is a bigamist?

Papa—A bigamist, my son, is a man who has more wives than the law provides.

Little Willie—Why, Pa, I didn't know that the law provided a man with any wives at all; I thought he had to go out and hustle one for himself, if he wanted her.

Measures Not Men.

WOMEN'S REALM

PIN CUSHIONS

The Number Necessary to Perfect Happiness is Quite Surprising.

The number of pin cushions apparently necessary to perfect happiness in these days is quite surprising; but they are such dainty little affairs, and, after all, so very useful for holding the many different kinds of pins, that the fashion is not so foolish a one as might be thought. Oddly enough, some of the very prettiest pin cushions made are never used. They grace handsome dressing tables, but there is always a pin tray put beside them, in which the pins are supposed to be put rather than into the small piece of satin or brocade so handsomely embroidered as to be a work of art. The ribbon work on white satin brightened with little fine paillettes are the most exquisite little things imaginable; they are quite small and round but are not used except for very handsome jeweled stick pins. Then a pretty style of cushion is of fine line embroidered with the Dresden patterns in colored silks, and trimmed with a little lace ruffle and very tiny bows of ribbon.

There are, moreover, the satin pin cushion covered with a square of linen also embroidered in small designs; this last is one of the most useful of all for, if the silks are of the wash kind, the cover can be laundered at any time.

The mattress pin cushion, while not new, is still as fashionable as ever, and is one of the most useful cushions ever invented. It should not be made over half an inch thick, and should be made of bits of satin ribbon and quilted, or fastened with buttons like the mattress. The pins of all sizes can be put on the top and bottom, while at the sides are the safety pins, and also the hat pins, and it is surprising what a number can be carried at once in these useful little cushions. The round cushions drawn in the center with gold thread, and made with the top of brocade silk, and the bottom of velvet, or vice versa, can be used on any bureau or dressing table, and look particularly well on the old mahogany tables.

The prettiest toilet tables are those covered with the dotted Swiss over some color and trimmed with lace, and on these tables nothing looks half so pretty as the pin cushions, covered to match. They should not be large and should have little bows of ribbon at the corners. Large pin cushions have quite gone out of style, probably because of the number of silver articles that are now laid on the tables, and which leave very little room for the cushions. Bran is no longer used for stuffing pin cushions; cotton of a very fine quality is considered much better. Bran was given up long ago, because mice were so fond of it that the best cushions were very soon destroyed.—Harper's Bazar.

Few Women Walk Well.

"She dresses well," somebody said of a certain woman, in the Philadelphia Inquirer. She was generally conceded to be the swellest looking member of a mountain house party.

"No; she walks well," was the laconic criticism substituted by a man who had quietly observed and discovered the true secret of this woman's chic.

And that it was and nothing more. Her trunks furnished only the most unpretentious gowns, her handboxes only the most modest arrangements in straw and mull, but she carried herself with a poise which was bewitching. There was a grace and dignity in the very swirl of her skirt ruffles as she swept along.

When she walked she created—not a sensation, but an impression. In contrast to her free, elastic steps, other women seemed to hobble. They depended upon the swish and rustle of their taffeta linings to give "style" to their promenade up and down the hotel piazzas, but "style" traveled in the footsteps of the woman who knew how to manage her feet.

Whether the average graceless carriage comes from carelessness or bad shoes, it is hard to say, but watch the approach of a lot of women, and you will be in luck if you find one of the crowd who is anything but a shoddy walker.

A young matron was telling about three girls she chaperoned last summer.

"They literally walked their way into the most exclusive circle of the hotel. They had all taken a thorough course of physical culture and you had only to look at them to know it. I used to bridle with pleasure when those girls walked the length of the dining room. Everyone else either slouched along minced along, or strode along, but my girls—well, I can't tell you how they did it, but they walked."

The Secret of Beauty.

The most helpful and agreeable bath is that of tepid water. Few persons can stand absolutely cold baths, and no matter how strong one may be such a bath should not be indulged in unless a thorough rubbing is taken afterward. To speak plainly, it must be remembered that while a cold bath may be more or less invigorating, it is not cleansing. The condition of the skin depends almost entirely upon the care given to the general health.

The girl who is up late at night, gives no care to her diet, indulges in various stimulants, bathes but seldom and exercises less is certain to have either a dull, muddy-looking skin or one covered with disagreeable looking black and red spots. She should avoid many sweets and much pastry and not allow herself to become a slave either to tea or coffee any more than she would to some vicious drug or strong stimulant. She should also remember that unless she is in good condition internally she will be anything but a pleasant object to look upon externally.

"My wife owns two hats, and so we are always late at the theatre."

"Why is that?"

"She can't decide which to wear."—Chicago Record.

Wittiest of Clubwomen.

Mrs. Mercedes Leigh and Some of Her Clever Bonmots.

Among the thousands of club women in New York city there are many clever women, but clubwomen are as a rule serious minded persons, intent on "ologies" and "isms." A humorous woman in a club is an exception as the writer, who has agonized at the reporters' table through the tragedy of many "round robins," club "debates" and learned "papers," can testify.

Now and then, however, there is an exception—a woman who not only can see the ludicrous, but can express it strikingly.

The clean cut, cool, clever sally such as made the late Miss Kate Field admired and, perhaps, a little feared, most nearly approximated by a woman whose name is known better as a student of Shakespeare and an authority on expression in speech than as a mere clubwoman. She is Mrs. Mercedes Leigh, a Southern woman by birth and belonging to a family famous for the brilliancy of its men and the wit and beauty of its women.

Several years ago she went abroad to give dramatic readings in the drawing rooms of London and made a great success on account of her wit, talent and her striking appearance. She was at his request presented to the Prince of Wales, who said afterward that she was one of the most charming American women he had ever met.

After leaving London Mrs. Leigh joined some friends who were traveling on the continent and was presented to his holiness the pope, who talked or rather questioned her in regard to American women of the intellectual class, their aims, achievements, etc.

The Fortnightly Shakespeare club, of which Mrs. Anna Randall Diehl is the president, counts Mrs. Leigh one of its valued members.

As a philanthropist her work has been as much as is possible to a busy women. She is always ready to give her services to help a good cause and was last winter one of the actively interested in college settlement work in the slums of New York. When the American soldiers were brought to Montauk Point, N. Y., and were said to be without food and medicine, Mrs. Leigh in a few hours secured enough provisions and cordials to fill a car and with several other ladies went out to the camp where they distributed their donations to the suffering.

A witticism is never half so bright when repeated as when first said. Here are a few bonmots credited to this clever woman:

At a benefit of the Lambs club, whose members are prominent actors, some one of the party with Mrs. Leigh commented on the marriage of a very bald, very blase and very ugly but gifted actor who had just been married to one of the most beautiful actresses on the stage.

"I don't see," said the friend, inspecting the lovely actress who occupied a box with her newly made, but much married husband, "what women can see in that homely, baldheaded man."

"Ah, you know," said Mrs. Leigh, "the Lord tempers the wind to the shorn Lamb!"

A club lady of wealth, but rather humble origin, approached a party of women of which Mrs. Leigh was the center at one of the club meetings. The lady had married a very successful wholesale jeweler, whose beginning was said to have been a humble shop on the Bowery. Nevertheless the club lady affected a great ambition to flaunt a pedigree.

"Oh, I must tell you," she said, as she came up to the group. "I am having our coat of arms done by Biffany in the sweetest robin's egg blue note paper. Have you ever seen our crest; it is so sweetly prety?"

"Charming, with robin's egg blue, I'm sure."

The rich lady, after making herself generally disagreeable to the group, said superciliously:

"I've heard that is quite the latest thing to have one's coat of arms or crest stamped upon the pocketbook. I'm thinking of having it done."

"Splendid idea!" exclaimed Mrs. Leigh genially. "It would look lovely. Trois bals d'or" (three gold balls).

At Richfield Springs, where Mrs. Leigh spent one summer, a young lady of the party to which Mrs. Leigh belonged, was the belle of the season. A woman of manufactured good looks and advancing years, jealous of the younger woman's popularity, remarked sarcastically to the belle in Mrs. Leigh's presence:

"It must be so nice to be handsome, dear! I'm sure we all ought to envy you!"

"Now, that's nice of you, Mrs. C.! Belle ought to appreciate your compliment, for you've been handsome so long, you ought to know!"

A PARTING.

"Good-by, then"—and he turned away,
No other word between them spoken;
You hardly would have guessed that day
How close a bond was broken.

The quick, short tremor of the hand
That clasped her own in that brief parting,
Only her heart could understand
Who saw the tear-drop starting.

Who felt a sudden surge of doubt
Come rushing back unbidden o'er her,
As, at the words, her life without
His presence loomed before her.

The others saw, the others heard
A calm, cool man, a gracious woman,
A quiet, brief farewell unstirred
By aught at all uncommon.

She knew a fatal die was cast;
She knew that two paths hence must sever;
That one familiar step had passed
Out of her life forever.

To all the rest it merely meant
A trivial parting, lightly spoken;
She read the bitter, mute intent,
She knew a heart was broken.

—BARTON GREY.

A MIDNIGHT TRYST.

"The age of miracles is past," remarked Charley Ingram, giving a meditative glance to his long legs, as if they were somehow responsible for the present dearth of miraculous occurrences, and thus kindly, if unintentionally, affording me an opportunity to admire his resolute profile, the boyish freshness of his complexion, and other details that went to make a picture of earnest young manhood.

"The age of miracles is past. Ravens or other thoughtful birds no longer fly about desirous of feeding the deserving poor. I must go to work."

In other words, he must tear himself from my enthralling presence and betake himself to a distant state, there to embark in a mining venture—a plan of ancient date in his life, and upon which we built our Utopia of future bliss.

"I am going, Rose, soon."

I suppose I looked like Grief on a monument turning up her nose at Patience, for he said:

"Oh, you'll get along all right. The dust of my footsteps won't have been blown by the wind before Tom, Dick and Harry will be spooning here."

I left his side and walked to the tall glass suspended between the end windows of the old parlor that had witnessed so much of our love-making. It seemed worth while to take a fresh inventory of my charms, in view of the imminence of my conquests.

"Was it mad?" he mocked, coming behind me and trying to meet my eyes in the mirror. "You see, I envy them—confound 'em! See here, suppose you go into a nunnery till I come back."

"Thanks! not even to oblige your Sultanic Majesty. I'll compromise, though; I will go into a nunnery, if you don't come back."

"Will you?" encouragingly. "I will give you five years of graceless freedom, and if I don't come back in that time, make your vows (in an austere, sepulchral tone), and, coifed and cloistered, pray for the repose of my restless soul; for if I don't come back it will be a very restless soul."

He brushed my cheek with his soft mustache, which, despite his assured carriage and his fierce self-assertion, gave him such a naif, adolescent air.

Then slipping his arm around me, and surveying our prepossessing figures:

"What a strikingly handsome couple we are! You have a way of drawing me to this mirror to harrow my soul with that picture."

"If you could only conjure this old mirror—fix that image there, visible to me only—I could steal in here, and, looking at it, persuade myself that maybe you had not laid your gold mine at the feet of——"

I paused from deficiency of information, not knowing whether senoritas or gentle savages predominated in the gold mine regions.

"What lots of fun we had at this mirror Halloween, a year ago—don't you remember? See here"—with a sudden change of manner—"are you in earnest about my showing up there some time in the future?"

"All right; I will make an engagement with you. Let's see—this is January—say next Halloween, the night of nights. If you want to see me, and you have not forgotten me, look in this glass next Halloween, and my face will appear there as sure as fate."

"Nonsense!"

"Nonsense? You don't know anything about it. Why, I had a grandmother who could do the queerest things you ever heard of. You just come in here on the night of the 31st of next October. Come alone, at midnight; come in the dark, remember; stand here, strike a match, light the candle you will have with you, raise it above your head, look right in there, and—can you do anything as heroic as that?"

"Oh, yes, if that's all," I said, flippantly.

"All right; dance, flirt, break as many hearts as you please; but if in the meantime you do not join the great majority—I mean that big majority of your sex who are inconstant—come in here on the 31st, at midnight, and if there is a bathtub in Boonville, a Chinese laundry, a barber and a haberdasher, you'll see me right there (pointing), fresh as a daisy, and wearing the handsomest four-in-hand in Boonville. You promise?"

"I promise; but supposing you have not inherited your grandmother's skill in necromancy?"

"But I have; I know it; I am certain of it. You must think about me, of course; have faith, above all; obey directions implicitly, and—you'll see what you'll see!"

"I generally do," I said, sapiently.

A few days after our memorable conversation Charley bade me good-by, and full of courage and hope, and with many promises and assurances for the future, set out on the long journey to his distant field of labor and enterprise. Silence fell between us, for my parents objected to any correspondence between us. I danced and flirted; the mise en scene of my life called for such diversion, in fact; but on the 31st of the following October I declined the most seductive Halloween parties, in order that, alone, at midnight, in front of the old mirror, I might keep my tryst.

Had he forgotten me, amid strangers and in the ardor of money-getting? Had some other woman already led astray the heart too young to have anchored all its hopes upon one woman, albeit myself?

What did I expect? It was a piece of folly; and yet, on the night of the 31st of October, the mystic night when strange things used to be thought possible, and weird influences were supposed to rise in their might to weave their puzzling manifestations about wondering, flesh-incumbered mortals—on that night I slipped from my bedroom a few minutes before 12 o'clock, and with a fast-beating heart I felt my way down the stairs, through the hall to the long parlor which opened upon it.

I reached the door, felt for the knob, gently turned it, and opened the door noiselessly. As I did so I could have sworn that someone glided behind it.

I was in darkness, but involuntarily I turned my head toward the door. Had not someone closed it? I could have swooned with terror. Nonsense! At all events, it was as bad to retreat as to go forward now.

Again I turned my head to listen.

My knees touched at last the marble shelf which held the mirror; I stooped, and struck a match upon its under surface, lit the candle with which I was provided, raised it well above my head, and looked into the mirror's depths.

No sound of joyous awe escaped from my lips—hardly, while that look of fascinated horror filled my eyes. My knees gave way like props suddenly withdrawn. I should have fallen, but that a strong man's arms were about me; my head fell, perforce, upon his breast, being unable to sustain itself.

"In heaven's name, control yourself," he whispered, and neither face nor voice was Charley's.

This adventure ought to have cured me of all desire to keep unhallowed Halloween trysts; but on three successive anniversaries I looked in the old mirror at midnight. I might ask, as I did on the first occasion, what did I expect? and repeat what I said then; that it was a piece of childishness. But to renounce it seemed like renouncing Charley. I did it half playfully, half loyally, wistfully too, as a sort of memorial service to his image, which still lived in my dreams and threw its radiance over my reveries. As the years went by the sentiment assumed a tinge of superstition, and the little midnight service became obligatory.

What had become of him? I knew not; darkness and silence had swallowed him; but the sea sometimes yields up its dead, and was it not just possible that beside the antique mirror, where he had promised to meet me, laughingly swearing that he never broke his word—was not it just possible some message, some revelation might come to me?

October had come again, the fifth since Charley had left me. He had had almost five years to cultivate an aura and collect his auriferous deposits.

"See here, Charley," I said, as the last night of the year's sweetest month was waning, "I am going to give up mysticism for matrimony. I'll have to marry to get rid of this awful habit of expecting the 31st of October. I'll have to accept Tom Allin in self-defense. There's insanity in this madness."

I got up from the lounge on which I had thrown myself face downward, and, despite my bravado, there were tears of desperate longing in my eyes.

The clock was striking the last quarter before twelve. I looked disheveled, and I felt forlorn, and yet, contradictorily, there swept over me something like an emotion of hatred for him when I thought that in all likelihood he was gay and happy and heart-whole, while I was on the eve of my yearly devotional ceremony—my dark and trembling pilgrimage downstairs. The futility, the imbecility of it made me heartsick.

I pressed my fingers to my eyes fiercely as if to wipe his features from my retina. In vain; I shuddered with delight, for he seemed to be right there beside me, and every trail and charm that had won my soul appealed to it resistlessly again. Indeed it was as if the eloquent page one has learned to love had revealed fresh features, subtler meanings, in type and text.

I glanced at the clock; five minutes gone. I threw off my wrapper, assumed a Louis Quinze gown and stuck a bunch of roses (an offering from my pis aller, Tom) in my corsage.

One minute of 12!

Heavens! Suppose I should be too late; suppose he had come and gone—looked in the mirror, and, not seeing me, vanished! And yet, if I fell downstairs and broke my neck Charley would be my murderer. To save him from this ghastly responsibility I moderated my speed. If I had been in bloomers I would have slid down the banisters.

I was in front of the mirror now, and a town clock boomed 12. I was so excited that its reverberations shook me like a rough hand. I could scarcely hold the candle (it was blessed, by the way), but up above my head I carried it at ease, while my eyes searched the mirror; and, believe it or not, from its clear depths, as if from the waters of the past, looked Charley.

"Rose!" and the voice was Charley's.

"Oh, Charley," and the arms that enfolded me were Charley's.

A brief interval, all that life ever yields us, was given to rapture, and then realism ramped upon the scene. Remembering my first trying vigil, I murmured with awe:

"How did you get in?"

"Just as I did four years ago."

"Four years ago——"

"Fact! I never break an engagement with a lady, even my sweetheart; but I am as polite as punctual (at times), and as another gentleman had you in his embrace on that occasion I very considerately (as I thought) retired. I took the 4 o'clock train that morning and went back to—well, Dante's Inferno," he said, joyously. "But, strange to say, that man is the cause of my being here."

"Oh, Charley!" with a shudder at that frightful episode; "I don't understand—explain! What did make you come at last?"

"Well, it seemed worth while to make a little journey of two or three thousand miles for the sake of a few explanations. Best reason of all, I wanted to see you, to hold you in my arms. Saddest reason of all, I wanted to get on my knees and beg your pardon. I felt like shooting myself when I knew. It was temperament, and I couldn't stop myself."

"But tell me, how did he—who is he—what has he to do with it?"

"To-morrow, sweet——"

"No, to-night."

"Well, about two months ago a man calling himself Horace Armistead came to Boonville. He was a tall, handsome, melancholy individual, very reckless, very wild — fascinating, though; a sort of careless style about him, a certain nonchalant frankness that would make you share your last crust with him and give him your last red copper. What are you blushing about? And honestly I am glad that urgent private business compelled him to pass, on a flying trip, incog, but I am anticipating.

"Mr. Armistead very promptly got into a difficulty in Boonville, when it fell in my way to render him a slight service. Six weeks ago or thereabouts he dropped in on me one evening, bag in hand, to bid me good-by, and to thank me for what he was pleased to call my kindness to him.

"He was going—by the way, he didn't say what was his destination—no matter! Your picture was hanging over the shelf that seryed as a mantel in my rude quarters (you see, I had left it there, hoping it would make a good woman-hater of me), and as soon as he saw that picture he made a sudden movement toward it—almost a jump it was. He controlled himself and sat down again, but he could look at nothing else.

"'That is a striking likeness,' he said, at last; 'it might have been taken for her—of the most beautiful woman I ever saw. I spent but one hour in her society, but I will never forget her.'

"'Interesting, romantic,' I murmured. 'It strikes me I would not have been satisfied with one hour; I would have continued the acquaintance.'

"There must have been something compelling in my desire to hear that story, for he added:

"'It happened this way: I was a fugitive. Why? No matter'—and he looked dreamily at the curling smoke of his cigar, as if it might be the wraith of that past to which he referred. 'I was passing in disguise through a strange city. To elude those who were spying upon me, I entered at night a certain house in a quiet quarter of the town. I did it in the most natural way in the world; I simply raised the latch of a door which, through some oversight, perhaps, had been left unlocked. It was a roomy old place, and there didn't seem to be many people about; in fact, it was occupied by an elderly couple and their daughter. Toward midnight I left my hiding place and entered the parlor.

"'I had been there a short time when, providentially, as it turned out, a lady stole in. She had some difficulty in getting about in the dark, but she finally struck a match, lit a candle, and looked into a big mirror that was hanging at one end of the room. What in the mischief she did it for I can't conceive—can you? I have wondered a hundred times what brought her there! it was my good angel, I suppose.

"'I shall never forget her look of terror when, as she held the candle above her head, she saw me behind her. I didn't want any outcry, and I did not want to terrorize her; I put my arms about her, for she could hardly stand, and grasping the candle, I begged her to be calm. When she became so, I threw myself upon her mercy. I begged her to look upon me as a fellow-creature in misfortune; not to judge, but to help me. She answered my prayer in letter and spirit. I left the house, walked out of the city, and attained a place of safety.'

"I don't think I gave a sign of life during that narration; I was a statue, but a statue that would wake to life, rest assured of that.

"When he was gone—and I wished him Godspeed with all my heart—I thought I would jump on the first train and come right back here; but a better plan suggested itself, and I decided to defer my return a few weeks.

"I remembered your promise to look in the old mirror on the 31st of October; and just suppose, I said to myself, just suppose I should surprise her, improbable as it seems, before that old mirror on next Halloween! She'll be obliged to forgive me in self-defense."

SUNDAY'S BALL GAMES.

At Weehawken: New York, 13; Louisville, 2.

The Woodside baseball team defeated the Dunellen team Saturday by a score of 6 to 5. Batteries: O'Keefe, Motley and Kilpatrick for the Woodsides; Horton and Fletcher for Dunellen.

The Bachelors' Club put up a fairly good game against the Plainfield High School team Saturday afternoon at Crescent Oval. However, the Bachelors were reinforced by a battery from outside, and this in a measure somewhat unnerved the High School boys, who got rattled early in the game and were really defeated by losing their nerve on account of the professionals. After the third inning the school boys steadied down and held their opponents closely. The score was 7 to 4 in favor of the Bachelors, who felt so jubilant after the contest that they repaired to Hotel Hunterston at Netherwood and enjoyed a big dinner. The lineup of the teams follows:

GOLF.

Among the new members of the Park Golf Club are Dr. G. W. Endicott, Dr. F. C. Ard and W. A. Coddington, all of whom were on the course Saturday trying to make records.

Assessor Elston M. French was a prominent figure on the Park Golf Club course Saturday, and while he did not turn in his score, those acquainted with it say it was an excellent one.

Fred Coverly, who has been in charge of the Park Golf clubhouse since the opening, was relieved of his position last Saturday noon for acts which the officers deemed sufficient for removal.

A feature of the golf play Saturday on the Park Club course was the appearance of Senator Chas. A. Reed and his law partner, William A. Coddington. They played three rounds, and they were assisted by Nelson Giles, who kept tally. They would not divulge their scores, but both agreed that they could do still better.

A wonderful drive was recorded at the Park Golf Club the other day, and a new record established—the bizarre driving record. The feat that caused the club men to vote that a record had been established was made in the morning handicap, by Senator Charles A. Reed. In driving from the sixth tee he chopped the ball so that it ducked quickly to the earth some ten yards from the tee. It was going with tremendous force, and hit a rock on the fall, from which it rebounded back to the tee and into the sand box. Ex-Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Reed's partner, said that the zig-zagging of the ball was like a white st eak that suggested the twisting of the tape as it pushes out of the ticker in a broker's office. The noise the ball made banging about in the sand box until the mementum was killed was startling, and until investigation disclosed the cause suggested spirit-rapping.

Thomas Fahey, of this city, caught a two-pound black bass at New Market pond last Friday. This is considered one of the best catches of the season.

GOOD RACES AT DRIVING PARK SATURDAY.

Exhibition Mile by A. C. Vail's Grey Mare in 2:34—Decided Not to Have Any Races on the Fourth of July.

There was a good-sized crowd present Saturday at the track of the Plainfield Driving Association, at which time several excellent races were witnessed. There was considerable interest and good time was made, considering that the horses so recently took part in the Decoration Day races at New Brunswick. Following is a result of the several races:

Henry Hayes, "Andy"	1	1
P. Jenner, "Nancy"	3	3
H. J. Martin, "Dewey"	2	2
Time—2:50; 2:51.
W. O. Baldwin, "Jeanness"	1
J. Mantz, "Chelsea"	2
Time—2:32; 2:28½.
T. Brantingham, "Myrtle Twig"	1	1
J. W. Johnson, "Woven Wind"	2	2

It has been decided by the officers of the association not to hold a meet July 3d and 4th, as previously intended, but to hold a meet the last of August.

A feature of Saturday's card was the exhibition mile by A. C. Vail's grey mare in 2:34. Next Saturday four good races have been arranged for and fast time is expected.

Missions to be the Subject.

The Association Volunteer League of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a missionary meeting this evening at the association hall. Philip S. Suffern will read a paper on missionary work in China, and Wm. D. Murray will give an interesting account of the proceedings of the international league convention held at Grand Rapids, Mich., last month. All men are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Reception to the Juniors.

A reception is so be given to the junior department of the Sunday-school of the First M. E. church in Vincent chapel Thursday evening.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in eight bottles. It has cured me and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug store.

Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

PERSONAL GOSSIP OF INTEREST TO CITY AND BOROUGH.

In Brief are Told the Daily Doings of Many Residents and Visitors Who Go and Come in a Social and Business Way

Counselor William Newcorn will visit Newark Lodge, No. 31, A. O. U. W., Thursday evening, and assist in the degree work.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and family, of West Seventh street, left today for Jefferson, N. H., where they will remain during the summer months.

The report that J. D. Brown, of 404 East Fourth street, had left for his home in Alliance, Neb., is not true. Mr. Brown is still with his parents and has not yet decided when he will leave for his western home.

Mrs. Wm. Paine, of North avenue, who has been discharged from the hospital, after a successful operation, desires to thank though The Daily Press, Drs. Long, Boone and their attendants, for their kind treatment of her at the hospital.

To Sell Delinquent's Property

Distasteful as it is to Collector Geo. F. Brown, of the borough, to enforce the law which compels him to sell a person out for non-payment of either poll or personal tax, he has been obliged to post the name of Mrs. Maggie Hand, of Westervelt avenue, who has failed to pay her personal tax, and the law will be enforced unless settlement is made at once.

Not to Push Street Work This Month.

After the Borough Council meeting Friday evening there was a short meeting of the street committee, when it was decided that, owing to the unperfected plans for continuing the work, it was best to take a rest on the street work for a month. The work will be taken up again in July and pushed rapidly along the various lines mapped out.

Fine Time on the Mountain.

The Sunday-school of the Unitarian church, comprising a goodly number of people, went by trolley to the mountains last Saturday and spent a most delightful time. They were accompanied by Pastor Nickerson, who had charge of the programme for the day and thus all were assured a good time.

Juniors Invited Here.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., has issued invitations to several councils throughout the State to take part with them in the Fourth of July celebration and parade in this city. It is expected that the response will be quite general.

To Open Early.

The Masonic fraternity who intend meeting with Jerusalem Lodge tomorrow evening, are reminded of the fact that the lodge will be opened at 7 o'clock, instead of at 7:30 as usual, in order to let the grand officers take the 9:30 train.

Little Borough Business.

It is not likely that there will be a mid-month meeting of the Borough Council this month, owing to the very little work that is being done on the streets, thus making the pay roll so small that it is not necessary to take action on it.

S. D. Drake's New Office.

Silas Dewey Drake has leased the store formerly occupied by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, on North avenue, for a term of two years, and will fit it up for offices for his new real estate venture.

To be Sold at Sheriff's Sale.

Next Wednesday the property of the Union County Country Club on Seventh street, will be sold at Sheriff's sale. The outcome of the sale will be watched with considerable interest.

Judgement for Full Amount of Claim.

In the action of Hetfield against Marsh, on a contract, Justice Mosher has rendered judgment for the plaintiff for the full amount of the claim, $200, together with costs.

Lawyer Newcorn to Orate.

Counselor William Newcorn has accepted an invitation to deliver an oration before Naraticong Tribe of Red Men, No. 31, at Somerville next Friday evening.

Exchanged Pulpits.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, exchanged pulpits yesterday with Arthur H. Grant, of Montclair.

CYCLE ACCIDENTS THREE.

Two Collisions and a Horse Frightened That Plunged Into Trolley Car Fender.

Saturday afternoon last the bicycle played an important part in three different accidents. Early in the afternoon while Mr. Clark, of West Front street, opposite Liberty street, was riding out of his lane to the street he collided with another wheelmen going west. Mr. Clark's front wheel was completely wrecked. Neither rider received injury.

A little later in the afternoon a cycle rider was passing along West Front street near Randolph's drug store, where Mrs. Wm. H. Moore, of West End Park, had her horse tied. The horse took fright and leaped in the air just in time to strike the fender of a passing trolley car in the descent. This trouble was straightened out, and no damage resulted in this accident.

The third accident occurred still later in the afternoon on East Front street nearly opposite Powlison & Jones' furniture house. A man employed by C. M. Meeker, the contractor, ran out from a place of residence, and hailed a trolley car, and in his excitement to catch the car he did not notice Grocer Callahan coming on his wheel, and he struck the front wheel with enough force to throw him and as he fell across the front wheel the rim was broken into many pieces. Otherwise no further damage resulted.

LITTLE PLAY ACTORS.

Juvenile Theatricals of Young People in the Borough.

A pretty juvenile theatrical performance was given by several children of Washington Park in former Mayor W. L. Saunders barn Saturday evening. The name of the play was "The Daughters of Liberty," a Revolutionary play. It consisted of a stirring story wove about the capture and escape of a young patriot and his rescue by friends. The play was written entirely by the children themselves, all of whom were girls. The barn was arranged with stage and auditorium. Antique furniture imparting an excellent idea of colonial times was provided for the stage setting.

Among those who took part were Miss Louis Saunders, Mai Faber, Ray Hooley, Majory Howard, Dorothy Howard, Adelaide Howard, Aurelie Asten, Mabel Hooley and Jack Hooley. The whole entertainment was a splendid success and nothing but expressions of keen enjoyment was heard from the audience which filled the barn.

Death of William Trembley.

The death of William Trembley, of Fourth street, who has been critically ill for a long time with a complication of diseases, occurred last evening. He was 44 years of age and leaves a wife and several children. Mr. Trembley came to Plainfield a few years ago from Brooklyn, and for a few years past he was employed by John Tier, Sr., of Bank place. The funeral services will be held Wednesday next from the house.

Hardly Able to Walk.

James Smith, of Elmwood place, is detained at home, the result of a fall which he had a week ago while at work on Charles Arnold's building on Liberty street, near the railroad. Mr. Smith sprained his back and legs to the extent that he is now hardly able to walk. He fell a considerable distance and it is a wonder that his injuries were not of a more serious nature.

First Case of its Kind.

Next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Maggie Hand on Westervelt avenue, Collector George F. Brown will sell a number of personal effects to satisfy a delinquent tax bill amounting to about $11. This is the first case of the kind on record in the borough, and the first one under the present administration that has taken action to enforce the law.

To Entertain Visiting Braves.

The picnic committee of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men, No. 118, met Saturday evening and made arrangements for entertaining the numerous visiting tribes which are expected in the city on the occasion of the Fourth of July celebration.

To Adopt Pale Faces.

Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will meet next Wednesday night and adopt three pale faces. The good and welfare committee will provide a collation to be served after the initiation.

To Give a Cantata.

The First Baptist church choir rehearsals for the proposed cantata to be given at an early date are being held frequently, and the members are getting their parts down to perfection

Mayors Asked to Help.

Mayor Rockfellow, of this city, and Mayor Smalley, of the borough, have been invited to meet with the committee to arrange for a celebration on the Fourth of July.

Graduated from Law School.

Bertram Pittis, a brother of Dr. Pittis, of Somerset street, has graduated in law from the New York Law School and will receive the degree Thursday evening.

DESTRUCTION OF THE PALISADES.

Efforts May Be Made to Preserve Them.

THE LAW TO BE INVOKED.

SENTIMENT OF THE PEOPLE FAVOR THE MOVEMENT.

A Suggestion From James E. Martine That the State Purchase the Property and Convert It Into a Public Park and Thereby Save This Picturesque Aspect of the Hudson River.

The destruction of the beautiful Palisades along the Hudson river goes steadily forward, and notwithstanding the sentiment of the public there appears to be no means of putting a stop to the demolition of these imposing rocky formations which appeal to the many who annually sail up or down the "Rhine of America."

While it is well-known perhaps that some attempt has been made upon the part of the residents of this State to check the work and if possible save the Palisades these efforts have been pure spasmodic and have resulted in nothing. It is the belief of many people that the State authorities will yet be compelled to act in the matter before any definite means is evolved to save these picturesque rocks from entire destruction. It is quite apparent to those interested in the preservation of the Palisades that it is necessary to have legislative enactment in the premises before there can be an assured fact that they will be left entact and their glorious magnificence continue to enchant the vision and delight the eye of all lovers of God's handiwork.

In an interview regarding the Hudson river and the celebrated Palisades, James E. Martine said to a Press reporter:

"I think it a disgrace to New Jersey that the State powers have stood idly by for so long and permitted the destruction of this wonderful rock formation. There is no use of appealing to the owners of the property on the grounds of sentiment. Sentiment doesn't cut much figure with these people. What they are after is hard cash—nothing else will stop them."

"What cause would you suggest, Mr. Martine?" was asked.

"Why, let the Legislature act. Have the property condemned by the State for a public park and paid for by the State."

"Do you have an idea that such a bill could be put through the Legislature?"

"Most assuredly I do. If the people will insist that party platforms and candidates be pledged to support such a measure there would be no difficulty about enacting a law that would be the means of saving the Palisades.

"Just as sure as the matter is much longer delayed this wonderous wall of rock will be entirely demolished or at least enough of it will be blasted away to utterly efface one of the most impressive and beautiful features of our country."

ORPHANS' HOME NEAR SOMERVILLE.

Structure to Cost $30,000 to be Erected by New York Baptists.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 6—A handsome orphanage to cost about $30,000 is to be erected on the Kenney place, about a mile from Somerville, during the summer. The project is under the control of Dr. Edward Judson, of the Judson Memorial Baptist church, Washington Park, New York city. Dr. Judson already has a large mission in connection with his church, and the new building is to be an annex of that. It will accommodate about fifty children.

There are other plans under consideration, under the operation of which the new project may develop into a large Baptist institution.

Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, of Crescent avenue, gave a beautiful luncheon yesterday for Miss Lydia Ackerman, of West Seventh street, and a number of her friends. Miss Ackerman will sail this week for Europe, where she will travel for a number of months.

FUNNY SPITE FENCE WAR

FIGHTS WITH WORDS AND FISTS, AND THEN ARRESTS.

After One of the Disputants Had Been Held in Bail Friendship Was Renewed and Now Everything Seems Lovely.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 6—New Jersey has witnessed many spite fence wars within the last few years, but none quite so humorous as one that has just ended in Westfield. Martin Neubriger and Frank Rokonski live neighbors near this place, but recently became involved in a quarrel which ended in Neubriger building a fence fifteen feet high to shut off the view of his opponent towards his property.

The fence had no sooner been put up than Rokonski immediately set to work digging deep holes alongside the supporting posts of the structure on his side of the fence, so that when a heavy wind blew up it would overturn the obstruction. This was followed by Neubriger propping his side of the fence with poles so that the fence would fall on his neighbor's property. As soon as the finishing touches had been completed by both men they fell into another argument about what each other was doing.

That ended in a free-for-all scrap, in which Rokonski alleges that Neubriger pummelled him painfully and seriously with a shovel over the head. Neubriger was arrested and arraigned before Justice Toucey, and after hearing the evidence he held Neubriger in $200 bail for further action. Then, to the surprire of all concerned, the contestants had a friendly talk and agreed to let bygones be bygones and tear down the fence without more ado. All shook hands, the complaint was withdrawn, Neubriger was released and today the fifteen foot fence was razed.

A MEAN THIEF.

Stole Money That Was Intended for the Babies' Camp Fund.

Some miscreant yesterday afternoon sneaked into Rowley's drug store on West Front street and carried away the small bank in which money is being collected for the Babies' Camp Fund. It was the intention to have had the bank opened last evening and the money turned over to the treasurer. It is believed there was between $7 and $8 in the bank. Mr. Rowley told a Press reporter that he would give $5 for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the thief.

Gen. Sewell's Health.

United States Senator William J. Sewell has written to his private secretary, Henry J. Rumille, from Antwerp, stating that he had been greatly benefited in health by his ocean voyage. General Sewell is now in Carlsbad taking the waters and baths and expects to remain there with his family for several weeks. On his way home he will pay a visit to his native place in county Mayo, Ireland, for the purpose of having a memorial window in honor of a deceased brother placed in the village church. General Sewell will probably arrive home the first week in August.

A LICENSED SALOON FOR WEST END.

Council Grants the Application of Michael Walsh.

THREE NEGATIVE VOTERS.

THE LICENSE HAS BEEN STRONGLY OPPOSED FOR YEARS.

Reputable Residents Say That It Will be Better for the Community—Council Has no Authority to Extend Time for Payment of Martin Act Back Taxes—Trouble Over Assessments on Property.

Although the regular June meeting of the Common Council was not a long one there were several important matters considered and decided. All the members were present. One of the most important matters taken up was the license application of Michael Walsh to open a saloon on Grant avenue, where Michael Watson has been located. The action that induced this was on the part of a number of citizens, head by George O. Stevens, James Davis, Wm. Gray, Jacob Cose and others, in which they stated that they had no personal interest, but they thought it would lessen the illegal sale of liquor in the West End.

On the strength of this petition, Mr Smith called up the application, and moved that it be granted. On the vote Messrs. Buckle, Coriell, Hetfield, Homan, Liefke, Smith and Tolles were in the affirmative, while Messrs. Andrews, Barrows, VanHerwerden and Mellick voted in the negative.

The fight for a saloon legally licensed in that part of town has been going on for a long time, and the granting of it breaks the strong opposition made for years.

The Council also granted a liquor license to Major Coleman for the Hotel Hunterston. Mr. Andrews voted against the application for a liquor license, but voted for the inn and tavern license.

Mr. Mellick reported on the petition of R. O. Howell and others asking for an extension of time for the payment of assessments under the Martin Act, and stated that he had learned that such power does not lay with the Council. He said that such action could only be taken by the Legislature, and inasmuch as the city could not sell within six months after the enforcement of the act, he thought that was sufficient time. He moved that a copy of his report be sent to the petitioners. Mr. Mellick also reported that he had conferred with Corporation Counsel Marsh regarding the several amounts and names on the list of delinquents affected by the Martin Act, and some few errors in amounts had been discovered. He stated that Mr. Marsh was carefully going over the list and would have it perfectly correct.

Mr. Coriell in a resolution secured three new fire hydrants for the West End of the city, one at South Second street and Clinton avenue, another one near Astor place, and the third on West Seventh street. This resolution provides for the extension of water mains which, when completed, will give the city two additional hydrants granted by a former Council. These hydrants could not be located on account of the mains not being extended.

L. C. Smith, of Newark, a living decendant of the Laing family, asked the Council to change the name of Lane avenue to Laing avenue. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Building Inspector Doane reported that during the past month seventeen building permits had been granted. A petition was received from Chas. H. Hand, in which he asked the Council to apply his salary $317.40, as assessor, toward his own taxes. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Winfield S. Angleman, as counsel for owners of property located on Sherman avenue, West Fifth street and St. Mary's avenue, asked that the Council adjust the differences that seem to the owners apparent as regards the assessments made by the city. In one case it appears that the property has been assessed twice, and that one assessment had been paid. In the other cases there seems to be differences which the owners would like to have adjusted. The matter was referred to the committee on assessment and collection of taxes.

A petition was received from Mrs. Marguerite W. Swalm, of West Front street, in which she asked the Council for $100 damages the result of a break in a gas main by one of Patsy Christmas's men when a storm sewer was being located through Plainfield avenue and across Front street. She claimed that the escaping gas had ruined some valuable flowers, including

FRITZ EXONERATED BY A JURY TRIAL.

Examination Was an Exciting One This Morning.

RACY EVIDENCE OFFERED.

TESTIMONY TOOK UP ALL THE MORNING.

Coroner DeMott and the Horse Dealer Had Some Excited Words About a Debt. But the Jury Decided That There Was No Cause for Action in the Charge of Profanity—The Names of the Jurymen.

A trial of more than passing note was started this morning before Recorder Long, of the borough, wherein Henry DeMott, a borough undertaker, and Adam Fritz, a well-known horse dealer, are contesting rights over alleged profanity, which is alleged to have been uttered last Wednesday in the vicinity of Mr. DeMott's place on Somerset street.

The case is being tried before the Recorder and a jury of twelve men, who are Edward Mundy, Chas. Emmons, Theo. Stites, John Cooper, Geo. Conover, Louis Smalley, Wm. White, Louis Wyckoff, N. W. Conklin, Edward Wyckoff, P. McKeough and C. W. Ulrick. The latter is a resident of this city, but all agreed that he could serve as a juror.

The plaintiff was represented by Lawyer J. P. D. Kirch, while William DeMeza acted in a similar capacity for the defendant. The trial was held in the borough court room, where a large crowd assembled. The intense heat did not seem to affect those present who were very anxious to hear the case.

The facts of the case seem to be that the undertaker owes Fritz $9 balance for a horse sold him. According to the testimony Fritz had called about fifty time and tried to get this $9. Last week Wednesday he called for that purpose and the undertaker remarked that he did not have the money, but might raise it before night. One word led to another, and Mr. DeMott claimed that Mr. Fritz repeatedly cussed and applied profane epithets to him, and after he left the premises he rode up and down and shaking his fist and threatening to strike him. Mr. DeMott was the first witness called and then followed Peter Hansen, a young man employed by Mr. DeMott, and several others, all of whom testified that Mr. Fritz did swear at Mr. DeMott.

On the other hand Mr. Fritz had a number of witnesses to prove that Mr. DeMott was the aggressor, that he provoked the trouble and followed Mr. Fritz from the place into the street and in a measure made him angry.

During the trial there were many amusing incidents, and the cuss words alleged to have been uttered were repeatedly called out in the endeavors of the lawyers to learn exactly what was said.

At times affairs became exciting and exclamations of "Shut up," and "Mind your business," were frequently heard from each lawyer, all of which kept the crowd in good humor so that they failed to mind the heat.

The case was given to the jury about 11:30 o'clock and they were out only a short time when they returned with a verdict of no cause for action.

WOOLLEN MILLS ON FULL TIME.

Beneficial Effects of the Dingley Tariff Act.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, June 6—The Raritan Woollen Mills and the Somerset Manufacturing Company, who employ a large number of hands and are the largest manufacturers of cheap woollen goods in the State, began to run on full time yesterday morning for the first time since the Dingley tariff law was enacted. The low tariff of the previous administration, it was said, allowed such an influx of foreign goods that the market was flooded. Not only did the mills have to reduce their time, but up to recently they have been running on short time, and have largely stored their output for a future market. Business has been brighter ever since the Dingley tariff law was enacted, but it took some time to clear the market of foreign goods

One of the Old Cranks.

Lawyer George Abbott, formerly of Somerville, and so well-known to many Plainfielders, paid the city a flying visit yesterday. George stopped at The Daily Press office, and all agree that he does not look any older than he did when this city and Somerville were wild over baseball. Those were the days when George would rather have seen a game of baseball than to eat.

END OF SCHOOL YEAR IS CLOSE AT HAND.

Regular Meeting of the Board of Education.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS.

DECILED NOT TO HAVE CHILDREN SING AT GRADUATION.

A Special Invitation Extended to State Superintendent Baxter and President McCutchen, of State Board of Education, to Attend the Exercises—Some Repairs to be Made in the Vacation Time.

All the members were present at last evening's regular meeting of the Board of Education. Bills for various amounts were presented and after being read were audited and ordered paid.

Superintendent Maxson presented a check for $384 in payment of tuition for non resident pupils for the summer term. He also presented a check for $10 collected by the pupils of Whittier School for the library fund. Upon motion of the president the money was ordered placed to the credit of the school fund. The report of the tax collector, showing that $784.92 of school taxes had been collected was received and the amount ordered placed to the credit of the school fund.

The Board acknowledged and extended a vote of thanks to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., for an invitation to attend the memorial exercises May 30th.

At the suggestion of Superintendent Maxson, the Board discussed the propriety of having singing by the children of the school on the occasion of the graduation exercises of the High School. After a full discussion of the subject it was decided to dispense with the singing.

Mr. Lounsbury, from the committee on buildings and repairs, reported that new desks were necessary in the Franklin, Whittier and Bryant schools to provide for the increase in classes. The cost would be about $1,100. Upon motion it was decided to purchase the required number of desks.

Plans and specifications were also presented from Architect Karr with reference to making repairs to the Whittier School building, to give additional class rooms on the second floor. After a thorough examination of the plans it was ordered that the Board advertise in the city newspapers for bids, the same to be opened and acted upon in full Board.

At the request of Superintendent Maxson the Board passed a resolution extending a special invitation to St. John McCutchen, president of the North Plainfield Board of Education, and also to the Hon. C. J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Education, to attend the graduating exercises of the High School.

Upon motion of President Probasco the Board then went into executive session.

DOGBERRY TIED THE KNOT.

Justice Mosher is Getting Popular With Couples Who Want to Marry.

Justice Mosher had the honor and pleasure of performing another marriage this morning. It is quite apparent that the justice is becoming popular in nuptial affairs, this being the third marriage ceremony he has performed within two weeks. The contracting parties today, were David McInnes, 29 years old, a native of Scotland, and a machinist by trade.

His bride was Willemena Remenick, 19 years old, and a native of Germany. The nuptial knot was tied in Justice Mosher's best style in the office of Counselor Geo. Ball.

The only witnesses were the blushing attorney and the matter of-fact W. R. Mattox, one of the three constables of Plainfield. The affable justice did not have the temerity to kiss the bride, but he did extend his congratulations.

COST OF THE HOSPITAL.

INCOME SOMEWHAT EXCEEDED THE EXPENDITURES

In Addition to Ordinary Receipts $3,000 in Bequests Were Received—Great Increase in Work in all the Departments.

At the annual meeting of the governors of Muhlenberg Hospital a few days ago, at which officers for the ensuing year were elected, as heretofore noted in these columns, some facts of general interest concerning the work of the hospital were made known.

The reports presented showed an increase in all departments of the hospital service, and that, during the year, of hospital patients there had beeen 279 as against 256, and of dispensary patients 1,323 as against 1,226, during the preceding year.

The income somewhat exceeded the expenses, but the differences in certain items are worthy of note. The donations of money were, during the year ending in May, 1898, $3,818, and during the year ending in May, 1899, $3,075.71, a decrease of nearly 20 per cent, while the receipts from pay patients were during the year ending in may, 1899, $4,814 40 as against $1,914 the preceding year, an increase of more the 150 per cent.

The hospital began the year with a balance in bank of $1,444 63, resulting from the Spielkartenfest, and closes with a balance in bank of $1,568.39. The principal items of income for the year were, in round numbers:

Donations	$3,075.71
Woman's Auxiliary Board	300.00
"Harvest Home"	80.35
Hospital Sunday Collections	514.95
Income from Stites property	261.50
Patients	4,814.40

And the principal items of expense were, for

Salaries and wages	$3,478.26
Fuel, light and water	753.52
Provisions	2,440.94
Medical and surgical supplies	1,173.66
Sundry expenses	992.86

In addition to the items of receipts mentioned, bequests of $3,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. C. Van-Deventer, and $50 from the estate of the late Julia Bannon, were received.

It is hoped that the list of donors may be enlarged and that pecuniary gifts, which are sorely needed, will be multiplied during the coming year.

The complete annual report, will, as is usual, be printed and circulated later in the season, and any person who desires a copy can make sure of obtaining it by sending his name to any of the officers of the hospital.

DIED AFTER PAINFUL ILLNESS.

Mrs. Catherine Hughes Passed Away This Morning—Born in Ireland.

After a very painful illness lasting about a year and a half Mrs. Catherine Hughes, aged 71 years, residing on East Second street, passed away this morning. Mrs. Hughes was a native of Ireland, and has lived in this city for forty years. She was well-known and well liked by all who knew her. She was the mother of Thomas Hughes, an assistant at Langhorne's photo gallery, and Mrs. J. J. Kenney, of East Second street. A husband also survives her. The funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the house, 358 East Second street, and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock.

Nothing Serious About It.

The story printed in the News last night about the troubles between the Blecks and the Vails at South Plainfield was widely exaggerated. The trouble was of an incipient nature, and Mrs. Block was not assaulted so as to be in a critical condition. The affair was nothing more nor less than a simple neighborhood quarrel and did not amount to anything like the News' story indicated.

Soon to Manufacture Silk.

Ralph Whitney, who has been engaged as superintendent by the Watchung Silk Company, is busy at work getting the plant in shape in the Schepflin building. It is thought that the mill will be ready for operation in a couple of weeks. The machinery brought from Paterson is being repaired and twenty new looms have been purchased.

The Business Men's Movement.

The committee appointed by Mayor Smalley to devise ways and means for the organization of the business men, will meet this evening in the office of J. B. Coward on Park avenue. Tomorrow night a public meeting will be held in Coward's hall on East Front street, to which every business men is invited.

NURSE READY TO AID PROSECUTION.

Bella Anderson a Celebrated Prisoner in County Jail.

READY TO TELL EVERYTHING.

BUT WANTS TO KNOW HOW NEW YORK AUTHORITIES WILL ACT.

She Will Not Resist Extradition to New York if the District Attorney Will Agree Not to be too Harsh With Her—Sheriff Kirk Says That He is Astonished at the Girl's Intelligence.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 6—It has been a good many years since the Union county jail has held such a celebrated prisoner as Bella Anderson, alias Carrie Jones, who aided in the kidnapping of the Clark baby. Warden Dodd is constantly beseiged by reporters, alleged detectives and curiosity seekers to see the girl, but he resolutely refuses all unless accompanied by a note from former Prosecutor Fred Marsh, who has been retained as the girl's counsel. Mr. Marsh says that the Anderson girl has been used as a dupe by the Barrows.

"I have no interest in the case so far as the Barrows are concerned," said Mr. Marsh. "I intend to do everything possible, however, to gain either freedom or a short term for this girl, who has been used as a catspaw."

"None of her relatives have yet visited the jail. She told me her uncle was coming, but he has not yet been here. Governor Voorhees has promised to give me an opportunity to inspect the extradition papers before they are served on the warden of the jail. I shall go to Trenton today; but they can scarcely reach the Governor before Wednesday. If there should be a flaw in the papers I shall contest her removal to New York on every point. If the District Attorney wants to enlist her aid, that will be a different matter. Then the prisoner will cooperate with the prosecution in every possible way."

Sheriff William T. Kirk saw the girl yesterday, and said afterward:

"If anybody takes the Anderson girl for a blockhead, they are mistaken. Her intelligence astonished me. She is a good conversationalist. Her sentences are well constructed and grammatical. I think, though, that she could be easily led by any one whom she believed was her friend. Some of the women have told her she may be sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment, but under the circumstances I should say that she seemed quite cheerful."

Many letters from cranks, addressed to the prisoner, have been intercepted by the Sheriff. Some of them tell of the punishment she should receive, such as being roasted alive, boiled in oil, or put to death by more original methods. Others sympathize with her, and say that she is blameless.

Mr. Marsh visited Bella Anderson last night and told her of the indictment found against her here. Mr. Marsh advised her to tell all to the jury when she was brought to New York, and she said she would, gladly. The young woman seemed relieved rather than worried to hear that no time was being lost by the authorities. Mr. Marsh, after his talk with the prisoner, said that he was satisfied that she would make a good impression on any jury that might try her.

In Aid of Young Women's Club.

The Young Women's Club will hold a cake and candy sale at the rooms on West Front street Thursday afternoon and evening of this week. The expenses of the club are met entirely by the exertions of the girls themselves and they need encouragement. The proceeds of the affair is to pay the rent of rooms for the summer, and the treasury is in need of funds. In the past the girls have done nobly, and their efforts to sustain such a club should be encouraged by everyone who can possibly help them in their work.

FIVE HUNDRED WOUNDED.

Some Terrific Fighting Done by Americans and Natives in Philippines.

NATIVES CUT THE WIRES

The Hospital Ships Return to Manila With Wounded and Heat-Stricken Men From the Field.

Impossible for American Troops to Maintain a Complete Cordon Across Country—Lieut. Gibbs Saves Small Detachment From Capture—Morong Taken by Our Men After Hard Fight.

Manila, June 6.—Hospital tugs have returned to this city with 500 men wounded and heat stricken from Lawton's brigade now advancing on the Morong peninsula.

The fighting has been severe. It was impossible to maintain a complete cordon across the country and the Filipinos got past our lines and cut the telegraph wires in the Mateo Valley so often that the signal corps had to abandon them. Communication from Lawton is kept up by way of Pasig.

Transportation had to be abandoned, and even the Signal-Service wagons. Five Chinese carriers with the Signal Service decamped, and Sergt. Wadak, with a party, was cut off and only saved from capture by the prompt action of Lieut. Gibbs.

Battery G, of the First Artillery, was unable to proceed and had to burn its wagons, to prevent them falling into the enemy's hands.

Manila, June 6.—Two battalions of the Washington troops, under Col. Whalley, on board cascoes, were towed from Pasig to Morong and landed under cover of a well-directed fire from the "tinclad" army gunboats Napidan and Covadonga.

The rebels, who were entrenched in the outskirts of the town, reserved their fire until the troops were ashore and in the open. The American Artillery opened fire on the insurgents and drove them from their position, killing nine of them and wounding five. The Washington troops then took its town, the rebels fleeing to the hills.

While the Americans were on their way to Morong the insurgents opened fire from a shore battery at Ancona, their first shot striking the Covadonga's awning aft at a range of 3,500 yards. The Napidan also was fired at.

After Schwab had bidden goodby to his friends and the officers and received his money from the clerk, Detectives Frank Virten and A. F. Schroeder of the Newark police force placed him under arrest and produced requisition papers for him to go with them to Newark, where he is wanted on a charge of bigamy.

Fierce Fire at Paterson.

Paterson, June 6.—Fire broke out at 265 and 267 Main street. The fire was discovered in the cellar of M. B. Sweeney's paint shop. It was a most obstinate fire to fight, and the two lower floors of the building, which is three stories high, were gutted. The office of Secretary of State George Wurtz was considerably damaged. Only the daring work of Policemen saved the occupants of the second floor. The policemen carried out the members of the two families just in time to save them from suffocation.

Quarantine Angers Texans

Dallas, June 6.—The State quarantine against New Orleans is causing loss to merchants and much dissatisfaction. Stocks of sugar in nearly every Texas city are exhausted. The summer supplies are usually purchased in June, but the quarantine was put on so early and so unexpectedly that no arrangement could be made to meet the situation. The cost of getting sugar from Eastern markets will cause much expense to merchants and an increase of price to consumers.

Representatives of Traveling Men Will Hold a Meeting.

Albany, N. Y., June 6.—Representatives of the 350,000 travelling men in this country will meet here on June 30 at the fifth annual convention of the Commercial Travellers' National League. Nearly a thousand delegates are expected.

The principal object of the coming session is to form plans to combat the trusts. It is estimated that 50,000 commercial travellers have been thrown out of employment within the past few years by these great combinations of capital, the American Tobacco Company alone being responsible for the discharge of about 3,500 men.

The present officers of the League are: President, P. E. Dowe, New York; secretary, C. N. Bridges, New York; treasurer, W. E. Adams, Philadelphia; chairman of Committee on Convention Arrangements, Stephen C. Corliss, Albany.

President Dowe has been summoned as a witness before the Industrial Commission, appointed at the last session of Congress to investigate the subject of trusts. The commission will hold a session in Washington June 12 to 16, and Mr. Dowe will report at the League convention on the commission and its work.

Admiral Dewey Again on the Olympia

Hong Kong, June 6.—Admiral Dewey has left Peak Hotel and returned to the Olympia. He paid farewell calls to the Governor, General Gascoigne, and the commanders of the warships in the harbor.

Admiral Dewey's health has been considerably benefitted by his residence at the Peak. He appears somewhat haggard from the effect of the continual strain he has been under and of the climate.

The Armiral will not give a farewell dinner, nor will he accept one before the Olympia sails.

Kansas City, Mo., June 6.—Mary Brant, while taking her three children down to the Missouri River, to drown them, was overtaken by the police. She is a negress, and had been ill for nearly two years. She had no money and she could not work, so she thought it would be best to drown the children. She was walking in the direction of the Kaw River when Lieut Aherns and Officer Carr arrested her. A crowd of 200 negroes and white men were following her, but none had offered to save the children. On two occasions Mrs. Brant tried to kill her children, once with a hatchet and once with a knife. She will be sent to an asylum.

Paris, June 6.—The excitement throughout Paris is intense.

The Royalists, among the leaders of whom in the riots were the Count and Countess Castellane, hvae become so openly hostile that the influential Epatant, Jockey and Automobile clubs were closed by the Government.

There were violent scenes in the Chamber of Deputies when this action was announced by Premier Dupuy and two members were forcibly expelled.

At the Cabinet meeting the question of the punishment of Count de Castellane and other Royalists who made an attack on President Loubet at the race course at Auteuil, was discussed and it is thought that he will not be banished as was at first proposed.

Miners' Tale of Great Wealth.

Portland, Ore., June 6.—Joseph Walsh and Edward Burke, two prospectors from Josephine county in southern Oregon, have arrived here with $30,000 in gold and a story of a marvelous strike. They are going to San Francisco to purchase a ten-stamp mill. This, they say, will crush enough ore to make each a millionaire in a year. The men refuse to state the exact location of their claim. Walsh says that they only discovered the ledge a short time ago and that it contains 80 per cent. pure gold.

"I believe it is the richest thing ever unearthed on this coast," said Walsh. "Enough gold is in sight to make both of us multi-millionaires."

Walsh, who is now 65 years old, was working near Alvinza, Hayward's great mine in Amador county, California, when Hayward made the strike that made him one of California's millionaires. Walsh says he and Burke had only $3 between them when they discovered the ledge.

The men were seen riding furiously over the Laramie Plains, but the sacks of plunder they took from the express car were not on the horses, and the robbers are believed to have buried the plunder in the Medicine Bow Mountains. The posses are expected to engage in a desperate fight with the robbers when they get to close quarters.

Metal Spinning Machine

Cleveland, June 6.—James A. Bevington of this city has invented a machine for spinning metal which promises to work important changes in various lines of metal manufacturing. The metal to be spun is placed in tubular form in a lathe, which turns at the rate of 1,800 revolutions a minute. In a moment's time the metal becomes hot and softens from the friction and can then be shaped by the operator, according to his wishes.

The tool, which consists of hard steel jaws, touching on either side of the revolving tube, can be readily guaged to any desired width and the softened metal may be spun down by means of pressure to any size or shape, so long as a circular form is retained.

For six years Mr. Edwin Middleton has been one of the most valued members of the Girard Avenue Theater stock company of Philadelphia, and during that time has played more than sixty parts, chiefly in character comedy. Speaking of Ripans Tabules, Mr. Middleton recently said: "There are probably few employments that tax the nerves more than that of the actor. The man who follows the stage as a calling must be ready at all hours to execute his duties, whether pleasant or otherwise, and if his stomach or any other portion of his system is out of order it practically unfits him for work. I do not know," continued he, "what I would have done on several occasions had it not been for Ripans Tabules. They have helped me along wonderfully at times when I was almost too ill to go on the stage. I have long been a sufferer from a disordered stomach and very frequently have felt extremely nervous about the work I had in hand, but Ripans Tabules have served me as a medicine and stimulant in one." He says that he could name several of his fellow-professionals who could say as much as he for Ripans Tabules.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (ten tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

CALLED TO WHITE HOUSE.

President McKinly and His Militery Advisers Hold a Long Conference.

ADVICES TO GEN. OTIS.

The Question of Sending More Men To the Philippines Among the Matters Discussed.

Conference is Called Immediately After Receipt of Cablegram From Gen. Otis—Active Operations to be Continued in the Philippines by Our Forces, Regardless of Rainy Season.

Washington, June 6.—President McKinley had a conference with Acting Secretary of War Meiklejohn and Adjt.-Gen. Corbin which lasted nearly four hours. They were summoned to the White House suddenly, after news from Manila had been received. It is understood that the question of sending more troops to the Philippines was among the matters considered.

Active operations in the Philippines will be continued by the American troops notwithstanding the rainy season and plans for conducting an aggressive campaign were thoroughly discussed.

What these plans are the War Department officials refuse absolutely to make public. "They relate to future operations and will of course not be divulged," said Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn.

He was asked if the conference in any way related to the proposed operations and he replied affirmatively. It is learned, however, that Gen. Otis several days ago decided upon a plan of campaign. This he sent by cable to the War Department and Secretary Alger submitted Gen. Otis's despatch to the President. In his cable message Gen. Otis outlined the movement made against the natives on the peninsula of Morong. His plan was to surround the forces of Gen. Pio del Pilar and drive them into Morong peninsula, where they could not escape.

This was a part of a general plan for a continuation of active operations, and when reports were received from Manila about the result of the movements of Gens. Hale and Lawton, a conference was held to discuss the situation with reference to future operations, plans for which have been submitted by Gen. Otis.

Secretary Hay's presence at the conference was due to the receipt of a message from President Schurman of the Philippines Commission which concerned the matters reported on by Gen. Otis. In both despatches questions were asked and instructions requested, and the President deemed it wise to answer them without delay. There was nothing in either despatch to make it apparent that the insurrection was nearing an end.

Hyslop a Spiritualist.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—Prof. James H. Hyslop, Ph.-D., Columbia University, President of the American branch of the Society for Psychological Research, has caused some surprise by his announcement that he is inclined to accept the spiritualistic theory to account for various phenomena that he has witnessed. He said he had received a communication from what appeared to be his father's spirit, and had excluded the various hypotheses of telepathy, suggestion, fraud and hallucination completely.

Kidnapped by Man on Bicycle.

New Britain, Conn., June 6.—Anna, the little daughter of former Councilman Herman Escholz, of Hartford, is believed to have been kidnapped, and half a hundred men and boys are searching the country in this vicinity for some trace of her or her abductors. The recent kidnaping of baby Marion Clark in New York City has stirred the residents of this city to the prompt action they are taking. The child was stolen it is beleved by a man on a bicycle.

His Eyes on Alaska.

Cleveland, O., June 6.—The departure of John D. Rockefeller and his physician, Dr. H. F. Biggan, together with a company of twelve New York men, for Alaska is causing a great deal of comment here. It is known there are numerous valuable iron ore deposits in Alaska, and it is surmised that Mr. Rockefeller has discovered a new scheme for some gigantic financial operations.

Woman Burns Herself to Death.

Clinton, Ia., June 6.—Mrs. W. C. Norris, aged 36 years, committed suicide at her home, twelve miles from this city, under remarkable circumstances. She saturated her clothing with coal oil and then set fire to it. Before her husband could extinguish the blaze she was so badly burned that death resulted in a few hours. Despondency is assigned as the cause of the deed.

The Peanut Killed Her.

KILLED BY THE POLICE

Havana Officers Attempt the Arrest of a Notorious Criminal.

Havana, June 6.—Two policemen went to the house of a negro named Calasanz Valdez, in Belascoain street, to arrest him. Valdez was a famous criminal, and belonged to the notorious gang of Nanigos. When the policemen took Valdez in custody eight other negroes attempted to rescue him. Other policemen arrived and a fierce fight ensued, during which Valdez was killed and another negro of the name of Herrara was wounded. The Nanigos are greatly excited over the killing of Valdez, and threaten revenge.

Santiago De Cuba June 6.—Several anonymous letters have been received by Amelcan officials recently, making vague charges of oppression against the Americans and threatening an early revolt if the Americans do not immediately evacuate the island. One of the writers says that trouble may be expected about June 20. The police are trying to discover the writers of the letters, but it hardly likely that they will succeed. The Americans are not at all alarmed by the threats.

Gen. Brooke authorized the establishment of a press censorship here, owing to the continued publication of seditious and inflammatory articles in all the papers of the city. The editors have been informed that they will be severely punished if they violate the orders relative to the character of the editorials they print.

Honolulu Heiress a Bride.

San Francisco, June 6.—It has just leaked out that Miss Helen Kinau Wilder, the Honolulu heiress, who has gained fame through her humane work in the Hawaiian Islands and her eccentricities abroad, was secretly married on May 16 to Horace Joseph Craft, manager of the Pacific Cycle Company at the Hawaiian capital. The wedding took place at midnight in the Honolulu Theological Seminary, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. Joln Nua a native theological student. The bride went immediately to her home after the ceremony. On the following day she took passage on the steamship Australia for this city, arriving here on May 23. Miss Wilder has been noted in Honolulu for her eccentric acts. Recently she arrested Attorney-General Cooper of Honolulu for abusing a horse and despite his protests carried him to the station and made him put up bail that he would not repeat the cruely.

The American Colonial Bank of Porto Rico is designated the depository of the War Department for the island of Porto Rico.

Warrant for a Politician.

Marion, Ind., June 6.—Charles A. Brown, formerly a merchant of Marion and a prominent candidate for Assistant Auditor of the United States Treasury, is wanted by the police of Marion for obtaining money under false pretenses. Brown wrote checks on a Marion bank, representing that he had money on deposit, and after living the checks cashed by George A. Phillip and Eli Snyder, two merchants, he left town. A number of Marion merchants were also worked for large amounts for goods obtained. A fine of $25 is also standing against him in the Circuit Court. Brown was a prominent Elk, and was very popular.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Lynched Weyler's Ex-Agent

Havana, June 6.—A dispatch from San Antonio de los Banos says that Jose Labregat, a notorious agent of General Weyler who outraged defenceless women and killed children, has arrived there. This was a signal for a gathering of relatives and friends of those whom he formerly persecuted. The excitement continued throughout the day, and a crowd surrounded the house where he was and began to threaten him. He attempted to escape and, on meeting the demonstrators, emptied his revolver, wounding two persons. The crowd closed in and captured him and he was lynched in the public square.

May Be a Note From Andree

Christiania, June 6.—According to a dispatch from Mandal, the most southern town of Norway, two boys, on May 14 last, found on the north coast of Iceland a small cork case containing a slip of paper, dated July 11, 1897, signed "Andree, Stridenberg and Fraenckel," and bearing the words: "All well. Thrown out about longtitude 81, latitude unknown."

He ended his life with carbolic acid. A bill in the name of Charles Ellwood, Montclair, was found in his pocket.

It May Promote Mr. Ray

Washington, June 6.—In the assurance that Colonel David B. Henderson of Iowa will be elected Speaker, gossip has turned to the probable make up of the committees. The advancement of Henderson to the chair will make a vacancy in the Judiciary Committee chairmanship. There also will be a vacancy in the Committee on Rules. Representative Ray of New York is next in line of succession to Henderson on the Judiciary Committee, and a concession to the East may be made in his promotion.

The Trust Business.

There is a slight decrease in the value of the corporations and trusts that have come into existence during the last month in New Jersey, due to the fact that nearly all important commercial combinations have been made. The corporation department of the Secretary of State's office has announced the result of the business of the month of May. There were 205 corporations given certificates or charters, and that is larger than any previous month, although the total of the capital stock is not as large, due to the fact that there has been a rush of small corporations, with capital stock ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000.

Delaware has captured corporations to the amount of $60,000,000, and a company has been formed to incorporate concerns under the laws of both New Jersey and Delaware, and this concern has opened offices almost under the shadow of the State House in Trenton. The decrease is said to be legitimate, because the big companies have all come into existence during previous months, and the high tide in the business of incorporations has been reached.

The State of New Jersey was figuring on getting at least $1,000,000 out of the registration of charters, but it will not reach that amount. There are only five months before the end of the fiscal year, and during the midsummer months few concerns come into existence. The financial officers of the State now believe that the State's revenue from this source will be about $700,000, which is a very notable increase compared with the $94,110.80 received from this source last year.

Saloon in the West End.

If the establishment of a licensed saloon in the West End of the city will result in the suppression of the illegal traffic that is known to exist there now, the Common Council will have, perhaps, acted wisely in granting the application of Michael Walsh last night. Doubtless those who are earnest advocates of temperance will question the policy that permits the establishment of another saloon on any pretext, but if it wise, and the position that the Council has taken in the matter for the past few years would seem to prove that it is accepted as such, for licenses to be granted for three saloons within a stone throw of each other on West Third street, then it is not an extraordinary proceeding to allow one saloon to be located in a section like that surrounding Grant avenue and South Second street.

This question of a licensed saloon in the West End has been a bone of contention for several years past, and now that it is settled by the barriers of precedent being thrown down it is probable that as long as any licenses are granted in the city this particular one will continue to secure the approval of the Council in the same direction, providing, of course, its record for the first year is not a bad one.

Government officials have about abandoned hope of any settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute through the negotiations now pending. It is stoutly claimed that this is the fault of the Canadian Government, which has made it plain that nothing short of a Pacific port will satisfy it. This Government has made it equally plain that it will neither make such a concession nor agree to submit Canada's right to ask as much to arbitration.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Senator Kean made a slight mistake when he said in Philadelphia recently: "The Republicans have control of New Jersey's State government." There are seventy-five Democrats to twenty-five Republicans in charge of the State government. This is fact.—New York Press.

* * * * *

The fact that while advocating biennial sessions of the Legislature the Governors of New York State do not find annual sessions sufficient to transact the business of the State, but have to call special sessions frequently, is noted with interest. The truth is that the Legislature is merely an Appellate Court. It is needed every year, and would be used as often as that in any case. The difference would simply be that with biennial sessions the Legislature would meet oftener only when the Governor wanted it, while with annual sessions other needs than those desired by the Governor get consideration.—Newark Sunday Call.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Walter Scott and family, of East Front street, enjoyed a dinner of new potatoes, green peas and spinach grown in his garden on Second street. This is the earliest record of new potatoes which we have ever known in this district. The vines are two feet high, and have been in bloom for three weeks.

Miss Emma Adams, the efficient librarian at the Public Library, recently told the writer that the impression which had been created in the minds of the public that the new annex was to be used solely for scientific works is erroneous. The new "stacks" in the annex will be used for all classes of books. The public will be given access to the "stacks" on the first floor and allowed to select books therefrom. The more expensive or choice works will be kept on the floors above. The public will not be allowed to make personal selections from these but will be compelled to request an assistant to secure the book after the usual method of selecting from the card. The library now contains about 18,000 volumes. When the new annex is ready for public inspection the Plainfield library will be second to no other in the State.

Canal Trade May be Revived.

The Newark Evening News in commenting on the recent inspection of the Delaware & Raritan canal, by an official of the Chesapeake & Albemarle Canal, says: "It is possible that the development of the lumber traffic may restore the Delaware & Raritan canal to some of its old-time prosperity. As it will not interfere to any great extent with the Pennsylvania Railroad's freight-carrying, that corporation, which owns the canal, will have no object in charging extortionate tolls or putting obstacles in the way of the project's success. On the contrary, it will be altogether to the company's interests to foster and encourage the play. Such a revival of industry on the canal would mean much added prosperity for Bordentown and New Brunswick, its termini, and incidentally would be of appreciable benefit to considerable surrounding terrritory."

A remonstrance was received from residents of Orchard place against the erection of another icehouse on the site of the one recently destroyed by fire, which was owned by Brady Bros., and they asked the Council to cause the house to be erected at a greater distance from other houses if they decided to allow the icehouse to be erected. This matter was referred to the fire and building committee.

After the bills presented were audited and ordered paid the Council adjourned.

The entire amount of stock was taken by the stockholders of the old company, except a portion which was set aside to be sold to some of the prominent and most valued employes of the company. Borden's Condensed Milk Company is at the present time the largest manufacturers of proprietary food products in the world.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, June 6.—The Society of Friends, at their annual meeting here, adopted the following statement: "We desire to reaffirm our testimony that prison discipline should look toward reformation, and that all use of prisoners for the profit of contractors, without regard to their physical or moral welfare, wherever it occurs, deserves our earnest condemnation, and that we know of nothing more deplorable or cruel to the treatment of convicts than is practiced in the chain gangs of some southern statee."

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 6th—This evening there will be a meeting of the Board of Education, at which time it is expected that a person will be selected to serve as princical for the public schools. This question has been an aggravating one for the educators to decide, as there has been so many applicants, and so few apparently that are able to fill the bill. One man who applied went so far as to send his photo, and was not a little surprised when he heard nothing in response. All sorts of men have put in applications, and if a good man is not selected this time it ought not to be the fault of the Board, for surely they have a great variety to choose from. However, it is said that the appointment rests between two men, who are highly recommended by those who know them, and it is almost an assured fact that one of these two will receive the appointment.

Rev. Mr. Sindall, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, occupied the pulpit at the Presbyterian church Sunday for Rev. A. I. Martine, the pastor, who is still confined to his home as a result of a recent accident.

"Lud" Frazee is now very busy painting various buildings about town. Last week he finished Apgar Brothers' new house, and at present he is painting Adam Dealaman's building and residence.

The pavilion at the end of the Plainfield trolley will be formally opened tomorrow evening by Harry Milligan. There will be a free dance.

The boating at New Market is now considered to be the finest, and it is quite the thing for parties from nearby places to enjoy an evening on the lake.

Acting-Postmaster Dr. Brakeley is on the sick list, and although his illness is not serious his condition is such that he can do but little.

Miss Alley Fenner, of Pluckamin, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer, of Church street, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, of North Plainfield, spent Sunday with Mayor and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, of Church street.

Mrs. Robinson, of Newark, has been spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Staats, of North avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue, entertained company from out of town over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Apgar, of Westfield, have been visiting with Mrs. Emily Apgar, of Front street.

Miss Mary F. Randolph, of Greenbrook, is critically ill at her home and hopes of her recovery are slight.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lake, who have been visiting out of-town friends, have returned home.

The daughter of John Y. Wilson, residing on the road to New Market, is seriously ill.

Mrs. Henry Garretson has been visiting friends at Bound Brook for a short time.

Howard Ace, of Stroudsburg, Pa., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Craig.

Wm. H Terry, of Church street, has returned from a visit with New York friends.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Awning's have been placed on the windows in front, and a high board fence is being erected along the Park avenue side of the property. Mr. Emery intends converting the lawn in the rear of the hotel into a summer garden where ice cream and refreshments may be seaved to his patrons.

Plainfield is making a much needed improvement to Front street from Terrell road to Leland avenue, and when finished will be one of the finest roads through this section. It was a long time coming, but all things come to those who wait.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelonia, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says that this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 6—The Board of Education has awakened to the fact that the people do not want a school building placed on the lot at the corner of Elm and Orchard streets and have asked the public at large to send to the district clerk any sites or information regarding the new schoolhouse question.

FOR THE BABIES' CAMP.

Hot Weather Emphasizes the Need of Help for the Tots.

The efforts of the City Union of King's Daughters to re-establish the Baby Camp should be encouraged by all citizens. The little tots suffer greatly from the hot weather and all attempts to benefit them should be heartily endorsed by all possessed of human instincts. A small sum from those people who are in comfortable circumstances will certainly not embarrass them. But think how much benefit will result to the babies and to the poor mothers who are also relieved of the responsibilities of their little ones for a few hours while they earn their daily bread. The project is a laudable one and should certainly receive hearty endorsement. Send in your subscriptions to The Daily Press and help swell the fund. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done it unto Me!"

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—The idea of raising a fund to be devoted to the needs of the City Union of King's Daughters for the purpose of providing a babys' camp, ought to appeal to all. I am glad The Daily Press has undertaken the project, and hereby subscribe $5 to the fund.

Meeting in an Old Church.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Stelton, June 6.—The fifty-eighth anniversary of the East New Jersey Baptist Association is in session at the Baptist church today. Delegates are present from all parts of New Jersey. The First Baptist and Park Avenue Baptist churches, of Plainfield, are well represented. A delegation of twenty came from the Park Avenue Baptist church in a stage. This Stelton Bastist church is 210 years old this year, and the historical associations about the church makes the session one long to be remembered. During the day addresses were made by prominent Baptist workers from various parts of the State.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys—help them to do their work—never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from a Plainfield citizen.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says:—"I was troubled at times with symptoms of kidney complaint for four years. My chief difficulty was a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They however grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise. I consider that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for complaints like mine"

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

QUEEN OF MIQUELON.

A REMARKABLE WOMAN WHO IS A MULTI-MILLIONAIRE.

She Runs a Big Hotel and Her Great Fortune Is the Result of Her Own Efforts Does Not Like the Men—Has Many Suitors.

The reason so few people have heard of Mme Gavette sometimes called the queen of Miquelon, is because they have not heard much about the island of that name lying with its sister, St. Pierre, off the western coast of Newfoundland. The Islands belong to France, and are so generally mentioned together that they are known as St Pierre-Miquelon.

There is not a blade of grass growing on the islands, which are two rocks, divided by a narrow strait, and yet they form a naval station, do a flourishing shipping business and have a trade estimated at 25,000,000 a year.

After the governor of the islands, who is a vice admiral, the most important personage in St Pierre-Miquelon, is Mme Marie Louise Gavette. She is a multi-millionaire, she has made all the money herself, and is a woman of literary talent with a streak of genius in it.

Mme Gavette, nee Bernois, was born in Jarbes, Gascony, but was taken to Miquelon by her father, a sailor, when quite young, and sent for a few years to a seminary in Cape Breton, N. S. She married at the age of 15 and when she was 32 was left a childless widow.

Some time before his death M Gavette retired from the sea and purchased a modest hotel which was patronized chiefly by sailors, of whom there are thousands in Miquelon, during the summer months.

It is hardly necessary to say that sailors—French sailors especially—are disposed to be lively and require a strong hand to keep them within limits. While her husband lived, Mme Gavette attended strictly to her domestic affairs, and was noted for her bright smile and sweetness of temper.

She possesses those attributes still, and widowhood has developed in her a strong hand. One day before she left off mourning a row occurred in the hotel barroom.

"Messieurs," said Mme Gavette, as she appeared on the scene of the disturbance with her brightest smile and a revolver in her right hand, "yonder esplanade is an excellent place on which to settle your little disputes. I'll have none of them here, and I swear to you by St Agathe that I'll shoot the first sailor attempting a fracas on these premises."

Mme Gavette grew richer and richer year by year. She purchased a few acres of rock back of the Esplanade, on which she erected 50 sailors boarding-houses. Those boarding houses are kept in splendid condition and yield a handsome revenue to the queen of Miquelon.

She has organized a police force to guard her interests, which she pays liberally, and has altogether more than 1000 names on her pay roll, for she owns a fleet of brigs, schooners and other sailing craft trading with France Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. She is phenomenally fortunate in her undertakings, all her employes are insured, and upward of 50 widows and superanuated seamen draw pensions from her treasury.

MADAME GAVETTE.

It is hinted that smuggling has materially assisted in building up the great fortune of this extraordinary woman, and, certes Miquleon is a favorite resort of the class of gentry who fight shy of revenue officers.

It is known, too, that the French wines and brandies are as cheap as they are plentiful along the shores of Newfoundland. Nevertheless it must in justice be said that among the many seizures effected by Queen Victoria's revenue officers within the past quarter of a century, not a cent's worth has been traced to the ownership of her majesty of Miquelon.

After her husbands death, Mme Gavette had as many suitors as the Grecian Penelope, but she dismissed them all with such chilling politeness that the number decreased to zero; her reputation as a man ruler and man-hater spread far and near, and save a European nobleman, who now and then offers her his name and dilapidated chateau of his ancestors, by mail, she is left in peace.

New Use for Turkey Claws.

Some enterprising genius in search of novelties has now brought out the gobbler's claw in a new fashion.

A real turkey's claw is treated to a varnish-like finish, is silver-tipped and has a small thermometer fastened to it, and is thus transformed into a mantel ornament.

This is a hint to the farmer's wife that she hold in reserve her turkey legs, tip them with a bit of ribbon tied with a big bow at the side, and fasten on one of the little thermometers, which she can get at any stationer's. She might tie on little calendars, banner fashion, and there she has dinner souvenirs or prizes for a progressive euchre party. The girl with a slender purse may also take a hint from this for her cotillion, or whist, or euchre parties this winter.

OUTING GOWNS.

Costumes and Accessories For Out of Door Sports.

Black stockings are worn with outing gowns, or stockings the color of the shoes. The hat retains a suggestion of the masculine, feathers, flowers and gauze being rigorously avoided. Ribbon and silk bands, knots and choux, with a quill or two, are the usual trimmings. The sailor and the Tyrolean stand foremost in favor among shapes.

The materials used for outing gowns are covert cloth, mixed goods, cheviots and serges, medium and dark tones being preferred. Medium gray and beige are most useful, mud, dust and rain making little impression upon them, but navy blue, Russian green, dark brown and black are also worn. Subdued plaids and checks are well represented in this class of materials and are really more serviceable than the plain goods.

Red vests of elastic wool, like the old fashioned cardigan jacket, are worn for golf playing, and they nearly always have silk sleeves of the same shade. These scarlet accessories are worn by both men and women players and are attractive bits of color in the field.

A picture is given of three fashionable cravats. The first, worn with a standing collar with turned down points, is of white moire and is called the regate. The second consists of a stock collar and butterfly knot of red taffeta with stitched plaits. The third, which is more elaborate, is a bow of taffeta with guipure points and openwork lines, which is mounted on a stock collar of plaited taffeta, points of taffeta matching the bow appearing above the collar.

THE PREVAILING MODE.

Many Rings and Few Gloves In Elegant Society.

Artificial flowers being much worn, not only as a trimming for hats and bonnets, but in the form of boas and ruches and on evening gowns, the latest fancy is to perfume each flower with the odor properly belonging to it.

Supreme fashion prescribes that rings shall be worn upon all the fingers; therefore gloves are discarded at the theater and at evening receptions, and there is likely to be a return to mittens of the first empire style. At present the long sleeves which cover the hands to the fingers are considered a sufficient shield, the multitudinous rings previously mentioned taking the place of gloves, with which they are incompatible. Upon less elaborate and therefore ringless occasions, gloves are worn—that is, for calling and driving—but the gloves are of a fanciful nature, the back being embroidered, not in the ordinary lines, but with a monogram or cipher or some ornamental design. Black silk or gold or silver thread is used for the embroidery.

Bodices differing from the skirt will again be worn this summer, and a skirt of black satin may accompany any light corsage. Bodices of black beaded tulle will be in vogue and are cool as well as pretty.

The girl's gown depicted is of light green printed foulard. The plain skirt is trimmed with narrow white gimp. The blouse bodice has a wide collar of cream faille, bordered by two little ruffles, with a cravat to match. The plastron of white faille has pale green bands across it. The collar and belt are of sky blue taffeta—a novel touch—and the collarette is of cream satin.

Geradezu lebensgefährlich war der Andrang zum letzten Faß.—In Folge der überaus langen Verzögerung der Genehmigung zur Einführung des elektrischen Trambetriebes auf der Ringlinie und auf der Linie Landsbergerstraße-Schwabing kommt die Einführung dieses Betriebes nunmehr bedeutend höher zu stehen, weil unterdessen die Preise für Eisen und Kupfer namhaft gestiegen sind. OVER YOUNG FOLKS

A TIGER TALE.

There was an ancient Grecian boy
Who played upon the fiddle,
Sometimes high, sometimes low,
Sometimes in the middle.
And all day long beneath the shade
He munched on prunes and marmalade,
But what the tunes were which he played
Is certainly a riddle.

Three tigers gaunt and ravenous,
Came from the gloomy wood
Intent to slay the fiddler bold,
But his music was too good.
So round about him once they filed
Till, by the melody beguiled,
They sat them softly down and smiled
As only tigers could.

And thus beguiled, those tigers smiled
Throughout the livelong day
Until at length there was not left
Another tune to play.

* * * * * * *

What happened then I do not know—
I was not there to see—
But when a man runs short of tunes
Can tigers be appeased with prunes
Or marmalade and silver spoons?
That's what perplexes me.

BILLY'S ADVENTURE.

BY MARTHA M. WILLIAMS.

If there was anything under the sun Billy hated it was hauling water. Not that the work itself was hard, or in any way disagreeable, but because he loved the spring and the springside so, and his mother was sure to call after him as he started: "Hurry back, Billy! we can't do a thing, not even put on the pudding, until the water comes."

The spring came out half way to a tall bluff and danced down over sheer rocks richly embroidered with lichen and moss and fern. Some part of the water was led into a trough hollowed from long, slender logs, which was fixed in crocheted uprights some ten feet from the ground. The troughs went quite to the roadside. Billy drove his barrel underneath it and let the spouting stream go plump into the squared bunghole.

So the filling was ridiculously easy; and as for driving the slide, that was as good as play. It was no load at all for Merry Tom, the chunky pony. Going springward, Billy Boy rode him; coming home, he walked beside, flourishing and cracking his plaited leather whip.

Upon a certain October Wednesday the whip cracked so loudly as the outfit reached the spring any one who knew Billy would have been certain he had a new and especially acute grievance. All the mile betwixt spring and house he had been muttering. "Think they might a-let me stayed to hear the last," or "Reckon they think a boy, a big boy, don't keer nothin' about hearin' nothin' in the world."

Still, he had heard something—enough, at least, to tell vaguely. So he brightened perceptibly as he drew to the spring, for other thirsty folks were there—two men in a very dusty buggy, with a tired looking horse. As he came up one of them hailed Billy:

"Howdy, sonny! Dear bless my soul, but I'm glad to see you. I've been clean lost this half hour—it's good to find myself anywhere about Squire Clark's."

"Howdy, brother Amos! It's funny—you gettin' lost! Brother Amos, the colporteur, a worn-out itinerant, was a prime favorite with all the boys, he had such a knack of fetching exactly the books they wanted, books that had blood and fighting in them, and good boys who did not die young of their own goodness.

"It is funny, I never hit on this crossroad before—I've often heard of your spring." Brother Amos returned. "What's the good word up at the house, Billy? Any chance for travelers to stay all night?"

"Plenty—at least I reckon so," Billy answered, his sense of news to tell suddenly checking hospitality. "Reason I say that, I don't just know how things 'll be when we get there. I left the sheriff there and 'bout a dozen more men—and they were tellin' how the man they were after had stole 'bout $1,000,000 in town last night—and gone chasin' off in a buggy this mornin' as if he hadn't done a thing."

"Dear me, why we came from town! We heard nothin of all this!" Brother Amos said, turning to his companion, who yawned and shook his head. Then suddenly he sat upright and looked at Billy with a very keen pair of eyes. The barrel was by this time underneath the spout and filling very fast. The stranger got out of the buggy and went beside it, peering into its depths as though it were something out of the common.

"Here's a new style of water works—eh, Brother Amos," he said, with a gurgling laugh, then to Billy, "Tell me how you get the water out?"

"Easy enough! Don't you see the spile there at the bottom?" Billy-Boy retorted, over his shoulder. He was busy cutting dog-wood boughs to shade the barrel in transit and keep the water cool. As he turned with both hands full a vicious fly made Merry Tom dance so the slide was in danger of upsetting.

"Here. Give me the bushes—I'll fix them while you hold the horse," the the stranger said, fetching a hand out his pocket. There was a knife in it so keen and sharp when it was opened it awoke Billy to covetousness. By help of it, in a trice the boughs were in place, though Billy-Boy could not understand why in the placing the stranger meddled so much with the wedge-shaped board that went into the bung.

"I'll tell mother who's comin'—she'll be sure to have a place for you," he shouted to Brother Amos, determinedly taking the road ahead of him.

The sheriff, riding out of the Clark gate, almost swore at the sight of Brother Amos' companion. "To think of ketchin' him, when we'd about give him up!" he said to the man at his elbow, then spurred to the side of the buggy, crying out: "Halt! You're my prisoner! Hold up your hands!"

"Who is your prisoner. Explain yourself, Mr. Sheriff?" Brother Amos said with dignity. "You can scarcely mean me—it is still more impossible you can mean my friend Bradley, who is a philanthropic man of means, travelling with me to learn the needs of my work."

"Didn't be stay all night at the Franklin house in Clearview, and leave there at daylight this morning?" the sheriff demanded. "Another man stayed there, too—a traveling man, with a packet of unset diamonds worth $50,000. He had them last night—the man you call Bradley knew he had them, because he looked at some of them, and even spoke of buying. This was at 1 o'clock—at 8 the diamonds were missed. So was Bradley. Then it came out that he had been seen leaving so early.

"I see! A strong case of circumstantial evidence," the man called Bradley said calmly, stepping from the buggy. "Mr. Sheriff, I do not blame you in the least. Now, in justice, I ask to be searched at once. I am a total stranger. It had been arranged by letter that Brother Amos should call for me at daylight. He met me at the steps of the Franklin house—unless I am mistaken, anybody will accept his word for truth. We have been together ever since. Ask him, please, if I have parted with, thrown away, or in any way disposed of anything."

"He certainly has not," Brother Amos said. "Mr. Sheriff, I—"

"Thank you," Bradley interrupted. "Now, if I took the diamonds, carried them off and have not parted with them. Imust have them still. Gentlemen, I implore you to look for them. It seems to me I can hardly breathe until the charge is refuted."

Fifteen minutes later the sheriff was saying humbly, "Beg your pardon, Mr. Bradley—as you say you couldn't a-swallowed them stones—there were too many, even if you'd been an ostrich. And certain it is, I find no sign of them anywhere about your clothes. You saw 'em—you know they were there, and real diamonds, wrapped in tinfoil inside a pocket case of metal. Now, if I should happen to light on 'em while you're in these parts, will you help 'dentify 'em, to prove you bear no malice for this blunder?"

"My dear sir, don't speak of it," Bradley murmured. "You forget the interest I still have in the matter. It would give me the greatest pleasure to see those unlucky stones again in the right hands."

Billy had never heard such stories as Bradley told that night on the porch after supper. Still he did not like the man. It gave him a creepy feeling, when, after he had lighted the visitors to their chamber, Bradley shook hands and said: "Dear boy, pray for me." It was late—almost 12 o'clock—still Billy could not sleep when he was snug in bed. For an hour he thrashed about, listening to the 'possum hunters and wishing himself out with them. His own dog Bose answered spasmodically the barkings from the woods. All at once Billy heard a low, sharp growl, then a violent yelp, as though Bose had been struck heavily. He flung open a window, but could see nothing. Again he heard Bose, this time a sort of growling whine that was lost and smothered in a curious rushing sound, the noise of gushing water falling from a little height.

"I wonder who can be drawing water this time of night!" Billy said to himself—then, as the noise kept up he gave a little excited whistle, leaped through the window, which opened on the roof of the low back porch, ran along it and dropped softly to the ground.

The water barrel sat always under the big white oak twenty yards away. Bradley stood beside it, with his back to the house, he had taken out the spile and held his fingers in the stream, trying to break up and deaden the sound of its flowing.

"If you had to haul water I reckon you'd not waste it so free," Billy Boy said, clutching him by both arms. Bradley writhed about snarling and tried to strike the boy with the sharp, cruel knife. Billy sprang lightly aside, caught a slide stake and dealt his enemy a blow on the wrist that made him drop the knife and groan. "Boy!" he whispered hoarsely. "Help me—you must. They are there—in that barrel—the diamonds, you know. Help me get them out—you shall have half—think how rich they will make you—and nobody need know."

"I'd know myself—that's enough—besides I'd never help a man mean enough to kick Bose," Billy Boy said. In the dark he had managed to get the rope lines with which he drove and shaped them into a noose. Not for naught had he practiced throwing a lasso. It was a near cast—so near a miss would have been disgraceful—but next minute Mr. Bradley found the rope settling over his arms and being drawn tight, while Billy yelled lustily: "Father! Mother! Brother Amos! Wake up and see what I've caught."

Philanthropist Bradley, it turned out, was an all-round crook, the head of a gang that had shadowed the diamond salesman ever since he left the city. All unwittingly, brother Amos had been made to serve their turn. He had met one of the gang while working as a prison missionary, and had given the man his address, promising to help him when he came out. If you think after this adventure Billy was not something of a hero, you had better ask his mother. She will tell you that he never hauled another barrel of water.

THE DREAM OF THE TOY.

The Sandman lost a dream one night,
A dream meant for a boy;
It floated round awhile, and then
It settled on a Toy.

The toy dreamed that it stood in class
With quite a row of boys;
The teacher rapped upon his desk
And cried, "Less noise! less noise!"

Then, looking at the Toy, he scowled
And said, "Next boy—foretell."
"Oh, please, sir," cried the little Toy,
"I don't know how to spell.

"Indeed, I don't know how it is,
I'm sure I am a toy,
Although I seem to be in class
And dressed up like a boy."

"What's that? What's that?" the teacher cried—
In awful tones he spoke;
He came with strides across the floor,
And then the Toy awoke.

There lay the nursery very still,
The shelf above its head;
The fire burned dimly on the hearth,
The children were in bed.

There lay the dolls and Noah's Ark.
"Oh, dear me," said the Toy,
"I just had such a dreadful dream!
I dreamed I was a boy."

A WILD SLEIGH RIDE.

This boy was 15 years old in 1777, when General Burgoyne started from Canada for Albany, and his name was David Spafford. He lived with his father and mother and two little sisters on a farm away up in the Green Mountains of Vermont, where the winters are long and the snow sometimes lies four feet deep for weeks at a time. I myself have known the weather to be so cold there that ice formed in the river more than six feet thick.

It was about the middle of August, 1777, that a message came to Mr. Spafford's farm and told how Burgoyne had been traveling southward from Canada with thousands of British regulars and many hundreds of Indian allies who were wild with desire to kill, scalp and burn. The messengers added that one of the savages a warrior so tall and heavy as to be a giant, and known as the Wyandet Panther, had murdered the beautiful daughter of a Scotch clergyman, Jenny McCrea, who was visiting a friend at Fort Edward.

THE INDIAN SEEMED TO LEAP OFF HIS BOARD INTO THE AIR.

After this act General Burgoyne had lost control of his Indians, and in small bands they were overrunning the country. Mr. Spafford must come at once and join a company of Vermont farmers, who, under Colonel Stark, were going to protect their homes and drive Indians and Hessians alike from the country. So Mr. Spafford went, and was badly wounded at the battle of Bennington. After that he was taken home and stayed until winter came, when he insisted that his wife and daughter should go to make a long visit in a large town some twenty miles away.

Thus it happened that when New Year's Day came David Spafford and his father were living alone in the farm house, taking care of the horses and cows, and hoping each morning that word would be brought that peace had been declared.

One night while they were in bed they heard a man shouting and kicking at the door. David jumped up and let him in. He was a farmer who lived five or six miles further in the mountains. His clothing was torn and his face was covered with blood, and he had snowshoes on his feet.

"I can't stop!" he cried out. "I only came to let you know that Indians have burned my house and murdered all my family, and I am now fleeing for my life. They will soon be here and you must start at once!"

Then he turned and sped into the darkness again. For a moment David stood as if stunned. The awful news completely terrified him; but no time was to be lost. He glanced up the mountainside and the clouds away off giared with the reflection of the burning buildings. The lad knew it would be simply impossible for his father to escape on snowshoes, for his wounds had left him so stiff in both legs that he could scarcely walk about the house. Yet something must be done at once.

In such a time one's wits work quickly, and David Spafford had wits to spare. He suddenly remembered that he had a pair of snowshoes exactly like those worn by the man who gave the alarm. So he worked rapidly and put on the snowshoes and ran back and forth between the house and the barn several times, making half a dozen tracks in the snow. The he took the horses and cows out of the barn and laid the whip on them so vigorously that they ran out toward the road as fast as they could go. By this time Mr. Spafford had managed to dress himself.

"Good!" he said to his son. "Now do you think you can carry me to the barn?"

"I'll try," David replied, and taking his father on his back like a sack of flour he succeeded in getting him into the barn and buried in the hay mow.

"Its growing colder," said Mr. Spafford, "and if the crust keeps hardening on the snow we have one chance of escape. Haul the bobsled across the the barn floor until it is just in front of that door in the rear, then bring our guns here and hide yourself in the hay beside me. It's a slim chance and a big risk, but it is the only one, if we want to save our scalps!"

"I see your idea!" the boy cried, and he did as he was told. Father and son had lain there, buried in the hay, scarcely half an hour when, through a chink in the barn, they saw seven Indian warriors surrounding the house. The savages staggered and some of them fairly reeled, for they had swallowed so much rum as to be quite drunk. Several had bloody scalps dangling from their belts.

"I had scarcely hoped for it," Mr. Spafford whispered, but they are so drunk they can hardly follow the trail of the snowshoes, and maybe we will outwit them after all."

After staggering around the house some of the Indians went inside, while others came toward the barn; but after glancing at the empty stalls they rejoined their fellows, who set up a loud shouting. Pretty soon two or three of them rolled out of the house a cask of New England rum, and knocked the head in and commenced to drink heavily. Then some more pulled two or three feather beds out into the moonlight, and ripping them open with their knives, commenced to throw the feathers up into the air, dancing and singing, and every few minutes drinking again and again of the rum. One after another of the savages became so intoxicated as to fall down in the snow, and then they rolled over and over in the feathers which stuck to their bodies, until finally every one of the band lay there, stupified with liquor, unable to move hand or foot.

All this time David and his father, hidden in the hay, scarcely dared to breathe, for fear of betraying themselves, but now had come the moment for action.

"We can't tell how many of the savages may be coming along, so we dare not kill these, although it would be an easy matter," said Mr. Spafford. "Its almost daylight, too, and we must be moving. Open the rear door, David, and push the bobsled out on the snow—I guess the crust is thick enough to bear it now. Then help me down, and we will make one desperate effort to get away."

The brave boy crawled noiselessly down from the haymow and did as he was bid. He placed a quantity of straw in the sleigh and wrapped his father up in a buffalo robe, for the cold was intense. Then he stepped in himself, as he did so giving a slight push with one foot. The sleigh moved slowly, but soon gathered momentum, for back of the barn was a steep valley running down for five miles to the frozen river; and in all that sweep there was not a three, or a stump sticking up above the snow, for all had been burned off in a great forest fire years previous.

Within half a minute the sleigh seemed to leap forward like a deer, and then it shot down the mountainside with the speed of an express train. The noise made by the whirring runners on the hardened snow aroused some of the Indians, and hastening through the barn they saw the escape. Two of the savages fired their muskets at David, who was standing up in the sleigh and was steering it, but they were so drunk that their bullets went wide of the mark. A third seized a long board, and with a fiendish yell threw himself on it headlong, as a boy nowadays will throw himself on a sled. This huge, painted, shrieking savage came sliding down the hillside at amazing speed, but he could not catch up with the heavier sleigh. Still he was so near that Mr. Spafford dared to take no chances; and resting his musket on the seat of the sled, he aimed it and pulled the trigger. There was a puff of smoke, a loud report, and a horrible yell, and the Indian seemed to leap off his board into the air, half turning as he did so; and when he struck the snow again, rolling over and over until he came to a full stop, and lay there dead, his dark body outstretched on the white crust.

"Did you hit him, faher?" asked David. He spoke with difficulty, for he was continually exerting his full strength in guiding the bounding sleigh and could not afford to look back for an instant.

"Yes, and he is done for, my son."

Then both were silent. On, and on, sped the sleigh down the mountainside, and to David the snow had a curious appearance. It seemed as if he were sitting still while the great mass rushed by him uphill. But the cold, cutting wind in his face was so strong as to dispel this illusion. It almost took away his breath. One mile, two miles, three, four, five, they went, until the river was reached, and then came the most dangerous place of all, for the sleigh leaped off the bank and fell a yard below to the ice. But it landed right side up, and by good luck there was a clear space of ice straight across where the wind had swept a broad path in the snow. In far less time than it takes to tell of it the sleigh had skimmed over to the opposite bank, and there its occupants met a party of farmer soldiers and lumber men who had heard of the raid from the messenger on snowshoes, and had started to rescue them. But David and his father had rescued themselves, so they borrowed a horse to take their sleigh forward to the town where Mrs. Spafford and her little girls were staying, and the company of rangers hastened on in pursuit of the Indians.

Three Great Men.

Two Sides of the Question.

Willie Strutt was playing with the Timbs boys. His mother called him.

"Willie don't you know those are bad boys for you to play with?"

"Yes mother," said Willie. "I know that, but then I am a good boy for them to play with."

POPULAR PERFUMES

HAVE EVER BEEN IN GREAT DEMAND AMONG ALL NATIONS.

Balm Was Much Prized by the Natives of Judea and Arabia—Raising Fragrant Flowers by the Ton—Origin of Lavender—Some Perfumes Stronger Than Others.

The Bedouins perfume their handkerchiefs with an odoriferous earth called "ares," which comes from Aden, south of Arabia, and is in much requisition by the desert Arabs, says London Society. These nomad people use civet to anoint their bodies, a substance of the consistency of honey, taken from the anal glands of the civet cat, strong and offensive in itself, but agreeable when a very small proportion is mixed with other ingredients. Kitto says that "Arabs do not salute; they simply smell each other. It is common for a parent to say, 'Ah, child, thy smell is like Sen-Paga-Poo,' a flower sacred to Chrisna." However agreeable this may be to the nostrils of the Bedouin, the mixture of the odors of dirty skins and the strong civet perfume is a combination anything but pleasant to the European nose.

Some perfumes have a stronger scent than others; some give out their fragrance at special times. Certain flowers need the warmth of the sun; some the soft rain, and others the cool night air before they venture to throw out their redolence into the atmosphere. Bartholin says: "The odor of rosemary indicates the coast of Spain more than ten leagues out to sea." And another writer declares that the "whole air of south Asia is filled with the smoke and odor of perfume." In Capua there was one long street called "The Seplasia," which consisted entirely of perfume and unguent shops. And in Bombay the greater proportion of wares exhibited in the bazaars are perfumes, of endless varieties.

Balm was much prized by the natives of Judea and Arabia, from whence it was procured. Pliny says that Vespasian and Titus had shrubs of it growing in Rome, which were carefully tended, the branches being carried by the Romans in their triumphal processions. To gather the balsam was a slow and tedious task. Alexander the Great thought it a fair midsummer days' work to fill a "concha" with balm—that it, less than a thousandth part of a pint. Cinnamon is an aromatic bark of odorous fragrance. It is a native of Ceylon and India. Kitto tells us that it is "precious and appropriate to religious use. It is much valued, and was the first spice sought after or procured in all oriental voyages, ancient or modern." The Egyptians and Romans held it in high esteem. Herodotus assures us that a species of cinnamon was taken from the nests of birds, and also found sticking like lime to the beards of goats. This substance was gathered, compounded and used as ointments and salves.

The south of France is the flower garden of Europe. Flower farming is extensive in the Var Valley, and covers about 115,000 English acres. These gardens produce over 3000 tons of flowers annually. Lavender is our English production, and is cultivated about Hertford, Surrey, and several other districts. Its name, "lavandula," from "lavare," to wash, indicates its use, which was perfuming the baths of wealthy people. Its flowers are considered excellent for disorders of the head and nerves. There are districts of lavender fields in Spain and North Africa where it thrives mostly on high sea levels. Sweet as are the influences of perfume as a panacea for wounds—a tonic for flagging health—a refreshment of the heat and dust—a luxury for the toilet—and a delicious, permeating gratification for the senses—we would stop short of the custom of the Carmani, who mingle their companions' blood with fragrant sherbet and quaff it as a pledge of friendship, sealing the compact with much mutual anointing of spikenards and attars. This, to say the least, is exaggerating the province of perfumes.

Luminosity in Plants.

Many instances have been recorded of flowers being luminous at night. They only seem to do this on rare occasions, hence they are to be envied who have the good fortune to witness the phenomena. Though the writer has often endeavored to get fortune's favor, she has never smiled on him but once, when he saw the phosphorescent glow from fungi in a hollow tree, just like the glow of a match when rubbed in the dark. A German naturalist, Herr Haggren, seems to have met with a number of instances in his country—or rather the night watchman he employed did. He concludes the phenomena are more likely to occur when it is dark, after rain, following a sunny day. July and August gave the most instances. Occurrences began soon after sunset, and there were none after dawn. He could not decide on the cause of the luminosity.

Maxims About Eating.

It is seldom a man dies from eating too little, but often from eating too much.—Hippocrates.

Through a surfeit in eating wisdom is hindered and the understanding is darkened.—Alphonse.

The rule is never to eat or do anything from the mere impulse of pleasure.—Georgia Liontino.

Eating and drinking not only maintain life, but are the cause of death.—Homer.

He who eats with most pleasure is he who least requires sauce.—Xenophon.

Eat not immoderately.—Pythagoras.

Malaria Bacilli.

Prof. Grassi's discovery that the Roman malaria is spread by a particular species of gnats has been verified in a curious manner at the Santo Spirito Hospital at Rome. All attempts to communicate the disease to animals had failed when a patient in the hospital volunteered to have the experiment tried on himself. He was exposed to the gnats, developed the fever, his blood showing malaria bacilli, and was then treated with quinine. The doctors think that they are now in a way to discover a serum that will render people immune to the malaria.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The track at the old Hunterdon County Fair Grounds is being utilized as a training course for the horses of Flemington and vicinity. The track is in charge of "Charley" Crater, who was the head man when the place was known as the Flemington Stock Farm and was the home of "Cypress," "William H. Vanderbilt," "Drew Wilkes," "Merry Christmas" and "Tho." It is still owned by Andrew Radel, president of the Bridgeport Traction Company. "Kate Berry," the dam of "Conway," 2:18¼, "Alleta," 2:26½ and "Dick," 2:29, and the old mare "Pete," dam of "Andy R.," are still on the place, and there are several colts and fillies of more than ordinary promise which Mr. Crater is working daily. A young stallion, by "William H. Vanderbilt," has taken the place formerly occupied by his sire, the latter still being in service on the Prohasco Farm, two miles distant. S. H. Mount, mine host of the hotel at Flemington, is training his horses on the track. He is working five head and they are progressing very satisfactorily. There is one slashing-gaited fellow, a big brown 16.1 in height, noble in appearance, and can pull a top wagon down the road at a 2:40 clip.

Dog Recovered Lost Pocketbook.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Mr. Voorhees offered a reward of $5 for the recovery of the property. Saturday night Fred A. Nelson, proprietor of the Washington House, was sitting out on his front porch when Prince, his little fox terrier, came and laid a pocketbook at his feet. Nelson found the pocketbook was the one lost by Vooorhees.

This work is to be completed by July 1st. The Council discussed at great length many trolley questions regarding transfers, time of running, etc., but no definite action was taken by the Council.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in eight bottles. It has cured me and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug store.

WRONG KIND OF MUSIC

FORMER MAYOR SAUNDERS BERATED PIANO MAN.

The Latter was Wesley Brokaw, and Now He Accuses Mr. Saunders of Assaulting Him Last Saturday Night.

Former Mayor Wm. L. Saunders, of Washington Park, was served with a warrant last evening for his arrest on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Wesley R. Brokaw, the piano and music dealer on East Front street. The warrant was issued by Justice Nash, and the defendant will be required to appear and answer the charge.

Brokaw alleges that former Mayor Saunders entered his place of business Saturday night and, after having a wordy combat about the rental of a piano, struck him in the face and knocked his hat to the floor. Besides this the scrap caused a commotion and attracted a large number of sightseers, much to the embarrassment of the piano dealer.

Abusive language is also cited in the complaint. Mr. Brokaw has retained Lawyer I. L. Brady to defend his interests.

Former Mayor Saunders' version of the affair is as follows:

"I made no assault on Mr. Brokaw. I simply told him in very plain English what I thought of him. He offers to rent pianos to the people of this town, and he made an agreement to deliver one at my barn last Saturday evening, between 4 and 5 o'clock, to be used in an entertainment given by the little children of the neighborhood. I incidentally discovered at a late hour that he intended to go back on his agreement without notifying us in time to get a piano elsewhere. I went to his store and he admitted that he did not intend to keep his agreement, unless I paid him more money than agreed, whereupon I shook my finger in his face and denounced him as unfit to do business among honest people."

VOLUNTEERS IN MISSION WORK.

An Interesting Line of Discussion at the Y. M. C. A.

J. W. Gavett presided at the meeting of the Volunteer League held at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. Interesting accounts were given by William D. Murray regarding the international convention recently held at Grand Rapids, Mich. A letter was received from E. R. Taylor, of Coal Run, O., chairman of the international convention, thanking the local association for the interest manifested in the work. Philip S. Suffern also read a paper on "Missionary Work in China," which was highly interesting. The lesson was from the first thirteen chapters of the Acts. The Bible lesson for the next meeting will be "Jonah, the Missionary." It is expected that Theophilus Bond will be present and read a paper on "Europe in Turkey."

CALL MEN DRILLED.

Firemen Given a Chance to Show What They Can Do.

The firemen from headquarters took the truck for a drill last evening. The truck was drawn up to Berckman street to the Lincoln School, where the sixty-five foot extension ladder was raised, and under the direction of Acting Chief Jennings call men were sent to the extreme topmost rung. The drill was one of the most successful ones ever held. It is expected that these drills will be held at frequent intervals during the summer.

TROUBLE OVER A GIRL.

RIVAL LOVERS TOLD THEIR TALE TO THE CITY JUDGE.

Edward Duck Accused of an Assault by John Whitlock, Who Was Piqued Over a Love Affair.

Edward Duck was before Judge Runyon this morning charged with an assault upon John Whitlock. Both parties are young men about 17 years old, and the trouble was all over a girl. It was one Sunday evening, May 21st, when Whitlock was out walking with his best girl on Second street, near Clinton avenue, that the "scrap" took place. Duck claims that Whitlock, who was with another couple, crowded him from the sidewalk. A quarrel followed and Duck chased young Whitlock up the street. Duck was also charged with using profane language in the presence of the young ladies. Whitlock's father, who was present in court, maintained that the accused had repeatedly annoyed his son and had threatened him with bodily harm. Duck pleaded guilty to using the language charged but denied that he had assulted Whitlock. The Court gave the man a slight reprimand and suspended sentence. It was apparent from the testimony of one of the young ladies who witnessed the assault that Young Duck became piqued because the young woman in question had centered her affections upon his rival—John Whitlock.

An Immense Mortgage.

THE GOOD MAN'S STEPS.

Everyone Who Lives to Please God Has a Right to Claim His Protection.

There is nothing more plainly revealed than that our heavenly Father orders "the steps of a good man." If this fact were communicated to us in the original way—that is, by miraculous voices, as in the olden time—the information could not come with more directness and power than we now have it from day to day. Surely everyone who lives wholly to please God has a right to claim his protection, his direction, and his help, not every hour only, but every moment of his life. He may not—indeed, cannot—be always thinking of this great favor. Life has its imperative and absorbing duties. His energies are often taxed to their utmost in the struggle. It is more than a mere sentiment to live. It is a serious reality, in which the hand, the head, and the heart are enlisted. The only way, therefore, for the Christian is to "commit" himself habitually, sincerely, unhesitatingly, and with godly trust into the hands of him who has warranted us in believing that all things have worked, do now work, and will work in the coming days, for our good.—The Christian.

"He that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he (Christ) is righteous." Here is the doing, and the character back of the doing. The one is righteous, therefore the other is, also. Not only so, but it is the same kind of righteousness, or rightness. We don't see what is gained by contradicting God in this matter, and saying it is not so; it is a very doubtful kind of humility that is maintained at the expense of not only contradicting God, but thereby refusing his free gift to us, purchased by the precious blood.—Sel.

The Hemlock Land.

Hemlock destroys the soil by taking nourishment for a long series of years and returning nothing. There is no rich foliage to fall after Summer and to restore more to the soil than the tree took, but only a steady and greedy absorption.

So there are hemlocks in many homes. They never contribute to comforts or joys of home, all are serving them, and how they despoil home of its light and rest and joy!

Have we hemlocks planted in our churches? Let us see to it that you and I are not such.—Rev. Chas. Roads.

Elijah was out-and-out for God. There were a hundred others—just as good prophets of God as he was—but they were in a hole, living on bread and water from Ahab's table.—J. G. Woolley.

The Curfew Law.

The curfew tolls the knell of passing Hoodlumism. Over three hundred towns and cities, chiefly in the Middle West, have passed the curfew ordinance, requiring children under fifteen, without leave of absence, to be at home by eight o'clock in winter and nine o'clock in summer. This restoration of an old time custom has diminished youthful arrests 75 per cent in some cities, and fully 50 per cent. in others.—Christian Register.

Easily Explained.

I'd like to know why it is," growled old Bullyun, "that I'm bothered almost to death by commercial agency reporters investigating my financial standing. I invariably pay cash and have never asked for credit."

"That's all very true," replied his friend, "but you seem to have overlooked the fact that your only daughter recently celebrated her eighteenth anniversary of her debut into the world."

A Peculiar Freak.

One of the most peculiar freaks that the wind played recently was on the Presbyterian church at New Hartford, N. Y. It blew the steeple, above the belfry, out of plumb about 25 degrees, so that the spire pointed in a northwesterly direction, and it was feared that it might fall. Men were put at work straightening it the next morning, when the wind veered around and blew it back almost to its original position. The men inside made a lively run to get out of the place.

To Manage Enthusiasm.

There is a portion of enthusiasm assigned to every nation, which, if it hath not proper objects to work on, will burst out and set all into a flame. If the quiet of a state can be brought about by only flinging men a few ceremonies to devour, it is a purchase no wise man would refuse. Let the mastiffs amuse themselves about a sheep's skin stuffed with hay, provided it will keep them from worrying the flock.—Dean Swift.

JUNE NUPTIALS UNDER PRETTY FLORAL BELL

Wedding of William Rowley and Mara Elizabeth Eycke.

BRIDE LOOKED HANDSOME.

BROTHERS OF THE GROOM ACTED AS USHERS.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. C. E. Herring and Witnessed by Many Congratulating Friends—House Elaborately Decorated With Flowers for the Occasion—Will Reside on Linden Avenue.

There was a pretty wedding celebrated last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pope, at No. 39 Summit avenue, when William Wilder Rowley, of Washington Park, and Miss Mara Elizabeth Eycke were made husband and wife.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the front parlors of the Pope residence. The bridal couple stood beneath a floral bell composed of syringos and peonies, suspended by evergreen festoons from the corners of the front bay windows. The bride, who is a pronounced brunette, wore a gown of white satin with duchess lace and pearl trimmings, with a bridal veil caught together with lilies of the valley. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Messrs. Clark and George D. Rowley, brothers of the groom, filled the important function of ushers. As the bride and groom entered the parlor and took their places before the officiating clergyman, Lohengrin's wedding march was played by P. Ludwig Conde's orchestra, assisted by Miss Mamie Alpaugh, of High Bridge, N. J., with piano accompaniment, followed at the close of the ceremony by "The Lost Chord." While the happy couple were receiving the congratulations of the guests the orchestra rendered very exquisitely Mendelssohn's wedding march.

After the congratulations the guests enjoyed a sumptuous wedding supper, served in the dinning room which had been transformed into a veritable bower of beauty. Evergreen festoons entwined with pink roses extended from the four corners of the room and fastened at the chandelier, making a very pretty effect. The table looked very handsome and in the centre was placed the wedding cake which gave a picturesque and inviting appearance.

The parlors and hall were also prettily decorated with flowers and potted plants.

The bride is an estimable young lady and has many friends in the social circle which she moves. She is a native of Lamington, N. J., but has made her home for sometime with the family of Mr. Pope. For a time the bride was employed as a trained nurse in the general Hospital at Elizabeth.

The groom is associated in business with his brother, Frank Rowley, the druggist, and is a popular resident of North Plainfield. Many costly and handsome presents were received by the happy young couple. After the reception, which was a highly enjoyable affair, Mr. and Mrs. Rowley left for a two weeks' trip to Niagara Falls and other places of note. After July 1st they will be "at home" to their friends at 78 Linden avenue, where a residence has been furnished and is ready for occupancy.

A Cycling Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Blanding entertained their Sunday-school class last evening by giving a cycle party. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Blanding, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman Hobbs, Miss Mildred Tyrell, Miss Florence Taynor, Miss Cora Scull, Miss Lillian Thorne and Miss Florence Rugg.

Still Alarm for Chimney Fire.

The fire department answered a still alarm at 1:58 o'clock yesterday. When Hose Company No. 2 responded a foul chimney was found on fire at the residence of E. M. Daniels. The blaze was extinguished with slight damage to the property.

Four New Initiations.

At the meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, held last evening, four candidates were initiated and three propositions were received. Officers for the ensuing term were also nominated.

Mrs. Frank Leslie Coming Here.

During the latter part of the summer Mrs. Frank Leslie, the well known writer, is expected to stop at Mountain Park Inn. At present she is abroad, and upon her return she will go to the Inn for the balance of the summer.

FIREMEN GAVE A CHAIR.

FELICITIOUS TIME BETWEEN THE CITY AND BOROUGH LADDIES.

Firemen's Chair Presented to Warren Engine Company by Members of Engine Company No. 2, of This City.

In winding up the affairs of the volunteer fire department the fire laddies of the various companies have adopted a novel method of disposing of their property. Some time ago they decided to remember their friends in other departments by distributing among them the furniture and some of their effects as souvenirs.

Last evening the members of Engine Company No. 2 visited Warren Engine Company No. 1, of North Plainfield, and presented them with a foreman's chair. C. J. Newman, of No. 2, made the presentation speech and in a felicitious manner donated the chair on behalf of the members of the company. Foreman Bennett, of No. 1, responded and in a short speech thanked the donors for the kind remembrance and said he trusted the good feeling which had existed so long would be maintained for an indefinite period tho' the boys of No. 2 had disbanded as a fire organization. Speeches were also made by Chief Fairchild and other members of No. 1 and No. 2.

After the presentation speeches the members of No. 2 were invited to a collation at the Crescent Hotel where a pleasant time was enjoyed for an hour or two. Next Tuesday evening the members of No. 2 will go to Perth Amboy and present Lincoln Hose Co. No. 1, of that city, with three pictures and the old ballot box so long used by them.

The material is on hand and everything in readiness for the work of construction Mr. Quien will put on a large force of men, to be devided in two gangs, to work simultaneously on the "Green Line" and Morris avenue line.

The contract is in accordance with the terms of franchise in respect to material to be used.

MISS LUCKEY'S RECITAL.

Closing Exercises of Her Pupils in Westfield Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 7—Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, of Plainfield, scored a decided success here last evening when her pupils gave their recital in Westfield Club hall. Among those who took part were Misses Ethel Pearsall, Bessie Arnold, Helen Gale, Marion Keeler, Marjorie Slade, Marion Johnson, Virginia D. Barrett, Marie Sjostrom, Dorothy Knight, Florence Rea, Edna Burr, Grace Philip, May Storm, Marion Johnson. The exercises consisted of recitations, singing and a comedy entitled "Poison." An interesting part of the programme was a drill showing the various forms of Oriental Worship and a May drill, so-called from its being a study of the old-fashioned country festivals that once made the merry making of the English world famous.

Sudden Death of Samuel Giles.

Samuel Giles, of Randolphville, below New Market, died suddenly of apoplexy this morning. He had been talking with a neighbor at an early hour this morning, apparently in good health. A few minutes later the neighbor saw him lying on the ground in his garden and hastened to him to find him dead. Mr. Giles was very ill the past winter, but seemed to have regained his usual health. It is thought that the excessive heat superinduced the fatal stroke. Mr. Giles was 85 years of age, and leaves a widow and twelve children. One of his sons works in Warnock's bakery on North avenue.

HEADON COLLISION ON THE LEHIGH.

Freight Trains Wrecked at Bound Brook.

FLAGMAN WAS TO BLAME.

TWO ENGINES AND SEVENTEEN CARS WERE WRECKED.

Accident Occurred at 2:30 This Morning on the Curve Diagonally Between the Central and Lehigh Valley Stations—Fortunately No One Hurt—Cars Strewn on to Central's Tracks.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, June 7—The fifth serious wreck on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Bound Brook since the first of the year occurred this morning at 2:30 o'clock when two freight and coal trains had a headon collision, wrecking seventeen cars, two locomotives and blocking both tracks of the Lehigh and the eastbound freight track of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which is only a few feet distant from the former road. The trains concerned in the wreck were the eastbound local freight, drawn by Engine No. 642, and a westbound coal train, drawn by Engine No. 728. Wallie Carey, of Easton, was engineer of the first named engine and Elmer Welck, of Wilkesbarre, of the latter.

The locomotive of the eastbound freight was drilling cars on the westbound track west of the station. A flagman had been sent to warn the westbound freight, but he was not far enough down the track. His signal came too late to prevent the freight train from stopping, and the two locomotives came together on a sharp curve diagonally opposite both the Lehigh and the Central stations.

The westbound train was moving at the rate of twenty miles an hour, and the other engine at a slightly slower rate. The crews of both locomotives saw that the collision could not be averted and they jumped without injury to themselves. The men on the rear end of the westbound train were badly jarred up by the collision, but not seriously hurt.

The two locomotives came together with a compact that wrecked the front of each engine and derailed them. Seventeen empty cars were derailed and smashed into kindling wood, being strewn over a long stretch of track. The cars were piled in a heap twenty-five feet high at one point, and both tracks of the Lehigh blocked. A number of the wrecked cars were thrown a distance of fifty feet onto the eastbound freight track of the Central Railroad. The wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company were torn down and the block system of the Central Railroad put out of order.

Wrecking trains were summoned from Easton and Perth Amboy, but it will take all day to get the tracks open and the damage repaired. Superintendent Spriggs is on hand overseeing the work.

Delegates Gathered in the Old Church at Stelton.

The old Piscataway church, 210 years of age, was filled with a large number of delegates from adjoining towns and cities in attendance at the East Association of Baptist churches held yesterday at Stelton.

Fine discourses were preached in the morning by Rev. Dr. Vassar, of Lyons Farms, and Rev. Dr. Allen, of Jersey City. In the afternoon, Rev. E. A. Hainer gave an address on "The Pastor, the Pulpit and the Pew;" Rev. Dr. Yerkes took part in the "Symposium—Essentials of Church Life," his part being "Worship—Its feature;" the part assigned Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains, being "Work—Its Expression;" and Rev. George A. Francis, of Westfield, speaking on Discipline—Its Function." Rev. Alfred W. Wishart made an address also on "The Social Mission of the Church."

The evening programme consisted of addresses by Rev. J. B. L. Hommedien and Rev. Chas F. Stanley, with a historical sketch of the South Plainfield Baptist church.

A large number of delegates were present from the Plainfield Baptist churches, and a stage drawn by four horses carried twenty-four delegates from Scotch Plains.

HIGH MASONS MET IN JERUSALEM LODGE

Grand Master Ewan Among Those Present.

ADDRESS ON MASONRY.

SPLENDID TALK GIVEN BY REV. J. W. RICHARDSON.

Subject of the Address Was "Masonry a Fact, Not a Mummery"—Visitors Received With Grand Honors—Dr. Richardson's Address Was Highly Appreciated—A Social Time Followed.

Notwithstanding the intense heat last evening the members of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., entertained several of the Grand Lodge officers, and spent a very enjoyable time among themselves. There was present, among the high officers, Grand Master Josiah W. Ewan, Grand Senior Warden W. Holt Apgar, Grand Junior Warden Walter Chandler, Grand Tyler Stillman, also district deputies representing the Masonic districts of the State.

The visitors were received with grand honors and were introduced by District Deputy C.C. Howard, of the Fifth Masonic District, of Plainfield, after which the members and visitors had the pleasure of listening to an eloquent address by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Mr. Richardson's address was on the subject: "Masonry a Fact, Not a Mummery." It was a powerful address and was listened to attentively by all. A portion of the address is as follows:

"By the sweetly solemn scenes of the lodgeroom, Masons are taught to take some poor frozen brother and place his naked flesh against their own warm hearts; to stoop down and feel the breath of misfortune. Masonry comes and uses its vast resources as a barrow in which to wheel a brother's need. Oh, Masonry reaches into many a blighted life, and with angelic touch fills its earth with roses, its heaven with stars, and drapes its future with the crimson of hope! Masonic sympathy is not pretense. In the sunshine of its altar it presents a circle of loving hearts and pleasant companionships, and encouragement for those who toil alone in the great bargain of life. And for pain and sickness it comes swiftly with silver wings and affectionate attention. Masonic sympathy is not of that sublimated sort that concerns itself only with ethereal things and forgets the earthly.

"By the application of these principles, Masonry aims to present a high type of manhood to the community! Very few of the outside world really understand the aid of Masonic work. Some foolishly think that Masons come together and, like the schoolboys, turn the lodgeroom into a playground for ridiculous pranks. I would that they could know how serious and sublime, and peculiarly adapted Masonic methods are to work hand in hand with the Christian civilization. It touches and blesses society in a thousand ways, and yet the locality of these blessings is unsuspected, because it is so unostentiously done.

"The Bible is the mainspring of its mechanism. Its ideals come from that book. The very secrecy of Masonic preparation, against which the unsophisticated declaim, is a prominent page in the lesson book of Truth. Secrecy is not a Masonic eccentricity; the great Father works silently. Goodness needs no publicity. So there is a profound meaning in the fact that Masonary opens no recruiting offices, nor offers financial inducements to fill its ranks. Masonry teaches a profound lesson by requiring every applicant for admission to come unsolicited and offer himself as a free-will offering at its shrine! In this institution giving is made a luxury—a closed mouth accompanies the open hand. This is the basis of that Masonic charitableness which closes the lips against repeating the faults of a brother, and which keeps secret from a cynical world the need of some unfortunate.

"Finally, these symbols, and rites, and passwords, are to aid man in his religious training. This is the aim of all Masonic teaching. He who looks no further than the sentimental, and intellectual, has not learned Masonry. He who says it has no religious office must be unfamiliar with its principles. The 'order of service' in a church is not more specially arranged to bring worship of God before the people than are Masonic rituals to impress that same thought upon its craftsmen. From its alpha to omega Freemasonry is an illustration of religious facts, setting forth religious doctrines by sublimely religious lessons of obedi-

WILL RAISE $2,500 FOR A CELEBRATION.

Formal Steps Taken to Observe Fourth of July.

QUESTION OF ORGANIZING.

SOME WANTED CATHOLIC SOCIETIES REPRESENTED.

William Newcorn Elected President of the Committee to Go Ahead With Plains for the Event—It is Proposed to Have a Glorious Day of It—Another Meeting Next Wednesday.

There was not as large a representation of organizations present at the meeting held in Red Men's Hall last evening for the purpose of perfecting an organization to bring about a celebration in this city on the Fourth of July as had been expected. It may be possible that the hot weather had something to do with the apparent lack of interest in the matter. When the roll was called it was found that but 26 organizations were represented.

The meeting was called to order by William Westphal, of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men, and William Newcorn was named a temporary secretary. After the call of the roll at the suggestion of Justice V. W. Nash, a lively debate took place upon the propriety of perfecting a permanent organization. Robert M. Clark, of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., favored forming a permanent organization at once, as did several other gentlemen. Justice Nash, who said he represented the G. A. R. organization, at once took issue with Mr. Clark on the ground that no Catholic organization was represented at the meeting and that the various Catholic organization had not yet held meetings to be able to appoint delegates to attend this meeting. He believed that it was unjust to cut the Catholics out of having a voice in the matter of this permanent organization. The celebration is to be by all the people and not by any clique or faction, said Justice Nash, and he was decidedly opposed to ignoring these very worthy class of citizens. F. C. Lounsbury expressed himself as having the same view—he wished all classes of people represented. The discussion was finally brought to a close by a motion being made to proceed to the perfection of a permanent organization which was adopted and the following officers were chosen: President, William Newcorn, of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men; secretary, Robert M. Clark, of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.; vice-presidents, Mayors Rockfellow and Smalley.

Messrs. F. C. Lounsbury, R. M. Clark, V. W. Nash, S. E. Flannery and Wm. Newcorn were appointed a committee to retire to an ante room and draft a general plan for a celebration, and to decide of what the celebration should consist. The committee reported in favor of having a parade of various city organizations in the morning and an open air address in the afternoon, with fireworks in the evening. It was the sense of the committee that $2,500 be raised by popular subscriptions to defray the expense of the proposed celebration. The meeting then adjourned to next Wednesday evening at the same hall at 8 o'clock.

Before adjourning Justice Nash stated that there was $26 in the City National Bank which had been left on hand after defraying the expense of celebration of four years ago. It was available if the committee wished to use it. No definite plans was outlined for raising the funds necessary for the celebration, but it is expected that the various organizations will appoint committees to look after this most important matter.

The finance committee is to be appointed by President Newcorn.

LAYING RAILS TODAY.

TROLLEY TRACKS BEING LAID TO SCOTCH PLAINS.

A Gang of 250 Italians Put to Work on East Second Street This Morning—The Cars Will Soon Run Over It.

A gang of 250 Italian laborers were put to work on East Second street, above Richmond street, this morning, by Contractor L. W. Serrell, Jr., laying the rails for the Scotch Plains extension of the Plainfield Street Railway Company. It was the intention to commence laying the rails on Richmond street, making direct connection with the Netherwood line of the company, but yesterday the special work, such as joints, curves, etc., failed to arrive, and the work could not be started at that point.

Civil Engineer VanEmburgh was roused out at 4 o'clock this morning and surveyed the route of the track along Second street before 7 o'clock so that the laborers would not be delayed. A single track will be laid to about 400 feet beyond Netherwood avenue. There the route commences running over private property and from that point to Scotch Plains the line will be double tracked. The roadbed is all graded between this city and Scotch Plains, and it is calculated that the rails will be laid by next week, and the week after trolley cars will be running over the line.

The cross-county route to Elizabeth is also graded between Westfield and Cranford, and within a few days a big gang of men will be put to work grading the roadbed from Scotch Plains to Westfield.

ADVERTISE THE CITY

THAT IS THE IDEA TO BE FORCED ON BUSINESS MEN.

Committee Appointed by Mayor Smalley Last Night and Discussed Plans for an Organization This Evening.

A meeting of the committee appointed by Mayor Smalley, chairman of the recent meeting of the business men of the city, was held last night at the office of J. B. Coward. Mayor Rockfellow, James E. Martine, J. B. Coward and Silas D. Drake were present.

The situation of the business men in the city with respect to the opportunities for increasing their business and making Plainfield a greater and more successful town, was informally discussed. All the members of the committee talked freely and advanced various ideas.

One thing definitely decided upon was to recommend to the meeting this evening that a permanent organization be formed immediately, and that two committees be named to go ahead with the work that is most necessary for the welfare of the town. One of these is an advertising committee and the other a committee of progress.

It was suggested that advertising was one of the best things for Plainfield, but that it must be prosecuted in a systematic, permanent and expert manner to bring returns. The committee thought that the best thing to do in this line was to start a subscription paper among the merchants and other people interested for the purpose of raising a good sized sum of money to advertise the town advantages.

Mr. Drake had an idea with reference to establishing factories in the west end of the city which he broached in an informal manner, but at the meeting this evening he will probably explain it more fully

The meeting this evening will be held in Coward's hall on East Front street, and it is desired that every business man, as well as all others interested, attend the meeting.

NUPTIAL MASS AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Brilliant Wedding Celebrated There This Morning.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

DR. DONLON AND MISS FLYNN THE CONTRACTING PARTIES.

Ceremony Occupied Three-quarters of an Hour and Was a Beautiful Sight—Performed by Rev. T. J. Donlon, of St. Agnes Church, New York—The Bridal Party an Elaborate One.

St. Mary's (R. C.) church was thronged with a fashionable assemblage this morning, when, for the third time in the history of the church, a nuptial mass was performed. It was, indeed, a pretty sight and one that will long be remembered by everyone present. The altar candles were brilliantly lighted, while the altar decorations were made up of white peonies and roses. In front of the altar there was a pleasing arrangement of choice flowers, while on either side were arranged beautiful and stately palms.

The contracting parties were Miss May Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Flynn, of 444 West Fourth street, and Dr. Francis L. Donlon, M. D., a prominent physician of New York.

While the guests were being seated, and prior to the appearance of the bridal party, Miss Mary Smith, organist of the church, executed a number of very pretty selections. Promptly at 10 o'clock, the hour appointed for the wedding, the sweet strains of the Lohengrin wedding march announced the arrival of the party. As several members entered the church every eye was centred on the participants, and with admiring glances watched them approach the altar.

The party was led by the ushers, three of whom are physicians and close friends of the groom, while the fourth is a brother of the bride. They were Drs. Smyth, Howley, Davis, of New York, and Edward A. Flynn, of this city. Following them was the bridemaid, Miss Katherine Flynn, sister of the bride, who was gowned in white organdie over pink silk. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Then appeared the bride accompanied by her father, who gave her away in marriage. She was richly gowned in white satin of an oyster shade, trimmed with point de esprit lace. She also wore a veil caught up with lilies of the valley. In her hand she carried a prayer-book.

As the party approached the altar they were met by the groom and his best man, Dr. P. J. Byrne, of New York. A circle was formed in front of Rev. T. J. Donlon, of St. Agnes (R. C.) church, of New York, who performed the ceremony. Immediately following the marriage ceremony the nuptial mass was held. During the mass the bride and groom ascended the altar to the inner side, where they received the blessing given by the officiating clergyman. This is a very pretty service, and the musical response by the choir of the church was perfectly given. The entire service consumed about three-quarters of an hour and was watched with a great deal of interest by the guests.

After this beautiful ceremony was performed the bride and groom left the church, followed by the other members of the party, while the Mendelssohn wedding march was being rendered on the organ. They went at once to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was held for the relatives and few friends.

During the hours of the reception a delightful breakfast was served by Maresi, and that which gave additional pleasure to the guests was the rendition of classical music on the piano.

Dr. and Mrs. Donlon received their guests in the parlor, where elaborate decorations, consisting of palms and roses, were used with good effect. The happy couple were showered with the best of wishes of all for a successful and happy journey through life.

Early this afternoon the bride and groom left this city for a honeymoon to Atlantic City and Washington, and upon their return will reside in a newly furnished home in New York arranged for their reception by the groom.

Dr. and Mrs. Donlon received a very large collection of costly and elegant presents, as valuable tokens of esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

Among the gifts presented were pretty stickpins of horseshoe pattern which were given to the ushers by the groom, while the bride presented her sister, the bridemaid, with a handsome ring.

DANGER IN SODA.

Serious Results Sometimes Follow Its Excessive Use.

Common soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended as a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice and one which is fraught with danger; moreover the soda only gives temporary relief and in the end the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it has accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflamation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harlandson recommends as the safest and surest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20-grain lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals they digest the food perfectly and promptly before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Wuerth states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure not only for sour stomach, but by promptly digesting the food they create flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weakness and will be found reliable in all stomach troubles except cancer of the stomach. All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

DROVE INHABITANTS OUT.

Natives Attack Macabebe and Do a Great Deal of Serious Damage.

THE TOWN DESTROYED.

American Troops Suffer Great Annoyance at the Hands of Aguinaldo's Followers.

A Shell From Filipino Guns Falls Within Thirty Yards of Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters—American Troops Hampered—President McKinley Holds Another Conference.

Washington, June 7.—President McKinley has held another conference at the White House on the Philippine situation. Gen Corbin and Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn were present.

The latest despatch from Gen. Otis which was the cause of the conference, related to the escape of the Filipinos from the Morong peninsula and also to the prospects for peace.

General Otis's Cablegram also states that the enemy had made an attack upon the friendly town of Macabebe and, after driving the inhabitants out, burned the town.

The natives nightly annoy the troops at San Fernando. Several Americans have been wounded as a result.

The following news has also reached the War Department from Manila:

The enemy have several Krupp guns, which they bring forward and use for firing large shells into the town, then retreating with their guns.

One of the shells fell within thirty yards of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. The American troops do not reply to the nightly outbreaks.

The American forces still occupy the Morong Peninsula and Gen. Hall's column is encamped at Morong. Major Truman, marching across from Binangonan, found it impracticable to form a cordon, and the natives, with the exception of a hundred or two, escaped through the mountains after Gen. Pio del Pilar, dragging their battery by buffaloes at night. A few, however, may be trapped.

The Washington troops have returned to Pasig, but the programme of the other troops is uncertain.

The present expedition shows the difficulty which is encountered by an army which must depend upon wagon trains in catching barefooted bandits in their own mountains, and also gives proof that the enemy do not intend to fight battles. Gen. Hall left Santa Teresa, and marched twelve miles to Morong, up and down rocky hills and through woods and swamps. Scores of his men fell out, owing to the extreme heat, and were left to follow as best they could.

The head of the army arrived at Morong having exchanged only a few shots with insurgent skirmishers on the way. Groups of stragglers followed all day, but the force was 200 smaller than when it started. The men were almost thirty-six hours without rations, and it was considerable of an achievement for them to cover the ground they did.

Haughton, Mich., June 7.—A fire in the shafthouse of the Calumet and Hecla Mine, on Smuggler Mountains, caused the death of P. A. Headman, who was working in a drift of the mine. A number of miners were overcome by smoke and gas and taken out unconscious. All recovered but Headman, who leaves a wife and five children.

Statements Were Applauded

Paris June 7.—In the Senate the President, M. Fallieres, at the opening of the session declared that in the presence of the scandals at Auteuil on Sunday nothing could shake the confidence in the Republic, and he assured President Loubet that the warmest sympathy of the senate would never fail him. A double round of applause followed these statements.

STILL FAVOR FITZSIMMONS

Betting on the Big Fight Becoming More Brisk.

New York, June 7.—As the time grows near for the boxing contest between Fitzsimmons and Jeffries, wagers on the result are becoming a trifle more plentiful, in fact they are moving along at a very lively gait. Already a good many large wagers have been made and in nearly every case the money has been placed at odds of ten to seven or better on the Australian. Jeffries has a lot of admirers who are not backward about placing money on his chances to win when they are offered what they claim to be reasonable odds.

At this time there has been at least $50,000 wagered on the result of the big fight in New York alone. Jim Corbett has offered to back the Californian for any amount if he can secure odds as good as six or seven to ten.

The Meat Industry Hurt

Washington, June 7.—"It will be a long time before the American meat packers recover from the hue and cry over the canned beef furnished the United States Army," said Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture. "After years of unremitting efforts the packers had at last succeeded in introducing our canned meats to the European trade, and there was no country where they could not be found, and they were in use in most of the armies. As soon as the howl went up that these same packers had furnished rotten beef to the American armies there sales went down to nothing, and now they have all their work to do over again. It will be doubly hard this time, becuse they will not only have to overcome the original prejudice against American meat, but they will have to disprove in almost every case, to the satisfaction of the individual buyer, that there was no foundation in the charge.

Studebaker's Sued for $10,000

Wabash, Ind., June 7.—A sensational suit for alienation of a wife's affections has been filed in the Wells Circuit Court. The plaintiff is Samuel T. Markley, whose home is at Elwood, Ind. He asks $10,000 damages from his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Studebaker. In 1897 Markley moved to Vera Cruz near the residence of the Studebakers, and he claims the defendants then began systematically to poison his wife's mind against him and that, in consequence, she left him and has ever since refused to live with him. The Studebakers are wealthy and prominent.

The pin measures an inch across from point to clasp.

WIND'S FRIGHTFUL HAVOC.

North-Eastern Iowa Visited by the Most Disatrous Storm in Years.

SWEEPS EARTH CLEAN.

Not a Building, Fence or Tree is Left Standing in the Path of the Western Twister.

Three Persons Said to Have Been Killed and a Number of Others Injured—Roar of the Storm Heard a Distance of Three Miles—Many People Save Their Lives by Taking Refuge in Cellars.

Farley, Iowa, June 7.—One of the most terrific tornadoes that has visited any part of Iowa in the past twenty-five years, passed through the country north and west of here, doing damage that it is estimated will reach nearly half a million dollars. The path of the storm was fully a mile in width and it swept nearly everything before it clean from the earth. Several small towns were almost completely destroyed, houses, barns and fences being wrecked and scattered broad cast over the open fields. In the western part of Dyersville where the storm first struck the earth, there were fully a dozen houses blown away and there is not a shade tree nor a fence or anything movable left on the ground.

At Thorpe, a small village about nine miles west of here the Illinois Central depot and freight house were blown down and twenty freight cars that were standing on a siding were wrecked by the furious gale. There is also great damage reported from Kellogg, Ia., and from several towns near there. The roar of the storm could be heard for fully three miles and this fact saved many lives as the people took warning and fled to their cellars and other places of safety.

It is reported that a farm house six miles east of Manchester was destroyed and that three persons out of a family of six were killed and two others seriously injured.

This is the third tornado in the past eight days that has passed through this section of Iowa and it was by far the most destructive. It is believed that fully two hundred head of stock was killed and it is known that at least fifty families have been made homeless.

Waterloo, Ia., June 7.—Another disasterous tornado passed over this section in a northeasterly direction. A funnel-shaped cloud was viewed by a great many persons along the path of the storm. About six miles northeast of town it dipped down to earth, gathering up houses, barns, trees and fences, and threw them high into the air. The storm took a zigzag course to the westward for half a mile, then turned eastward, and picking up the Henry Hepple house, occupied by Adolph Jurgensen and family, seven in all, turned it bottom upward and entirely demolished it. The family were at supper when the storm struck and had no notice of the disaster until they were flying in the air. Heavy rain accompanied the storm and helped extinguish the fire that started from the stove. The family miraculously escaped with only a few painful bruises and the oldest girl having her dress burned neary off. The storm scooped up the earth in several places as it passed on north into Minnesota. The path was only a few rods wide.

Kentucky's Governorship Race.

Frankfort, Ky., June 7.—Attorney-General W. S. Taylor of Butler county was the favorite for the Republican nomination for Governor in each of the five counties holding conventions to name delegates to the States Republican Convention. These conventions gave Taylor 149 instructed votes in fourteen counties. Stone has seven votes in Clark county and Pratt senen in Livingstone county, while three counties are uninstructed. Taylor has now an unprecedented lead, and his friends say he will secure the necessary 840 votes to nominate before two-thirds of the county conventions are held.

Russian Jews Mob Car.

Cleveland, June 7.—A mob of Russian Jews attacked a Broadway motor car on Orange street, breaking the windows with stones. The motorman, Frank Cipra, was pursued and would have been killed had not Moses Roskauff admitted him to his saloon and hidden him. The police quelled the riot and arrested four men and one woman. The cause of the trouble was the killing of Roy Paley, three years old, by a motor car.

There was a girl in the art class with me who used to complain very often of not feeling well, and sometimes she would be away for two or three days. I was talking with her one day about Ripans Tabules and what they were good for, when she told me that she was a great sufferer from constipation and that that was what made her feel so wretchedly. She was often so ill from it, she said, that she had to go to bed, and it had kept her away from the studio several times during the winter, and made her miss a good many days' work on account of the pain she suffered. I had some of the Tabules with me at the time and I gave her several, advising her to try them. She used them, every one, and liked them so much that she afterwards bought a new supply. They helped her so much that she has not been troubled since she began taking them. She thinks they are splendid

MATAAFA NOT TO BE KING.

England Presents Strong Opposition and Will Prevent Such a Course.

NATIVES ARE PLEASED.

Mataafa Expresses His Willingness to Leave Things in the Hands of the Commissioners.

Germans Acted in Concert With Great Britain and America for the First Time in Many Months—United States Cruiser Philadelphia Has Left Flying Admiral Kautz's Flag.

Apia, Samoa, May 31 (Via Auckland, New Zealand, June 7.)—Malietoe and Tamasese have visited the members of the Samoan Commission on board the United States transport Badger, and Mataafa visited them the following day. Neither of them was recognized as king.

Mataafa expressed willingness to abide by the Commissioners' decision and blamed the Europeans for the trouble here. The Commissioners informed him that they had power to establish a Government with or without a King.

Mataafa thought the Samoans should have a King, but expressed willingness to disarm his followers and leave the matter in the hands of the Commission.

The Germans acted, for the first time in many months, with the representatives of the other Powers, and have officially sent a guard ashore.

The naval authorities and the mission societies have submitted their views to the Commission, and the latter, by proclamation, fixed May 27 as the date for the natives to surrender their arms. Mataafa, however, asked for an extension of time and surrendered 1,800 guns on board the Badger. The Malietoans are now disarmed.

The United States cruiser Philadelphia flying the flag of Admiral Kautz sailed May 21, and the British and German Consuls, E. B. S. Maxso and Herr Rose, proceed to Europe June 17.

Can't Wear Bangs.

Halifax, N. S., June 7.—Of the 1,500 British soldiers in this garrison 150 are confined to the barracks for refusal to submit to a regulation governing the style of cutting their hair. Not more than one inch of hair is now allowed to hang on the forehead, and Tommy Atkins's favorite bangs must go.

One hundred men of the Leinster Regiment are in barracks, where they will be compelled to stay until they have their hair trimmed in the new way. Of the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers fifty men are confined for a similar reason.

A number of the men attempted to pass the gate in spite of the orders confining them, but they were met by the guard with fixed bayonets and after a scuffle, in which two or three were wounded, they were driven back. A court-martial will be held.

Another regulation that is being enforced is that the soldiers must not walk more than two abreast on the streets, and they must have gloves on both hands. Some of the men have been in the habit of wearing one glove and carrying the other in a bare hand.

Kentucky Outlaw Arrested.

Lexington, Ky., June 7.—Craig Gregg the mountain outlaw, who clubbed and deserted his wife after she had saved him from a life sentence in State Prison, was arrested by United States Marshal Thompson. Gregg had served two terms, and when he was about to be tried on a third charge, Mrs. William Y. Johnson, a wealthy widow of Pittsburg, Laurel county, married him and he was released from custody. Last week he shot Bob Frisbie, who was attempting to arrest him for horse stealing. Mrs. Gregg had offered $25 for his arrest and says she will have him sent to the penitentiary. A third conviction would result in his imprisonment for life.

Laughed Himself to Death.

Binghamton, June 7.—Fred Tearsbal, of Battle Creek, Mich., employed in Wallace's circus, laughed himself to death here. He heard a very good story at the tent door and broke forth into irrepressible laughter. Suddenly he fell to the ground dead. An autopsy showed that he had valvular disease of the heart, but he might have lived for years if that story had not been told.

Dr. E. A. Russell Missing.

Chicago, June 7.—Dr. E. A. Russell a prominent physician of Butler, Pa., and heir to a large fortune, is missing, and it is feared by his relatives that he has been robbed and murdered. WANT BUFFALO BILL.

The Twin Cities Winstead in Connecticut Deadly Rivals for His Favor.

Winsted, Conn., June 7.—There is a lively contest between the two sections of the town, West Winsted and East Winsted, as to which shall entertain Buffalo Bill and his Wild West show. The business men at each end of the town have subscribed funds to give Buffalo Bill if he will exhibit in their part of the town. There is a large show ground at each end of the town. Some unknown person broke the large water main that supplies the locomotives of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad with water. The leak was not discovered until the grounds in East Winsted had been covered with water six inches deep. The land, which is naturally damp, is now unfit for a show and will probably remain so at least a week. The railroad company, with the aid of the police, is trying to ascertain who broke the water pipe. The people in East Winsted are highly indignant over the matter. All the factories and schools in West Winsted are to close if Buffalo Bill pitches his tents on the show lot there.

YELLOW FEVER CHECKED

Sanitary Condition of Cuba Better Than It Has Ever Been Before.

New Orleans, June 7.—Surgeon H. R. Carter of the United States Marine Hospital Service arrived here from Havana to take charge of the Government quarantine arrangements in the event of the appearance of yellow fever. He said that the sanitary condition of Cuba is better than ever before. A few cases of yellow fever have been discovered during the last two months, but by the proper isolation of the patients the disease was prevented from spreading. At one time yellow fever was very threatening at Holguin where Dr. Carter had charge, but by the adoption of severe measures it was wiped out there.

Circus Tent Demolished.

South Bend, Ind., June 7.—The Walter L. Main circus exhibited here, and during the performance a severe rain and wind storm arose. The center poles were raised from the ground, and the fact that the tent was old and readily yielded to the wind, was all that saved a serious loss of life. The women and children rushed, panic-stricken, from the scene. This is the second experience of the kind the Main people have had within a week. Marvin Ort took shelter under a tree, which was splintered by a bolt of lightning, and was killed.

Three Quarrymen Crushed to Death.

Allentown, Pa., June 7.—Three men were crushed to death by a cave-in in the slate quarry of E. D. Peters & Co., Berlinsville, in Northampton County. They are Robert Snyder, Jacob Schaffer and Ammon Beers. The victims were working at the bottom of the quarry when, without a moment's warning a huge mass of slate came crashing down the side. The body of Snyder has been recovered. Those of the others are deeply covered. The quarry is a new one.

Bishop Hurst and Wife Part.

Washington, June 7.—R. R. Root of Buffalo was in Washington in connection with the arangements being made between Bishop Hurst of the Methodist Church and his wife for a legal separation. Mrs. Hurst, who is the second wife of the Bishop, was Miss Root of Buffalo, and is wealthy. She is now in Europe, having left Washington nearly a year ago. It is said that there will be no divorce, but that they will not live together again, incompatibility being given as the cause.

Twenty-one Years in Prison.

Brazil, Ind., June 7.—The jury has sentenced Walter Jones to 21 years in prison. On April 28, Edward Adams, a prominent young man of Carbon, this county, was shot and instantly killed by Jones, also a prominent young man. They were bitter enemies, and met in the rear of William Dawe's saloon, where Adams was about to fight Jones. Adams called Jones a name when the latter fired three shots into him. Self-defense was the plea.

Louisville, Ky., June 7.—The deal for the immense whiskey holdings of John M. Atherton & Co., of this city, and for the holdings of the Marion County Distilling Company has been closed by the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company. Mr. Atherton refused to state the consideration involved. It is known, however, that his holdings brought nearly $1,000,000.

Stone Knocked Workman Dead.

Newark, N. J., June 7.—Bumping against a loose stone threw Charles De Hart from his wheel. He struck on his head and died almost instantly.

The soldier's life is hard and stern;
But there's no need that he should suffer
From using common soaps, which burn
His skin, and make his clothing rougher.
Pure Ivory Soap—it floats—is best
For bath, for clothes, and all the rest.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Dreyfus Was There Waiting

Fort De France, Island of Martinique, June 7.—When the dispatch boat Goeland, bearing the superintendent of the prison and the commander of marine artillery who were designated by the French Government to inform Dreyfus of the revision of his trial, arrived yesterday from Cayenne at the Ile du Diable, Dreyfus was waiting on the shore.

Dreyfus declined positively to wear the military uniform provided for him. Though he gave no reason, it is well understood that he will wait until finally proved innocent, when he will ask for a rehabilitation into the army as public as was his degration.

Warrant Out for Henderson

New York, June 7.—The Mazet Committee has determined to make an example of some one and the victim selected is Henry C. Henderson, counsel for Police Captain Price, who last Friday was ejected from the committee room after a stormy scene, in which Henderson is alleged to have drawn a knife and menaced Sergeant-at-Arms Crawford. Acting under instructions from the committee, Crawford, accompanied by John Proctor Clarke, went before Magistrate Olmstead and swore out a warrant charging Henderson with disorderly conduct.

She was found by a young man whose name is not yet known here.

THREE QUEER CASES

Taken From a Detective's Note Book—Story of a Long-Haired Man—Young Woman Wanted to Know Him.

Detective work is a thing of system and organization nowadays, and the good managing detective is not a man of many disguises, but is a shrewd individual, who works from his private office, handles his men without seeing them, and follows their progress by receiving daily reports; you might be around a first-class detective head quarters for a month without seeing the men who are kept in the field covering cases.

"Detectives are sometimes called upon to do the queerest kind of work," said a Chicago sleuth.

"I had a visitor to call on me last summer that I don't mind telling you about. She was timid at first, but I told her to speak out frankly. After she got started she was quite confidential. It seemed that she had been in New York City the week before and there she had met on the street on two separate occasions a man who impressed her greatly. She told me he was the handsomest man she had ever seen, and she felt sure from his distinguished bearing, and the fact that his hair was rather long, that he was either a poet or artist; he had not spoken to her and she knew absolutely nothing about him except that he had been in New York on the day mentioned.

"I asked her why she was so anxious to find him, and she replied that he had made a great impression on her, and she believed that he had been attracted by her appearance. As her description was rather indefinite, and as she wasn't sure of anything execept that he was the handsomest man she had ever seen, I told her it would be rather difficult for me to send an operator to New York to find him. Well, she was badly disappointed, said she was willing to spend money to find him, that she never could forget him, and all that, but I had to decline the case. I told her there were plenty of good men who didn't have long hair."

"One case I remember distinctly. A man came into my office and told me a story about a young woman he had seen on the street car about a week before. 'I saw her several times,' he said, 'and each time on the car going south, she alighted at —— avenue and walked east. I have been thinking about her ever since, she was so beautiful, and now I want to find out who she is and where she is stopping.

"He seemed to be a decent sort of a fellow, and was so much in earnest that I agreed to help him. I had one of my men riding up and down on the car for days at a time, and shadowing —— avenue. Finally we located a young woman who was boarding at a place on the avenue, and answered the description closely. The man paid about $75 for the name and address of the young woman, and said he would find some way of becoming acquainted with her. I don't know how he made out, as he never returned to see me after he was given the address.

"I will give you a queer instance where it did not pay to give the truth in a case I operated personally. A wealthy lady living in Germantown, Philadelphia, who has a large house and a number of servants, sent for me through her attorney, and said that from time to time for several months sums of money and articles of jewelry had been stolen from her and her son, and she had reason to believe that the servants were guilty of the thefts.

"She wanted me personally to investigate the case, so I assumed the position of second coachman, and made myself useful around the house. In a few days I was on friendly terms with the other servants, but I could not learn anything until I turned my attention to the son, a swift young fellow of twenty years. Within a week I saw the young man display some marked money that I had planted in the mother's room. I shadowed the fellow and saw him sell a ring, and when I thought I had a clear case I reported to the lady of the house that her son was the thief. She would not believe a word of it. 'Why, he has missed a lot of things himself,' she said. Of course the son denied it, and she believed him, and refused to pay the bill for services until I threatened to sue her. The young man had been gambling and sporting, and when his mother would not give him any more money he would steal."

Give What You Can Spare.

The Babies' Camp enterprise of the City Union of the King's Daughters is something that invites the aid of every friend of poor children, and who is there that will not say that they have a kindly feeling for the little tots whose situation in life is not of the best?

This enterprise for the benefit of the tots doesn't require the millions of a Carnegie to keep it going. A few cents will give one child needed care and a day of fine fresh air. A few dollars will do proportionately more, and your contribution to the fund being raised by The Daily Press for the re-establishment of the Babies' Camp on the mountain will bring nearer and more certain the institution that this excessive hot weather emphasizes the need of now.

Said Poor Richard, "The noblest question in the world is, What good may I do in it?" That is a question that every man and woman may ask whose worldly "enough" is tempered by a little to spare.

It should be remembered that there is an old axiom that "he who gives quickly gives twice," and that the truth of this is peculiarly apt at present. If the Babies' Camp is going to accomplish any good this season it should be ready for practical use immediately. We are in the midst of hot weather, which will continue with slightly varying spells for three months. The time to give is now! Send in your money, be it either pennies or dollars.

The State Board of Assessors has filed with the State Controller the first schedule of corporations upon which an annual charter tax is levied. The schedule includes 2,885 companies, and a subsequent schedule to be filed will include about 3,000 more. The companies included in the schedule filed have an aggregate issued capital stock of $1,454,457,000, and are assessed $901,277.84. The schedule to be filed later on will include principally the smaller companies, and the tax will not be so great as on that filed already.

Congressman Fowler, of the Eighth district, is quoted as being in favor of Congressman Henderson as speaker of the House of Representatives. When Henderson is distributing some of the good plums Congressman Fowler probably calculates getting in on the ground floor.

According to a correspondent of the New York World, Assemblyman Roger F. Murray will probably be a candidate for renomination notwithstanding the opposition of the leaders who do not like the independent way he acted towards corporations in the Legislature.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Somerset county Democrats are patting themselves on the back under the delusion that they will elect a Democratic Senator next fall. There ought to be more Republicans in Somerset county this fall than ever before. The Republican good times are making good Republicans every day. This being so, the Democrats will not elect a Senator unless the Somerset county Republicans want a Democratic Senator elected, and Somerset county Republicans are not built that way.—Trenton Times.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The city of New Brunswick has received a trophy of the Spanish-American war in the shape of a howitzer that was once mounted on the Spanish fortifications at Cabanas fortress, at the entrance to Havana harbor. The gun was presented by Capt. William Weigel, quartermaster attached to the staff of Gen. Charles F. Humphres. Capt. Weigel is a native of New Brunswick. The howitzer will probably be placed at the foot of the monument erected in Court House Park to the memory of the three New Brunswick men who were killed in the Maine disaster.

* * * * *

The recent appointment of ex-Assemblyman Charles N. Codding as Deputy Supreme Court Clerk is one of the very few instances where a young man has been named for an important appointive State office since the Republicans secured control of New Jersey five years ago. And Mr. Codding is not such a youngster at that. He is past thirty-seven, but still some years the junior of any other State official. One of the first things that would impress a person making a tour of the State House offices would be that the heads of the departments, with rare exceptions, are men well advanced in years. Secretary of State Wurts is seventy, and so is William Stainsby, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Bank and Insurance Commissioner Bettle is sixty-nine; Supervisor of the State Prison Anderson is sixty-eight; State Prison Keeper Moore is sixty-five; State Treasurer Swaim is sixty-four, and Attorney-General Grey and State Road Commissioner Budd are each over sixty-three. Clerk in Chancery Thompson and Major Lentz, of the State Board of Taxation, are each fifty-four, while State School Superintendent Baxter is in his fifty-ninth year. The three youngest State officials next to Mr. Codding are Charles Black, of the State Board of Taxation, who is forty; Robert S. Green, of the State Board of Assessors, who is forty-three, and State Comptroller Hancock, whose age is forty-five.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"The Man in the Moon" has not only caught playgoing New York, but the entire country. A hundred and fifty thousand people are said to enter the big town daily, and it is curious to note the amazing percentage of the influx that finds its way to the unparalled spectacle. Further evidence of the fame of the piece is offered in several dozens of cable and mail orders for reserves of seats from London, Berlin and Paris, from travelers sailing eastward. No stage product of the generation has been accorded the prodigal praise lavished on this Aladdin-like presentation. Every night the immense auditorium is crowded with the city's fashion. Theatricals purveyors have thrown up their hands at Manager Lederer's audacity. And the ballot! When it is understood that the average stage performance is over at 10:30, and it is noted that "The Man in the Moon's" last act doesn't begin till 11:15 and isn't finished until 11:55, with the interval largely given over to the ballet portion of the extravaganza, other argument is feeble. Music, color, comics, passing slaps at current follies, beauty and a dazzling surleit of all these, may be said to form a meagre definition of this stupendous new toy for the big town. Not to see it is to argue one-self a provincial truly.

MORE MONEY COMING.

Daily Press' Fund For Babies' Camp is Growing Nicely Now.

The Daily Press' effort to aid the City Union of King's Daughters in their work of re-establishing the Babies' Camp on the mountain, are beginning to bear fruit. This morning a number of substantial subscriptions were received, and now that the people are beginning to appreciate what their little gifts mean it is to be hoped that the fund will grow large in a very quick manner.

The terrific heat of the last few days emphasizes the need of the Babies' Camp where the little tots can be taken for a day of recreation and fresh air. It should be remembered that every contribution, no matter how small, will be accepted gratefully.

Tomorrow morning the camp committee of the City Union will meet in the Y. M. C. A. to talk over the project. The Daily Press fund will undoubtedly be a very encouraging feature to them.

The following are the contributions made to date:

Steps Are Too High.

The steps on the cars of the Central Railroad are said to be too high for many people, and complaints are heard about them almost every day. Ladies are the principal objectors. They dislike to have to step up so high. The trains that run close to the depot platform are all right, but the express trains which do not are at fault. It is said in other places along the line of the road they have small wooden platforms to place under the car step, which enables passengers to gain the steps with ease, but that no such convenience exists in this city. Why such portable platforms are not used here is not known.—Elizabeth Journal.

(Special to The Daily Press)

Bernardsville, June 7.—The report of Lindabury, Depue & Falks, counsel for Bernards township, who have just made an examination of the books of Tax Collector John DeMunn, was submitted yesterday at a meeting of the Township Committee. There was a surplus, instead of a shortage, as had been charged.

Grain-O tones up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise. 15 and 25c. per package.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 7—This year there will be the smallest number of graduates from the public school in recent years. In all there are four who are Miss Nellie Brown, Miss Lulu Gise, Stephen Kennedy and Charles Ward. The class originally numbered eighteen, but this year at various times scholars have dropped out until there are only four left. The graduation exercises will be held on the evening of Thursday, June 23d.

Last Saturday evening David Kneuter, accompanied by a young woman living in the borough, were caught by Marshal Wyhuskey riding their wheels without a light. They were arrested and told to appear. Kneuter, who lives at Lincoln, did appear, and was fined $1. He did not have the money with him and he was released to go home and get it. He has not been seen since. The young woman failed to put in an appearance.

People who rode to Plainfield yesterday in the trolley cars are no longer in doubt as to the odor arising from the sewer beds. The stench was very much in evidence, and it did not require a nostril free from all obstruction to discover it. In fact it was so strong that it could be discerned a considerable distance from the beds.

Last Monday evening an entertainment was given in Apgar's Hall under the auspices of the Daughters of Liberty. The programme comprised recitations, vocal and instrumental music, after which there was a dance. There was a large attendance of the members and friends from nearby towns.

The excessive hot weather of the past few days has ruined six thousand quarts of strawberries for Henry Ludivici, a farmer living near the borough. The heat has fairly burned them up.

The Watchung Water Company is now making arrangements to have a grand demonstration of the works July 4th, when they expect to have the system completed in the borough.

A number of local Baptists went to Stelton yesterday to attend the fifty-eighth anniversary of the East New Jersey Baptist Association, which met with the Stelton church.

Rev. A. I. Martine, of Church street, was able to be out yesterday for the first time since his accident. He expects to preach in his church Sunday.

A few boroughites attended Buffale Bill's Wild West show at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon and evening, and they were well pleased.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue, has returned from a visit with her uncle, Manning Randolph, of Piscataway.

Ferdinand Titsworth will leave the public school this year and next fall will enter the Plainfield High School.

Mrs. Adam Dealaman, of North avenue, has returned from a visit with relatives at Easton, Pa.

Miss Maude Bolton, of Somerville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Phillip Harman.

Miss Fanny Smith has been visiting Plainfield friends for a short time.

Arthur Giles has returned from an out-of-town business trip.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 7—The members of the Baptist church will resume their cottage prayer meetings again this evening. The meeting tonight is to be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Westcott in Fanwood. Owing to the association meeting yesterday at Stelton, and the trustees' meeting Monday evening, Mr. Shott thought best to have no meetings those evenings.

Notwithstanding the extreme heat of the last few days, Scotch Plains seems to be the Mecca for wheelmen, and especially is this so in the evening, when Scotch Plains seems to be just far enough away from other places to enjoy a short run. The local hotels are enjoying the benefit of it.

The ladies of the Methodist church are arranging for their annual strawberry and ice cream festival to be held in Excelsior Hall Monday evening next.

The scholars of the public school enjoyed a visit from County Superintendent Shearer, of Elizabeth, Tuesday.

Several from the village attended Buffalo Bill's Wild West show held in Elizabeth Tuesday.

Miss Phillip, who has been visiting Miss Josie Marsh, has returned to her home in Roseville.

The Board of Education held a special meeting in the school parlor last evening.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 7.—The Woman's Association of the Congregational church was entertained Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Caroline Alpers on Kimball avenue.

Miss Jane Morrow has been spending several days with old school friends at Carlisle, Pa. Last evening she attended the annual banquet of the Alumni of Wilson College at Chambersburg.

In addition to the trustees report at the meeting of Fireside Council, Royal Arcanum, Thursday night, Grand Regent Lightfoot will explain the recent special legislation.

—The next meeting of the Borough Board of Education will be held June 17th, when final arrangements will be made for the commencement exercises which will take place a week later.

—Government officials were at Bayside yesterday experimenting with the propogation of sturgeon from the roe. The experiment will be watched with much interest by those engaged in the business.

—If it was not for the pump stationed at the corner of Front street and Clinton avenue, the conductors and motormen on the trolley cars could scarcely get along this hot weather. Almost every trip they stop and get a drink of cool water.

—David King, who for some time has conducted a fish market on Somerset street, has about given up his store, and it has been rented by Mr. Johnson, a barber, who conducts a shop a few doors from Mr. King's place. George Ralph will take Mr. Johnson's store and conduct a pool and billiard business.

—A feature of the Wild West parade this morning was a neat looking wagon, decorated with American flags, advertising Boynton Beach. The wagon was driven by Manager Stratton of the Boynton Beach Company and with him was N. Guttman, of Plainfield, leader of the band that furnishes music there.—Elizabeth Journal.

VALUABLE THIMBLES

Gold, Silver and Jewels Used in Their Construction.

The first thimble seen in England was made in London less than two hundred years ago by a metal worker named John Lofting. He acquired a large fortune and great fame in the manufacture of the new accessory to the needle worker's art. The implement was at first called a thumb boot and was worn on the thumb. Lofting's thimbles were made of either iron or brass, and specimens of them are extant, many of which are preserved as heirlooms. Gold, silver, iron, steel, pearl, celluloid and sometimes glass are utilized in making thimbles nowadays.

In China, the ladies of high class use very dainty thimbles. Some are carved from enormous pearls, with bands of fine gold, on which are engraved all sorts of fantastic things, the etchings of which serve for catching the needle, as the holes of the outside barbarians thimbles do. The thimble always has a mother-of-pearl case. With the thimble the Chinese lady always has a delicate pair of scissors of the finest steel, in a sheath of pearl, and a pearl needle case. The articles are all enclosed in an exquisitely inlaid case of the purest mother-of-pearl.

The manufacture of thimbles is simple enough. Dies of the different sizes are used, into which the metal, whether gold, silver, or steel, is pressed. The semi-perforations, finishing and polishing or tempering, are done afterwards. Celluloid is moulded. The best thimbles are said to be made in France.

The Queen of Siam has a thimble which was a present from her royal husband. It is made of gold, in the form of a lotus bud, the lotus being the royal flower—and is thickly studded with diamonds, so arranged as to form her name and the date of her marriage. This gift was equal to an order that the ladies of Siam should use thimbles, and they have used them since.

Queen Victoria's Devotion to Her Dead.

Queen Victoria sleeps in one of those large and almost square wooden beds, which are such a feature of many English households. The Queen occupies one side of the bed, and on the other side, which during his lifetime was occupied by her husband, the Prince Consort, there hangs at the head, above the pillows, a large frame portrait representing the Prince lying dead—photographed, in fact, just before he was placed in the coffin.

Above this picture hangs a large memorial wreath, and beside it is a watchpocket containing the Prince's watch. This watchpocket has its counterpart in the watchpocket above the Queen's pillow for her own watch. The memorial wreath, as well as the watchpocket and watch of the Prince, and his rather grewsome portrait, accompany the Queen on all her travels, and form part of her bedroom equipment wherever she may happen to be staying.

His Release From Mary.

Mary E. Lease, being what they call an "almighty smart woman," is no longer a resident of Kansas, although "Charley," the husband, still remains as a clerk in that drug store at Wichita. Mary has not returned since she went to New York during the campaign of 1896. She is now lecturing on Joan of Arc somewhere in the east—a character she would like to emulate, says the Chicago Record. Her daughter, who has a good deal of dramatic power and used to recite poems at conventions, and was expecting to make fame and fortune on the stage in the great play, "The Curse of Gold," is now the only comfort of her father. The son is in the East with the mother, acting as her business agent.

Not Necessary to Lay Every Day

A young woman came into a fortune and promptly hunted up a country house, where she played the role of chatelaine to the manner born according to her own ideas of the part. One day some of her old-time friends came to see her, and she condescended to show them all over the place.

"What beautiful chickens!" exclaimed the visitors when they came to the poultry yard.

"Yes. All prize birds!" haughtily explained the hostess.

"Do they lay every day?"

"Oh, they could, of course; but," grandiloquently, "In our position it isn't necessary for them to do so."

Women's Hats in Church.

Apropos of the question as to whether or not women should remove their hats in church, a Lexington (Mo.) man suggests a return to the good, old custom under which the men sat on one side of the church and the women on the other.

"In that way," he says, "the ladies could get the full benefit of their big hats. Ladies who remove their hats out of courtesy to those who sit behind them could, of course, sit where they choose. The others could have the full benefit of attempting to see the preacher through a jungle of feathers and gewgaws."

Judicious Education Pays Best.

Teach your daughter drawing, painting, music, &c., if you have enough money to allow her to keep them up, otherwise she is only wasting time in pursuing such studies, when that time might be spent in studying something by which she could earn her living. Should she have a taste for reading, give her every opportunity and select for her books that will give the best and most practical information on her favorite subjects. Teach her to choose her companions according to their morals and habits, not according to the amount of money they possess. Teach her to live within her income and encourage in her the desire to save. Teach her to say "Yes" and "No" only when she means them, and that when she makes a promise she must keep it. Teach her how mean it is to gossip and talk scandal. In short, teach your daughter to be a real lady.

FASHION NOTES.

Novelties For the Up to Date Tea Table.

An indispensable adjunct to the 5 o'clock tea table is the plate of preserved fruits. These fruits are served on fine Sevres or Saxony china and are taken with a gold fork. The teacloth is almost entirely composed of rich guipure and is laid over red silk. There is also a fancy for black or brown bread sandwiches, cut very thin, of course. The German aniseed bread is often used.

Separate boleros of guipure are worn with summer costumes and can be used with different gowns for variety. The bolero is still highly fashionable in all its forms, and when it has a lining the pocket, which is now impossible to the skirt because of its clinging smoothness, may be placed inside the left part of the bolero for the reception of the little purse and the handkerchief. The coin purse of gold or silver links is the favorite at present and is made in all sizes down to a purse only large enough to contain three or four gold dollars.

The gown of which an illustration is given is of hortensia taffeta. The skirt, which rests upon the floor at the back, is trimmed with two flounces of plaited hortensia mousseline de soie with a puffed heading. Above each flounce are a band of guipure insertion and a band of black satin. The flounces are arranged to simulate a tunic. The corsage, of guipure over hortensia taffeta, has a plaited guimpe of mousseline de soie and a bertha of the same material. The little plastron and the collar are of guipure over taffeta, trimmed with a satin band, as are the cuffs of the close sleeves. The belt and bows are of black satin. The hat of hortensia straw is trimmed with hortensia tulle and white feathers.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

ACCESSORIES.

Wedding Veils and Fresh Summer Millinery.

The new wedding gowns have an immensely long train, trimmed with flounces of old point or of puffed tulle, with occasional sprays of orange blossoms intermingled. Satin is, as ever, the favorite material, and the veil is either point lace or tulle, according to fancy. Tulle is far more becoming than lace as a veil and for this reason is frequently preferred even by the wealthiest brides. Lace forms an attractive ornament for the gown itself, however, and softens the luster of the satin agreeably.

Toques of tulle, mousseline de soie and lace are very much worn, either with a brim or of the turban shape. Soft, fancy straw is often mingled with mousseline de soie, twisted and interwoven to form a puffy drapery. These toques require very little trimming, a tall spray of flowers, a bow of ribbon and an ornament or a group of feathers being quite sufficient. If there is a brim, it is usually undulating, and a portion of the trimming is placed so as to rest upon the hair. Buckles are a frequent ornament and are of steel or rhinestone as a rule.

A picture is given of an attractive new model, called the Marie Stuart. It is of cream straw and is lined with shirred tulle to match. Cream tulle forms a large chou in front, and at the side is a spray of pink roses, rising from a chou of black velvet loops, retained by a gold buckle. At the left side of the back is a chou of tulle, at the right a chou of black velvet.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Edesheim. Die kürzlich verstorbene Rentnerin Fräulein Franziska Lederle, welche als Wohlthäterin allgemein bekannt war, hat der hiesigen Gemeinde für Armen- und Kirchenzwecke die Summe von 13,000 Mark testamentarisch vermacht.

Kaiserslautern. Der zweite Direktor der Aktien-Brauereigesellschaft in Ludwigshafen, Herr Albert Gerber, hatte von hier aus eine Radtour in das Lauterthal unternommen, als er auf dem Rückwege bei dem Engelshof plötzlich von einem Schlage getroffen vom Rade fiel und nach wenigen Minuten verstarb.

Ludwigshafen. Dr. v. Clemm, Präsident der bayerischen Abgeordnetenkammer, hat die Wiederaufnahme der Landtagskandidatur abgelehnt. — Der hiesigen Anilin- und Sodafabrik bereitet die Abführung ihrer Abfallwässer von Jahr zu Jahr größere Schwierigkeiten. Die Direktion beschäftigt sich deshalb mit dem Plane der Anlegung von Rieselfeldern. Wie man hört, ist dazu das zwischen dem Rhein und den großen Landorten Oppau und Friesenheim gelegene Gelände in Aussicht genommen.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Zum „Schultheiß" unserer Stadt ist als Nachfolger des verstorbenen Oberbürgermeisters Rümelin der bisherige Vorsitzer des Gemeinderaths, Gauß, erwählt worden. Zu den Bewerbern um das Amt gehörte auch der energische Oberbürgermeister von Heilbronn, Hegelmaier, der den Heilbronnern den Rücken kehren will, weil man ihm zwar eine Gehaltsaufbesserung, aber nicht in der gewünschten Höhe bewilligt hat.—Baurath von Beckh, Senior der württembergischen Bahnbautechniker, der mit dem Baudirektor Herwig den Plan zur Gotthardbahn entworfen hat, ist hier, 90 Jahre alt, gestorben.

Backnang. In der Brauerei „zur Rose" war dieser Tage der 20jährige Bierbrauergehilfe G. Storz aus Tuttlingen im Bierkeller mit Bierausfüllung vermittelst eines Druckapparats beschäftigt. Die Arbeit war beinahe beendigt, als das Faß zersprang. Der junge Mann wurde so schwer verletzt, daß der Tod bald darauf eintrat.

Biberach. Die Riedmühle des Christian Dollinger wurde um 90,000 Mark an eine Züricher Firma verkauft, welche beabsichtigt, eine Seidenweberei für 200 bis 300 Arbeiter zu errichten. Dies wäre dann die zweite Seidenfabrik an der Riß.

Degerloch. Der erste ärztliche Vertreter des Naturheilverfahrens in Württemberg, Oberstabsarzt a. D. Dr. Katz, hat hier eine Heilanstalt eingerichtet, welche durchweg auf den Grundsätzen der wissenschaftlichen Naturheilmethode aufgebaut ist. Die mit dem Sanatorium in Verbindung stehende Kurbadeanstalt ist fertiggestellt, es gelangen in derselben alle Heilfaktoren: Sonne, Luft, Wasser, Licht, Elektrizität, Massage u. s. w. zur Anwendung, und es können alle Bäder auch von Passanten benützt werden. Außerdem steht eine größere Anzahl von Lufthütten für Kurgäste zur Verfügung.

Eßlingen. Einer Milchfälschung, wie sie nicht häufig vorkommt, ist die Polizei bei einer vorgenommenen Milchkontrolle hier auf die Spur gekommen. Die Untersuchung der aus Obereßlingen stammenden Milch hat ergeben, daß 100 Liter reiner Milch zum Theil noch mehr als 100 Liter Wasser zugesetzt wurden.

Ulm. Wegen widerrechtlicher Unterlassung der Strafverfolgung Schuldiger stand vor der hiesigen Strafkammer der 77jährige Schultheiß Gantenbein von Ochsenwang, Oberamts Kirchheim. Am 8. Februar d. J. wurden dem Gantenbein von dem Polizeidiener zwei Stromer zugeführt, die im Orte gebettelt hatten. Gantenbein schickte jedoch die Stromer weg mit dem Bemerken, er habe keine Zeit, sich mit Handwerksburschen abzugeben, er habe eben Steuereinzug und Güterverkauf. Das Urtheil lautet auf einen Monat Gefängniß.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Dieser Tage hat sich der pensionirte, 55 Jahre alte Rechnungsrath Joseph Heil durch Aufschneiden seines Bauches mit einem Rasirmesser entleibt.

Heidelberg. In dem benachbarten Handschuhsheim wurde ein fremder Bursche beim Betteln betreten. Als der Polizeidiener seine Papiere abverlangte, floh er bis an den etwa eine halbe Stunde entfernten Neckar, stürzte sich in die Fluthen und versuchte, hinüber zu schwimmen. Aber in der Mitte des stark angeschwollenen Flusses sank er unter und ertrank.

Rastatt. Die Sammlung für das den Rastatter Standrechtsopfern zu errichtende Denkmal hat ein so günstiges Ergebniß gehabt, daß die Ausführung gesichert ist. Im Ganzen sind bisher 2895 Mark eingegangen.

Mannheim. Der Stadtrath hat den Vertrag wegen des Ankaufs der Mannheim-Feudenheimer Dampfstraßenbahn für die Stadt Mannheim genehmigt. Die Stadt beabsichtigt, den Dampfbetrieb durch elektrischen Betrieb zu ersetzen und die Bahn nach verschiedenen weiteren Orten in der Umgebung Mannheims weiterzuführen.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

SHE NEVER WAS A BOY.

When I come home the other night
With an ugly lookin' eye
That I had got into a fight
Poor ma commenced to cry,
But when I told pa how it was
He clapped his hands for joy.
And told me I'd done bully, cause
Once he had been a boy.

"Boys will be boys," I heard him say;
"They won't be otherwise,
And the one that learns to fight his way
Is the one that wins the prize;
When I was his age fightin' was
My greatest earthly joy—"
But ma, she kept on cryin', cause
She never was a boy.

My golly, I'd hate to be
A girl with fluffy hair,
And always prim as A, B, C,
With clothes too clean to wear!
When ma was sman I s'pose she was
Red-cheeked and sweet and coy—
But, oh, the fun that missed her 'cause
She never was a boy.

A Boy Against a Fleet.

Late in the month of December, 1778, Thomas Inis and his son, Rose, then about 16 years old, were on one of the small marsh islands which lie in the frith of the Savannah river. Savannah was then a small town, held by the American army of patriots and the war of the revolution was in full progress throughout the colonies.

From the information furnished me it does not appear what Mr. Inis and Rose were doing on the marsh; but they had a sailboat anchored in a creek, and for some reason Mr. Inis took the boat and returned in it to Savannah, leaving his son alone on the island until he should come back.

It seems that Rose had some provisions and a gun, wherefore I infer it was wild fowl shooting that had tempted the twain down the river. At all events, Rose was left alone and his father had been gone scarcely an hour when a large English vessel, tall masted and heavily armed, appeared in a broad bayou or creek a mile from the island. It was one of a strong fleet come to attack Savannah.

Rose knew, as soon as he saw the ship, just what it meant, and his predicament seemed quite hopeless, so far as escaping capture was concerned, especially when a little later there came a small, sloop-rigged open boat, containing a British officer and five men, which anchored almost exactly where his own boat had lain when his father took it.

All this time Rose was on a bit of hummock land, where a line of straggling trees and bushes grew near a narrow tide channel in the marsh. He quickly hid himself and watched, while the officer and crew came ashore, and it soon appeared that they were a party sent from the fleet, probably to look for an eligible place upon which to establish a camp.

Doubtless Rose, being but a boy, exaggerated his danger and became unduly excited, wrought upon by recollections of stories he had heard of British cruelty to prisoners. Still, his feelings were like prophesy of what was to happen, for, when Savannah was taken, unarmed citizens were bayonetted in the streets by the brutal soldiers of invasion.

Rose was no coward, however; on the contrary, he came of a stock whose chief characteristic was the fighting spirit, and he was a patriot from heel to crown. He looked to the priming of his gun, examined the edge of the flint to be sure that it was duly sharp, for he did not mean to be taken without a fight, and he even preferred death to capture.

Meanwhile the British party had made a swift survey of the little beach near the boat. Apparently the officer was not quite satisfied. He had, perhaps, seen the tracks made by Mr. Inis and Rose, and was taking precautions by carefully reconnoitering. Rose quickly forsaw that he would be tracked up and found. As his danger grew, however, his spirit and wit increased apace. He held his gun ready, while he lay in a tuft of scrub palmettos, and he thought with lightning swiftness of what he should do when the last emergency came.

The party of British separated into two squads, one passing east of Rose, the other to the west of him. Evidently the intention was to beat the marsh in a systematic way. It would not be long before one or the other squad would come upon the flank of his bit of hummuck land, cross his trail and so discover him. The time for action of some sort could not be greatly delayed. Rose revolved the situation in his mind, never once losing sight of the deliberately advancing soldiers.

The point where he lay concealed was perhaps the highest part of the little island, and it gave him a wide view of marsh lands and breeze-tossed waters and wooded isles and distant mainland. Three war vessels were now in sight over toward Tybee some miles away. What was to be done must be done. It was one lone boy against the whole fleet of Commodore Parker.

A truly brave spirit is never without adequate resources at a trying time. Rose Inis caught the one bold chance as it offered. It was a desperate suggestion, and it called for a tremendous spurt of energy and a coolness, a strength and a daring almost impossible.

The directions taken led the two British squads farther and farther apart and at the same time farther and farther from the boat, which, with sail flapping, lay close by the shore of the creek. As it afterward turned out, the officer was a topographical engineer and his actual purpose was to find, if possible, a short route by either land or water to the outer defenses of Savannah. But Rose Inis felt sure that he was being tracked and now a suddenly formed plan of escape took active possession of his mind.

With but a moment's consideration he seized his gun and ran straight for the British sailboat. As he sped along he stooped as much as he could, in order to hide behind clumps of palmetto and patches of tall marsh grass. The alert soldiers soon saw him, however, and the one nearest him yelled to him to stop. Instead of obeying the order Rose doubled his effort to reach the boat.

Bang! went the Briton's gun and it's ball sang in the grass close to Rose's legs. All the men and the officer now gave chase to the flying boy, who, when he reached the creek, plunged in, holding the gun so that the lock was out of the water and swam to the boat. Out of breath and terribly excited Rose scrambled abroad, first tumbling his gun over the gunwhale to the bottom of the boat.

It was now work for dear life. Rose was a clever sailor and knew just how to go at the business in hand. He hauled in the little anchor and sprang to the sail, loosened it, grabbed the tiller and got into the breeze. Meanwhile on came the now thoroughly alarmed officer and men, shooting, panting, gesticulating.

The breeze was fresh and favorable. It took the sloop's sail with vigorous sweep. She leaned low and sprang along beautifully. Rose had lost his hat and his hair was all disheveled; the perspiration poured down his face. On came the soldiers and at the water's edge they lost some time in confused running back and forth. Then by order of their commander they fell to reloading their guns. Every minute, every second, was precious to the brave boy.

Fortunately for him army muskets in those days were but rude weapons with a very short range. Two hundred yards could not be accurately shot over with them and already the swift little boat was a good hundred yards out and flying down the creek to the broad arm of the river nearby.

"Fire!" cried the officer.

A volley rattled spitefully; but not a bullet struck the heroic boy. One went through the sail, two hit the boat. Then the soldiers ran frantically along the shore until they reached impassable mud. Here they were compelled to stop and give over the chase.

Rose knew every waterway in all that region and seeing the masts of the British fleet, he took a course to avoid the vessels. But in doing this he presently fell into a cross channel which lost him the breeze and he had to row for more than a mile.

Meantime the firing had been heard on board the fleet and the nearest vessel sailed up and tried to discover the cause. It was too late. Rose made his way to Savannah and was afterward in the thick of the fight when the town fell into the enemy's hands. Nor did he give up, even then. With his father he went away as a private in the little patriot army and served until the successful close of the glorious war. His life was a long and happy one and although he never became a distinguished man, he enjoyed to the end of his days the esteem and respect of all who knew him. He often told the story substantially as I have written it.

A Wonderful Floating Snail.

There is a small snail which is so fond of the sea that it never comes to land and it builds such a capital boat for itself and its eggs that whilst large ships are sinking and steamers are unable to face the storm, it tosses about in perfect safety.

The little snail is of violet color and is therefore called Ianthina; it has a small shell and there projects from the under part of the body a long, tongue-like piece of flesh. This is the raft, and it is built upon most scientific principles, for it has compartments in it for air. It is broad and the air compartments are underneath, so that it cannot capsize.

Moreover, the snail knows how to stow away its cargo, for the oldest eggs and those which hatch the soonest are placed in the center, and the lightest and newest on the sides of the raft. The Ianthina fills its own air compartments by getting a globule of air underneath its head, the body is then curved downward beneath the raft, and the head being tilted on one side, the air rushes up and fills the spaces. It feeds on a beautiful little jelly fish, which has a flat, raft-like form with a pretty little sail upon it, and they congregate in multitudes when the sea is calm.

Sometimes specimens are washed upon the northwestern coast of France and when they are handled they give out a violet dye.

Japanese Street Tumblers.

The Japanese are the most wonderful tumblers and acrobats the world has known. They seem to be devoid of bones. The street tumblers in Japan are more numerous than our own nerve-racking hand organs. They go from tea house to tea house, and perform the most marvelous feats all day, and never seem to feel the strain any more than if they were puppets.

HIS CHECK BOOK.

"I've got an idea," said "Gentleman' Tom.

"If it's anythink like the larst thre you've 'ad, you'd better git it away,' replied Dick, sulkily.

"Have you heard of Stephen Brocklehurst, who lives at 136 High st?"

"No, I ain't. What is he?"

"Five years ago he was a poor telegraph clerk and he married a lady telegraph clerk. The lady's uncle took it into his head to die and leave $100,000 to his niece, and Stephen Brocklehurst is now a private gentleman living on his wife's legacy."

"And does the gent keep much of 'is 'ard earned money at 'ome?" asked Dick, eagerly.

"No, but he has a check book, and that is just as good."

"Not unless we can persuade him to sign a check piyable to us."

"That is just what I intend that he shall do."

"How?"

"Well, his wife has a little dog, of which she is very fond. We must first steal that dog, and then—"

Three days later, as Mr. Stephen Brocklehurst was leaving his home after breakfast, he was met by "Gentleman" Tom, who stopped him and said: "Can you tell me where Mr. Brocklehurst lives?"

"I am Stephen Brocklehurst," was the reply.

"How fortunate! I have found a dog which corresponds to the description of the toy terrier which you have advertised as lost."

"That is good news. I will reward you well, if—"

"I want no reward, sir. I am not rich, but I am rather proud, and you may have the dog with pleasure, if it is yours. Will you come to my house and see it?"

"Thanks; I will."

Stephen Brocklehurst and "Gentleman" Tom then walked down a street leading to a lower class district, entered a house, and there, sure enough, was the lost toy terrier. Stephen stooped to pick up the delighted little animal; then, to his astonishment, he was suddenly seized by four strong arms. Before he could offer the slightest resistance he was bound hand and foot, and a gag was securely tied over his mouth.

"One 'arf o' the job's over," said Dick.

"Couldn't have been done better," said Tom; "loosen the gag a little."

Dick did as directed, and then Tom, addressing Mr. Brocklehurst, said: "We are badly in want of $2,500. If you will sign a check for that amount, we will let you go. Otherwise—well, we are desperate men in desperate circumstances."

Stephen Brocklehurst flushed angrily, but, calming himself, he said, quite coolly: "I'm sorry, but my check book is at home."

"That is immaterial. I will fetch it for you. Write a note to your wife, asking her to send it on."

"I'll be hanged if I do!"

"Very well, then. We will leave you here until you change your mind. Your hands shall be free, so that you may summon us by ringing this bell, but you must pardon us for tightening the gag and strapping you more securely to this rather uncomfortable bed."

The two rogues then left the room. As soon as they had gone Stephen Brocklehurst pulled out a note book, and on one page rapidly scribbled the following hieroglyphics:

Explanation.
Send ... . — . — .. police . — — . — — — . — .. ..
— . — . .
to — — — — —
24 .. — — — ... —
Blank —... . — .. . — — . — . —
st ... —
I'm .. — — imprisoned .. — — . — — .. — . .. ...
— — — —. . — ..
there — .... . . — . .

He then put the note book in his pocket. He had only been left alone about three minutes when he called to his jailers.

"I might as well give way," he said; "bring me pen and ink."

"Now let me have some paper—but, no, perhaps a leaf out of my pocket book will be better."

Stephen pulled out his notebook, and on the reverse side of the sheet on which he had previously scribbled the dots and dashes, he wrote:

"Dear Maud—I have forgotten my checkbook. Please send it per bearer. You will find it in my desk. Yours in haste, Stephen."

Tom then went to Stephen's residence, while Dick remained on guard. Mrs. Brocklehurst read the note, and, without the least suspicion, went upstairs to fetch the checkbook. Not until then did she observe the hieroglyphics on the other side of the sheet of paper.

As previously explained, Mr. and Mrs. Brocklehurst were ex-telegraph clerks. The hieroglyphics were words written according to the telegraphic system of dots and dashes. It was a message, and it read:

"Send police to 24 Blank st. I'm imprisoned there."

Mrs. Brocklehurst did her best to control her feelings, and she gave directions to a servant, who left the house by a back door. In order to gain time, she begged her visitor to wait a few minutes while she wrote a letter to her husband. The letter was full of meaningless nothings, for she knew the bearer would open it as soon as he left the house.

At last the letter was finished, and unsuspicious Tom hastened to Blank st. Stephen was then commanded to make out the check.

As he was filling in the blanks, he was interrupted by a loud hammering on the front door.

The door was forced open, four policemen entered, and Tom and Dick were arrested.

There is nothing further of interest to add to this true story, except that Messrs. Tom and Dick are now spending a long holiday at her majesty's expense.

Fred Hargraves Commences Action in Tort Against Wesley Brokaw.

Fred Hargraves has brought an action in tort against Wesley R. Brokaw, the Front street music dealer, for an alleged conversion of property to the amount of $200. It appears that some time ago Mrs. Cornelia Hargraves, who is suing her husband for divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, packed up some household goods which Mr. Hargraves alleges to be is property and had them stored in Brokaw's store.

When replevin papers were served upon Brokaw he ignored them and refused to give up the property; hence the action. W. G. DeMeza represents the defendant. The papers are returnable next Monday afternoon before Justice Mosher.

FEARED JERSEY JUSTICE

HORSE THIEF PLEADED GUILTY IN NEW YORK STATE.

He Thought That if He was Extradited to This State He Would Get Twenty-five Years for the Offense.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 7—John Towers, alias "Ned Towers," was brought here yesterday from New York by Chief Tenney on a charge of horse stealing. Towers was indicted here in May, 1896, charged with stealing a horse from Dan Roberts' livery in Plainfield. A month later he was picked up in White Plains, Westchester county, N. Y., but before requisition could be made on the Governor of New York Towers pleaded guilty to stealing a horse in New York and was sentenced to four years' imprisonment. By reason of good behavior his term expired and he was brought here to stand trial on the old charge.

Towers says he did not steal a horse or anything else in New York State, but merely pleaded guilty to escape, as he thought, Jersey justice, where he was told he would get twenty-five years for horse stealing. He is an intelligent and handsome young fellow, and his former keepers told Chief Tenney he had been a model prisoner.

VICTIMS OF THE HEAT.

Several Persons Collapsed—Michael Cox in a Serious Condition.

The excessive heat of the last few days has caused numerous prostrations in this city and vicinity, the most serious of which is the case of Michael Cox, of East Fourth street.

Cox works for James Trewin, agent for the Ballantine brewery in this city, and yesterday noon he reported at the former's establishment on Somerset street to go out on his afternoon route. He suddenly felt ill and decided to go home. When he arrived there at 1 o'clock he fell unconscious from his seat. His wife became alarmed and immediately sent for a physician. All the afternoon Cox was in a comatose condition and fears were entertained for his recovery. His condition was serious all night, but this morning he rallied and seems to be improving now. His condition, however, is still serious.

This noon Charles Messler, of Scotch Plains, father of Alida Messler, who is in the hospital recovering from the attempt to commit suicide, was overcome by the heat while painting a house on Duer street. His condition is not serious.

A man covered with perspiration rushed into the store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company on Front street this morning and asked for a drink of water. He drank a big draught of ice water and a moment later keeled over. He soon recovered and his condition is not serious.

—Your eyes will take care of you if you will take care of them. When they warn you that something is wrong pay attention to it. We will examine them without cost to you. Leech, Stiles & Co., at 107 East Front street, every Thursday. Hours 10:30 to 4.

—At the cake and candy sale to be given tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Young Women's Club there will also be ice cream for sale, which is very seasonable at this time. The proceeds of the sale will be devoted to paying the rent for the clubroom during the summer, and no doubt there will be a liberal patronage.

A large number of the members from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, of this city, are in attendance at the convention, and they will stand united in their support for the re-election of Department Commander Smith. MOTHER GOOSE THERE

A NOVEL AFFAIR IN SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Old Time Melodies Presented in Character, Part of Which Were With Tableaux—Those Who Took Part in the Affair.

"Mother Goose" and her children were present at the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening to assist in the strawberry and ice cream festival given under the auspices of the women of the church. Considering the very warm evening the attendance was excellent.

During the early part of the evening famous Mother Goose melodies were presented in character, the first number on the programme being a Mother Goose quadrille, in which the family took part. Then there was given a series of tableaux. The first one was "Old Mother Hubbard," by Helen Rogers. The recitation was given by Evaloise St. John. The next one was "Little Boy Blue," by George Rogers, Jr.; followed with a solo entitled "Little Bo Peep," which was given by Bessie Dunham. The part "When I Was a Bachelor," and the character of the wife were taken by Roy Titsworth and Evaloise St. John, followed with a recitation by Beulah Rogers. The part of "The Old Woman Tossed up in a Blanket," was taken by Eva Rogers.

At this time a pleasing vocal solo was given by Mrs. David E. Titsworth, after which George Babcock appeared representing "Simple Simon," and the recitation was given by Marie Rogers. The programme concluded with a duet entitled "Where Are You Going My Pretty Maid," by Cornelia Miller and Chas. Titsworth.

Then followed the sale of strawberries and ice cream by those in charge and almost everything was disposed of. A sociable time was one of the enjoyable features.

ence and faith. The builders of our system thoroughly understood the meaning of these types and symbols, and selected them because of their meaning. The ceremonies of ancient craft Masonry outline prophecy, and picture sacrifice, of which a consistent meaning can be found only in the sacred Scriptures."

After the above address the Grand Master made a few appropriate remarks in which he eulogized highly the remarks of Dr. Richardson. He also stated that the sentiments of the address were the same as those expressed at a meeting of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York, held yesterday.

The visitors were obliged to leave in time to take the 9:30 o'clock train from New York, and after their departure the evening was devoted to social features, during which a bountiful collation was served. A feature of the affair was the fine music rendered by Joseph A. Sattel's orchestra, and a trombone solo by Garret T. Dunham.

The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion by Brother Miles, and a profusion of choice roses were used, while every member present was presented with a pink rose.

The committees, to whom is due the credit for the delightful affair, are as follows: Reception — Past Masters Jacob Kirkner, Wm. Sebring, D. C. Adams, H. O. Hance, Wm. Ford; entertainment—G. T. PRETTY SOCIETY EVENT.

MARRIAGE OF A POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE OF THIS CITY.

Frederick Napp Fish, Jr., and Miss Netta Brakeley Abernethy, of This City, Made Man and Wife Yesterday Afternoon—Beautiful Floral Display—Elaborate Costumes—Costly Presents.

One of the society events of the early summer months took place yesterday afternoon in this city, when Miss Netta Brakeley Abernethy was joined in marriage with Frederick Knapp Fish, Jr. Miss Abernethy is the youngest daughter of Brigadier-General H. H. Abernethy and a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, but whose home is in this city during the summer months. She is a young woman of much personal charm and many accomplishments, and is a niece of Dr. P. H. Brakeley.

The groom is a popular young man and a representative of one of the most prominent families in Plainfield.

The ceremony was performed at about 4 o'clock at the home of the bride, 816 Seventh street, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church performed the ceremony.

The floral decorations were beautiful and in perfect taste. While taking their vows the bride and groom stood beneath a bridal bower erected in the wheel window at the west end of the parlor. Suspended from the bower, which was formed of evergreens and southern smilax, was a wishbone made of white satin ribbon.

In the hallway was arranged a profusion of choice flowers, whose fragrance permeated the atmosphere of the handsome home. They consisted of peonies and daisies, while potted plants and ferns were conspicuous in various rooms throughout the lower part of the house. The stair rail was trimmed with smilax, while in the dining hall on the mantle was banked with American beauty roses, making a pretty effect and setting off to good advantage the handsomely decorated table with its costly silver and cut glassware.

Concealed behind a profusion of palms was stationed the well known orchestra of Prof. Cramer, of Jersey City, whose soft strains of music floated through the rooms after the ceremony and while congratulations were being extended.

The bride was richly gowned in a robe of white thread lace, an importation from Vienna. It was richly trimmed with white chiffon and tulle. She also wore a white veil caught together with orange blossoms and a diamond crescent, the gift of her affianced. She carried an exquisite bouquet composed of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Katharine Shafer, of Brooklyn, was maid-of-honor. Her gown was of pink point de esprit with pink museline desoire over pink silk and decorated with garlands of beauty roses upon the overskirt. She also carried a bouquet of roses.

Lambert H. Fish, of this city, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were James Middledith, of Plainfield, Griswald Thompson, of New York, and Eugene Smith, of Orange.

A reception, extending from 5 to 7 o'clock, was given the guests after the ceremony.

In an uppor reception room an extensive array of numerous, beautiful and costly presents were arranged for inspection.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish left on an early train to enjoy their honeymoon at the seashore. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

KING'S DAUGHTERS AND BABIES' CAMP.

Joint Meeting of Committees Held This Morning.

DEFINITE PLANS ARE MADE.

A PORTABLE ONE-STORY BUILDING TO BE SECURED.

It is Calculated to Have it Ready for Occupancy by the Middle of July—$1,000 Wanted to Make it a Success—Experienced Nurse to Be Employed to Take Care of the Little Tots.

There was an enthusiastic joint meeting of the executive board of the King's Daughters and the Baby Camp committee in the directors' room at the Y. M. C. A. building at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Miss Ella Blish, president of the King's Daughters, presided.

The meeting was held for the purpose of furthering the plans with reference to the Babies' Camp—that worthy object which the King's Daughters have undertaken to care for and bring to a success. The committee decided to have erected a portable one-story two room house near Vail's Springs, upon the Watchung mountains. The house is to be a frame structure, substantially built, and will be nicely painted and comfortably furnished for the little tots who are to be cared for there. The contract has been let to W. E. Brock, of Mountain avenue, who is to construct the building at a cost not to exceed $500. The site for the camp has been selected and permission to use the property has been obtained from Elston M. French. The building is to be completed by July 1st, and is to be ready for occupancy about the middle of July, when the babies will be admitted.

Miss Stetzer, a competent woman who has had considerable experience in the Red Cross society and was a nurse in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, will have immediate charge of the building and the supervision of the babies and those who are sent to the camp to assist in caring for them.

Miss E. B. Little, secretary of the King's Daughters, reported that up to the present time there had been $2 3 received in cash. As the building will cost $500, it was the sense of the members of the executive board that at least $1,000 would be necessary to carry on the good work during July, August and a portion of September. It was suggested that the pastors of the various city churches make an appeal to their congregation next Sunday and that special collections be taken either in the churches or Sunday-schools to raise funds to assist in defraying the expenses of this noble work of charity.

The cash contributions to date are: B. A. Hegeman, $300; W. L. Saunders, $50; Mrs. M. L. Mead, $10; Mrs. Frank Rowley, $10; Constance Wilcox, proceeds of a children's fair, $5; Madeline Reed, $3; Advance Circle, $20; Cheerful Workers, $20; Daughters of the Cross, $25; Daily Press fund, $40.

The contributions to The Daily Press fund are as follows to date:

SUBSCRIBERS TO BABY CAMP FUND.

THE DAILY PRESS	$5 00
Robert M. Clark, Jr.	5 00
Dr. T. S. Davis	5 00
Mrs. T. Minford	5 00
Mrs. Rowland Cox	5.00
A Friend of the Baby Camp	2 00
Mrs. A. R. Dyett, Netherwood	1.00
Antoinette D. Hill	1 00
J. H. Leggett	.50
J. P. Hutchison	.50
Mrs. Leletia M. Myers	10.00

The fact must not be forgotten that this is a purely humanitarian movement upon the part of the King's Daughters and the citizens generally, and being a most worthy object should be encouraged by all classes.

TO ADVANCE THE LOCAL INTERESTS.

Business Men Formed an Organization Last Night.

THEY ARE FULL OF ENERGY.

SILAS D. DRAKE PROPOSES A PLAN FOR GETTING FACTORIES.

Mayor Smalley Elected President of the Organization Which is to be Known as the "Plainfield Advancement Society"—Committee Appointed to Induce Lehigh to Come Here.

The Plainfield Advancement Society was formally organized last night at a meeting of the business men of the city in Coward's Hall on East Front street. Though the intense heat kept many away those who did attend the meeting were enthusiastic and energetic over the work which is to be taken up—that of pushing Plainfield's advantages as a business and residential place before the world, as well as inducing people to locate here.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Smalley, chairman of the previous meeting. He called for the report of the special committee appointed at the other meeting. Mayor Rockfellow, chairman of that committee, reported that it was the recommendation that a permanent organization be formed. The committee had discussed other matters, too, the most important of which was the suggestion of Silas D. Drake. Mr. Drake was called upon to explain his scheme.

Mr. Drake said that he believed that if the organization that was to be formed could induce the location of a few factories in Plainfield it would be the means of every man from the biggest merchant to the most lowly hod carrier, rising up and calling them blessed. What he proposed to do was to outline a plan by which this result could be brought about.

His idea was for the society, after it had got in working order, to negotiate with the owners of the property along the Central Railroad of New Jersey below Clinton avenue, to purchase the land at a reasonable price. Mr. Drake said that as the land is now situated, with no prospect of development into anything valuable because of certain obstacles that prevent such a thing in that section, it ought not to be valued at a high rate. He believed that a stock company could be organized for the purpose of securing control of this property at a nominal sum. After this had been done the thing to do would be to cut it up into lots. Then offer factory sites free to manufacturing concerns that would come here to locate on the property. The factory sites could well afford to be donated, because by the location of industries there workmen with their families would seek homes in that vicinity, the rest of the land would be enhanced in value two or three times more than what was paid for it, and so indirectly the free sites would pay for themselves. Beyond all this would be the inestimable benefit to the city as a whole.

Mr. Drake said that there was a tendency among many manufacturers to get out of the big cities and go to small places. He had found it easy to locate factories at Lincoln, where there was not much of anything, and he was very confident that with all the facilities that Plainfield could offer to such concerns, it would not be a hard job to get several factories to locate here in a short time if the plan was taken up in a thorough manner.

Following the remarks of Mr. Drake the work of forming a permanent organization was taken up. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough; vice-president, Mayor Geo. W. Rockfellow, of this city; secretary, James E. Martine; treasurer, Joseph B. Coward.

An executive committee of three members, consisting of Senator Charles A. Reed, James E. Martine and Charles Hand, was appointed by the president. Mr. Drake's suggestion was immediately referred to them.

Mr. Martine said that one of the most essential things for a movement that aims to improve and advance Plainfield was advertising. He recommended the appointment of a committee to look after this work. The president appointed W. W. St. John, Frank W. Runyon and Frank Rowley.

The question of railroads was then brought up and discussed enthusiastically for a few minutes. It was the general consensus of opinion that Plainfield was in serious need of better railway facilities in several respects. In this con-

FAIR BREEZE MAKES THE HEAT TOLERABLE

General Humidity Has Been Driven Out of the Air.

BUT IT IS STILL VERY HOT.

MORE CASES OF PERSONS PROSTRATED BY THE HEAT.

Cheering Information About Thunder Storms Last Night Shows That the Weatherwise Did Not Predict Correctly—Relief is Promised by Weather Observer Naegle Within 24 Hours.

General Humidity has been vanguished by a refreshing breeze from the southeast, and today humanity is warm but not sweltering as it was yesterday and the day before. For two days soda fountains, electric fans, light attire and all other cooling combinations failed to relieve the torridity that permeated the whole atmosphere, but today life seems more like living.

Soon after sunset last night a brisk breeze blew up and cooled the air so that the night was more comfortable. Its crisp effects could be felt by the early risers this morning, but as soon as Old Sol poked his nose up from the banks of clouds that skirted the eastern horizon the thermometer commenced to tell the tale. Today is warm, but in comparison to the last few days it is pleasant and agreeable.

The cheering information from the weatherwise that thunder storms would come last night proved a hollow mockery, for not a sprinkle of rain, a flash of lightning nor a peal of thunder was seen or heard.

Charles Smith, a tinner, employed by A. M. Griffin, the Front street hardware dealer, was prostrated by the heat Tuesday afternoon while at work upon a roof on Park avenue near Front street. The unfortunate man was removed to his home on Johnston avenue, and is in a fair way to recovery.

Weather Observer Neagle, reported this noon that relief from the heat is probable tomorrow, when thunderstorms will probably prevail. Tonight, however, a high temperature is predicted.

Overcome by Heat at Westfield.
(Special to The Daily Press)

Westfield, June 8.—A case of being overcome with the heat was experienced yesterday afternoon at this place by William Uhrhahn, of North Plainfield, who, together with Adam Heuber, of the same place, were unloading iron rails for the trolley company. Both men are employed by Captain Hand, of Plainfield. When Uhrhahn was taken ill everything appeared black before his eyes, and he called to his partner to assist him. The man was carried to a nearby place where proper treatment was administered, and the patient is now about well again.

"COUNT'S" BIG SCHEME.

PLANTED A HOUSE IN THE WAY OF THE TROLLEY.

He Doesn't Want the Tracks Laid on His Property and He Threatens Dire Things if an Attempt is Made to Do It

"Count" J. K. VanNess, of East Front street, over whose property the Plainfield Street Railway Company had planned to build their trolley tracks on the Scotch Plains extension, believes he has effectually barred their way over that route.

For some weeks past VanNess has been declaring that he would not permit the road to be built on his property, but Contractor Serrell went straight ahead and prepared the way for the laying of the rails, which was started on East Second street yesterday morning. During the morning, however, VanNess decided that he would be obliged to resort to extraordinary measures to stop the progress of the trolley.

He did this by removing a small house that stands on his land to the line of the track. He declares that he will never consent to have the house removed, and that if the trolley company attempt to do this there will be trouble of a serious kind.

The Political Situation In Prospect in Union County.

SENATOR CROSS TO RUN.

ELIZABETH JOURNAL SPEAKS AUTHORATATIVELY ABOUT IT.

Declares That There is Likely to be a Combination Formed to Make a Plainfield Republican a Senatorial Candidate—Several Democrats Who Aspire for Office — Sheriff Kirk's Position.

The Elizabeth Daily Journal, recognized as the newspaper that speaks for the Union County Republicans, yesterday printed the following article concerning political prospects in this county:

Union county politics seems to be a fertile theme, even in these early days, for the papers in Philadelphia, New York city, Newark, Paterson, Trenton and other interesting cities and towns. There are many reasons for the interest which other localities take in the politics in Union county.

In the Democratic party it is reported that Jacob Glaser, of this city, is a candidate for Sheriff, and that Freeholder Swain, of Summit, is also looking toward that same office with longing eyes. Former Sheriff Hicks is said to want the Democratic nomination for State Senator, because he believes there will be a fight in the Republican party over that office. Former County Clerk Crowell is also laying wires, it is said, for a renomination for the office he liked so well, and Councilman Ford is talked of for the same office. President Ryan, of the City Council, is also spoken of by the Democracy as a possible candidate for Senator.

The Republicans are so confident of success that the number of candidates is quite as large as ever, with probably more to rise over the political horizon when the campaign really opens up.

The nomination for Senator goes naturally and logically to Senator Cross. There are, however, some indications of a scheme to defeat him. The same parties who endeavored to split up the Elizabeth delegation last year are reported to have initiated a similar scheme this year. Senator Cross is not now and never has been subservient to these parties, and for this reason they want to defeat his nomination this year. The scheme, thus far outlined, is to engage a Plainfield man preferably, but a man from any part of the county outside of Elizabeth will do, to make a hot fight for the Senatorial nomination. This, if it succeeds, may give both the Sheriff and the County Clerk to Elizabeth, which will suit the anti Cross workers to a dot.

As a part of this scheme it has been reported that Senator Cross does not wish a renomination and that Governor Voorhees did not want Senator Cross renominated. Neither of these reports has the slightest warrant. Senator Cross expects a renomination. Party usage and good record entitle him to it, and Governor Voorhees favors his renomination above the nomination of any other man.

There is likely to be a struggle for County Clerk. William Howard, the present incumbent, desires a second term Sheriff Kirk, of Plainfield, is undoubtedly a candidate, though as yet not aggressive. Plainfield has also another candidate in J. T. MacMurray, and Assemblyman George A. Squire is a candidate who will make himself formidable before the convention. Former Councilman Charles H. K. Halsey and his friends are also beginning to work for the nomination, believing that it is none too soon to get into the struggle.

The office of sheriff will also be sought for by a number of candidates, and the struggle will be sharp. Assemblyman Roberrt Houston is the foremost candidate at present, and expects to make a vigorous fight for the nomination. The anti-Cross element in Elizabeth is said, however, to be willing to sacrifice Houston, and to this end may endeavor to make a deal with Plainfield's candidate. J. Martin Roll, former member of Assembly, is talked of in connection with the Shrievalty nomination.

Accident to Steam Roller.

There was a slight accident to the big steam roller yesterday while it was rolling its way over East Front street. A bolt to the machinery gave way in such a manner as to smash one of the oil cups and Engineer John Porter was slightly burned about the hands and face by the hot oil spattering upon him. The machine was quickly repaired and was afterwards used on West Front street.

IN THE THICKEST OF THE FILIPINO WAR.

Billy Egbert Tells of Soldiers Life in the Phillippines.

FUTILITY OF PARLEYING.

SAYS THAT THERE IS TOO MUCH DICKERING WITH "AGGIE"

The Only Way the War Can be Stopped is by the American Army Going in and Licking the Filipinos From the Word Go—Interesting Anecdote of General Charles King, Commander.

William H. Egbert, of this city, who has been in the Phillippine Islands for several months past as a private in Company L, First Washington Volunteers, has written a long letter to J. F. MacDonald, of East Front street, concerning his experiences and observations there. A portion of it is as follows:

Since my last letter to you on cartridge boxes we have had busy times, and have sustained losses that make the boys anxious to hear the word that the regiment is to be ordered home.

While lying at the position named we lost several men and had a number wounded. We were there about three weeks, and it was a continual skirmish day and night, and while we inflicted severe loss on the enemy our own losses only made us the more anxious to advance.

The forward movement brought us first to Guadaloupe, where one of the finest churches and convents on the Island was destroyed; from there to Sautan, Pateron, Tagung and Pasig. All these places were taken in the order named in the course of three or four days.

At no time have we met with a repulse, invariably driving the enemy with severe loss; and yet the boys are not contented. Drive the Filipinoes for miles and return to our lines, and the next morning find them back pecking away at us with their Mausers, and all that has been accomplished counts for naught; summed up as a victory for us, but still several more good brave blue-shirted boys laid to rest.

Only day before yesterday we lost four killed and had twelve wounded.

I wish some of the "powers that be" were here instead of in the States talking "Parley" and "Conciliation."

Both are very high sounding in theory but devilish poor articles in practice. There is a rumor afloat today to the effect that "Aggie" is negotiating for terms of peace; but we treat it as an army rumor, pure and simple. To us who have been in the field constantly for three months, the only peace, that is, lasting peace, that will come, will be that peace that is effected by a fight to a finish, not by talk and parley.

It would take an endless amount of space for me to write in detail of the many brave and daring acts that have been accomplished, not only by individuals but by companies, regiments, in fact by the entire Eighth Army Corps.

Let me mention one as a sample of many. Pateron is situated on an island about one half mile wide and three miles in length. When it become necessary to land troops there two companies, L and D, of the First Washington, crossed in two canoes, ten in each canoe, five trips being required, landing and driving out the enemy, knowing that there were between a thousand and fifteen hundred troops there armed with Mauser rifles of the latest pattern.

We have had for a Brigade Commander General Charles King, prince of men. He returns to the States in a few days and sorry we are to lose him.

One sentence of his at the battle of Santa Ana will never be forgotten by the men of his command.

Sitting on his horse about the centre of his line, the boys by some natural instinct began moving forward, no command had been given to charge, but the move, slow at first became faster. General King called "halt;" the men kept moving, again he called "halt," still the men advanced. "Halt" he cried a third time and the men were almost at a charge—the General yelled "Go on, I will give one command that you will obey."

The care that has been given us by the Government I am glad to say has been excellent, we are not cursed with a "beef scandal" and when the fact is taken into consideration that we are in a strange climate 7,000 miles from home, nothing but praise can be given to the authorities.

I have thought often and seriously over what is called the "Phillippine

OPPOSED TO YOUNG VETERANS IN G. A. R.

State Encampment Will Probably Vote Against the Idea.

CONDITION OF THE POSTS.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN THE MEMBERSHIP DURING THE YEAR.

Election of Commander to Succeed Mr. Smith Will Be Held This Afternoon—Contest is Exciting—About 700 Delegates in Attendance Today—The Break in the Heat is Appreciated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 8—The second day's session of the State encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic opened today with the veterans feeling somewhat better, owing to the relief from the excessive heat of yesterday. Department Commander Smith, of Plainfield, was in the chair. About 700 delegates were present today.

The most important matter to be decided today is the election of a successor to Commander Smith.

The nominations of officers for the ensuing year were made at the afternoon session yesterday.

The nominees for department commander are: George Barrett, Post 5, Camden; Charles B. Parsons, Post 61, Red Bank, and Oscar F. Gifford, present senior vice-commander, of Post 11, Newark. Comrade Barrett was nominated by Comrade Meseroll, of Trenton, and is said to stand the best chance of election.

Assistant Adjutant-General E. C. Morse, of Plainfield, in his annual report, showed the number of members in good standing on December 31st, 1898, to be 6,114, a decrease from the previous year of 267. Adjutant Morse recommended that the position of Assistant Quartermaster-General be consolidated with that of Assistant Adjutant General, and that the compensation of the latter be restored to $500 a year.

The report of Assistant Quartermaster-General John G. Fisher showed the financial standing of the department, with these assets: Cash balance in postoffice, $34,560 42; cash balance in relief funds, real estate, $50,268.36; invested in collaterals, $3,900.75; flags, furniture, etc., $47,063.02; total, $162,134.62.

It is pretty generally conceded that the encampment will vote against instructing the New Jersey delegates to the coming National encampment to vote in favor of admitting to the G. A. R. the soldiers of the Spanish-American War.

Department Commander Smith reported having made a large number of visits during the year to the various posts in the department, and spoke of uniform courtesy and cordiality with which he had been received. Senior Vice-Commander O. T. Gifford's report was much along the same line.

FELL TWENTY-FIVE FEET.

A Young Boy Playing in a Hay Loft and Hurt.

Frank Schropfer, a young lad, had a narrow escape from being killed late yesterday afternoon. He and Thomas Mullen, another boy, were playing in the hay loft in the rear of Koch's meat market on West Front street, which is nearly twenty-five feet high. Mullen had already jumped from the loft, and just as his partner was prepared to jump he slipped and fell through a trapdoor to the ground floor.

In the descent he struck something sharp and hard, and an incision fully four inches long was made in the back of the head behind the left ear. The boy became unconscious, and his playmate was greatly frightened. Edward Britton, who happened to be at LaRue's stationery store, was called and assisted in taking the injured boy to the store, where he had his wounds dressed. In the course of a half hour Schropfer was able to go home.

A Good Place to Stop.

A delightful place to stop this afternoon or evening will be at the rooms of the Young Women's Club, West Front street, opposite Washington avenue, where a cake and candy sale is being held for the purpose of raising funds to pay the rent for the rooms during the summer. Ice cream will also be on sale. No doubt there will be a liberal patronage and thus the young women will be assisted in their earnest efforts to sustain a club that is of a incalcuable value to them in more ways than one. No admission fee is charge to the sale today.

E. B. Ryder and family, of Central avenue, have returned home from a short vacation.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Plainfield, But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help.

There is no organ in the body so delicately constructed or so important to health.

The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

If they do not filter the blood very soon becomes foul and poisonous.

Anybody knows that there can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

It is the kidney's cry for help. Heed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys—help them to do their work—never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from a Plainfield citizen.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says:—"I was troubled at times with symptoms of kidney complaint for four years. My chief difficulty was a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They however grew worse instead of better so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise. I consider that Doan's Kidney Pills are a splendid remedy for complaints like mine."

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents a box. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

A WORK OF DECEPTION

Many Refugees Attempting to Reach Manila Are Turned Back by the Authorities.

Country Roads Thronged With Men, Women and Children, Staggering Under Loads of Household Effects—Refugees Tell of Being Forced to Give up Many of Their Supplies.

Manila, June 8.—A thousand refugees who are attempting to come to Manila are being turned back by the authorities, who are fearful of the city becoming overpopulated, causing a pestilence and famine.

There are frequent sights on the country roads of men, women and children staggering along under loads of household effects. The refugees are hungry, but not starving. The American officials are issuing rice to them for their present needs.

Many of the refugees tell of being forced to give up their supplies to the insurgent army. They are afraid to return to the enemy's lines on account of the possible attacks.

The insurgent government is to issue an order for all military forces to discard their uniforms and wear ordinary white in order to deceive our army.

Communistic societies have been formed in northern Luzon for the equal division of property.

Manila, June 8.—Prof. Schurman, president of the United States Philippine commission, sails from here Friday on board the United States gunboat Bennington, for a three weeks' trip among the southern islands. The gunboat Petrel has also been placed at the professor's disposal, and he will visit Iloilo, Cebu, Negros and Sulu. He expects to investigate the local governments and have talks with the leading natives. He will sail for home in July. The other members of the commission wil remain here for some months longer.

Gen. Hall's brigade left Morong marching along the lake to Taytay. The troops encountered pretically no opposition on entering several small towns, though a few insurgent sharpshooters hung about the flanks of the brigade.

Morong, which is an important port, will be garrisoned temporarily by the North Dakota regiment and the fourth cavalry.

Mobbed a Preacher

Wheeling, W. Va., June 8.—The Rev. W. L. Cheatham of Indian county, Pa., was mobbed and roughly handled at Benwood, a suburban manufacturing town, because he rode a short distance in a car of the Wheeling Railway Company, which at present is employing non-union men on account of the trolley workers' strike. The treatment of the preacher did not result in serious injury. Mr. Cheatham is a preacher of the Seventh Day sect, and passed through Wheeling on his way to Moundsville to attend the campmeeting being held there by his church.

Mr. Thomson's Successor

Philadelphia, June 8.—A prominent official of the Pennsylvania Railroad says that, in his opinion, the successor to the late Frank Thomson as president of the road would be either S. M. Provost or James McCrea. Capt. Green is acting president and will continue so until the vacancy is filled.

Dreyfus in Good Health

Fort de France, Martinique, June 8.—Dispatches from Cayenne say all efforts to interview Dreyfus have been futile. The prisoner is apparently in good health, but seems to be fatigued. The verdict of the Court of Cassation has caused a very favorable impression here and in French Guiana.

Dynamiters Blow Up a House

San Antonio, Tex., June 8.—Charles A. Beeler, who robbed the Wells-Fargo express of $50,000, on December 28, and fled to Mexico, where he was captured in the mountains after a three months' chase, has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Bloomington, Ill., June 8.—The body of Nannie Paul has been recovered from the lake in Miller Park. Miss Paul was twenty-five years old, handsome, cultured and the daughter of a wealthy bank president at Stanford. No cause for the suicide is known.

A $5,000 BANK SWINDLE.

German Insurance Bank of Louisville, is Victimized by Sharpers.

Louisvill, Ky., June 8.—The German Insurance Bank of this city was victimized by two young sharpers. Just before closing time Edmund Rapp, assistant cashier and paying teller, was rung up by telephone.

"This is Edmunds, cashier of the Citizens' National," said a voice. "Can you let us have $5,000 in tens, twenties and fifties?"

An affirmative reply was given and the voice said:

"All right, I will send two men around right away."

A few moments later two well-dressed young men, who looked like bank runners, appeared at Rapp's window and presented a check payable to order, signed "William Edmunds, cashier." Rapp merely glanced at the check, which was a clumsy forgery, and handed out the money.

She Has the Skin of a Fish.

Salina, Kan., June 8.—A 14-year-old girl named Walker, who lives with her parents near Solomon City, fifteen miles east of Salina, is suffering from a terrible affliction. Since her birth she has had what the doctors call a fish skin, scales like those of a fish having completely covered her body. Her eyes are red and inflamed and have never closed. The girl belongs to a respectable family and they have spent a great deal of money having her treated. A few years ago they took her to the Pacific coast and placed her under the care of a specialist, but without results.

Wire Workers Walk Out

Kansas City, Mo., June 8.—The Electrical Inside Wire Workers' Union, No. 18, has ordered a strike of all inside wire workers, and, as a result, eighty-five men walked out. Two reasons are given for the strike—one by the men and the other by the employers. The men claim that they have asked an advance in all classes of about 5 cents an hour, but that employers continued to defer action. The employers say that the men demanded that the employe alone should decide to what class a workman belonged. This they would not agree to.

A large smelter and a concentrator will be erected at once.

To Avenge His Wife's Honor.

Mason City, Io., June 8.—A sensation developed in the Sone murder trial in the testimony of the defendant's wife, who accused Allison, the murdered man, of calling at her home and making improper proposals. OHIO WILL SHUT IT OUT.

The Sugar Trust Notified Not to do Business in the Buckeye State

BIG FINE TO BE IMPOSED

Attorney General Frank S. Monnett, Serves Notice to That Effect on H. O. Havemeyer.

John E. Parsons, Attorney for the American Sugar Refining Company Refused to Say What the Trust Will Do in the Matter—Indiana Court Shows One Way to Grapple Trusts.

New York, June 8.—Attorney-General Frank S. Monnett of Ohio served notice on Henry O. Havemeyer, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, that the company had been adjudged a trust under the laws of the State of Ohio, and that according to such laws the company was liable to the payment of a forfeit of $50 a day for each day that it continued to do business in Ohio after the service of the notice. Mr. Monnett did not serve the notice in person. He got the Sheriff's office in New York county to help him. The notice was mailed in Columbus, O., and came to Mr. Dunn's office. Assistant Deputy Sheriff John Zahn went down to the headquarters of the American Sugar Refining Company at 117 Wall street and served the notice on Mr. Havemeyer.

When Mr. John E. Parsons, the attorney for the sugar company was asked what the company would do in the matter, he said:

"The Attorney General of Ohio has, I understand, given notice to a large number of corporations, including the American Sugar Refining Company, that if they continue to violate the statutes of Ohio they will forfeit $50 a day. He does not specify what the sugar company has done or is doing. I know of nothing which has been done by it, and I know of no purpose on its part to violate the law of any State."

Indianapolis, Ind., June 8.—By a decision of the Indiana Supreme Court, it is possible to meet the conditions presented by the organization of trusts in this State and to overcome their alleged evil effects upon the people regardless of the failure of the last Legislature to pass an anti-trust law. In the case of two gas companies, organized to supply consumers with natural gas and which combined to fix prices the court holds that they are abusing their corporate powers and their franchises may be declared forfeited.

Judge Jordan wrote the opinion and holds that corporations are authorized by the State for the benefit of the people and whenever they enter into combinations to limit the products which they make or handle, or fix a price which shall be common to both, or in any way by combining one with another militate against the interests of the people, they are not living up to their corporate privileges, but are abusing them and may be compelled by law to forfeit them. In view of the Attorney-General's purpose to proceed against all trusts formed in this State the decision is regarded as far-reaching.

Actress Lashes Manager.

New York, June 8.—Marcus R. Mayer, the theatrical manager, when about to board the steamship St. Paul this forenoon at the American line pier was severely horsewhipped by a blonde middle-aged woman, said to be Mrs. Stanton. The horsewhipping was witnessed by thousands of persons among the number being Chief of Detectives McClusky.

After the assault Mrs. Stanton was arrested by Patrolman Kelp, but as Mayer refused to prosecute her she was let go. The horsewhipping is said to have been the result of an old grudge between the pair.

Reed to Stay in Congress.

Washington, June 8.—The personal friends of Speaker Reed in Washington, according to a report published in the Washington Post make an interesting explanation of the fact that he has not yet said that he intended to resign from Congress. This report says that it is Mr. Reed's purpose to remain in Congress, but not to be speaker, and to deovte the greater part of his time to law business in New York.

He Boiled It Down.

An amusing story is told of the editor of a go-ahead evening newspaper, who in the internal rushing to press to get ahead of the opposition, was constantly impressing upon his reporters the necessity of condensing all news.

A terrible boiler explosion had taken place on board a big ship lying at Portsmouth.

"Get down there as hard as you can," he said to one of his men. If you catch the 11:40 you will be there soon after 2, and you can just wire something for the extra special—but boil it down."

People of France Demand That He Shall Suffer as Dreyfus Has Suffered—Discussion of His Recent Confession Causes Increased Bitter Feeling—Forty Royalists Placed Under Arrest.

Paris, June 8.—The government has instituted vigorous steps to demand the extradition of Esterhazy, who is at present in England and says he will make a strong fight against being returned to France.

The authorities here have fully determined that the principal actor in the disgraceful proceedings that made Capt. Dreyfus an outcast and a life convict on Devil's Island shall be brought to justice and made to suffer for the part he played in an affair that has shocked the whole civilized world. The people of France demand that Esterhazy shall suffer as Dreyfus has suffered and the government is with them in their clamorings for prompt action. The more his recent confession is discussed the more bitter the feeling against him becomes among all classes.

According to the Echo de Paris, Gen. Zode will replace Gen. Zurlinden as Military Governor of Paris.

At a meeting of the Republican, Socialist and Radical Senators and members of the Chamber of Deputies after a lengthy discussion a delegation was appointed to call upon M. Dupuy and ascertain what is to be the attitude of the Government in the present situation, which is regarded as threatening.

The Eclair denies that the removal of Zurlinden is contemplated, and claims that there is no disagreement between Zurlinden, M. Krantz and other representatives of the Government.

A despatch to Petit Journal from Bordeaux says that a Royalist demonstration occurred in front of the Military Club and the Headquarters of the Eighteenth Corps. The police succeeded in dispersing the crowds. Forty arrests were made.

Murphy's Opportunity.

It is reported that Franklin Murphy, the chairman of the Republican State Committee, has a notion of taking a hand in the necessary work of reorganization of the Hudson Republicans. Should he do so and then succeed in placing the Hudson Republicans on a fighting basis his claims for the occupancy of the Gubernatorial chair, when the term of the present incumbent expires, would be bright.

Last November the county gave a majority of over 11,000 for Crane, the Democratic candidate for Governor, despite the fact that Voorhees was considered very popular among the voters. Again last spring Mayor Hoos was re-elected by a larger increasing majority in Jersey City. These results were due to Democratic unity and Republican apathy and dissensions. At those elections the Republican machine was sadly out of gear, and since then it has been crumbling to pieces. It is no wonder, then, that a loud call has been made for the unhorsing of Colonel Dickinson and other leaders, who are held responsible for the chaos which exists.

A Political Issue.

The aid of the Supreme Court has been invoked to compel the Board of Aldermen to redistrict the wards of New Brunswick, in compliance with a law passed last winter. This law ordered the redistricting to proceed forthwith, but so far the Board of Aldermen had done nothing to carry the law into effect,

The disparity of the wards in New Brunswick is more marked than perhaps in any other city of the State. The combined population of the First, Third and Fourth wards does not equal that of the Fifth Ward, and exceeds the population of the Sixth ward by but only a small number. The total vote cast in the Fourth ward at the Spring election this year was 272, while that cast in the Fifth ward was 1,170. The Republicans carried the city on their Alderman ticket by 365 majority, yet elected but two of six Aldermen. They carried the city on the Freeholders' ticket by 75 majority, yet elected but one of six Freeholders. Hence it is the New Brunswick Republicans who are the most anxious for the redistricting, whilethe Democratic Board of Aldermen is in no hurry to change the wards.

Advertising, with all its diversity of form and vast amount of needed information, is not only a great and permanent factor in the newspaper world; it has also become one of the conveniences in the domestic economy, says the Philadelphia Record. People no longer put themselves to much trouble in the selection of places at which to make purchases of goods. The newspaper advertisements are relied upon to obviate any difficulty in that direction. The merchant who fails to furnish the public the information concerning his establishment which prospective purchasers are really desirous of having might as well conclude to live in obscurity. The people will not hunt him up unless he shows by interesting advertising announcements how they can conveniently find him, and what advantages in the way of supplying their needs he can offer them.

It is said that Assemblyman Squire, of Union, would also like to handle the gavel at the next session of the Legislature. He was made the Speaker pro tem. when Speaker Watkins was the acting-Governor. Assemblyman Squire would also like to be the County Clerk of Union, but it is believed that he can easily be made the Speaker, because he is popular and has the ability. Assemblyman Wood, of Mercer, would like the honor, and it is possible that he may be made the leader on the floor of the House.

Samuel Jones, Toledo's millionaire Republican-Socialist Mayor, anounces his retirement from State politics. He is writing a book, the proceeds to be devoted to furthering Socialism.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The State's income from incorporation fees seems to be accepted by most of the New Jersey newspapers as a permanent source of revenue, something which will continue in its present volume, if it does not grow. As a matter of fact, signs of its diminution are already apparent, and in the natural order of things, the fees for certificates of new companies will practically disappear in a little while. Other States may be favored with the preference of the trusts, and the limit of combinations is being reached, in any case.—Newark Call.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

J. W. VanSickle, the North avenue butcher, received a letter yesterday from Walter N. Martin, formerly of this city, who is now representing Swift & Company at Porto Rico. Mr. Martin writes that he has not been ill once since he has been away. He is very much in love with the country where he is located and says that he is doing a fine business. He is obliged many times to purchase cattle and put the meat in cold storage, owing to the irregularity of the transportation service that brings meat from the States. He says that he expects to return home at an early date.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

Stars of the first magnitude in the dramatic world are always to be found at the Proctor continuous theatres in New York, namely at the Twenty-third St. Theatre and the Pleasure Palace, Fifty-eight street and Third avenue. The leader of the bill at the Palace for the week beginning June 12th is Rose Coghlan, that eminent actress, for so long a staunch favorite with theatregoers. She will appear as Mrs. Sheldon, the actress, in her own playlet, entitled "Between Matinee and Night." Beside Rose Coghlan are a score of the best acrobats, singers and dancers, and musical and dialect comedians in vaudeville. A tremendous popularity has been gained by the Pleasure Palace in their special summer prices of 10 cents for the best seats to the ladies in the afternoons. The headliner at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre June 12th will be Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in their newest comedietta, "Diana on the Chase." It is a cyclone of mirth from the start.

—Tomorrow evening the Epworth League of Grace M. E. church will hold a special business meeting.

—For the second time this season the East Hammonton Hotel has been threatened with destruction by forest fires which have surrounded it. Yesterday a fierce fire was raging in the woods surrounding it. The hotel is vacant.

question," expansion," and what the papers term "Imperialism," and the more I study and think over the matter the farther I seem to be from a settled conviction. These Islands are wonderfully fertile. Timber of great value is here and there can be no doubt as to the existance of mineral, how reliable and in what quantities cannot at present be learned. Spanish records are of no use in making any estimate as to the wealth of the Islands in regard to any industry. Rope manufacture has been a leading industry and could be largely increased. The sugar and factory industries have given employment to large numbers of people; the culture of coffee will in time be a leading feature, and the rice crop is one of the mainstays of the Islands.

All of these industries are, so to speak, in their infancy and with the introduction of modern methods would be vastly increased, and there is no question as to the fixture of the Islands under the proper government. As I wrote you before the people are naturally quick to learn and are more intelligent than is generally believed.

I believe it will take years and entail a heavy expense before the Islands are what they should be—to be called a part of the grand old states of the Union.

When a lasting peace is declared there will be a fine field here for investment and business. But no man should come here without capital and plenty of nerve. If I had sufficient capital I should remain and follow my old calling of mining. But the question is "How long will it be before the U. S. Government will have things settled?"

The trouble is that our people move too slow. Quick and decisive action is what is necessary—either whip the Filipinoes into subjection at once or else "back down." With all the drawbacks I am strongly tempted to remain anyway and see the thing out. There is a smack of adventure about the future that seems to fit me. I shall, however, be governed by circumstances. Write to me whenever you can, and any old paper will be pounced on as a rare treat.

Very truly yours,
Wm. H. Egbert,

nection Elston M. French, who was chairman of the transportation committee of the Board of Trade, stated that he believed that the Lehigh Valley Railroad was anxious and willing to build a spur to Plainfield, and that such a result would force the Central Railroad to make concessions very quick. It was decided that two railroad committees would be best—one to work with the Central and the other with the Lehigh.

On the former former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, J. D. Runyon and D. C. Ivins were appointed. On the other Elston M. French, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Charles Hand were appointed.

The question of a committee on a constitution and by-laws was then brought up and Mr. Smalley appointed the following to formulate such to be presented at the next meeting: Robert M. Clark, E. E. Pray, C. W. Runyon and W. W. St. John.

It was decided to hold the next meeting Tuesday evening, June 20th, when important matters will be brought up before the society.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

Manager Chas. Runyon, of the local telephone company, was in Bound Brook yesterday looking after the interests of his company.

Chas. Sprigg, of Howard street, is obliged to carry his arm in a sling, as a result of the trouble which he had with his father a few days ago.

Mrs. Arnold, wife of Judge Arnold, of Philadelphia, has returned home after a visit at the home of former Mayor J. F. Wilson, of "Tunlaw."

Fred J. Kenney, a graduate of the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, has accepted a position at Armstrong's pharmacy and has entered upon his duties. The young man comes highly recommended and no doubt he will be found an efficient man behind the prescription counter.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink, 15 and 25c.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 8.—Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Fisher, a teacher in the Lincoln School, and Charles Mattis, of North Plainfield. The wedding will take place at an early date.

Today the scholars of the local schools throughout Piscataway township are holding their annual out-of-doors festival and sociable. There is a large attendance and during the day a number of excellent addresses were made by leading educators from neighboring places. The place of meeting is near the New Market lake, and it is as cool a place as can be found for such a gathering. These affairs are always pleasant and they afford an opportunity for all to become better acquainted with each other.

The Watchung Water Company is rapidly getting things ready to lay their mains through North avenue, and it is thought that inside of a week the work will be started.

Prof. VanSyckle, superintendent of the public schools, and his family, will leave the borough after the commencement exercises, and will go to Jersey City.

Lud Frazee, the painter, was able to resume work yesterday on the Dealaman building, having recovered from the effects of the intense heat.

Yesterday afternoon the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church were entertained at the home of Mrs. Morris Barick.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 8.—The many friends of Miss Emma Adams, who has been a teacher in the public school for several years, will be sorry to learn that she intends giving up her position at the end of her present term and return to her home in Middletown, N. Y. Miss Adams, during her stay in town, has made many warm friends in the school and village and her presence will be missed.

The favorite pastime for the boys in town now is to enjoy a cooling swim at the back pond. Every afternoon and evening for the last week a large number of them have enjoyed the pleasure.

The young people of Fanwood will give a dramatic entertainment in the fire house this evening. The proceeds are for the benefit of the fire company of the borough.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 8—A report got around town yesterday that an injunction had been issued against the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company and that all work had been stopped on the building of the trolley. It was true that all work had been stopped but it was for the reason that the company had decided to complete the line from Plainfield to Scotch Plains before July 1st and so the men were put to work on that section of the road.

The valedictorian of the graduating class of the Lincoln High School is Miss Elizabeth Morehouse. The other members of the class are Madison Schoonover, Margaret Josephine Oliver, Annabelle French, Elizabeth Henrietta Willoughby, Alice Yoshida Meore and Minnie Welles LeClear. Arrangements for the New Jersey Delegates to Detroit.

The Transportation Committee of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union has announced an itinerary for those attending the Detroit convention from July 5th to July 11th. OUR HOLY RELIGION.

EVER THE SAME DURING ALL TIME AND IN ALL PLACES.

It Is the True Church and Cannot Change—Its Four Marks of Genuine Christianity, Unity, Sanctity, Universality and Apostolicity.

Bishop John Shanley of Fargo, N. D., recently delivered an eloquent address on the subject, "Why I am a Catholic." In the course of his address the bishop pointed out the principles of the Catholic church that were founded on the Bible and the teachings of the 12 apostles, and he said he had been unable to discover any other denomination that had so thoroughly advocated the apostolic teaching. He said:

"I am a Christian because I believe in the divinity of Jesus Christ, and I belong to a church that has for the past 19 centuries made that the pivot of its teachings. You will find the self same truths taught in every Catholic church in the city, and in the world for that matter. But I defy any man to tell what the doctrine of the other churches may be. Some advocate baptism and others say that it is a myth; some teach that there are three distinct persons in God and others say there is but one.

"It is impossible that all the doctrine from these conflicting pulpits can be true. The question is, Which church possesses the truth which the babe of Bethlehem brought into the world? One fact stands alone, and that is that Jesus Christ came into the world to save all men. He appointed the 12 apostles and selected one who should stand at the head. He gave to the apostles his own power to teach, to solve difficulties and to unfold divine revelation. As the mission of this society was to save men, it is manifest that some visible sign was made that the truth might be known.

"Four plain marks must exist in the church as the ark of eternal salvation. There must be but one set of truths to guide the actions of men, and these are found in the Catholic church. First among these is the unity of faith. He that would be a member of the true church must believe the truths that existed back through all the centuries since the coming of Christ. Unity of faith implies some central power in the church that can maintain sameness.

"Another mark is that of sanctity. The mission of the church is to make the souls of men holy, to bring them to know and serve God. There must be a means of leading to holiness and of forgiving sins so that transgressors may be inspired to take new courage. Sanctity of the church is manifested in the sanctity of individual lives, but it is not implied that every member of the church is a saint.

"The third mark is universalism. The true church is one that teaches rich and poor alike and whose doctrine is the same the world over. It teaches men to observe all things in order that they may determine which is right and which is wrong.

"The fourth and last mark which distinguishes the Catholic church as the true church is the fact that its organization and teachings are based on the deeds and instruction of the apostles. It is able to trace its record through time to the twelve who were ordained by God to teach the people.

"The church presided over by the bishop of Rome has made it her boast that she is always the same in her doctrine. No matter what nationality the pontiff may be, the teaching is the same. I defy the world to point to one doctrine of the Catholic church that is not holy. I challenge the whole world to point to one single doctrine of the church that is opposed to sanctity or in the most remote deduction can be construed to point to other than morality.

"The church depends not on the individual doings of its members, but upon the solid basis on which its doctrine is laid. It matters not what the personal conduct of some of the pontiffs may have been, the faith which they represent is the true one, and it would be as well to say that the private acts of a judge of the supreme court would injure the justice of his decisions as that a pontiff's acts might compromise the church. Here and there a Catholic may be found who disobeys his teachings and the whole church suffers in consequence.

"The confessional has wrought great good and has redressed wrongs. The world knows it if it would admit the truth. We find the devout Catholic hastening to religious service before the sun is up, while his more critical brother is still asleep. The Catholic church has clung to its faith because it is in accordance with the teachings of Jesus Christ and cannot be changed.

"I am a Catholic, not because my father and mother were, not because its creeds are laid out in fine language, or because there are rich people in the church and I may get an opportunity to move in good society, but because in that church I find the unmistakable characteristics of Jesus Christ, because I find in it the four marks of genuine Christianity—unity, sanctity, universality and apostolicity."

What We Give to God.

Most of us go to a low mass on Sunday and spend five minutes in prayer at night—that is, we give one hour a week to God. If we live for 70 years, we thus set aside five months in all for our Creator. We give him five months in 70 years, and for the remaining 69 years and 7 months we never think of him. Nevertheless we ask for eternal happiness as a reward for this outlay, and then we rail at usurers.

The Summer School.

Prominent Catholics of New York who are interested in the Catholic Summer school at Plattsburg and who already have one building on the Cliff Haven grounds are planning a second structure, to be completed by July 1.

SPREADING THE LIGHT.

The Great Work of the Institution of the Propaganda.

The Institution of the Propaganda claims attention as a religious and scientific establishment, and comprises four great departments—the college, the press, the library and the museum. The first has for its object the education of missionaries destined to propagate the faith in all parts of the world, especially in those where the light of the gospel has not yet penetrated. Students from every corner of the civilized world, and belonging to every rank in life, are trained here.

But it is also a scientific establishment and owns one of the finest presses and possesses one of the completest collections of types in the world. An idea may be formed of the resources of this press by mentioning the fact that when the council of the Vatican sat the Pater Noster was printed in no fewer than 250 different languages. At present the press issues Bibles, catechisms and missals in the characters of every known language.

The spacious shelves of the library contain about 45,000 volumes, and it is the fortunate possessor of manuscripts of incalculable value to the student of philology. From an ethnographical point of view it is said that there are few continental museums which equal the museum attached to the propaganda. The class of curiosities it owns is of a very varied character—pagan idols, arms and utensils of every kind are ranged side by side with grim instruments of missionary torture. It may be added that the variety of information which is available at the propaganda is unique. There is, perhaps, no other European cabinet which is engaged in more active correspondence than the secretariat of the propaganda, and none the sphere of whose action embraces a wider area.

Congress of Catholic Students.

The Vita Nuova, which is the organ of the Catholic University Federation in Italy, issues an appeal to the Catholic students of the world to hold a great congress in Rome at the end of the century. There are difficulties in connection with the project, but there is no reason why they should not be overcome. Undoubtedly a gathering of students from all nations could not but inspire new life in many directions. The future belongs to the young, who have got ambitions, hopes, enthusiasms. They would learn much from each other, would interchange views, would shape and mature their plans and return home with minds refreshed and enlarged. The late German leader, Dr. Windthorst, had this scheme of a general Catholic students' congress much at heart, but he did not live to see it realized. Some steps were taken in Switzerland to carry out such an idea on the occasion of the pope's episcopal jubilee, but they were not successful. Let us hope that the present movement will have better luck.

The West Point Chapel.

That Catholic chapel at West Point is about to materialize. The marshaled forces of bigotry have been defeated, and the victory achieved for the Catholics of West Point is a triumph over intolerance and a gain for religious equality in our nation. As congress has authorized a permit to erect a Catholic chapel on the governmental grounds, the work will be pushed to early completion. The Catholic cadets and officers will have the same religious facilities as the Protestant students and soldiers. —Wheeling (W. Va.) Church Calendar.

The Blessed Virgin.

Mary stands at the right hand of her Son, who stands at the right hand of his Father, and the right hand of her Son is almighty, and the prayers of his blessed Mother never fail. They never fail because she never asks amiss. They never fail because she knows the will of her divine Son. The immaculate heart of Mary intimately knows the sacred heart of Jesus.

He Likes Pews.

Father Doyle, the Paulist, does not evidently like pewless churches, such as they have in Cuba, which island he lately visited, and in other Catholic lands. He says it is hard to kneel on a marble pavement with no support and not conducive to long prayer. A pew, he adds, contributes to the worshipers' comfort and also to the church's support.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Mgr. Bourgade, a prelate of French birth, has been appointed to the see of Santa Fe, N. M.

Bishop Moore of St. Augustine, Fla., has been elected president of the alumni of the American college, Rome.

Father Slattery of the archdiocese of Baltimore, the well known worker on behalf of colored people, is visiting Rome in the interest of his colored mission.

Father Blenk, the new bishop of Porto Rico, was born in New Orleans on Aug. 6, 1857. He is a member of the Marist order and is a brilliant theologian and mathematician.

Another parish has been formed in Fall River for the French speaking Catholics, and the Rev. J. A. Giguere has been placed in charge. This makes the thirteenth parish and fifth French one in that city.

Cardinal Vaughan has invited Cardinal Gibbons to preach the sermon on the occasion of the dedication of the splendid cathedral which he is building at Westminster. The invitation has, it is understood, been accepted.

Very Rev. F. Barnada, canon of Santiago cathedral, has been appointed archbishop of Santiago. He is a native of that city, was educated at Salamanca and is considered the most distinguished native clergyman of Cuba. He speaks English well.

JEWELS.

Their Language and Properties as Talismans.

The turquoise, in spite of its tendency to change color, is the emblem of sincerity, confidence, truth, tenderness and friendship and brings good fortune. It has also a beneficial effect upon the sight and is one of the most esteemed gems of the orientals.

The sapphire symbolizes justice and loyalty, beauty and nobility. It signifies warmth and a pure conscience and is in France a favorite stone for the engagement ring, its color indicating candor, goodness and all the simple virtues.

The emerald was placed under the tongue by soothsayers of old before they pronounced their oracular utterances. It clears the mind, facilitates the acquirement of learning and gives strength, activity and energy. It symbolizes charity, joy and abundance.

Earrings seem to have disappeared entirely, even studs of the smallest variety.

CREPON GOWN.

Doubtless the revolution of fashion will cause them to return to favor, but at present they may be left out of the reckoning. Long jeweled chains are still in favor, while rings were never more worn. Cheap rings are always a mistake, however, for in order to be effective rings must be of value and kept in brilliant condition.

The cut shows a costume having a skirt of ibis pink taffeta covered with old point. Over this is a plaited tunic of pink crepon, bordered with black velvet bands. The crepon bodice has a blouse front of three box plaits and a square yoke of old point, ornamented with puffings of crepon. Bands of black velvet, fastened by crystal buttons, outline a bolero. The elbow sleeves are of old point, trimmed with velvet bands and finished by a plaiting of pink crepon.

FASHION ITEMS.

Pretty Cravats and New Silk Shirt Waists.

Cravats are often very long, the ends falling below the waist. For example, a model in white tulle, trimmed with fine lace, has long ends which are caught to the black satin belt by a cluster of parma violets. Boas of feathers are still in great demand, but the newest are composed of entire ostrich tips, not of the separate detached fibers.

Most of the new silk shirt waists of the plainer class have accompanying cravats of the same silk, finishing the high collar. The waists themselves are plaited, tucked or corded in patterns, instead of being ornamented, as used to be the case, and the shirt sleeve, with its stiffened cuff, is not infrequently replaced by the ordinary sleeve with a bell shaped wrist. Some of the most attractive of these waists are of pearl gray, putty color or a light mode tint, and are very cool and refined looking. The cravat of silk is detachable, so that in its stead one of tulle or lace may be worn.

A walking costume in the tailor made style is illustrated. It is of gray satin cloth, the skirt being quite plain. The bolero is finished in a novel way with a stitched circular ruffle of cloth, which expands to form revers and a collar, the edge being cut in scallops. The bolero is closed by a large crystal button. The sleeves have a stitched band near the top and another at the flaring wrists. The hat is trimmed with roses, white lilacs and a black and white mottled feather.

Lavender.

Lavender is an English production and is cultivated about Hertford, Surrey and several other districts. Its name "lavandula," from "lavare," to wash, indicates its use, which was perfuming the baths of wealthy people. Its flowers are considered excellent for disorders of the head and nerves. There are districts of lavender fields in Spain and north Africa, where it thrives mostly on high sea levels.

ROTHSCHILD FREE AGAIN.

Western Convict Liberated From Penitentiary After Several Years' Incarceration.

A DESPERATE CRIMINAL.

Under Some Forty or Fifty Aliases Abe Rothschild Has an International Reputation.

Killed His Wife, Known as "Diamond Bess," in Jefferson, Texas, and Escaped Hanging by the Liberal Use of Money—Jewelers' Protective Association Made It Hot for Him and He Turned Gambler.

The steel bars which have for several years confined Abe Rothschild in the Missouri State Penitentiary have been lifted and the prisoner once again breathes the fresh air of freedom. Apparently his freedom will be of short duration, as, by the terms of his conviction, he is required to leave the country immediately upon being released or he can be rearrested and tried upon several other indictments which are pending against him.

Rothschild, under some forty or fifty aliases, has an international reputation, obtained while he was engaged in acquiring other people's property without going through the formality of paying for it. He is known all over the civilized world as a criminal who has had more narrow escapes from getting his just deserts than any other man known to the police of this country or Europe. Rothschild has the further distinction of having been convicted of murder and escaping hanging only by the liberal use of money and influence upon a second trial.

He is a product of the West, as are many successful criminals, having been born in St. Louis forty-seven years ago.

He first came into public notice in 1877, when he married a woman known in the West as "Diamond Bessie" Moore, and induced her to go to Jefferson, Tex., where he registered at a hotel as "A. Monroe and wife, Cincinnati." They remained at the hotel but a few days when Mrs. Rothschild disappeared, and Abe, telling the hotel proprietor that "his wife was visiting friends," took his trunks and went to Cincinnati. A few days after the body of the unfortunate young woman was found in the woods a short distance from the hotel. She had been shot through the head and stripped of diamonds and jewelry.

Abe Rothschild shot himself on the steps of a gambling house in Cincinnati on the evening of February 17, 1877, and upon his recovery from the wound was arrested and taken to Texas for trial. The trial resulted in conviction and a sentence to hang, but later it was set aside, and after an imprisonment of three years Rothschild secured his liberty and the murder of "Diamond Bessie" remained unavenged.

He engaged in many swindles, his usual modus operandi being to take the name of a prominent merchant who was well rated in the commercial agencies. Then he would send to other merchants, principally diamond dealers, orders for goods to be shipped to the town where the prominent merchant did business. Then addressing a letter to himself under the name of the merchant he had selected he would inclose a number of drafts for a large amount and mail it, following the letter immediately.

Arriving in the town he would ask at the postoffice for the letter which he would allege he expected. He would express surprise to learn of the existence of the merchant of the same name, but would at once call upon him and introduce himself, dwelling upon the coincidence of the similiarity of names. Then he would ask for the letter which he had reason to believe had been delivered to the merchant, and as the merchant would have no reason to become suspicious, he would turn it over.

The rest was easy for a man of Rothschild's unlimited resources. He would ask the merchant to hold any parcels reaching him by registered mail which were not intended for him, and within a few days would receive the diamonds and jewelry he had ordered and would leave the town. The swindle would not be discovered for at least thirty days when the diamond brokers who had shipped the goods would send in their statements and the merchant would learn of the huge swindle which had been successfully perpetrated.

The Jewelers' Protective Association sent circulars broadcast warning their clients against Rothschild, but he succeeded in reaping a rich harvest before publicity made it dangerous for him to work. Then he developed into a gambler and frequented the race tracks, making money rapidly.

He was a plunger, and several "killings" in the betting ring were engineered by him. He amassed a fortune and sailed for Europe, where he soon became well known on all the English and French race tracks. Luck turned against him, though, and after a long campaign he became "broke" and again turned his attention to swindling. He finally fled to Ontario to escape the United States authorities, who were hot on his tracks, but he was arrested and taken to Missouri, where he was wanted on several charges.

It was stipulated when he was extradited that he could only be tried on two charges, and he was convicted and sentenced to four years in the Jefferson City Penitentiary, which time he has served. Rothschild has only one eye, an artificial one occupying the place of the other, which he shot out when he attempted suicide prior to his arrest for the killing of "Diamond Bessie," in 1877.

Evolution and Involution

They afterward thought that the Unconscious Imbecile purposely directed the conversation to the subject of evolution and environment.

"Certainly," the Lay Figure had assented, "I am aware that climatic conditions operate sometimes to retard the course of evolution, but it is new to me that they have ever reversed the process of development."

"Do they not often make monkeys of the weather prophets?" shrieked the Unconscious Imbecile, falling in a fit to avoid punishment.—Detroit Journal.

Dennis Kane, of this city, is playing first base on the Middletown, N. Y., baseball club. Saturday he made a great running catch in the ninth inning with three men on base, shutting off the winning run. He is playing a great game with the Middletowns this season. It seems that Dennis plays great ball away from his own city.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Y. M. C. A. bicycle run to Summit has been changed from Thursday to Friday night.

Elvin VanName, Monday, at Bound Brook, caught a nice mess of stripe bass, perch and dace.

Malcolm B. Barnes and Fred Beekman, of this city, rode their wheels to Boynton Beach yesterday and spent the day in a pleasant manner.

Fred Dunavan, of East Second street, has received his new Remingington wheel from the factory, where it was sent to have a breakdown repaired.

The Atalanta Wheelmen, the leading cycle club of Newark, spent three hours Monday discussing whether they should stick to the L. A. W. or join the N. C. A. Herbert W. Knight, who has been the State consul of the L. A. W., urged the wheelmen to defer decision until the international circuit of the league was in full swing. He admitted that the league in New Jersey, from a racing standpoint, was weak, but said that the disintegration of the N. C. A. was simply a matter of time. He offered to bring a sufficient number of amateur riders from Pennsylvania to insure the success of the meet if the wheelmen would stick to the L. A. W. As the local riders are N. C. A. men and as every prominent amateur cyclist in the vicinity of Newark participated in the Memorial Day races which were under N. C. A. auspices, the chances of the Atalanta Wheelmen running their meet under L. A. W. auspices are decidedly slim. The club voted to defer action until the July meeting, as postponement would not hurt matters.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

There will be four good races at the Plainfield Driving Park next Saturday. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

The Lehigh Training Stable, W. Coville proprietor, is five miles distant from Flemington. The track owned by A. C. Case is at Three Bridges, and the stable is adjacent. The track has been regraded and very much improved since last season. Mr. Coville is preparing quite a string and will probably start in at Parkway, June 27. Meadow Bel, 2:19¾, by Lynne Bel, 2:10½; Quarter Prince, 2:25½, by Quartermaster; Ambulata, by Ambassador; Miss Muriel, pacing filly, by Alcandre, 2:16¼, out of the dam of Lynne Bel, 2:10½; Albertha Shedd, by J. R. Shedd, dam by William M. Rysdyk, and several others are being shaped for the campaigns. The gelding Meadow Bel is now owned by Mr. Case and is ready to trot for an empire at this moment. The horse, however, which seemed to fill the mind of Mr. Case while talking over his stock is Ambulate. He is sure that this fellow will equal the record of his brother Ambulator 2:10½, and he will if he continues to improve. He is showing remarkable speed.

GOLF.

There will be a match game of golf between the Hillside team and the team from the Harbor Hill Club a week from next Saturday on the Hillside course.

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Poultry Farm Team Made a Wild Dash and Caused Lots of Trouble.

The freight depot was the scene of a bad runaway this morning about 10 o'clock. The Plainfield Poultry Farm team had been driven to the platform and the men in charge were busily engaged loading the freight. Something scared the team and they made a wild dash for a short distance up the yard. Then turning they ran between the two tracks where several wagons were being loaded.

A. M. Griffin's wagon, in charge of Tom Clacey, happened to be the unfortunate one to be in the way. The heavy farm wagon overturned the truck, with its load of iron pipes and the Griffen horse broke loose from his harness and started to run.

All three horses were caught on Richmond street. The poultry company's team, in making the turn, struck some of the rails of the trolley company and was thrown to the ground. One horse was cut quite badly. Griffin's truck was wrecked badly.

BEFORE THE ALTAR.

Henry Ackerman and Miss Bertha Schlick Married Last Night in Church.

The marriage of Henry Ackerman and Miss Bertha, the eldest daughter of Andrew Schlick, of 726 Third street, was solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening at the First Church of Christ, The marriage was performed in the presence of the relatives of the contracting parties and their immediate friends by the pastor, Rev. H. W. McKane. The bride's dress was of white silk, trimmed prettily with duchess lace. Miss Minnie Bonhag was bridemaid. She was attired in pink silk. John Powers was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman will at once begin housekeeping at 718 Third street. After the ceremony at the church the bridal party and their friends repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where refreshments were served and a general extending of congratulations was indulged in.

Mr. Brokaw's Side.

The Daily Press is in receipt of a lengthy communication from Wesley R. Brokaw, the piano dealer, in which he says that the statements made by W. L. Saunders regarding the trouble between them over a piano are absolutely false. Mr. Brokaw states his side of the case and says that he was not dishonest. He says it was agreed that a square piano would answer as well as an upright. It was a question of saving part of the cartage in sending a square piano. These in charge of the entertainment said that nothing would satisfy except an upright, and he then decided that he would not send any piano and informed Mr. Saunders to that effect. Then followed the trouble.

Cranford Wedding.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, June 8—The residence of Mrs. C. L. Abry on North avenue was the scene of a pretty wedding last evening, when at 8:30 o'clock her daughter, Miss Margaret Abry, became the wife of Harry Pettit Reilly, before a large number of the friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Edgecombe, rector of Trinity church.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

NO SLIGHT INTENDED.

R. M. CLARK EXPLAINS ABOUT FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION.

He Says That It Was Not Proposed to Bar Out Any Organization or Sect From Participating in the Arrangement of Details.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of last evening reporting the action taken by the members of the various organizations of this city, in reference to the Independence Day celebration which would appear in the article set forth that I was in favor of establishing a permanent organization on the evening of June 6th, for the purpose of excluding from such an organization members from the various Catholic orders of this city who were not represented at the said meeting. I would refute such an idea. Believing matters by heresay is always a faulty method.

My object in urging an immediate formation of a permanent organization was this: that there being but twenty-eight days in which a committee might work to prepare for the celebration of July 4th, the time at hand was short enough without following the suggestion of Mr. Nash, to postpone permanent organization until the 14th inst. which would have allowed us only twenty days for preparation.

I suggested that the organization be so effected that any order of any sect or creed whatever might join it at any time and that all committees be appointed with power to enlarge their members so that upon the presentation of credential by the members of the committees to be appointed by the various organizations, especially the Catholic organization, might become members upon the said committee.

That the people present at the said meeting believe my idea of effecting an immediate permanent organization more feasible than the plan presented by Mr. Nash is evidenced by the fact that when a motion made by me to the effect that we immediately organize, was put before the meeting it was carried with only one dissenting voice and that Mr. Nash's. Signed,

Robert M. Clark.

The Prudential Pays Claims Quickly.

On May 12th there occurred a rear-end collision on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Exeter, Pa., the details of which are still fresh in the minds of the public. Twenty-eight persons lost their lives and numerous others were injured. Among those killed were six who held policies of life insurance in The Prudential. The company immediately paid the claims. The Prudential has a record in this respect of which the officers are proud. The prompt payment of claims is of inestimable benefit to the family of the deceased, because the urgent need of funds is felt in most cases immediately after the death has occurred.

Park Club Affair.

An entertainment of more than usual excellence will be given this evening at the Park Club under the direction of the house committee. In addition to Lieut. Lieut. Hart will be assisted by his own accompanist, and the entertainment will be of high-grade throughout, thus assuring a large attendance.

Library Directors Meet.

Last evening there was a regular meeting of the board of directors of the Plainfield Public Library, all the members being present. The annual reports of the president and treasurer were read and showed that everything is in first-class condition. The secretary was directed to acknowledge the gift of Mrs. Aaron M. Powell of a copy of the Charleston Courier of April, 1865, and of the last issue of the Liberator, Dec. 29th, 1865, and a letter written by John Quincy Adams. Other business was of a routine nature.

TOM PENTON ARRESTED.

Former Plainfielder Accused of Grand Larceny and Held in $2,500 Bail.

Louis F. Werner and Thomas B. Penton, members of the stockbroking firm of A. J. Eno & Co., of 52 Broadway, were arraigned before Magistrate Olmsted in the Centre Street Police Court, New York, yesterday, on a charge of grand larceny, preferred by Dexter Hiscox, of 205 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn. Hiscox alleges that December 28th of last year he deposited with the brokers forty shares of railroad stock worth $2 374 to secure a loan of $500. When he offered to redeem the stock the brokers refused to surrender it.

They were held in $2,500 bail each for examination tomorrow.

Penton formerly resided in Plainfield.

NEW SCHOOL PRINCIPAL.

Prof. Richard Morris Engaged by the Dunellen Educators.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 8—At a meeting of the Board of this place last Tuesday evening it was unanimously decided to engage Richard Morris, of New Brunswick, as principal for the public schools for next year, in place of Prof. VanSyckle, the present occupant of the position

Mr. Morris is about thirty years of age, and has just graduated from Rutgers College. He is the son of a Methodist minister, and comes highly recommended by County Superintendent of Schools H. J. Wills, also by Dr. Scott, president of Rutgers College. Mr. Morris is a married man and his wife is also a teacher.

The Board re-engaged all of the present corps of teachers with the exception of Miss Fisher, who resigns this year. Her place will be filled by Miss Rita Brokaw, of New Market. This is the only change made in the teaching department.

A committee, consisting of Harry Gaskill, Wilson Fredericks and Newton Apgar, was appointed to look after the commencement exercises and arrange the details for the affair which will occur Thursday, June 22d. The exercises at the Lincoln School will be held in the afternoon of that day, while the graduation exercises will be held in the Methodist church in the evening of the same day. The exercises give promise of being as interesting as any ever held in the borough, although there are only four graduates.

OFFICERS NOMINATED.

Iona Council Selects Its Leaders for Another Year.

Roof was on Fire.

A fire broke out Tuesday afternoon in a house on Manning avenue occupied by Mrs. Carey, an aged colored woman. The cause of the fire was an overheated chimney which set fire to the woodwork on the second story. The firemen worked hard and inside of an hour the fire was extinguished.

HEALTH OF BABIES DEMANDS GOOD AIR.

King's Daughters Benefactors of the Little Ones.

FRESH MOUNTAIN BREEZES

TO BE SUPPLIED THE INFANTS IN JULY AND AUGUST.

The Citizens of Plainfield Are Much Interested in the Worthy Object and Already Many People Have Subscribed Toward the Popular Fund—Donations of Furniture, Etc., Thankfully Received.

The highly laudable efforts being made by the King's Daughters and other benevolent citizens of Plainfield to alliviate the sufferings of the infants and give them an opportunity to breath fresh mountain air and feel the beneficial effects of sunshine and cheerful surroundings by the establishment of a baby camp, are being nobly encouraged by all classes of citizens.

The Press is daily receiving the thanks of the citizens for the interest shown in the matter by throwing open its columns for the promotion of the enterprise and in an attempt to assist the King's Daughters in the arduous work of raising a sufficient amount of cash to pay the expense of maintaining the camp during the heated period. The work of constructing the building on Watchung Mountain at Vail Spring will be pushed along rapidly. While the building will not be an elaborate affair it will be substantially put together, and comfortably furnished with every convenience necessary to the welfare of the little folks who are to be its occupants. Do the readers of The Press realize the benefits which these babies will derive from the camp? If they do they will certainly not hesitate to contribute something towards this most worthy object. To those who do not fully comprehend the importance of the enterprise the members of the King's Daughters will be only too happy to set them right and explain the methods which are being devised to please and benefit a class of children whose parents may not be blessed with the means to provide even the necessary comforts that the hot weather forces upon them.

It is not expected that everybody can afford to give $10 or $5 or even $1; but certainly there's scarcely a business man or a mechanic steadily employed who cannot give the small sum of 25 cents. That amount from people in even ordinary circumstances of life would not be felt and it would ensure the raising of a large sum of money—an amount sufficient for all needs necessary to ensure the ultimate success of the Baby Camp. If you cannot give cash, perhaps its possible for you to donate some article of furniture, such as would be suitable for use at the camp. Household furniture or kitchen utensils will be gratefully accepted by the ladies in charge of the work.

Among the names of the donators and the list of articles donated are the following: Miss Bliss, rocking chair, hammock, green shades; Mrs. DeGraff, awnings, cups, saucers and plates; Mrs. Frank Rowley, hammocks, water cooler, cot, mat, baby carriage, tumblers; Miss Boome, oil stove; Mrs. Emmons, cot; Woodhull & Martin, screen doors, screens, rocking chair; Miss Mead, cupboard; Mrs. Caldwell, baby carriage; Mrs. Walduck, Japanese screen and table; Frank Ostrom, ice; Dorcas Circle, 10 babies' dresses and 10 babies' skirts.

But there are many other articles that will be necessary to the comforts of the babies and among the present needs Miss Little suggested that donations of foot tubs, ice boxes, kitchen tables, rocking chairs, rugs, etc., would be gratefully received and duly acknowledged.

Contributions of money or articles may be sent to Miss E. B. Little, of 144 East Ninth street, who is chairman of the camp committee.

BARRETT IS COMMANDER.

JERSEY G. A. R. ELECTED ITS OFFICERS LAST NIGHT.

Commander Chosen on the Third Ballot—Per Capita Tax Fixed at 20 Cents—No Resolution Was Passed.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 9.—The annual encampment of the Department of New Jersey, Grand Army of the Republic, closed last evening with the election of ex-Sheriff George Barrett, of Camden, as department commander. He was elected on the third ballot. The other candidates were Senior Vice-Commander O. F. Gifford, of Newark, and Charles B. Sons, of Red Bank. Ervin D. Richards, of Trenton, was elected senior vice-commander, and Joseph Colyer, of Newark, was made junior vice-commander.

Dr. John Younglove, of Elizabeth, was re elected medical director, and Rev. Charles E. Hill, of Red Bank, was again chosen department chaplain.

Delegates to the National encampment: Abram Lower, Point Pleasant; James A. Morrisey, Paterson; Silas M Vold, Camden; G. F. Robinson, Jersey City; Bishop Mains, Trenton; Isaac Inslee, Woodbridge, and R. D. Brower, Millburn.

Henry Hartshorn, of Camden, was appointed assistant adjutant-general. The proposition to consolidate assistant adjutant-general and assistant quarter master general was defeated.

The proposed resolution favoring the admission to the G. A. R. of soldiers of the Spanish-American War was not introduced, because it could not have been carried.

A lengthy discussion preceded the adoption of an amendment fixing the per capita tax at 20 cents.

During the session of the encampment yesterday afternoon, just before the newly-elected Department Commander took his seat, Comrade Gifford, of Newark, was introduced and after making a few pleasant remarks he addressed Department Commander Wm. C. Smith, of Plainfield. He praised Mr. Smith for his earnest efforts in building up the order during the past year, and expressed regrets upon his leaving the highest position in the Department. He then presented Mr. Smith with an elegant gold badge on behalf of his staff and a number of the comrades. The presentation was such a surprise that the recipient broke down completely, and was unable to say a word by way of thanking the donors. The scene was one of the most touching ever witnessed. After the session, Mr. Smith took occasion to thank his comrades for the beautiful gift.

As a result of the annual meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held at Trenton yesterday and Wednesday, there was only one office that came to Plainfield. Mrs. Walter Walker, of the local Corps was elected senior-vice department commander, and she is being heartily congratulated on her success.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

Pleasant Final Entertainment at the Park Club.

A large audience gathered at the Park Club last evening and enjoyed one of the best entertainments ever given by the club. This being the last affair for the season the house committee, consisting of Elston M. French, E. T. Wilson and H. D. Hibbard, provided an entertainment of high grade. Lieut. Hart, of the Naval Reserves, succeeded admirably in keeping the audience in the best of humor so that they entirely forgot the warm weather. His humorous stories and songs were fully enjoyed.

Miss Grace Overton also entertained the audience with a number of her best readings, which she gave in her usual pleasing manner. Altogether the affair was one of great pleasure and the committee was congratulated upon their efforts.

JUST IN HIS TEENS; ENDED HIS OWN LIFE.

Fourteen Years Old, Westfield Boy Committed Suicide.

HUNG HIMSELF IN CELLAR.

FOUND BY HIS MOTHER AT 11 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT.

Suicide Carefully Planned, But No Apparent Reason for It—Doctor Said He Had Been Dead for Several Hours—Mother Crazed Over the Sad Fatality—Had Pains in His Head.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 9.—Without any apparent reason for his desperate act, Percy Cox, the fourteen-year-old son of J. T. Cox, a carpenter, residing on New York avenue, committed suicide last night by hanging himself from a beam in the cellar of his father's house. The suicide was evidently carefully planned by the lad.

Yesterday afternoon the boy left his home, and when he did not return for supper his parents thought that he was playing about town somewhere and would return in time to go to bed at a seasonable hour. His mother waited until 11 o'clock for him, but he did not put in an appearance. Then she instituted a search for him about the place. As a last resort she went into the cellar. There she was horrified to see, by the dim light of the lamp that she carried, the limp body of the boy hanging from a beam in the cellar. She immediately screamed for help and George Peak and C. A. Brown, neighbors, responded.

They found that the lad had driven a nail into the beam of the ceiling and taken a chain eighteen inches long and hooked an end link into it. Then he had wound the chain around his neck, and caught it in a loop with another nail. The distance to the floor was too short for him to hang suspended full length and he had evidently curled his legs up so as not to touch the cellar bottom. In this position he had slowly strangled to death. The chain had cut deep into his neck.

Dr. Sinclair was called after the body was taken down by the neighbors. He said that the boy had been dead for several hours. The mother was crazed over the discovery and is prostrated today.

A week ago the boy got into a fight with a schoolmate and was hit over the head with a heavy stick. Since then he has complained of pains in his head. It is thought that this might have turned his mind and caused him to end his own life.

PRIZE WINNING PICTURES.

Made by J. Hervey Doane and Exhibited in Competition.

W. H. Rogers, of North avenue, has on exhibition in his window the prize carbon pictures made by J. Hervey Doane. This set won the medal at the exhibition of the Plainfield Camera Club in April, and have just arrived from Melrose, Mass., where they have been on exhibition at the Melrose Club, with over six hundred exhibits from all parts of the United States.

The Plainfield club has the honor through these pictures of being one of three out of all these exhibits of receiving a certificate of honorable mention. The prints are made on carbon in three colors, the paper being sensitized by the exhibitor.

Plans for an Outing.

At last evening's meeting of the Y. M. C. A. committee on the boys' work plans were discussed for visiting Camp Dudley on Lake Champlain, near Westport, N. Y. The camp, which is under the auspices of New York and New Jersey, will be open from July 6th to August 3d. This is a delightful spot to spend a few weeks, and it is possible that a number of young men will avail themselves of the cheap rates afforded at the camp. Full information can be had of Secretary Manning at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in this city.

Contracts for New Church.

The contracts for erecting the new church edifice for the worshippers at Hope chapel have been given out and the work will be started at once. Seaman Williams will do the mason work, John Abbott the carpenter work, while Woolston & Buckle will do the painting. The word will be done undes the direct personal supervision of A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, and it is estimated that it will take five months to complete the building, which will seat about two hundred and fifty people.

SILK MILL SOON TO RUN.

TWENTY LOOMS WILL BE OPERATED AT THE START.

It is the Intention of the Company to Manufacture the Finest Grades of Silk—20 Hands to be Employed at Start.

The Watchung Silk Company, located in the Schepflin building on West Front street, is about ready for business. The factory is situated on the second floor which is wide, light and airy. At present there are but 20 looms erected, but twenty more are expected in a few days If possible the plant will be put in operation in about two weeks. Employment will be given at first to about 20 hands, the number to be increased to at least 30 more as fast at business warrants.

Already a sufficient number of orders are on hand to keep the plant in operation for several weeks. At first taffeta silks will be made, but it is the intention of the company to manufacture the finest grades of silks, including colored goods and fancy patterns.

The officers of the company are among the most representative business men of Plainfield. They are: President, J. C. Pope; secretary, Harry C. Runyon; treasurer, W. R. Codington. The superintendent and general manager is Ralph Whitley, an experienced silk manufacturer.

SEND ALONG YOUR MITES.

Every Sum, No Matter How Small, Will be Welcomed for the Babies' Camp Fund.

Considering the numerous demands that are made on Plainfielders at this time to assist enterprises of various kinds with financial contributions, the Babies' Camp Fund of The Daily Press is doing fairly well. But there is no other charity that ought to appeal to people more than this one. Its aim is to make life brighter and healthier in these torrid days for children whose parents are unable to provide the luxuries—and sometimes even the necessities—that the average person enjoys.

Every mite added to the fund helps along the good work, and may be the means of giving just one more child a cool, refreshing visit to the Camp when it is established. Ten cents will be as welcome as ten dollars. Send along your mites—they help to swell the aggregate for this noble object.

The contributions to The Daily Press fund are as follows to date:

UNCLE SAM GRANTS THREE MORE CARRIERS

Better Postal Service Promised for Plainfield.

IN EFFECT SEPTEMBER 1ST.

POSTMASTER BIRD RECEIVED THE NEWS YESTERDAY.

The Increased Service is Badly Needed in This City, as the Present Force is Unable to Do Satisfactory Work at All Times—Congressman Fowler Deserves Credit for His Work in the Matter.

Plainfield is certainly among the few highly favored places in New Jersey and just now she has plenty of reason to congratulate herself for Uncle Sam has looked down upon her with kindly favor and has granted three additional letter-carriers at the urgent and well deserving request of Postmaster E. H. Bird. This good news reached Plainfield yesterday when Postmaster Bird received a letter from George M. Allen, of Washington, who is acting first assistant postmaster general. The letter is to the effect that Mr. Bird's request for additional carriers has been re-considered and he is authorized to nominate three additional men for appointment on September 1st of the present year. The letter also states that with the three additional men it is believed that Mr. Bird will be able to give such efficient service in the distribution of mail that it will remove all cause for complaint on the part of Plainfield residents.

Sometime ago Mr. Bird could have secured two additional carriers, but he knowing the condition of affairs was desirous of securing three in all, hence the temporary delay in the appointment of extra men.

It must be stated that to Congressman Fowler is due the entire credit for the increased number of carriers, and he has done exceedingly well by Plainfield. Of course, Postmaster Bird is entitled to credit for being persistent and pressing the needs of the Plainfield service before the Government, and too much cannot be said in praise of the efforts put forth by the Congressman from this district as well as the postmaster. That Plainfield is in need of the three extra men, no one will deny, and as stated in the letter it will have a tendency to remove nearly all if not all of the cause for complaint.

There are four men eligible to appointment, namely: Robert Tingley, Thomas Burns, John Hines and Edward Lynch, all of whom are now substitutes. It is wise that the appointment of the new men is not to be made before September 1st, for if made sooner it would interfere materially with the summer vacations of the present force which will consume July and August, and it would leave no one for substitute as at present.

The Government recently sent an inspector to this city to look the ground over and make recommendations, but he did not go over the ground personally, and was not favorable to any increase, in fact he thought Plainfield should only have two deliveries a day. This sort of service would not be tolerated at all in Plainfield, as most everyone realizes. Congressman Fowler made the matter a personal one and showed to the satisfaction of those in the postal department that the extra men were needed and thus they were secured.

With the increase of three men in the service will come a re districting of both Plainfield and the borough. The borough will, at least, have another carrier, and the territory will be so divided that the best obtainable results will be secured. During July and August the carriers will have vacation and by September 1st everything will be in readiness for the three new men. As yet Postmaster Bird has not decided who he will nominate for the positions, but he will do so in a short time. Any one of the three substitutes are perfectly capable, but it is quite likely that they will be selected according to their time of service.

Whose Bird is This?

A blue and chocolate carrier pigeon fell dead on the veranda of Theodore Rutan's house, 177 Duer street, Tuesday afternoon, and the band on one of his legs was marked F. B—10. Mr. Rutan buried the bird and has the band in his possession.

The Senor was driven about Plainfield and expressed the opinion that it is the most charming place he has visited. During his stay an interview was had before a stenographer and the statement of this most intelligent person added to the collection gathered from Porto Ricans. The conversation, questions and answers, being made through the interpreter, as Senor Armadeo speaks only Spanish.

PITY FOR CONVICT WON HIM FREEDOM.

John Towers Released in Union County Court.

ACCUSED OF HORSE THEFT.

STOLE A RIG FROM DAN ROBERTS FOUR YEARS AGO.

Former Prosecutor Marsh, Who Secured the Indictment, Appeared for the Prisoner and Made a Plea for Clemency—Judge Thought the Ends of Justice Had Been Satisfied Already.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 9.—John S. Tower, who in May, 1896, was indicted for the larceny of a horse and carriage from Dan S. Roberts, of Plainfield, was arraigned before Judge Vail yesterday morning and sentence was suspended.

The case of Tower is one of peculiar interest, and has no parallel in the history of the criminal court of this county. Through the courtesy of Prosecutor English, former Senator Fred C. Marsh, who was prosecutor when Tower was indicted, was permitted to appear both on the side of justice and mercy.

Tower is 28 years of age. He has a genteel appearance, was dressed in light summer attire, and is probably the most intelligent and most interesting prisoner who was ever committed to the jail in this county. He is an electrical engineer, and an inventor of useful electrical appliances. In 1896 he was arrested in White Plains, N. Y., for the crime of horse stealing. There was a charge against him for offences in New York State, as well as the Roberts robbery. He was convicted of the New York robbery, but, as Mr. Marsh stated, the judge had doubts of the prisoner's guilt, and set the verdict aside. Then, when the requisition for the Roberts case arrived, Tower, rather than come back to Jersey, pleaded guilty to the New York charge, and he was sentenced to four years in Sing Sing.

During his imprisonment he was a most exemplary prisoner. He was employed in the electric plant. He invented several valuable appliances; one is an automatic fire-alarm for hotels and another an incandescent lamp which renews its carbon.

Tower, in protesting his innocence, said that the horses were both stolen by a man named Hastings, who kept an exchange stable in Westchester, N. Y. While Tower was in prison he received a letter from Hastings, who asserted that he was dying at Cripple Creek, Col. In this letter Hastings made confession of the crimes charged against Tower. A charitable lady in Westchester, N. Y., went west and is now in Colorado looking up the history of Hastings.

Two months prior to his arrest in 1896, Tower married a very estimable young woman, and their child has never been seen by the prisoner. The young wife believed in her husband, and she had all things in readiness to welcome him to a pleasant home last week, when the prison doors were to be opened to him. But Prosecutor Marsh, who had kept record of the case, had Chief Tenney at the prison, and Tower was brought to this city Monday last and lodged in jail.

Tower's wife was in court yesterday morning, and she was accompanied by Judge Gibney, of the Westchester county bar. Through the courtesy of the Court, at request of Mr. Marsh, Judge Gibney was allowed to speak in behalf of Tower, and he made a very affecting plea, especially in behalf of the weeping young woman, the prisoner's wife.

Mr. Marsh also spoke eloquently for the prisoner, and said in his experience in court he never knew public officials to be so unanimous in saying that clemency should be extended a prisoner. If Tower was given his liberty he could provide for himself and family and benefit the world by his inventions.

Judge Vail, in view of the circumstances, said the court was satisfied that the ends of justice had been met in the punishment already inflicted and he suspended sentence.

The prisoner was placed under $500 bonds, his own recognizance being accepted, and he was released. He embraced his wife, and the scene was very affecting.

THE ALASKA BOUNDARY.

Sir Julian Pauncefote, Lord Salisbury and Ambassador Choate to Confer.

WILL MEET IN LONDON.

Representatives of the Governments of Great Britain and the United States Will try to Agree.

Cable Dispatches Concerning the Pending Negotiations Sent by Ambassador Choate to State Department at Washington—Possibility That no Satisfactory Agreement Can be Reached.

London, June 9.—It is asserted in official quarters that Sir Julian Pauncefote will leave The Hague as soon as the Peace Conference will permit and come to London for the purpose of having an interview with Lord Salisbury and Ambassador Choate on the Alaska boundary question. According to the Post, it is authoritatively said that much difficulty arises from the misinterpretation of a Canadian despatch on the subject, but the proposed discussion of the matter by the Premier and the two Ambassadors will probably arrange this.

Washington, June 9.—No agreement on the Alaska boundary question has yet been reached between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States, but the outlook is more promising now than it has been at any time. Despatches from Ambassador Choate, who is conducting the negotiations in London with Lord Salisbury, are being received at the State Department, and the Department is sending a number of messages to Mr. Choate.

The point on which the negotiations hinge is the proposition of the United States to arrange a 'modus vivendi' contemplating the establishment of a temporary boundary line between Alaska and the British Northwest. Lord Salisbury and Mr. Choate have, it is understood, practically agreed on the modus, but it remains for Canada to say whether the agreement shall be ratified, as Great Britain has followed the advice of the Dominion Government in all the negotiations.

Judging from the past attitude of the Canadian authorities, there is no certainty that an agreement, which would be assured if Canada were not recognized as a party to it, will result from the Salisbury-Choate conferences.

Overwhelmed With Divorce Suits.

Richmond, Va., June 9.—There has been such an increase in the number of the divorce suits brought in Richmond recently that Judge Miner, of the Law and Equity Court, has given orders that the Clerks of his tribunal shall not give out to newspapers cases instituted or disposed of. He contends that the publication of these cases is likely to cause an increase in the number of divorce suits. A few years ago a divorce suit was a rare thing in Richmond, but it is not so now.

Both Babies Were Killed.

Poplar Grove, Ill., June 9.—Two babies were killed here, one 3 years old, and the other 1 year, the bodies of both being terribly mangled. Mrs. Carl Detloff went to the depot on an errand, taking the children with her in a baby carriage. She left the carriage on the platform and stepped inside the station. Just as a fast freight pulled in a gust of wind blew the carriage onto the track, and both babies were instantly killed.

Students Badly Burned.

Franklin, Ind., June 9.—At the college here some solder was being melted in the chemical oil tank and the oil was ignited at once and a large blaze was the result. Casper Engert, who was the foremost of the student fire fighters, was badly burned, as was also Prof. Owens and some of the other students, who were dangerously injured.

Downpour in Southwest Texas.

San Antonio, Tex., June 9.—A heavy rain fell over the entire section of country between San Antonio and the Rio Grande. Three heavy washouts on the International and Great Northern between Encinal and Twohig have cut off communication with Mexico via Laredo. The breaks can not be repaired for some days.

Natural Gas Injunction Proceedings.

Marion, Ind., June 9.—State Gas Inspector J. C. Leach, who has been in Marion for a week looking after the waste of natural gas, occasioned by the opening of the new oil field here, has commenced injunction proceedings against the syndicate operating a well on the Van Vactor farm, three miles east of Marion.

Fatal "Tickly" Feeling.

Toledo, Ohio, June 9.—Benonie T. Greer, an old resident of Swanton dropped dead. After dinner at his home, he remarked about a sort of "tickly" feeling on his chin. He began to rub his chin, when he suddenly dropepd over dead. Deceased was a lawyer by profession, and was 73 years old.

HEAT CAUSES EXPLOSION

Pain's Fireworks Factory Completely Destroyed.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 9.—A terrible explosion of one of the main branches of Pain's fireworks factory at Coney Island road and Eighth street, startled all the surrounding country.

The shock was plainly felt at the Coney Island race track. There were forty men and 160 women and girls employed at the factory. There were about twenty buildings, all frame and one-story high, on the factory site. The explosion was in the roman candle department.

Many of the girls and women fainted, although but one person is known to have been injured—James L. Leasman, who was taken to Flatbush Hospital.

Flying fragments spread the flames following the explosion to nearly all the small buildings which were totally consumed.

Several workmen were also hurt by a series of three explosions that wrecked the works of the Charlton Fireworks Company, in Northfield, Staten Island.

All of the explosions, it is said were caused by the powder becoming ignited by the intense heat.

Gold Mining Investments.

Leadville, Col., June 9.—Two hundred thousand dollars paid-up Boston capital has been invested here and two very important mining enterprises in the gold belt put under way. Comstock & Co., paid up capital $100,000, began sinking a new 700-foot shaft in the Comstock group, near the old Antioch mine. The Revenue Company, of Boston, have secured 140 acres of excellent territory in California Gulch, on Trend Grown Point and Pinnacle Ore.

Held in Another County.

Shelbyville, Ind., June 9.—Henry Wilson, who is charged with grand larceny in the alleged theft of two herds of cattle, was released on $500 bond. Insurgents Driven to the Mountains—Capture of Antepolo and Other Towns in the Section With Point of Land Projecting Into the Bay—The Oregon Will Do Blockade Duty.

London, June 9.—Special despatches from Manila say it is reported there that Aguinaldo has dissolved the Filipino Congress and has proclaimed himself Dictator.

Washington, June 9.—The situation in the Philippines is described by Gen. Otis in the following cablegram received from Manila:

"Result of movements in Morong Province was to drive insurgents into mountains, capturing Antipolo and other towns in that section with point of land projecting into bay.

"They retreated and scattered before our advance, leaving twenty-five dead on field; our loss, four killed and few wounded, mostly slight.

"City of Morong on only land route around bay garrisoned; all other troops withdrawn.

"Inhabitants of province profess friendship, ask protection; large number wish to enter Manila; refused, as city population increasing too rapidly. Leading natives throughout islands, including active insurgent leaders, seek permission to send families to Manila; considered only place of personal security. OTIS."

Gen. Otis also cables as follows regarding the return of volunteers:

"Oregons request to defer time of departure until 12th; will leave for Portland in transports Ohio and Newport. Sixth Infantry upon arrival will relieve Californians at Negros. Hancock sails in few days with Nebraska and other troops."

Manila, June 9.—The United States cruiser Boston, Capt. W. H. Whiting has sailed for San Francisco by way of Nagasaki, Japan, with long-service officers and men from the various American warships. The battle-ship Oregon will soon be stationed off Dagupan, in the Gulf of Lingayen, on blockade duty.

Insurance War in Kentucky.

The charge made against them is that of "combining and conspiring to maintain rates and to discourage competition." The indictments were the result of a charge against trusts delivered by Judge Settle. The insurance people are indignant, and several threaten to withdraw entirely from that county. Several of the companies indicted were not members of what is known as the Local Board, and their agents say that the indictments are groundless.

Birmingham, Ala., June 9.—The lynching of Will Hill, the colored accomplice of his brother, Alexander Hill who murdered Mrs. Rufus Hubbard, and wounded Mr. Hubbard and his little child near Centreville, is confirmed. After being captured Hill was taken to the Hubbard home, where Mr. Hubbard, who was sick in bed identified him. Mr. Hubbard was then placed in a chair and carried to a grove where the negro was made to stand on a box. Hubbard was ordered to fire the first shot, which he did, though almost too weak to raise the gun. This was the signal for a volley and Hill's body was riddled. Alexander Hill is still at large. The Governor has offered $500 reward for his capture.

COAL is for coal, clean, cheery and cheap.

L is the light that starts it to go, and to get the best coal buy of Stevens & Co.

A merchant whom I know always has a supply in his desk at the office. I have seen them in his traveling bag. In a drawer of his dining-room sideboard there is a constant supply. Once I saw some in his fishing kit; for he is something of a sportsman, and he generally can fish one up from his waistcoat pocket on occasion. The Tabules seem to be with him in about as common a place as a fish with a sailor. I asked once how he could have such frequent use for RIPANS TABULES, and he told me this: "If something in business annoys, it upsets my stomach, but a Tabule taken at the time neutralizes the bad influence. When I travel I am apt to be troubled with constipation, but a Tabule at night insures a pleasant and healthy movement in the morning. If I drink a glass of wine too much, or eat a dinner that has a tendency to upset me, a Tabule is an antidote. When fishing in the sunshine it neutralizes a headache, a Tabule cures the tendency; and what is good for me is often just as great a boon to a chance companion. For that reason I always have them within reach. They don't cost much, and they never do any harm. I would no more think of depriving myself of their beneficial ministrations than I would of going without my frequent bath or occasional cigar. Since I first learned about Ripans Tabules and their wide application, I have had fewer sick days and life has more sunshine in it."

MORE KLONDIKERS PERISH.

Two Hundred of the Unfortunate Prospectors Lost on Edmonton Trail.

MANY WERE AMERICANS

Deaths From Drowning, Exposure, Freezing and Scurvy—Tales of Great Suffering.

The Hudson Bay Company and Northwest Mounted Police Have Started Out Small Relief Expeditions From Telegraph Creek—Fifty Miners Lost Their Lives By Drowning on Great Slave Lake.

Seattle, Wash., June 9.—The steamship Laurada is in port from Wrangle, Alaska, with news of the death and suffering of American miners who tried to reach the Klondike gold fields over the all-Canadian route from Edmonton. Several parties reached Wrangel last week from the interior, after spending from twelve to twenty months on the trail in a vain endeavor to reach the gold fields.

They say that no less than 200 prospective miners have lost their lives by drowning, starvation, exposure and freezing during the past winter. Most of these were Americans from the Eastern States. Scurvy is now ravaging the miners who are stalled on the trail, and before relief can reach them many others will have died.

The Hudson Bay Company and the Northwest mounted police have started small relief expeditions from Telegraph Creek. Government action on a large scale will alone rescue hundreds who are unable to get out of the country by their own resources. The list of dead from various causes furnished by miners who have reached Wrangel numbers but twenty-two. It is extremely difficult to secure names although miners tell of many accidents which cost the lives of parties of five or ten.

The identified dead are: Drowned—C. B. Preston, Trenton, N. J.; Harry Hitchcock, Texas; F. L. Brenner, Brooklyn; F. Preston, Philadelphia; Capt. Mason, Alaska; C. P. Smith, St. Louis; H. P. Munson, Chicago. Frozen, Dan Taylor, Nanaimo, B. C.; ——Hutton, Vancouver, B. C.; John Paine, Van Couver, B. C.; ——Leighton, Victoria; H. Reardon, Cincinnati; J. P. McCrumm, Pittsburg; Robert Tonsila, New Mexico. Scurvy—Fritz Klingman, Buffalo; James Monat, San Francisco; E. W. Thomas, Los Angeles. Starvation—W. Z. Brook, P. Neely, Sault Ste. Marie. Suicide—C. Richter, New York; Arthur M. Collins, British Columbia. Exposure—Valentine Wendler, Philadelphia.

Fifty miners lost their lives by drowning on Great Slave Lake. Of these but three are known by name. The boats foundered when a great distance from shore and no one knows the identity of the unfortunate miners. Many others were drowned while fording various rivers. Boats were wrecked while trying to shoot the rapids of Mud, Liard and Nelson rivers, and parties of from two to five were lost.

Fuller details of the deaths by scurvy exposure and starvation will be had when a big party of miners, now fighting their way out of the country, arrive.

Against Hocking Valley.

Columbus, Ohio, June 9.—In the United States Court here, the following plaintiffs took judgment against the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Railway Company: Security Trust Company, $2,110,788; M. E. Ingalls, Jr., et al., $5,056,063; M. E. Ingalls, Jr., et al., $5,056,063; M. E. In- 949. The deficiency arises under various series of bonds of the Railway company recently sold under foreclosure.

Engulfed in a Pit.

Vincennes, Ind., June 9.—At Deckers Louis Bowles and Emil Hoffman, 12 and 14 years old respectively, went swimming in the big hole made by the Hazleton washout which caused the railroad disaster a little over a year ago, and were drowned. They were walking on a sand bank which gave way and completely swallowed them up. The body of Bowles was recovered, but that of Hoffman cannot be found.

Freezing Weather in Utah.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 9.—The temperature in Salt Lake Valley dropped down below the freezing point and the ground was covered with a white frost. Reports from market gardeners throughout the valley and in Davis county show that nearly all the growing vegetable crops were killed. What little fruit there was left from the previous frost was also killed.

HANNA NOT TO RETIRE

Says He Will Remain National Chairman Until His Term Expires.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 9.—Senator Hanna's plans relative to his departure for New York have undergone a change. He has postponed starting until Saturday. Senator Hanna took occasion to set at rest a rumor circulated with great persistency that he is to retire as Chairman of the Republican National Committee because his health is not good.

"I haven't seen the despatches from Washington," said Senator Hanna, when asked whether he would retire from the management of the next Presidential campaign. "My term as Chairman of the National Republican Committee does not expire until next year. I cannot retire until my term is ended and my successor chosen."

Ensenada Gold Discovery.

San Diego, Cal., June 9.—A special despatch to the Union from Ensenada, lower California, says:

"The stemship St. Denis has arrived at San Quentin from San Roque landing. She will bring from thirty-five to forty pounds of gold dust to Ensenada from the new placers. The reports now received from practical persons do not justify a rush of tenderfeet to the Sierra Pinta fields, but confirms the previous statement that there is gold in sufficient quantities there to pay experienced miners. One estimate is that from $5 to $10 per day can be taken out."

Sound Steamers in Collision.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 9.—In the heavy fog that hung over the Sound, the Richard Peck and C. H. Northam, two of the largest passenger steamers of the New Haven line, collided not far from here. A great hole was cut in the starboard side of the Northam, well forward, and her passengers were hastily transferred to the Peck. Aside from the severe shaking up by the force of the collision, none of the passengers were seriously injured. The Northam was beached off Green Farms, Conn., to prevent her sinking. The Richard Peck was not seriously damaged.

Troops for Alaska

Company A of the same regiment may be added to the expedition. This company is still at Fort McPherson, Ga. There is no chance of the third artillery having to go to the north. The order detailing battery I, Capt. Henry C. Danes, has been revoked. Battery B of the third artillery is to be sent immediately from Fortress Monroe to Angel Island in this harbor.

Cave Greater Than Kentucky's.

Victoria, B. C., June 9.—The mammoth cave of Kentucky, which has held the record heretofore as the world's greatest cave, must hereafter, it is believed, give precedence to a cave in New Zealand, discovered on April 27, by Horace Johnstone, near Port Waakato, and but ten or twelve miles from the city of Wellington. He sells cheap soap; the sale, once made,
Brings larger profits for to-day.
The soap, when used, offends his trade,
Which deals, henceforth, "across the way"—
Both purchaser and seller lose;
But Ivory Soap makes steadfast friends;
'Tis best to sell, and best to use,
And brings best profits in the end.

A WORD OF WARNING.—There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

A Queer Story.

The Wetternsee, in Sweden, like so many other lakes, has long enjoyed the local reputation of being a bottomless pit. The Swedish scientists have now destroyed the venerable legend, for in the measurements taken a few days ago they have successfully demonstrated that the greatest depth of the lake is only 119 meters. There stil remains, however, a series of mysteries which science must be content to leave unsolved—at least, for a time. It is not only a legendary belief, but there is a quasi-scientific ground for the queer supposition that living creatures, animal and vegetable, can and do make journeys to and fro between the high northern lake of Wetten and the South German lake of Constance. This bold conclusion has been partly justified by the appearance of exactly the same fauna and even the same animal life in the Swedish and the Swabian inland seas. It is even asserted that whenever there is a storm on the Lake of Constance the Lake of Wettern begins sympathetically to roll and swell, and that the southern lake is similarly moved by any agitation in the distant northern lake. The Kleine Zeitung soberly declares this sympathetic phenomenon to be a known fact, but considerately adds that we have to wait some time for the rational explanation of it.

A Community of Marksmen.

The little commune of Attinghausen, in Canton Uri, has been made famous throughout the world by the pen of Schiller in his "William Tell. The commune at present has a population of about 500 souls, including the babies. Like all its neighbor communes, it holds its yearly "Schutzenfest." It appears from the report of the contest in the Urner Zeitunz that no fewer than 184 out of its 500 inhabitants are capable markesmen or markeswomen, for out of the 184 who took part in the contest at the communal butts 43 were women. Not only did some of the women prove to be better shots than their husbands, to the great delight of the sex, but the highest honors of this year's festival were won by female hands. The Jungfrau Katharina Wirsch, who is only in her fifteenth year, made 50 points at the "Zweckschuss," and so carried off the first prize. She is the daughter of Matthias Wirsch, who, with seven of his sons and three of his daughters, appeared at the Attinghausen schutzenfest, and the whole family were so dexterous with their rifles that they gained nine prizes during the day.

Wrecked by Superstition

"Yes, superstition broke me," said the ex-gambler, as, perceiving that the next man to him had a squint he crossed his fingers. "I had heard of the luck that a humpback is certain to furnish, so I advertised for one. I got him all right, and now I wish I hadn't. He had a hump that was a wonder. It was two feet high at least. I took him to Europe, with the intention of cleaning out the bank at Monte Carlo. Going over on the steamer I made a little money, and I could see a glorious finish. From London to Nice I nearly ruined my bank roll by constantly rubbing it against my mascot's magnificent hump.

"To make a long story short, I'll just say that in spite of my humpbacked friend I dropped my roll at roulette before we had been in the Casino two hours. I had just a 1,000-franc note left and my mascot, who was as badly broken up as I was, begged me to let him play that in himself. I consented because I didn't see how the luck could be any worse. The first crack that he made was to put a limit bet on the double zero, but when he won it I fainted; by the time the doctors had brought me to he was playing on velvet a foot thick and never turned a hair or winked an eye until the croupier announced stolidly that the bank was broken

"I was the happiest man in the world then, I guess; but not for long, as I came back in the steerage. No, I didn't lose it back. In fact, I didn't get a chance, for when I asked my humpback to divide he said 'Nit. I reminded him of how well I had treated him and begged him to at least tip me off to the secret of his success. He unbuttoned his coat, loosened a few straps and tossed me over a most artistic artificial hump. 'That's it,' he said.

"Ah, yes, superstition has ruined many a good man."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Plainfield's Advancement.

The Plainfield Advancement Society has started under auspicious conditions inasmuch as those who have taken the initiative in the organization are imbued with progressive ideas and seem to be alert and willing to work to succeed. There is one serious obstacle that the leaders should be warned of. That is the fact that an organization of such a character must be carefully and continuously groomed. It will not run itself because a few have got together and given it a title. It must have a membership that is aggressive and anxious to do something besides letting the other fellow do it. That has been the ailment of similar associations for years past; and it is an ill that makes nugatory every good intention and causes every worthy scheme to collapse. However, the charter members seems to have started in the right spirit and it is more than likely that with a little prodding and encouragement now and then they will stick to the work of making Plainfield a greater town until benefits are to be seen and appreciated.

It is a fact that those Plainfielders whose business interests are entirely centered in town have long recognized the need of greater industrial activity here. Factories help the laborer, the house owner, the merchant; in fact, they give to a town prosperity that cannot be secured through any other channels. The proposition made by Mr. Drake for the conversion of land in the western part of the city into factory sites under such circumstances as will undoubtedly induce manufacturing concerns to establish themselves here, is one that should immediately appeal to all classes. A little careful thought about the project, viewing the conditions as they actually exist, will show that it is not a visionary scheme. It is eminently practical if the townspeople will take hold of it in the right manner and right spirit. With such purposes as the Plainfield Advancement Society propose to evidence in their work a great deal ought to be accomplished along this line.

The question of advertising, which has played a prominent part in the considerations of the preliminary plans for organization of the society, is one that presents an unlimited field for effort. No great or successful business man nowadays expects to get along without advertising; publicity is as necessary as clerks. And what is true of a single individual in town is true of the town as a whole, if its improvement and advancement in growth and character is to be undertaken. There are thousands of people within a radius of twenty-five miles of Plainfield that are seeking homes in just such a town as this is; but the only effective way to reach them is by printer's ink. The number that may be induced to come here through personal appeals or information of townsmen is a bagetelle; the number that might be induced to inspect the town's advantages by advertising its claims in public print and other avenues of publicity is only limited by the number who have eyes to read.

Here, then, are two propositions for the Advancement Society to work on, both of a practical and popular kind, and if success can be attained through either one, the members may feel that they have accomplished a great deal.

It is to be hoped that the citizens generally will take an interest in the proposed Fourth of July celebration. Let every one put his shoulder to the wheel and help make the affair a grand success. Outside of a patriotic spirit in the matter, it must be remembered that a celebration brings to town a great many strangers, many of whom spend more or less money with the business men before leaving for home after witnessing the celebration. To insure the success of the undertaking, it is quite necessary that the various societies and organizations lend their aid and do what they can to make the affair a credit to the city as well as to those who are its promoters.

The Boston Herald observes: "Life remarks that if there is one woman who more than another represents the best there is, or has been, in the town of Boston it is Julia Ward Howe. That is correct, and it is no reflection on the other noble women of Boston, either." — Many Plainfielders will share the Herald's sentiments, too.

It is estimated that the new Franchise Tax law in New York, if administered in strict accordance with its plain intent, will yield a revenue in the State of from $15,000,000 to $17,000,000. Of this sum about $10,000,000 will be raised in the city of New York.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

It is reported that there are only $20 remaining unpaid of personal taxes in the borough of North Plainfield and $60 on the poll taxes. This is a remarkable record for Collector George F. Brown, who has worked hard to bring about such a result, and has used the limit of the law in some instances where he found it necessary. —Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

The Plainfield Advancement Society is a timely organization and it has been formed by good men, who are taking hold of measures that will greatly benefit Plainfield, increasing its population and developing its importance as a manufacturing town. Plainfield has advantages and others need to be told of them. It needs more advantages, which the citizens can secure by some well-directed efforts.—New York Tribune.

It may not be generally known that there is a vessel in the Navy bearing the ancient and honorable name of Piscataway, a name of a Middlesex village which often makes strangers laugh and stare. Moreover, the Piscataway sailed from Portsmouth, Va., to New York.

The attention of The Daily Press has been called to the style of culvert used at the corner of Park avenue and Seventh street, as being dangerous for horses. Recently a number of valuable horses have slipped on the iron and narrowly escaped serious injury. A few days ago a team owned by W. J. Roome slipped and fell, and it was only by a narrow margin that they were not injured. If the culvert is not the proper thing the city should have it changed for something that is just right and safe.

Yesterday was the one hundred and nineteenth anniversary of the Battle of Elizabethtown. About 5,000 British regulars landed at Elizabethport, intending to sweep this whole section. Twelve men attacked them at the Crossroads and then retreated. The country became alarmed. Continentals gathered from all sides, and, with Maxwell's regulars, so harrassed the British that they retreated with considerable loss. Mrs. Caldwell, the wife of Parson Caldwell, was shot and killed in her home. It was a notable day for Elizabeth, but its anniversary is rarely celebrated to any great extent.

Those interested in the preservation of the Palisades have been awakened into renewed activity by the recent explosion of the big blast at Indian Head, just below Fort Lee. A meeting will be held at Union Hill tonight, to take steps to preserve the Palisades and erect thereon a monument to Admiral Dewey. Major S. Wood McClave, a member of the Palisades Commission, has made all the arrangements for the meeting. Major McClave's idea is to purchase the Palisades and erect thereon a monument to Admiral Dewey. The money necessary he hopes to raise by subscription. An appeal will be made to the American people and Mr. McClave hopes that their patriotism will lead all to respond.

William C. Ayers, of West Second street, who is now in his ninety-first year, and who is one of Plainfield's most observing men, occupied himself yesterday for two hours in a pleasant and interesting way. He desired to learn exactly how many people, bicycles, horses and wagons passed his place in the course of an hour In the morning from 7:50 to 8:50 there went past his house 33 double teams, 119 single ones, 77 bicycles, 83 males on foot and 51 females on foot. Yesterday afternoon from 4:55 to 5:55 there were 18 double teams and 91 single ones that passed, and 112 bicycles. There was also 89 males and 50 females on foot. These figures are large, as well as interesting, considering that Second street is one of the parellel avenues to the main street in the city.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. and others interested will be pleased to know that preparations are being made to again open "Camp Northfield" at Northfield, Mass., under the auspices of the association. This is a delightful place to spend a few weeks of the heated period. Many employes of city business houses and others find in the camp the hearty recreation of a summer outing with the spiritual privileges afforded by the Northfield gatherings near at hand. The camp is pleasantly situated on the mountain side in a grove known as "Cathedral Pines," about half a mile from the village, being within easy walking distance to other centres of interest, yet affording absolute retirement. The rates for board are very reasonable, a young man being able to procure an abundance of wholesome food, with tent lodging, at $4 per week. Railroad fares can be had at reduced rates also. All interested in "Camp Northfield" can secure full information by addressing A. G. Moody, East Northfield, Mass.

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

DAINTY LINGERIE.

We still have many of the sample garments left notwithstanding the enormous sale of them. This is a rare opportunity to get fine garments at exactly ⅓ value.

Closing Out Sale of Lots On West 4th and 5th Sts, Bet. Grant & Monroe Ave.

It is apparent to all that the section of our city between Grant and Monroe Avenues and West Fourth Street and Sherman Avenue owned by the Plainfield Real Estate Company, is rapidly becoming a most desirable place for a home. Many beautiful cottages have been erected during the past year, and the restrictions contained in conveyances make it impossible that other than desirable buildings shall ever be erected upon this property.

A few lots on West Fourth and Fifth Streets still remain unsold, and to close these out, we offer them for the next thirty days at the old prices, which, considering the increase in valuation, is a great bargain for the purchaser.

An agent will be on the ground on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 6 o'clock to show the exact location of the lots, and further information will be freely furnished at any time a the office of

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 9—Boroughites are watching with considerable interest for the appointment of a regular postmaster to take the place of Charles Coriell, recently relieved of the position. The appointment may be made any day. It is now said that Dr. Brakeley is not looking for the office, and if this is true there seems to be but little doubt but what Adam Dealaman will get the plum.

Wednesday evening, June 14th, the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a special meeting, at which time Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of North Plainfield, is expected to make an address.

The special musicale that was to be given next Sunday at Holy Innocents' church has been postponed until later in the season. The usual services will be held in the morning, but there will be none in the afternoon.

The Dunellen Banjo Club was entertained a few evenings ago by Miss Emma Nelson, and a delightful programme of music was rendered, after which an enjoyable supper was served.

The Borough Council is making good progress with the laying of sidewalks about the town, and this improvement is greatly appreciated.

Next Monday evening a musicale will be given by Mrs. George Porter, of Elizabeth, and the Misses Jamison, of this place, will take part.

Miss Mabel Jamison will take part in a musicale to be given by Miss Winnie Whitney, at Elizabeth, tomorrow afternoon.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 9.—Quite a large audience gathered in the Fanwood firehouse last evening to witness the dramatic entertainment given by the young people of the borough for the benefit of the fire company. The programme rendered was an excellent one and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The entertainment was followed by dancing and refreshments. Quite a nice sum will be realized for the company.

Seeley's Mill has closed down for an indefinite period. This throws about twenty men out of employment. There seems to be but little call for the stock on the market, while only a few years ago the mill was kept running night and day to meet the demands of the market.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

THE LATEST STYLE.

Pretty Gowns and Attractive Wraps Now Seen.

For elaborate and elegant toilets pale and delicate tints are the newest. White, pastel blue and pale rose are seen among pearl, mastic, cream, gray, lavender, the best models, which are often very simply made, the delicate tone and perfect cut of the gown giving it its chief claim to the first rank. Peplums and tunics after the antique style are frequently seen as a part of rich costumes, the skirt being of the trailing order, of course.

Boleros are almost invariably the accompaniment of tailor made gowns and as outer garments are largely replacing capes, although the latter, in cloth, are useful for traveling wraps, or, short and very elaborate, are still in demand for evening wear or for use with elaborate gowns. The approaching decline of the cape in general favor is owing to the change of style in gowns. While these were comparatively ample, and sleeves were large, the cape was convenient and suitable. Now that the fashion has changed to clinging, trailing robes, outlining distinctly the arms and the entire figure, the cape is becoming undesirable because it tends to conceal or at least veil the form.

The cut shows a pretty little mantle of black peau de soie embroidered in open patterns over straw satin. It is close fitting behind and is bordered with three ruffles of black lace headed by a ruche of mousseline de soie. The capuchon of plain peau de soie is lined with ruches of cream mousseline de soie, and the flaring collar is made to match. The lining of the mantle is straw silk. The accompanying hat of black straw is trimmed with bluets and gauze wings.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE SUMMER SEASON.

Dainty Fabrics For Elegant Summer Costumes.

For the warm season charming gowns are designed of satin merveilleux, gauzes striped with velvet and foulards of all varieties, some resembling Sevres china, others showing Scotch plaid effects.

TUNIC COSTUME.

Small, conventional figures are the favorites among printed silks, and the pattern is, as a rule, well spread over the ground.

The wearing of ornaments in the hair has always been more favored in France than in America, but even there the fashion is gradually declining.

Instead of adopting one special perfume and always using it, as was formerly considered most elegant, the fashionable woman now changes her perfumes with her gowns, using a different scent with each, according to her ideas of what is appropriate to the costume and the occasion.

An illustration is given of a remarkably pretty summer costume for ceremonious wear. The lower skirt is of ecru guipure applied upon white silk. Over this is an accordion plaited tunic of sky blue crepe de chine, caught up in coquilles at the left side by a chou of black velvet. The bodice, of sky blue plaited crepe de chine, has a plastron and epaulets of ecru guipure over white silk, with a decoration of black velvet choux. The plain sleeves are of ecru guipure over white silk, the collar frill of guipure. The accompanying hat, of leghorn straw of the shepherdess shape, is trimmed with pink azaleas and black ostrich plumes. The parasol is of sky blue silk, with a band of ecru guipure insertion.

Berlin. Hier wurde dieser Tage eine Ausstellung für Krankenpflege eröffnet. Es sind nicht nur die neuesten technischen Instrumente darin vorgeführt, sondern auch ein Musterkrankenzimmer, ein Desinfektionszimmer und eine Krankenküche ausgestellt. Auch die öffentlichen Behörden haben die Ausstellung beschickt.—Die geschiedene Frau des Schauspielers Baron Wangenhein, der unter dem Namen Eduard v. Winterstein dem Deutschen Theater angehört, hat sich erhängt. Die reizende junge Frau, welche früher selbst Schauspielerin gewesen, nahm sich die Scheidung ungemein zu Herzen und war in letzter Zeit in Trübsinn verfallen. Auch ihr Vater endete durch Selbstmord.—Professor Locke Richardson, der Redekünstler und dramatische Vorleser, unterzog sich in der Bergmann'schen Klinik der Operation einer Magenresektion. Ein krebsartiges Geschwür wurde ausgeschnitten, aber man hat keine Hoffnung, den Patienten am Leben zu erhalten.

Kalau. In der Nähe von hier fand eine Zugentgleisung statt, bei welcher eine Frau Hauer aus Berlin, eine Frau Schador aus Rixdorf, der Zugführer Brand und der Bremser Muller schwer und 14 andere Personen leichter verletzt wurden.

Kottbus. Beim Baden in der offenen Spree am Sanpeberge im benachbarten Sandow ist der zehnjährige Realschüler Friedrich Graske ertrunken.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 11, "A Perfect Child"—Text, Luke ii, 40-52.

"Strong in spirit, filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him."

The apocrypha of the New Testament is an interesting collection of documents less known than even the apocrypha of the Old Testament. Among the stories contained in it are narratives of the boyhood of Jesus. These are mostly very fanciful romances. The New Testament gives a sober view of these early years and shows us a child growing naturally in the home influences of Nazareth, just as a child should grow in all Christian homes today. He grew strong in body and true hearted to parents and God. The supernatural developed in the natural way and made Him the model boy and the Divine Man.

This week special attention is given to childhood training in all our churches. Since the adoption in 1866 of the second Snday of June as Children's day the movement has grown with each succeeding anniversary. There is little danger that too much thought will be given to the best training of children. The dangers that confront the youth in city and country, the prevalence of lax ideas and the lack of proper home influences threaten grave consequences unless counteracted. The League and Sunday school are powerful for good in aiding the development of child character.

High ideals are necessary. We must have clear conceptions of what a good child is. The notion that to be a good boy one must of necessity lack life and spirit and either be a sickly prig or a morbid monstrosity, if it ever prevailed, is now no longer influential. A vigorous physique, bright mental powers and genuine piety are now known to be mutually helpful, and the best kind of a boy and girl combines the three. There are at least five qualities which need cultivation in every child.

First.—Obedience to law must be insisted upon. This means in the earliest years obedience to parents, teachers and all who are superiors in position. Then comes the recognition of law as back of their authority and submission to the right as necessary.

Second.—Reverence follows obedience. Lack of these leads to crime. The babe in the cradle must and will learn these principles, in fact, as quickly as love is learned by the mother's kiss, or else disobedience and irreverence grow rapidly. The baby fist and cry are signs of the baby spirit which needs direction.

Third.—Self reliance or trustfulness of one's own powers of mind and body and soul must come after the training of subjection to rightful authority.

Fourth.—Self control is as essential to character as the governor is to the steam engine. Without it, self reliance may lead to fatal explosions.

Fifth.—Self sacrifice comes last as the crowning grace and power. It is willing direction of all powers for another's good. It makes the heroic companion on the ball ground and in danger of all kinds. It makes the true lover and home builder.

From One Home.

It has often been remarked that one home often sends out into the world several children who fill more than a common sphere of influence. Not infrequently a Methodist parsonage has been the cradle of characters that have left deep impress on the world. Such a home was that of Rev. George Brown Macdonald, a wealthy Wesleyan preacher of England. His father was a Wesleyan preacher also. From this home went a daughter who became wife of Sir Edward Burne-Jones, the artist; another was wife of Sir Edward Poynter, director of the National gallery and president of the Royal academy; a third is wife of a great ironmaster of the west of England, who is also member of parliament; a fourth is mother of Rudyard Kipling, and a son is one of the secretaries of the Wesleyan Missionary society and was fraternal delegate to our general conference in 1880, Rev. Frederick Macdonald. That was a home worth having.

Learn to Plod.

Every one has to learn to walk before he can run. This is slow work, but there is no escape from its necessity. So in nearly all affairs in life we must do slowly and with much care and effort what we wish to be able to do with ease and rapidity afterward. No one soars to heaven, however he may dream and wish. Virtue and righteousness and pure Christian character must be made by little daily acts, repeated over and over again, with care and thought and persistent intention to get used to doing right. Mistakes must be found and corrected. Plod, plod, plod; that is the rule. One foot before the other, slowly, thoughtfully, patiently, then after much practice we find it becoming ever more easy to "run with patience the race that is set before us."

Coming to Our Own.

Out of the shadows of sadness
Into the sunshine of gladness,
Into the light of the blest;
Out of a land very dreary,
Out of a world very weary,
Into the rapture of rest.

Out of today's sin and sorrow,
Into a blissful tomorrow,
Into a day without gloom;
Out of a land filled with sighing,
Land of the dead and the dying,
Into a land without tomb.

Out of a life of commotion,
Tempest swept oft as the ocean,
Dark with the wrecks drifting o'er;
Into a land calm and quiet.
Never a storm cometh nigh it;
Never a wreck on its shore.

Out of a world in whose bowers
Whither the fairest of flowers,
Touched with the blight of decay;
Into the Eden where rarest
Of blossoms, the sweetest, the fairest,
Open forever and aye.

Out of this land of the stranger,
Full of disaster and danger,
Where in sad exile we roam;
Into the joyland above us,
The home of the Father who loves us,
Into our home, sweet home.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning June 11—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—A perfect child.—Luke ii, 40-52. (Children's day.)

But one perfect child ever lived—the Lord Jesus Christ. Joseph's childhood, so far as it is recorded, seems to have been very near to perfection, and yet in him the evidences of human weaknesses were clearly seen.

Little is known of the real childhood of Christ. The record of His birth and infancy is quite complete, and then silence reigns. In human biographies the incidents of childhood are eagerly seized upon and magnified, but God's ways are not man's ways. We might suppose that where God has been silent man would also assume a similar attitude, but this has not been the case. The apocryphal gospels tell wonderful stories of the child Jesus. Nothing more is needed to prove their spurious character. Jesus was probably reared in childhood as every other Jewish child, taught the law at home and in the schools of the synagogue and learned in the arts of His father's trade.

One incident alone breaks the silence of Christ's childhood. At 12 years of age for the first time He attended the Feast of the Passover. What memories must have clustered round this first visit to the great feast! Here also for the first time He gave evidences of His consciousness of His mission in the world—to do His Father's business. "Wist ye not," He said to His mother, "that I must be about My Father's business?" This is the first utterance of Christ to show that there was dawning on His consciousness, even in His childhood days, His mission and duty in the world.

The one thing emphasized about Christ here is His growth. "The child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and the grace of God was upon Him." "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man." He grew physically, mentally and spiritually. This is the work of a perfect childhood, growth, development, and in Christ is set forth the ideal growth, in body, mind and spirit. How careful parents and teachers should be that there is this threefold growth in childhood, in proper proportion! All depends upon the proper growth of a child. No element of his nature should be neglected, and none cultivated at the expense of the other, and specially should we be guarded against the development of body and mind at the expense of the soul. Many teachers and parents carefully develop body and mind, but leave soul development to after years. No more serious mistake could ever be made. In our Endeavor societies, in the Sunday school, in the home, let us aim at the ideal—a child properly and proportionately developed in body, mind and soul.

Bible Readings.—Ex. xx, 12; Lev. xix, 3, 32; Deut. v, 16; xxx, 1-3; Prov. i, 7-15; vi, 20-23; xv, 1-5; xxii, 6; xxiii, 20-26; Eccl. xii, 1; Luke. xviii, 15-17; Eph. vi, 1-3; Col. iii, 20; II Tim. i, 3-5.

Power of Good.

Try, above all, "the expulsive power of good affections." Empty by filling—empty of what is mean and impure by filling with what is noble and lovely. When the argonauts sailed past the treacherous rocks of the Sirens they sailed in perfect safety because Orpheus was one of them, and the song of Orpheus was sweeter, more delightful, more full of noble witchery, than the Sirens' vile, voluptuous strains. Let your souls be filled with music of Him whom the early Christians delighted to represent as Orpheus charming the wild beasts of bad passions by his harp. Your souls are a picture gallery. Let their walls be hung with all things sweet and perfect—the thought of God, the image of Christ, the lives of God's saints, the aspirations of good and great men, the memories of golden deeds.—Canon Farrar.

Pain, Failure and Shame.

There are certain great angels which meet us in the way of life. Pain is one, failure is another, shame is another. Pain looks us full in the eyes, and we must wrestle with him before he blesses us. Failure brings in his stern hand the peace of renunciation. Shame bears to us the sense of sin which is the knowledge of God. His hidden face shines with the mercy of heaven, and well for us if we may look into it.—Margaret Deland.

A True Measure.

Giving according to ability is the true measure of liberality, and such persons are in condition to devise liberal things for the reason they are recognized as leaders in all benevolent movements, and these movements depend for their continuance upon liberally disposed people. A person may be willing and liberal, but brusque and distasteful; his gifts annoy more than comfort.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Whither Are We Going?

The proof of a path is its end. He is wise who looks to the conclusion of the road he is following. Many a flowered path leads to a precipice. The broad way, to the shortsighted eye, at times seems fairer than the way that is straight and narrow. But the end tests. To what end are we going?—William T. Ellis.

God Stays the Waves.

In sailing o'er life's troubled sea
Along the way rough storms may be;
The waves may dash, the winds may blow
Upon thy bark while here below,
Yet a hush'd voice comes soft and low,
"The waters shall not o'er thee flow."

When troubles come and dark the way,
When anxious care fills all the day,
When, sad and worn, you long for rest,
Lean close, dear heart, on Jesus' breast.
Yet a hush'd voice comes soft and low,
"The waters shall not o'er thee flow."

Oh, fearful heart, the storm will cease!
Some day you'll reach that port of peace
Where all the tears are wiped away,
Where not a cloud obscures the day;
Sweet comes the voice, "You now can see God staid the waves from over thee."
—John L. Newkirk.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XI, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 11.

Comments by Wm. K. Fisher—Subject: Christ Risen, John 20: 11-20—Golden Text: Now Is Christ Risen From the Dead, 1 Cor. 15:20. (Compare Matthew 28: 1-8; Mark 16: 1-8; Luke 24: 1-12.)

Jesus was in the tomb three days—"part of Friday, Saturday, and part of Sunday, April 7-9, which according to Jewish reckoning would be called three days. The same method of reckoning years was employed with reference to the reign of Jewish kings.

Precautions were taken to make sure that Jesus was really dead. The centurion was satisfied of the fact, and so reported to Pilate. The piercing of his body with a spear and the flowing of water and blood from the wound was of itself a proof of death.

The friends of Jesus knew that his death was a fact, and did not expect him to return in the body.

After the body of Jesus was laid in the tomb, at the request of the chief priests, the stone against the door was sealed, and a guard of soldiers was placed at the tomb to prevent his friends from taking the body and declaring he had risen. Eidersheim says: "There is a sublime irony in the contrast between man's elaborate precautions and the ease with which the divine hand can sweep them away."

Of the actual details of the ressurrection we know nothing, but there must have been a great manifestation of power, as it was accompanied by an earthquake, and the soldiers became as dead men ,and the stone was rolled away by an angel.

Writing on "Proofs of the Resurrection," Peloubet says: "Only that fact can account for the marvelous change in the spirit and character of the apostles."

Mary had come to the Saviour's tomb "when it was yet dark," and seeing the stone rolled away, supposed the enemies of the Master had taken away his body; this caused her to return quickly and tell, what she supposed was sad news. Then Peter and John ran both together, but while John out ran Peter and was first at the tomb, Peter was the first to enter the sepulchre; they both saw the empty tomb and the linen clothes and the napkin lying "in a place by itself." It brought sorrow to their hearts. "For as yet they knew not the Scripture, that he must rise again." They then "went away again unto their own home," but Mary tarried at the tomb, and as she wept she looked in."

"The other women were terrified, but Mary seems to have had no fear, verse 13, so wholly was she taken up with her great desire of finding her Lord." (Jacobus).

"Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, suposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away."

Supposing him to be the gardener, a servant of Joseph of Arimathea, she did not hesitate to open her heart to him, and explain why she was sad and weeping.

"Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself ,and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master."

"Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not: for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God."

In explaining the meaning of "Touch me not," Bishop Vincent says: "The verb primarily means to fasten to; hence it implies not a mere momentary touch, but a clinging to." Another writer says the translation is inadequate and gives a false impression; to merely touch him, Jesus not only allowed, but enjoined. (Luke 24:39). But Grimm explains it thus: "Do not seek to learn by touching me whether I am even now clothed with a body; there is no need of this search, for I have not yet ascended to the Father." In this verse Jesus speaks of his disciples as brethren for the first time.

Mary gladly obeyed the command of the Master, and so was transformed from a weeping mourner, to a herald of joyful news.

On the day he arose, Jesus apeared five times. When he appeared in the midst of his "brethren," although the doors were shut (no doubt fastened) it is not to be wondered at that they were terrified. Notwithstanding they had seen him hush the waves to quietness, walk upon the sea, and even raise the dead, his sudden appearance startled them.

"And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord."

Peloubet says the showing of his hands and feet was essential to the complete proof of his resurrection and to prove that he was the same Jesus, with the same body, that had been crucified.

A Mushroom Juice Vaccine.

It does not yet appear that steak and mushrooms, taken in the ordinary way, will cure that well-known disorder which makes a man see snakes; but it is reported from France that inoculation with a preparation of mushroom juice will overcome the effects of a viper's bite. M. Thesalix describes a number of experiments which he has conducted with this fluid, obtained by macerating the fungi in an equal weight of chloroform water. After twenty-four hours the solution is drawn off and filtered. At first it is of a brownish hue, but it soon turns to an inky blackness. Subcutaneous injections of the extract produce in rabbits the same symptons as the venom of a viper. The account at hand does not, however, specify that the new serum has been effectually employed to restore an animal that has first been bitten by a snake, or had been inoculated artificially with viper venom. As the case stands, therefore, the alleged discovery needs to be developed further before its practical value can be looked upon as fully demonstrated.

An Absolute Monarch.

In Servia there still survives a wonderful old institution known as the Zadruga. It is the living together of a whole tribe, numbering sometimes as many as 100 persons, all under the absolute authority of one chief. He keeps all the money, makes all the purchases and decides the minutest details of family life.

The Young Stars of America beat the East Ends yesterday by a score of 3 to 4. Mullens, Higgins and Ross were the battery for the Young Stars and Townley and Conway for the East Ends.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In Monday's issue of your esteemed paper I noticed in the account of the game of baseball played by the Bachelors Club against the High School Saturday last that the main reason given by the latter for their defeat was the professional battery employed by the victors. As I am one of the so called "pros" I want to refute the above statement both on my account and the pitcher's as well. The above story, circulated by the High School to cover up a clear cut and decisive defeat, is not only a very unjust one, but it also shows a not to be desired spirit of fairness in sport; and one, let us hope, that as the boys get older will give place to more sportsmanlike spirit that will enable them to take defeat like men. Again I say the story is a base untruth for not only did we not receive any remuneration for our services but also are members, in good standing I hope, of the club with whom we played.

THOMPSON SET ON BY SENATOR SEWELL.

An Interesting Meeting Between the Two Republicans.

WRONG KIND OF HARMONY.

BIG BOSS SAID TO HAVE CRITICISED LITTLE BOSS.

Jersey City News Tells an Interesting Piece of Inside Political News About the War Among Somerset County Republicans—Senator Sewell Would Not Use His Influence for Mr. Thompson.

The following very interesting political gossip about an alleged interview between Chancery Clerk Thompson and Senator Sewell, just as the latter was about to leave for Europe is printed by the Jersey City News:

Lewis A. Thompson, by the grace of John William Griggs occupant of the lucrative office of Clerk in Chancery, and by his own imagination Republican leader of Somerset, is talking for publication and very sweet and honeyed are his words.

"It's a mistake to believe the Republicans of Somerset are quarreling," he said recently to a Trenton newspaper man, "why, we are all brothers in a common cause and we will elect a Republican Senator without the shadow of a doubt"—and then Lewis A. beamed on the newspaper men as he used to beam on the ladies when he was in business in Somerset.

Mr. Thompson has not always talked in these honeyed accents. In fact it was not more than a month ago that Mr. Thompson's remarks about the situation in Somerset were flavored with wormwood and gall. The mere mention to him of Senator Reed's name was sufficient to wrinkle his brow and cause him to frown as he used to when he found half of his spring stock on his hands in the fall. The cause of the great change is attributed to that rugged old Republican war horse, Gen. Sewell.

When the "Sage of Camden" sailed for Europe a few days ago one of the most conspicuous of the many beautiful floral tokens which encumbered his stateroom was one bearing the card of Mr. Thompson. It was good to look upon and attracted much attention. When the many friends of the General began to crowd about him upon the steamer to bid him good-bye, wish him bon voyage and all that, conspicuous in the front rank was Mr. Thompson and one or two gentlemen of his faction, all smiles and scrapes, bobbing their heads and extending their hands to be shook by the great man of West Jersey. They were all expectancy and the thermometer of their hopes was somewhere in the neighborhood of fever heat. With the flowers and the prestige of having carried an election or two, they seemed to believe that the General would say something which would completely squelch the opposition of Senator Reed.

Their hopes dropped to the zero point when they saw the General. His face wore that awfully dignified look which always denotes that the General is "agin you," and means that you need ask no favors. He took Mr. Thompson's outstretched hand, bowed as an emperor might bow at a presentation, thanked him for his beautiful flowers and hoped that he was well.

It appears that Mr. Thompson could not or would not read these unmistakable signs and immediately blurted out something about the Somerset trouble.

The General straightened himself up to his Major-General's height and beckoned Mr. Thompson to one side.

Then he went for him.

He told Mr. Thompson that he was making a great mistake in keeping up the fight in Somerset, that, in fact, he was doing no more or less than turning the county over to the Democrats. Mr. Thompson need not expect no help from him in his fight, and if he wanted to help the Republican party and at the same time assist the General in getting another term in the United States Senate, he had better get back to Somerset and heal up the breach as soon as he could.

So this is the reason why Mr. Thompson is now talking harmony.

Chicken Thieves at Work.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 10.—Chicken thieves visited the French farm on South Broad street, just over the line in Fanwood township, last night, and made a raid on the henhouse of H. Bunker, who lives on the farm. About sixty choice fowls were stolen.

Mrs. Garrett Eick and her daughter Miss Georgie Eick, of East Third street, were the guests yesterday of Mrs. W. C. Bolton, of Brooklyn.

WAR RELICS FOR JERSEY

TWO CAPTURED SPANISH CANNON GIVEN TO THIS STATE.

One Goes to Paterson and the Other Probably to Trenton—Governor Voorhees Has Had Many Applications.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 10.—Gov. Voorhees last evening received a letter from Washington informing him that the War department had selected two of the Spanish cannon captured in or about Santiago to go to the State of New Jersey, but one of these Vice-President Hobart has sought for the city of Paterson, having made a direct application to the War Department for the field piece.

The remaining cannon was left for Gov. Voorhees. As he has received already half a score of applications for the captured field piece, with prospects of many others coming, the Governor decided that Trenton, the State capital, would be the proper place to send it. He immediately wrote to Mayor Briggs if he would accept the cannon on the condition that it be planted on the lawn in front of the State House.

Gov. Voorhees said many places would be disappointed, but as he only had one cannon, under the circumstances he fancied this was the wisest choice to make. Newark, Westfield, Morristown and the soldiers' Home at Vineland were the first four applicants.

ANXIOUS FOR TROLLEY NOW

Sayreville Residents Favor Granting Franchise to Brunswick Traction Company.

Residents of Sayreville who attended the public meeting to listen to the application of the Brunswick Traction Company for a franchise to extend its line through from South River to South Amboy expressed themselves Wednesday night as in favor of the granting of the desired permission. When the line was first built, three years ago, the company was unable to get a franchise for its tracks through Sayreville township, but the sentiment of the residents has undergone a great change, and now they are anxious to have the line built.

With the completion of the six miles of road from South River to South Amboy the Brunswick Traction Company will have about twenty five miles of trolley line in Middlesex and Somerset counties. The completion of the route from New Brunswick to South Amboy will afford an outlet for the citizens of that place to the seashore, and will also prove of service to the residents of Somerville who wish to avail themselves of it. The Brunswick Traction Company has honeycombed Middlesex county with its system.

LUNCH WAGON TO MOVE.

Father and Son Intend Driving Son and Brother Out of Business.

According to the New Brunswick Times it is reported that New Brunswick is to have another night lunch wagon, the proprietor of the Plainfield lunch wagon having announced his intention of coming here with the idea of driving Harry Silverstein out of business.

The Plainfield wagon has been conducted for some time by Harry Silverstein's father and brother whom he bought out in this city. As soon as they heard that the partnership of Silverstein & Ekus had been dissolved they hurried to this city and made an effort to form a partnership with Harry Silverstein. He had had enough of the partnership business and would not consent to any such arrangement.

Then they declared their intention of starting an opposition wagon, having been unable to secure a stand on Albany street, just below the corner of George street, where they proposed having a restaurant, the price of $1,000 being too rich for their blood. The wagon has not appeared yet but it is looked for very soon. The new comers expect to get all of their son's and brother's patrons in short order.

OUT OF JAIL VIA ROOF.

SLID DOWN A ROPE OF BED TICKING WHILE JAILERS SLEPT.

The Institution Famed for the Ease With Which Men Can Either Break in or Out of It—Jail Breakers Got Away all Right.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, June 10—The Middlesex county jail bids fair to become the paradise for jail breakers since two more of its inmates, tiring of prison fare and the monotony of jail life, have escaped from that institution, justly famed for the ease with which lawbreakers break out of or into it. The escape which was made yesterday is no less bold in its execution than those already on record in connection with the history of the jail. The two men who escaped are Frederick Schlatter and John Miller.

Schlatter and Miller cut a hole through the roof and lowered themselves to the ground by a rope. Their absence was discoverd early yesterday morning, when David Messler, the jailer, made his morning rounds. In their cell he found a table knife with a six-inch blade, and near it a small piece of iron rod, a quarter inch in diameter and eight inches long, with a sharpened point on one end. The plastering had been scraped from the ceiling, a small hole cut through one of the boards of the roof and the iron bar had been inserted into the hole and by main strength forced upward and broken off.

When the men reached the roof it did not take long to get to the ground by means of a rope of bed ticking. Then the fence was scaled with ease and as the two prisoners ran down Paterson street, they were seen by Peter Wyckoff, who gave the alarm. It was about this time that Messler discovered that the fugitives were missing.

Schlatter was sentenced last Saturday to two years in State Prison. Miller was serving thirty days for vagrancy, having been sent to jail from Perth Amboy.

COMPANY M OFFICERS.

Somerville Guardsmen Choose Their Commanders.

The election of non-commissioned officers of Company M, Second Regiment, formerly Company H, Third Regiment, in which was several Plainfielders during the late war, has been held. There was quite a spirited contest over the election. The commissioned officers remain the same: Captain, Gilbert S. Cook; First Lieutenant, John E. Wherly; Second Lieutenant, Irving Weaver.

The officers elected are: First Sergeant, William Koehler; Second, Joseph Vickery; Third, Erich Houston; Fourth, Roy Houston; Fifth, Julius Sauter; First Corporal, H. MacAleavy; Second, Fred Hoagland; Third, Harry Seals; Fourth, Jacob Smith; Fifth, Bert Richardson.

The company expect their new equipments every day and will soon be measured for their new uniforms.

To Harmonize Trolley Matters.

Plans are under way to harmonize matters between the Plainfield Street Railway Company and the Brunswick Traction Company so that people going from this city to Dunellen will not have to pay two fares to ride into Dunellen. This matter has been under advisement for sometime between parties who can no doubt arrange it satisfactorily, and it is to be hoped that the purpose will be accomplished.

A Book Typewriter.

Surrogate Spencer has a book typewriter in use at his office, which is admirably adapted for keeping the records of the office in compact, concise and legible form, printing everything with such clear impression as to render the reading easy to any one and at the same time taking up much less space in the books than ordinary handwriting, however neatly that may be done.

Bought Farm of Trolley Company.

Wm. Haelig has bought of the Brunswick Traction Company, the property known as the Taylor farm, located on the electric railway line between Bound Brook and Finderne—about 75 acres, for $7,000—the price paid for it by Mr. Radel in order to secure right of way for the traction company now running cars in front thereof.

GHASTLY STORY ABOUT BOYS' SUICIDE CLUB

Percy Cox's Desperate Act Causes Sensational Talk.

COMPACT OF SCHOOL BOYS?

SEVERAL SAID TO HAVE RESOLVED TO END THEIR OWN LIVES.

The Son of a Prominent Citizen Connected With the Story, But There Was No Occasion for It—Funeral of Cox Boy Will be Held Tomorrow—His Father Arrived Home Yesterday.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, June 10.—A ghastly story was circulated around town last night as a result of the sensational suicide of Percy Cox, the fourteen-year-old boy. It was to the effect that the lad's desperate act was the result of a compact entered into between himself and a number of schoolmates to form a "Suicide Club," each one agreeing to end his own life. It was alleged that young Cox was the one chosen to inaugurate the fatal work of the club.

The rumor connected the name of another boy, the son of a prominent citizen, with the suicidal mania. He had been taken to a hospital for treatment and the gossip said that he had tried to cut his throat. The whole thing was a hoax.

The funeral services over the remains of the boy will be held from his parents' home on New York avenue tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

County Physician Westcott, of Fanwood, viewed the remains yesterday noon, and, after hearing the story of Mrs. Cox, decided that no inquest was necessary and that the boy had met death by accident, but this is hardly the case as everything goes to show that he had premeditated the act.

A pail was found in the cellar this morning containing whitewash, and it is now thought that he stood on this while placing the chain around his neck as under where the body was found there was some of the whitewash and a trail of it led to the spot where the pail was found.

Mr. Cox, the father, who was away from home Thursday evening, arrived home yesterday afternoon and was almost crazed when he found that his favorite son was dead by his own hand. Neither he nor his mother can give any reason for the rash act of their son.

TROLLEY RIGHTS GIVEN

FREEHOLDERS GRANT REQUESTS OF E. AND W. STREET RAILWAY.

Must Keep Roads in Good Repair and Do the Work Under County Supervision—Use of a Cranford Bridge.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, June 10.—An adjourned meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders was held yesterday afternoon and the matter of the application of the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company, for the right to construct a double track road 1,700 feet along Westfield avenue, in Rahway, acted upon. The proposed new road will form a connection with the Union and the Middlesex road, which runs to Boynton Beach and Seawaren.

County Attorney Codington, of Plainfield, drew up articles of agreement, which provide that the company should macadamize the road for a short distance on each side of the rails, and that they should keep the roadbed in repair in the future. The work is also to be performed under the supervision of County Engineer Sauer. After the company had signified its willingness to accept the terms the Freeholders granted the necessary permission.

The application of the company for the right to cross the county bridges on South avenue at Cranford was also considered, but not acted upon. The bridge is not considered strong enough to allow cars to be run over it. The bridge committee will have a conference with the trolley company to effect some arrangement for the strengthening of the bridge, after which the application will be granted.

At Thursday's meeting the matter of constructing a county road from the Mountain road, in Fanwood township, to connect with a road in Somerset county, a distance of over 2 200 feet, was taken up and discussed. The sentiment of the Board was against putting the county to the expense of building this road, so the proposition was voted down.

Not Going Out of Business.

The report having been circulated that W. H. Williams, the veteran newsdealer, was going out of business, investigation, by a Press reporter finds the report without any foundation whatever.

MAY SMASH SEWER PLAN

GOVERNMENT MAY BE AGAINST THE VALLEY DRAINAGE SYSTEM.

Cannot Empty Into the Kills—Hudson County Engineer Says a Long Contest is Likely to Be the Result.

A Hudson county engineer who is in close touch with the War Department at Washington, is authority for the statement that the Federal Government will not permit the construction of the large intercepting sewer, plans for which are now under way for the drainage of the Orange Valley.

The sewer was designed to empty into the Arthur Kills, the narrow channel connecting the Raritan River and Newark Bay. It was to carry off the sewage of South Orange, Vailsburg, West Orange, Irvington, Milburn and a part of Newark and perhaps Summit.

"A long contest will probably be the outcome of the attitude of the War Department on the subject," the engineer said. "The Government engineers are watching the trunk sewer plans closely, and will interfere just as soon as it is definitely announced that the outlet will be on the Arthur Kills. The State Commission is considering the plans, and, recognizing the gravity of the sewage problem along the Passaic River, will probably grant the required permit. The Orange Valley drainage problem and the Passaic pollution question dovetail closely and have been agitated for years.

"At the last session of Congress a bill was passed for the deepening of the Arthur Kills and the Passaic up to Paterson, to make them navigable. Plans have been prepared, and the Government engineers are in charge of the streams. They have given it to be understood that they will not permit the trunk sewer to empty into the Kills."

ROAD TO BE BUILT.

An All-Rail Route From Paterson to Trenton.

J. E. Melick, who is promoting a scheme to build a railroad from Paterson to Morristown and thence to Somerville to connect for Trenton, writes that the rumor that the project has been abandoned is untrue. "The route," he says, "would only require seventeen miles to be built to make an all-rail route from Paterson direct to Trenton, connecting the county seats of Passaic, Morris, Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer counties, as well as the State Capital with a short rail line, thus saving both time and money to the traveling public. I wish simply to say that the road will be built as surveyed by me and that good financial parties have endorsed the scheme."

An Oratorio Concert.

An oratorio concert will be given by the choir of the First Baptist church in behalf of Muhlenberg Hospital on the evening of Tuesday, June 27th, at which time "The Stabat Mater," Rossini, and "The Redemption," Gounod, will be given under the personal direction of E. J. Fitzhugh, conductor. The entire proceeds of the concert will be given to Muhlenberg Hospital, and this being a worthy object no doubt the patronage will be very large. Seats are now on sale at Armstrong's, Shaw's and Randolph's pharmacies. The advertisement appears in another part of the paper.

Wagon and Wheel Collided.

A young man named Matthews, residing in the West End, had a collision with Marion S. Ackerman, of Crescent avenue, this morning, at the corner of Park avenue and Second street. Matthews was on his wheel, while Mr. Ackerman, in company with his wife, were in a wagon. In attempting to turn the corner the wagon and wheel came together and the wheel was wreck quite badly. The rider escaped injury. Mr. Ackerman was in a hurry and told Matthews to have his wheel fixed and send the bill to him and he would settle.

TO FIGHT COOK'S CLAIM.

CRANFORD TO BE SUED FOR CRUSHED STONE FURNISHED.

Township Committee Met Last Night and Instructed the Township Attorney to Fight the Suit in Court.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Cranford, June 10—John G. Cook, owner of the Scotch Plains stone crusher, has started suit against the Township Committee of Cranford to recover a large amount of money due him for crushed stone furnished and used in building the beautiful thoroughfare known as Hampton street. The Township Committee held a special meeting behind closed doors last evening, the newspaper reporters being asked to leave the room, and decided to fight the suit, and Township Attorney Paul Q. Oliver, of Westfield, who was present, was so instructed.

The work on Hampton street was done during the term of Chairman Jasper C. Hunt and Committeeman N. R. Foster, the latter of whom was the road overseer of the district in which the new street is located. Both of these gentlemen were present at last evening's meeting. Contractor Cook claims that Committeeman Foster ordered the stone in the name of the township, but the latter states that the stone was delivered without authority so far as the Committee is concerned.

PLANNING FOR POLITICS.

Former Mayor Gilbert Chosen as Chairman of City Executive Committee.

A meeting of the city executive committee of the Republican organization in Plainfield was held last night for the approaching fall campaign.

Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington, who has been chairman for several years past, declined to continue in the position and handed in his resignation. Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert was elected to succeed Mr. Codington as chairman. Joseph A. Coward was re-elected secretary and treasurer of the committee.

The members of the committee indulged in considerable gossip about Union county politics, it being generally understood that Plainfield would capture at least one of the important nominations to be made this fall.

RODE OFF ON WRONG WHEEL

Police Notified, But the Rider Soon Found Out His Mistake.

There was a lively time at Endress' meat market last evening about 6 o'clock. It was all over a wheel belonging to Mr. Endress, which had suddenly disappeared. The police were notified and so was Rogers, the bicycle dealer, who was asked to look out for the thief and the wheel. Later, a well known citizen reported that in his absentmindness he had left his own wheel at another place of business and by mistake had helped himself to that of Mr. Endress, which he returned and duly apologized for his blunder.

Rev. W. D. Johnson, pastor of the Filmore Baptist church, and his wife, celebrated the eighteenth anniversary of their wedding last evening at their home, 444 West Third street. There were a number of guests present who joined merrily with the celebrants in having a general good time. A goodly number of fine presents were received and before the happy event came to a close a bountiful supper was served.

Poll Parrot From Porto Rico.

Patrick Maron, the well-known cobbler of West Second street, received this morning a valuable parrot from Walter Martin, who is now in Porto Rico. The bird was eight days in coming through by U. S. Express, and made many friends on the road. Mr. Maron prizes him highly and says that he is going to train him to vote the Democratic ticket.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Fritz Celebrate Their Silver Anniversary.

ELEVEN CHILDREN BORN

TO THIS INTERESTING COUPLE, ALL OF WHOM ARE LIVING.

There Are Nine Girls and Two Boys, the Eldest Being About Twenty-three Years of Age and the Youngest is an Infant Named After Queen Victoria—Interesting Account of Family.

Mr and Mrs. Adam Fritz celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage last evening at their handsome home on Somerset street. The occasion was a most auspicious one from the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Fritz have raised a large family of children, all of whom are living at home and were present at the anniversary.

Adam Fritz and Charlotte Trust were married in Newark, N. J., June 9th, 1874. Mrs. Fritz was a native of New York city, while Mr. Fritz was born near this city. His father's name was Godfrey Fritz. When quite a young man Mr. Fritz went west and for a time was engaged in the cattle business on the frontier. He returned from the west nearly thirty years ago and took up his residence in this city. It was some time afterwards, however, that he concluded to settle down.

That the union of this couple has been a happy one is apparent to all their numerous friends. In the twenty-five years of their married life eleven children have come to bring joy to the household. There are nine girls and two boys. Josephine Augusta, the eldest daughter, was born about 23 years ago. She is an accomplished young woman and counts many of Plainfield's best citizens among her dear friends. The youngest child is an infant about a year old, named Lucelle Victoria, in honor of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee. The names of the other children in the order of their birth are: Lottie Anna, Caroline, Marguerite, Albert Godfrey, Emma Louise, Mary Elizabeth, Arthur Augustus, Adelaide Barbara, Eveline Antoinette.

All of the children were born in the borough either in the home at present occupied by the family or in the adjoining house, which was the first house in which Mr. and Mrs. Fritz began housekeeping. None of the members of the family have ever experienced any serious illness, the children seeming to have inherited the rugged constitution of their parents. Neither are any of the children married, but make their home with the old folks.

At the silver anniversary of their wedding last night the children had prepared a surprise for their parents, by presenting them with a silver tea service of a handsome pattern. The presentation speech was made by Rev. Geo. Hauser, paster of the German Reformed church, of North Plainfield. Another interesting feature also of the happy event was the re marriage of the bride and groom of a quarter century ago.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor in the presence of a number of relatives from this city and abroad, besides some of their immediate friends and neighbors. The residence was prettily decorated for the occasion, a profusion of flowers and potted plants being in and about the parlors. An orchestra enlivened the occasion, which was heartily enjoyed by all. Mrs. Fritz was becomingly attired in a gown of lavender organdie, and it is safe to say looked as much the bride as she did on the day she plighted her troth just twenty-five years ago.

Among those present from out of town were Mrs. G. A. Weidermeyer, of Newark; Mrs. Victor Cook, Scranton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Trust, of North Carolina; Mrs. William Bonnemann and family, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Burrill, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Josephine Addison and son, of Brooklyn. The happy couple received many congratulations from a host of friends in this city and elsewhere.

Adam Fritz is a character in himself. He is impulsive and to some degree eccentric, but is considered a loyal friend and a fair enemy. He is blunt, outspoken, but withall strictly honest and upright in his dealings with his fellow-man. He boasts that he never did a dishonerable act in his life. By persistent energy he has gained a handsome competency. He is proud of his family, and he has a right to be for they are highly respected.

George Chandler and family, from New York, are stopping during the warm weather at the home of Mrs. Chandler's father, F. W. Miles, of Somerset street.

JEFFRIES IS THE CHAMPION

The California Boiler Maker Knocks Fitzsimmons Out in Eleventh Round

RESULT WAS A SURPRISE

Eight Thousand People Witness One of the Greatest Championship Battles Ever Fought.

Fitzsimmons Unable to Withstand the Californian's Powerful Blows—Jeffries Floors the Former Champion Many Times During the Fight—Betting Favored the New Zealander.

New York, June 10.—With the closing of the battle in the eleventh round when James Jeffries knocked out Robert Fitzsimmons before the Coney Island Athletic Club for the world's heavy weight championship, and a purse of $15,000, there passed into history one of the greatest battles ever fought in a prize ring, a new world's champion was made, and one of the most successful fighters the world has ever known, was placed in the background.

Both men had plenty of supporters at the ringside but it was plain to be seen when Fitzsimmons made his appearance that his admirers were very much in the majority, as he was cheered to the echo time and again as he walked down to take his place in the ring.

JIM. JEFFRIES.

The Californian was also greeted with hearty enthusiasm as he entered the Club room accompanied by Chas. Jeffries, his brother, Tommy Ryan and his other trainers. Jeffries weighed in at 210 and Fitzsimmons at 161.

Betting was brisk before the battle opened. Fitzsimmons ruled the favorite at odds of two to one and ten to seven, and there was a scarcity of Jeffries money at these odds.

It was about 10 o'clock when the Cornishman and the big boilermaker shook hands and faced each other for the first round and it was not many seconds later when hard fighting commenced in earnest.

Round 1—Fitz sprinted, trying to draw a lead. Fitz led left, but Jeffries ducked. Each led, but fell short. Jeffries led to forehead.

Round 2.—Fitz began forcing matters and they clinched. Jeffries land and stomach. Fitz put a left hook failed. Jeffries sent Fitz to the floor with a rush.

Round 3—Jeffries drew blood from Fitz's nose. Jeffries landed on head and stomach. Fitz's put a left hook squarely to the jaw. The fighting was fast. Fitz put his left into Jeffries's neck.

Round 5—Fitz got to Jeffries's eye, bringing blood. The Cornishman jabbed jaw and box t, rushing Jeffries to ropes. Bob smashed the sore eye twice and took a left in the mouth. Fitz slipped to his knees.

Round 7.—Jeff sprinted, and then they clinched. They exchanged harmless swings. Fitz jabbed the heart as the gong sounded.

Round 10—Jeff hooked left to jaw. Fitz put left to nose. Jeffries landed left to jaw and Fitz went down on back of his head. He was dazed. He came back, only to go down again. Bob clinched and Jeffries had it all his own way.

Round 11—Bob came back strong and landed right to body. Jeff put two lefts solid to mouth and stomach sending Fitz to the floor where he stayed until counted out by Referee Siler.

The announcement was made that the winner of the championship would spar four rounds with some well-known heavy-weight on Monday night.

More than eight thousand people saw the contest. When Fitzsimmons measured his length upon the platform and Referee Siler stood over him, counting off the seconds, there was a subdued roar like the approach of a tidal wave.

When the last second had been counted and Fitz failed to arise the roar developed into a mighty yell of mingled triumph and vexation.

In that last blow, delivered with all the force of the ex-boiler-maker's arm, fortunes had been won and lost.

When the referee announced that Jeffries had won there was a rush for the platform. Men climbed up, jumped over the ropes and surrounded the fighters, some with words of praise and others condolence.

RAILROAD WRECK

Many Persons Injured on the Kansas City and Gulf.

Kansas City, Mo., June 10.—Between forty and forty-five passengers were injured, three perhaps fatally by the derailment of train No. 4, southbound on the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf Railroad three miles south of Grandview, Mo. The train left Kansas City late, and was running at a slow rte of speed, on account of the bad condition of the track, caused by heavy rains. The injured were brought to this city and the seriously hurt taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and the others to the Savoy Hotel.

The list of those seriously injured is as follows: P. H. Williams, Moret, Mo. slight; Mrs. E. Chandler, Jaudon, Mo., internal; S. B. Powell, Mena, Ark., slight; B. C. Duffy, Fort Smith, Ark, hip sprained; Mrs. B. C. Duffy, badly bruised on side of face; Dr. W. T. Adams, Richards, Mo., slight cut on leg; C. J. Marrs, Christopher, Mo., right shoulder hurt; Arthur Scruggs, Joplin Mo., arm and side bruised; John Reynolds, Kansas City, hip bruised; Vernon Bigler, Amsterdam, Mo., hip bruised; H. E. Speez Irwin, Mo., hip bruised.

Colored Troops For General Otis.

Washington, June 10.—The President and the Cabinet have approved plans by which General Otis will have his army increased to more than 30,000 rifles without any call for volunteers in this country. One of the propositions sanctioned will send to the Philippines two of the four colored regiments in the regular army. These will be the first colored troops sent to the Archipelago. The manner in which they stand the climate will be observed with special interest by the department. If the colored regular takes well to service in the Philippines more will be sent later. It is thought possible that these colored regulars, as their terms expire, may choose to settle among the islands, finding greater opportunities there than in the United States.

President Names Canal Commission.

Washington, June 10.—The President has appointed the following commission to determine the most feasible and practical route for a canal across the Isthmus of Panama: Rear Admiral John G. Walker, U. S. N.; Samuel Pasco of Florida, Alfred Noble, C. E, of New York F; Colonel Peter C. Hains, U. S. A.; Professor William H. Burr of Connecticut, Lieutenant-Colonel Oswald H. Ernst, U. S. A.; Lewis M. Haupt, C. E. Pennsylvania; Professor Emoy R. Johnson of Pennsylvania.

Elephant Causes a Panic.

Muncie, Ind., June 10.—The big elephant, Jolly, connected with the Hagenback Trained Animal Show, broke loose on the Midway of the street carnival and for a time had undisputed control of the place. His Turkish guide had gone up town, leaving him chained to a pole. Becoming tired of his confinement he uprooted the pole, and proceeded to wander slowly about the grounds at his leisure. He would allow no one to come near him, and terror reigned until the keeper returned from town.

High Prices For Army Stores.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 10.—The largest sale of Government stores that ever took place in the South was ended in Chickamauga. The receipts from the sale aggregated $67,000. Army wagons sold for $21 apiece, mules brought $76 and horses $70. Two hundred buyers were present and ran up prices above the actual worth of the stores. The result was gratifying to the Government and the War Department has ordered army stores in Savannah sent here to be sold.

Three Lost and Men Run.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Three arrests have been made at Cape Meade, near Harrisburg, to test the validity of the decision of Attorney General Griggs annulling the law passed by the last Congress prohibiting the sale of liquor in army camps. The men arrested are Sergeant Patrick Joyce and two civilians, J. D. Moore and Charles Anderson. They were held in $400 bail to answer at the next term of the Dauphin County Court next week.

Cassatt Succeeds Frank Thomson.

Philadelphia, June 10.—At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad, A. J. Cassatt of this city was elected president, to succeed Frank Thomson, who died on Monday. James McCrea of Pittsburg was chosen a member of the board of directors to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Cassatt's election to the presidency.

Pennsylvania Miners Strike.

Altoona, Pa., June 10.—In spite of the acceptance of the offer made by the operators at the recent Clearfield convention of miners, the whole Clearfield region is idle. An effort will be made to bring out all the bituminous miners in Pennsylvania. The car shops of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railroad at Dubois closed to-day as a result of the strike.

McKinney a Robber.

Philadelphia, June 10.—Samuel McKinney, whose wife accused him of many crimes, was arraigned, and on the evidence of Miss Wendel of New York, he was committed without bail as a fugitive from justice to await a requisition from Gov. Roosevelt. McKinney was identified by Miss Wendel as the man who was formerly in her employ as a coachman.

Texas Life Quarantine.

New Orleans, June 10.—The Texas quarantine has been lifted so far as freight is concerned, and the embargo on passengers is to be raised. Last night Dr. W. F. Blount, health officer of Texas, reached the city and held a conference with the local health officials, at which it was decided there is no case of yellow fever in the city.

Big Strike is Threatened.

Akron, Ohio, June 10.—The employes of the Akron and Cuyahoga Falls Rapid Transit Company here, refused to accept the offer of 15 cents an hour made them by the company. They asked for 18 cents, and a strike is threatened.

MAY GO TO PHILIPPINES

General Miles Asks President McKinley to Send Him To Manila

MATTER IS NOT DECIDED

No Intention on the Part of General Miles to Supercede General Otis In Command of Troops.

Plan Discussed for the Enlistment of Several Skeleton Regiments—Speculation as to Composition of Committees in Next Session of Congress—Other News From the National Capital.

Washington, June 10.—Now that the Speakership is practically settled, speculation among Congressmen has turned to the composition of the committees. It is thought that Gen. Henderson, if chosen Speaker will allow most of the prominent Republicans now holding chairmanships to retain them, and that there will be no radical shaking up, except in the Committee on Banking and Currency, and, perhaps, the Committee on Territories. The latter committee has had very little work within the last few years, but next winter it will be a very important body. It will have charge of legislation for Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines. Much of this work went to the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the last Congress, but it has been decided to give the Committee on Territories charge of this legislation next winter, and therefore the Speaker will select the men most experienced in international and colonial questions for places on this committee.

American producers are already finding an enlarged market in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. The returns of the fiscal year which ends with this month will show a larger exportation to Hawaii and the Philippines than ever before and larger to Cuba and Porto Rico than in any previous year.

The exports to Cuba in the ten months ending April 30, 1899, were 50 per cent. in excess of those of the corresponding months of 1898, and more than double those of the same months in the fiscal year 1897. To Porto Rico, the exports are 33 per cent. in excess of the corresponding months of last year, and to Hawaii the exports of the ten months are 57 per cent. in excess of those of the same months in 1898, and double those of the corresponding months of 1897. To the Philippines, the exports, despite the continuous war conditions, are three times as much as in the corresponding months of any preceding year.

The total exports to Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines in the full fiscal year which ends with this month will reach about $30,000,000, against $17,000,000 last year.

It is rumored at the Nevy Department that Admiral Dewey will soon notify the committee in charge of the fund to purchase him a house at the capital that he could not accept such a gift, and that the work of getting subscriptions will stop. It must be confessed that the fund has been a lamentable failure, not on any account of the committee, for the members have been most energetic, but somehow the public has not responded as spontaneously as expected. Secretary Long in a statement yesterday intimated what Admiral Dewey's course would be, and, as stated, it would be no surprise to hear that the hero of Manila had declined the offer of a home.

The Cabinet has discussed a plan for the enlistment of several skeleton regiments in Manila from among the volunteers who desire to remain in the service and the filling out of these regiments with recruits enlisted in this country.

Gen. Otis, according to this plan, would be authorized to select the officers of these regiments from among the volunteer officers who are to be mustered out.

Gen. Miles has asked the President to be sent to the Philippines.

No decision has been reached in the matter.

Gen. Miles does not expect to supercede Gen. Otis.

Coal Companies Combining.

New York, June 10.—According to reports current in Wall street plans have been matured for the consolidation of the rail-shiping coal companies in the Pittsburg district. It is said that the committee in charge of the matter of options have received figures from about 100 of the 119 mines which it is proposed to bring in. The capital stock of the new concern will be fixed at $60,000,000; of which $30,000,000 be preferred.

Kentucky Firm Assigns.

Louisville, Ky., June 10.—The pressure of creditors forced Scanlon & Co., manufacturers of stoves, ranges and hollowware, with a plant at 1939 to 1951 Portland avenue, to assign. The assets and liabilities are estimated at $50,000 each. The assignment was not a surprise.

Cox Charged With Arson.

English, Ind., June 10.—Elmer Cox has been arrested charged with the burning of the Richard Shea barn last week. Young Cox was at Brandenburg, Ky., when arrested and declares his innocence and willingly returned home with the officers.

Smith's Body is Found.

Detroit, Mich., June 10.—The body of Clifford Smith, son of Barton H. Smith, one of the best known citizens of Toledo, was found here by Harbor Master O'Neil under the dock at Belle Isle, where he was drowned.

They Want Evans Dismissed.

Springfield, Ohio, June 10.—At a meeting of the Clark County soldiers, strong reolutions were passed denouncing the pension business as conducted by H. Clay Evans, and his dismissal is asked for.

Office work precludes sufficient bodily exercise, and lack of such exercise brings on indigestion, dyspepsia and stomach troubles generally. The case of a Chicago bookkeeper demonstrates this fact clearly.

"Through close confinement in my calling," said he, "I became a confirmed dyspeptic and you know what that means. I was miserable, and made every one else so. In a state of extreme distress I went to medicine for relief. The druggist recommended Ripans Tabules. Without any particular confidence in their effecting a cure, I took them, and to-day must confess that I have not the feeling I once had for a patent medicine." They certainly braced up my digestion wonderfully."

A new style packet containing TEN TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. It is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (or five glass cartons containing forty-eight cents to the Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Tornado Visits Indiana.

Richmond, Ind., June 10.—A storm struck this city that resembled a genuine Western tornado. The roof of the Quaker City Machine Works was lifted a hundred feet in the air and carried a half block. Several houses near at hand were damaged by flying timbers, but, strange to relate, no persons were injured. The residence of D. Atkinson, just nearing completion, was wrecked. Hundreds of trees uprooted in various parts of the city and fences blown down. The telegraph and telephone companies suffered some loss.

Great Damage by Drouth.

Asbury Park., N. J., June 10.—Monmouth County farmers are so distressed by the prolonged drought that they are almost unable to provide material for the large markets on the Jersey coast. The crops are almost totally destroyed. The price of hay has advanced to an alarming extent and it is predicted $50 a ton will be asked for it by the local farmers.

Cloudburst in Virginia.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 10.—The northern part of Wood County, on Big Run, has been visited by a most destructive cloudburst. The storm, was accompanied by a strong wind and lightning and lasted three hours. The streams in that section overflowed in a very short time, residents in the lowlands being driven from their homes. Potato patches, young corn fields, fences and everything in the path of the storm was totally obliterated.

Michigan Crops Badly Damaged.

Sturgis, Mich., June 10.—The storms of the past two weeks are without precedent in the history of the State. The corn crop through the central part of the State has been almost totally ruined, and wheat in the same section will not be more than one-fourth of a crop. Rain has kept everything flooded and hail has entirely ruined nearly all kinds of fruit.

Stumble Caused Aitken's Death.

Mount Vernon, June 10.—Benjamin F. Aitken died here as the result of an unusual accident. While crossing the New Haven railroad tracks under the First avenue bridge, he caught his right foot in the wires which operate the block signals and fell face downward on the outer rail. The blow on his chest ruptured an artery and he bled to death.

Plunder Taken Away in a Wagon

Newark, N. J., June 10.—The clothing store of Berry & Co., at No. 253 Market street, was robbed of $2,000 worth of clothing. An entrance was effected by cutting out the glass in a rear door and then moving aside the fastenings. The goods were carried away in a wagon.

Officers for Tenth Pennsylvania.

Sleeper's Fall Breaks His Neck.

Schoolboy Suicides.

Westfield, N. J., June 10.—Percy Cox, a schoolboy of fourteen, hanged himself in the cellar of his father's little cottage here, and was found dead by his mother after she had sat up half the night for him.

Salvage Vessels Seized.

Digby, N. S., June 10.—The customs authorities have seized a number of vessels which have been salvaging goods from the wrecked steamer Castilian. It is alleged that the customs laws have been violated.

SUCH IS THE DEATH A SOLDIER DIES.

Such is the death the soldier dies;
He falls, the column speeds away;
Upon the dabbled grass he lies,
His brave heart following, still, the fray.

The smoke wraiths drift among the trees,
The battle storms along the hill;
The glint of distant arms he sees,
He hears his comrades shouting still.

A glimpse of far-borne flags, that fade
And vanish in the rolling din:
He knows the sweeping charge is made,
The cheering lines are closing in.

Unmindful of his mortal wound,
He faintly calls and seeks to rise;
But weakness drags him to the ground,
Such is the death the soldier dies.

NEGRO HILL IN JAIL

Says That Brother Who Was Lynched on Monday Was Innocent.

Birmingham, Ala., June 10.—The negro, Alex Hill, who shot and killed Mrs. Rufus Hubbard and wounded her husband and child in Bibb county on Monday last, for which one negro has been lynched already, was captured at Cordova, in Walker county, sixty miles from the scene of the shooting. He admitted shooting the Hubbards. He said the killing of Mrs. Hubbard was accidental and the bullet she received was intended for her husband. He said that his brother, Will Hill, who was shot to death by the posse, had nothing to do with the killing, but was with him at the time.

The negro was hurried to the county jail at Jasper and is now being guarded. The citizens of Bibb county are clamoring for him. There is a rumor out that thirty negroes were in a conspiracy with the Hills to kill white people in Bibb county.

Was Drowned in a Bath Tub.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 10.—A question of uncertainty has arisen as to the cause of the death of John A. Finch, the Indianapolis insurance attorney, who was found dead in a bath tub at St. Paul. At that time it was reported that he died of heart disease. A theory now advanced is that he slipped and fell into the tub, striking his head, and dying either from the blow or from sinking under the water. Mr. Finch carried life insurance to the amount of $20,000.

Don't Like the Beer Tax.

Detroit, Mich., June 10.—At the meeting of the United States Brewers' Association's annual convention here, the $1 a barrel war tax on beer was the burden of lament in most everything that occurred. President Bergner, in his address, declared that it threatened the existence of the association. The trouble is that some brewers add the entire tax to the price of their beer, while others put on only one half or less, with the result that the trade is becoming demoralized. In one city, he said, five breweries had been sold out by the Sheriff.

Drowned While Brother Slept

Henderson, Ky., June 10.—Luther and George Roberts, brothers and prominent farmers of Spottsville, went on a fishing excursion down the Green River to the Ohio in a skiff. They stopped at a storeboat and secured hard cider and re-embarked and floated asleep until morning. It was broad daylight when Luther awoke and missed George, but thought he had gone back home. George's body was found at the mouth of Race Creek, a mile below the storeboat. He had fallen out and drowned while Luther slept.

TEXAS TOWN SWEPT AWAY

Floods do Enormous Amount of Damage and Cause the Loss of Many Lives

DEATH LIST INCREASES.

Rivers Transformed Into Mighty Torrents by Cloudburst and People and Property Swept Away.

All Telegraphic Communication With the Flooded District Is Interrupted—Estimated That Property Damage So Far Reported Will Exceed $100,000—Bridges Wrecked By Rushing Waters.

Dallas, Tex., June 10.—The Trinity River, at Dallas began to rise to-day, but the volume of water does not indicate any such flood as is reported from the western streams. Wire communication and railroad facilities are limited in the flooded section, and the full extent of the flood cannot be known at present.

The town of Kingsley, in Llano county, 150 miles west of Dallas, has partly been swept away, and the inhabitants have almost all fled to the high lands. The flooded region takes in approximately twenty counties with Llano on the east.

Austin, Tex., June 10.—Owing to the fact that all telegraphic communication with San Saba and Manardville was interrupted no additional details of the dmage and loss of life by floods have been received from those points It is known, however, that the property damage will exceed $100,000. Live stock suffered severly ,hundreds of cattle and hogs having been swept away by the resistless torrent. The river, running, as it does, through mountainous region, rises very quickly and falls as rapidly. This particular rise was announced by a solid wall of water ten feet high, which swept everything before it.

Reports from Bastrop, thirty miles south of Austin, say that several bridges have been wrecked by the rushing waters. The loss to farming lands south of this city will represent another $100,000.

Austin, Tex., June 10.—Every hour swells th elist of those known to have perished in the terrific cloudburst which sudenly turned the quiet rivers of this part of the State into raging torrents.

Nine persons were swep away at San Cobra, a small town ninety miles north of here. The river there and at Manardville rose over the towns, spreading out to the width of a mile and rushing like a mill race.

At both places many houses were carried away by the flood. The river kept rising during the night. Vast wheat fields are under water and a great property loss is feared.

Many people in Manardville succeeded in reaching the high grounds to the rear of the town, but the loss of life there will reach eighteen. All were negroes, except two little girls—Lydia and Anna Wells.

Better Postal Facilities.

Just at a time when Plainfield business men are awakening to advance the general interests of the town, it is opportune that the increase of three letter-carriers should be allowed the local postoffice. It has long been recognized that Plainfield is in serious need of this increased postal service, and now that the Department has granted it the citizens ought to congratulate themselves and feel highly elated over the matter.

To secure such a favor from the Postoffice Department at Washington is no easy job for the ones who undertake it. The Washington officials are flooded with hundreds of just such applications for increased facilities, but they are able to grant comparatively few of them—not because the service does not demand them, but from the lack of ample revenues. If it had not been for the active interest of Congressman Fowler it is doubtful if the extra letter-carriers would have been allowed. Mr. Fowler brought every influence that was possible to bear on the Department officials, and worked hard himself, to bring about a favorable result.

It is a matter for regret in this section of Union county that the Board of Freeholders has declined to authorize the macadamizing of the short stretch of Mountain avenue that lies in this bailiwick, in order to make an improved roadbed direct from Newark to North Plainfield. On either side of this short piece of road under consideration large sums of money have been spent in macadamizing, and it seems a shame that what would be one of the finest thoroughfares in Northern New Jersey should be neglected by a short-sighted economy of the county legislature.

Postmasters must earn their salaries hereafter, according to the following order recently issued by the Postmaster General: "Postmasters at presidential postoffices are required to give their personal attention to the business of their offices, and must not absent themselves therefrom for a longer period than one or two days without authority granted upon written application to the department. A violation of this order will be deemed sufficient cause for removal."

STEAMER PARIS AND THE MANACLES.
On the south coast of Cornwall, England, are the terrible crags known as the manacles. Many good ships have gone to pieces on these rocks. On them the steamer Mohegan struck in October last and 101 lives were lost. Near the wreck of the Mohegan the magnificent American liner Paris struck recently. Passengers and crew were saved.

William H. Luster, Jr., of Elizabeth, was elected City Surveyor Thursday night to succeed William Colgan, recently deceased. Although a Democrat, Mr. Luster was given a unanimous vote.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

There is no fair reason why Senator Cross, of Union, should not be renominated except it may be to juggle the nomination to the county and give the Sheriff or County Clerk to the city of Elizabeth. This may be good politics for Elizabeth, but bad for Republican success in the future, and incidentally for Judge Cross at the present.—New York Press.

Plainfield citizens propose to raise $2,500 for a rousing celebration of Independence Day. This is a good example for other places to follow. The proper and enthusiastic keeping of the Nation's birthday is likely to stimulate patriotism and foster that ardent love of one's country which is a bulwark of National greatness.—New York Tribune.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The badge which was presented to Commander W. C. Smith, at the State encampment Thursday, was a G. A. R. emblem, set with five diamonds, and a past commander's strap of gold, with two silver stars, and a Sixteenth Army Corps badge. On the gold bar was the recipient's name.

Capt. William W. Jeffrey, for forty years a fisherman along the New Jersey coast, has caught a rubber turtle in his pound, the first of its kind ever seen in this section. It probably weighs over 1,200 pounds, and is about seven feet in length, three and one-half feet across the back and three feet thick. The fishermen discovered it in the morning when they went to take a lift. They made no effort to bring it ashore until afternoon, when they succeeded, after much difficulty, in towing it in a distance of over half a mile. After being beached the turtle was pulled up the bluff by a horse. It was sold to Founder James A. Bradley, of Asbury Park, who will have it placed it in his aquarium.

If the proposed Fourth of July celebration is the success that it should be, it will be necessary for the committees which has been appointed to stir themselves and get everyone at work without delay. Inasmuch as $2,500 is to be raised there is no time to be wasted if that amount is secured. There is much to be done before the celebration is an assured fact. Already it is understood that some of the business men are devising some unique designs for floats. It will be remembered that four years ago the floats were among the most interesting features of the parade. If the citizens of Plainfield will all take an interest in the affair its success is certain. But there must not be any delay—all hands must go to work with a will.

—Now that the Plainfield trolley cars are making better connections with the cars on the Brunswick Traction Company at Dunellen, the patronage of both roads has increased largely.

Boys Got Into a Scrap and One Used it for a Weapon.

Samuel Vail, a 16-year-old boy, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in city court this morning, charged with assaulting Clarence Angleman, of East Fourth street, with an ax handle last Thursday.

The evidence showed that the boys got into a "scrap" while seated on a lounge in the yard of one Jones, a colored man, living at 210 East Fourth street. The accused maintained that the Angleman boy struck him first with a piece of plank, and that he retaliated. Sentence was suspended.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee 15 and 25c.

KEEP COOL!

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

Closing Out Sale of Lots
On West 4th and 5th Sts,
Bet. Grant & Monroe Ave.

It is apparent to all that the section of our city between Grant and Monroe Avenues and West Fourth Street and Sherman Avenue owned by the Plainfield Real Estate Company, is rapidly becoming a most desirable place for a home. Many beautiful cottages have been erected during the past year, and the restrictions contained in conveyances make it impossible that other than desirable buildings shall ever be erected upon this property.

A few lots on West Fourth and Fifth Streets still remain unsold, and to close these out, we offer them for the next thirty days at the old prices, which, considering the increase in valuation, is a great bargain for the purchaser.

An agent will be on the ground on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 6 o'clock to show the exact location of the lots, and further information will be freely furnished at any time a the office of

The First Anniversary.

It is just a year since the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road inaugurated its celebrated Pioneer Limited passenger train service between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis. This service marked a new era in the railway world in the line of passenger accommodations. At a cost of a quarter of a million dollars that progressive company furnished the traveling public, in its Pioneer Limited train, comforts and facilities the best ever produced. This train has been described many times in newspapers and magazines, but should be seen and examined to be appreciated. In beauty of finish, richness and elegance of furnishing nothing equal to it has ever been attempted by any other road. The car builders were nearly a year in completing the Pioneer Limited trains (there are two—one leaving Chicago for the West and the other leaving the Twin Cities for the East every evening in the year) and they stand today a monument to the builders art. No regular passenger train service in America is as well known as the Pioneer Limited. From the standpoint of passenger traffic the past twelve months have been the most successful in the history of the St. Paul road, made so very largely by the Pioneer Limited. The patronage of this service is a striking illustration of the fact that the public appreciates a good thing. 6 10 2

FASHIONABLE SKIRTS.

The Best Usage Demands Short Ones For the Street.

The length of skirts depends upon the usage for which they are intended. By the best dressed women a trailing gown is not worn for walking in the streets, although multitudes of such dragging costumes are daily seen sweeping up the debris of the pavement and disseminating microbes wherever they go. These are the apparel of women who are not of the first order of elegance, however, and who have no discrimination as to the fitness of things. Trailing gowns are intended for house and carriage wear, and for the street promenade the regulation walking skirt is the proper attire. It is a popular fallacy among men that women dress simply with the idea of pleasing the masculine eye. As the masculine eye is proverbially ignorant in such matters, dressing to please it would be a much simpler task than is dressing in accordance with the general taste of the feminine public. The average man has his preference in the color for a woman's dress, usually quite irrespective of her complexion, and he likes his feminine belongings to "look like other women," but beyond that his notions of dress are chaotic. With one accord, however, men are disgusted with the trailing street gown, because it sweeps up and retains the filth of the road with such insistent obviousness.

SILK PETTICOATS.

The picture shows two petticoats. The first is of brocade, having a deep circular flounce with black lace insertion and a black lace ruffle. Bows of taffeta head the deep flounce and a taffeta ruche the lace ruffle. The second petticoat is of pink glace taffeta, with a circular flounce corded lengthwise, the flounce having a ruffle headed and bordered with ruches of mousseline de soie.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE WARDROBE.

Pale Gray and Mode Colors For Warm Weather.

Silver gray gowns trimmed with white are seen among the most refined summer models, and the combination is certainly very delicate and charming. Gowns of palest fawn, ecru or tan, also adorned with white or with yellowish guipure, are charming and in their very quietness appeal to eyes satiated with the brilliant colors which have prevailed so long and still prevail.

The hostess at a reception wears as elegant a gown as she can command to do honor to her guests. If she is wealthy, she has a special costume for the occasion, but if she is of moderate means she adopts some light skirt with an ornamental bodice, or even a black gown, made gay with dainty colored accessories—cravats and vest or chemisette. Gloves are no longer worn for remaining in the house, their place being taken by numerous rings. The coiffure is, however, quite elaborate, the favorite style showing the hair parted in front in bandeaux, held in place by little jeweled combs, while at the back it is arranged in loops at the back of the neck, instead of on the top of the head, as is usually the case.

CLOTH JACKET.

The cut shows a short jacket of beige cloth, the back being tight, the front open. A decoration of stitched straps and braiding follows the edges and the seams, and the top of the sleeves is corded. They are revers and a valois collar, faced with plaited beige silk. The cravat is of embroidered mousseline de soie, the hat of mixed straw, trimmed with flowers and choux of tulle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Oldest Chessmen.

Probably the oldest chessmen known to exist are an almost complete set which is preserved in the East Indian museum, London. They were excavated about 30 years ago on the site of the city of Brahmunabad, in Sind, which was destroyed by an earthquake in the eighth century. They are black and white, made of ivory and ebony, turned and plain in character, without ornament. The kings and queens are about three inches high, the pawns one inch and the other pieces of intermediate heights. Fragments of a chess board of the same materials were found with them.

Provinz Schleswig-Holstein.

Kiel. Ein Bootmannsmaat vom Küstenpanzer „Odin," Namens Franz Roth, verschwand dieser Tage spurlos. Man nahm an, er sei über Bord gestürzt und ertrunken. Die Bemühungen, die Leiche zu entdecken, blieben erfolglos. Wie sich jetzt herausstellt, ist Roth fahnenflüchtig geworden. Das Kommando des „Odin" hat einen Steckbrief gegen den vermeintlich Todten erlassen.—Auf der Germania-Werft lief im Beisein des deutschen Kaisers, der die Gelegenheit zu einer bedeutsamen politischen Weiherede benützte, das neue Panzerschiff „Kaiser Wilhelm der Große" glücklich vom Stapel. Großherzogin Luise von Baden, die Tochter Wilhelms des Ersten, vollzog die Taufe.

Sonderburg. Die Yacht „Dorothea," von einer Gewitterböe auf der Fahrt von Nordschleswig nach Kiel überrascht, zerbrach den Mast. Die See spülte diesen mit den Segeln über Bord. Dadurch wurden Besatzung und Schiff vor dem Untergang bewahrt und erreichten Sonderburg als Nothhafen.

WHEN TEDDY SMITH.

When Teddy Smith first put on pants,
He felt so very grand
He wouldn't mind his mother,
Or he wouldn't hold her hand.

But on the street he walked ahead,
And tried to whistle some,
He thought perhaps he'd go to war,
And fire an awful gun.

His mother mustn't spread his bread,
Nor cut things on his plate;
She musn't say "No more, my dear!"
No matter what he ate.

So hard to please this gentleman
His loving mother tried,
It quite enlarged his dignity,
And swelled his lofty pride.

And all was brave, and all was well,
Until that mother said,
At 8 o'clock, "Of course, dear sir,
You'll go alone to bed!"

Ah, would you have me say what then
Befell the great big man?
For if you undertake to guess—
I hardly think you can!

He turned the corners of his mouth
Most fearfully awry,
He rubbed his grown-up fist awhile
Across his grown-up eye.

Then burying in his mother's lap
Both pride and manly joy,
He said in just the littlest voice,
"I guess I'm just a boy!"

FAIRYLAND HUNTING

When Willie Spinkel and Georgie Goatskins used to sleep together Willie would often tell him of some of his wonderful deeds of bravery when he used to go hunting. Georgie heard him tell these stories a great many times and felt quite sure that Willie must be a very brave boy indeed.

One night when they were talking together, the beautiful fairy came along and asked them what they were doing and Georgie told her about all that Willie Spinkel had done and how brave he must be. The fairy smiled when she heard this and asked them if they would not both like to go hunting in Fairyland? Georgie was as pleased as possible, but Willie was not nearly so enthuiastic.

Well, it happened that the Wednesday following the two boys started out on a great hunting expedition in Fairyland. The fairy took them to the shores of a beautiful lake and there tied to a dock, made of the most delicious molasses candy, was a dear little sailboat, such as is never seen except in Fairyland.

The hull of the boat was made of chocolate and the beautiful decks were made of layer after layer of wintergreen lozenges. The mast was great tall sticks of hoarhound candy, very strong, and from the mast hung great sails of transparent butter scotch, with great strips of red, white and blue, all through them. These sails were hung from ropes of chewing gum. Altogether it was quite the most wonderful boat that Willie Spinkle and Georgie Goatskin had ever seen.

Willie said he wanted to be captain, so Georgie, who was always very generous, said he would act as the crew So Willie went to the stern of the boat and Georgie set the sails, and pretty soon they were sailing out in the beautiful lake before a good breeze.

After a while an island appeared in the distance, and Georgie, as he stood on the deck, called to Willie to sail in that direction and they would see if there was any hunting to be found there. Willie was very much afraid, but he steered for the island. When the little boat struck the beach the two boys found that the island was made of beautiful yellow jack. Georgie chipped offi a piece with his knife and pronounced it "bully." While the boys were standing there they heard the sound of sobbing from some peanut bushes. Willie told Georgie to go and see what the matter was and he would stay and watch the boat.

When Georgie reached the peanut bushes he found a dear little peppermint bunny. The rabbit explained to Georgie Goatshins that she was weeping copious tears because of the sudden loss of her youngest of seventeen children. Between sobs she explained that her baby boy had been cruelly stolen and eaten by a great wolf that lived in the forest beyond, and she was very much afraid that he had an appetite for bunnie, and would return for another one that very night

When Georgie Goatskins heard of this he was very angry and said:—"By my goatskin coat of arms I will revenge this outrage." The bunny smiled through her tears at Georgie's brave language and seemed much comforted.

So Georgie, the brave and generous one, started for the forest armed with his two-bladed jack knife, both blades of which were broken. When he arrived at the edge of the woods he was very much surprised to find that all the trees were Christmas trees with candles on. It was getting pretty dark, and Georgie could not help thinking that Willie had left him on this island all alone, and perhaps his mother might be worrying about him too.

It was now getting very dark indeed, and he could hardly see. Suddenly he happened to remember that he was in a forest of Christmas trees. Striking a match, he lighted one of the candles on the tree nearest to him, and a gentle breeze blew the flame to other candles on the tree, and then to the candles on the next tree, and so on until the whole forest was lighted up.

Suddenly he heard a dismal growl and he knew that the time for him to fight with the great wolf had come. Drawing his knife from his pocket, he carfully sharpened what was left of the big blade on his shoe and started forward. There stood the wolf in front of him with eyes that looked like coals of fire. Running forward he thrust his knife into the body of the wolf. The wolf gave one dismal cry and started to run, but Georgie caught hold of his tail and held on.

Although he held on fast the wolf kept on getting further and further away. It was certainly most remarkable, and he could not explain it until he saw that the wolf's tail was stretching and stretching. Georgie was so surprised at this that he hardly knew what to do, for he did not want the wolf to get away, so he took the tail and wound it around one of the Christmas trees, tied it, and then hurried after the wolf.

When he caught up with the wolf he said—"Because you killed the dear little bunny you must die." The wolf seemed quite heartbroken at this and Georgie asked him what was the matter. Then the wolf told him that he would not care so much only he had a large family at home, and if he was killed his oldest boy would have to leave school and support the family. Then he told Georgie that his oldest boy was doing so well in school that is seemed a shame to take him out, especially as he had just received ninety-five for spelling and eighty-seven for arithmetic, which showed progress over his examinations of the year before.

Georgie said he really did not want to take any boy out of school and if the wolf would sign a paper stating that he would never again steal a dear little bunny, he would spare his life. So the wolf signed the paper and then Georgie went back and untied the wolf's tail, and then he understood why it had stretched so much, and that was because the wolf was made of licorice. He helped the wolf braid up his tail and then he looked up in a Christmas tree just a little way off and saw a most peculiar looking bird. The bird saw Georgie and said—but really that is quite another story.—New York Herald.

Monkey Listeners.

In India the people look upon the monkeys as sacred animals, and will not drive them away from their houses. As the monkeys are as plentiful almost as birds here, they sometimes become a great nuisance, which the people, however, bear without grumbling.

A minister who was preaching a sermon one Sunday in a village street in that country, has this to tell about it:

"Behind the house on the other side of the street there was a long row of trees growing in their back yards, the branches of which stretched out over the flat roofs.

"Happening to raise my eyes I saw many branches of these trees bend down toward the roofs, and saw the faces of some old jack monkeys looking out through the leaves. Soon some of them jumped down to see what their 'big brothers, in the streets were doing as they stood gazing at these white men standing on the platform. Getting upon the front edge of the roof, they seated themselves with their hind feet hanging over and looked at the preacher, as they saw the people in the street doing.

"Other monkeys came, until there was a long row of them seated on the housetops. The last one I could see walking along behind, looking for a place wide enough to get a seat. Not finding a place between two already seated monkeys wide enough, they put up their hands, and pushing each one sidewise, would seem to be saying, 'Sit along a little please, and give me a seat,' until the 'bench' was crowded.

"I noticed that many mother monkeys had brought their babies to church with them. These baby monkeys sat upon the lap of the mother, while her arms were placed around them just as human mothers do, but the sermon was too sober for these little folks, and I saw one of the little monkeys slyly reach his hand around and catching hold of another baby monkey's tail, give it a pull. The other little monkey struck back. But neither mother monkey liked this play in church, and each gave its own baby a box on the ears, as though saying, "Sit still! don't you know how to behave in church?

Except a monkey now and then trying to catch a flea that was biting him they sat quietly until the preacher finished his sermon, and until we had given tracts to the people, and, bidding them a polite good-by, had started for our tents."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The city of Elizabeth is to be represented once more on the diamond. A strong amateur team, which will be known as the Elizabeth Baseball Club, has been organized by H. N. Fitch, agent of the United States Express Company, and John Stoddard, former captain and manager of the Y. M. C. A. team. The club will be composed of local players with a semi-professional battery. Some of the members of the E. A. C. club will be on the team, and the club will be strengthened from time to time as opportunity offers. The best clubs from neighboring towns will be secured as opponents, and a clean, gentlemanly game will be aimed at.

GOLF.

Next week Wednesday evening a musicale will be given in the Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubhouse.

Several Plainfield golf enthusiasts have already been playing on the course at Finderne and they pronounce it to be very fine for a new course.

Wednesday of this week a number of the Park Golf Club members tried their luck on the Hillside course, and they were delighted with it. Some excellent scores were made.

One week from today the Harbor Hill golf team will come to Plainfield and contest honors with the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team. This will be the first match for the home team.

Golf is popular on Mine Mount, at Bernardsville. The guests at the Somerset Inn are enthusiastic devotees of the sport, and the club instructor is proud of the advancing proficiency of his pupils. The clubhouse is an old barn remodeled by an artist who has succeeded in producing a picturesque effect. Grant B. Schley's private course at Far Hills has been enlarged from six to nine holes. The course preferred by advanced golfers is that of the Ravine Association on Mine Mount. Several tournaments are promised this season.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The Juniors of the Y. M. C. A. made a run to Summit this morning, leaving the association building at 8:45 o'clock.

Miss Elizabeth Smalley, of Craig place; Mrs. Edward N. Brown, of Westfield; Miss Mina Ammerman, of Madison, and Mrs. W. B. Vail, of 39 Prospect place, went to Princeton yesterday on their wheels, and they will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Smalley, Jr., who reside at that place.

A match bicycle race has been arranged for Saturday afternoon next, over the Mountain avenue course. The contestants for championship honors are Arthur Chapin and Will Mapes, of Fanwood. The race will be for one mile. The boys in Scotch Plains are developing the racing fever again, and it is quite likely a number of races will be run off during the season.

ROD AND GUN.

Elvaine VanName, of Elmwood place, was fishing Thursday in one of the nearby streams, and very luckily he caught a small-mouth bass weighing 2½ pounds. This is an unusual occurrence.

AT THE TRAPS.

The Central New Jersey Trap Shooting League is holding its regular meet this afternoon at Highland Park, New Brunswick.

With the Seventh-Day Baptist.

"Children's Day" services were held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church this morning. The exercises consisted of songs and recitations by the children, and an address by the Rev. R. P. D. Bennett, of Lyons Farms, N. J. His talk was forcible, interesting and to the point, and held the close attention of the children throughout. His subject was "Kindness to Animals." He showed the call upon us to consider the rights of all dumb creatures, illustrating by articles which he brought with him. Mr. Bennett is the State Superintendent of Junior Endeavor work, and clearly understands the art of talking to children. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in eight bottles. It has cured me and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

Plainfielders at the Fight

Quite a number of men prominent in sporting affairs from this city attended the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries prize fight at Coney Island last night. The Plainfield contingent is said to have backed the ex-champion, who was a favorite here, at $100 to $30. Those who thought they had a "cinch" are mourning over their lack of good judgment.

FOR PREVENTING ACCIDENTS.

Kinsman's Block System Soon to be in Operation.

The dissolution of the Kinsman Block System of New Jersey is a move in the direction of a continuation of the business under the Kinsman Block System Company, of New York, the incorporators of which are F. E. Kinsman, W. C. Kinney, of this city; Wilbur C. Fisk, of New York; Gardner Colby, of Orange, and Edmund Louis Moony, of the firm of Blandy, Moony & Shipman, of Wall street, New York.

This system is an absolute preventitive against such accidents as occurred on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at West Dunellen and Bound Brook, it being impossible for such accidents to occur where this system is used. Many people are acquainted with the plan of this system invented by F. E. Kinsman, of this city, and have wondered why it is not in operation.

Reason for further delay has now been removed and the new organization will push the work of equipping railroads with this modern system.

CHILDREN'S DAY IN THE CHURCHES.

Special Services Devoted to the Younger Ones.

ELABORATE DECORATIONS.

SERMONS PREACHED APPROPRIATE TO THE DAY.

Pulpits Surrounded With Flowers and Made to Look Bright and Summer-Like—Recitations and Songs Rendered by Scholars of Various Sunday-Schools—Music Was a Special Feature.

MONROE AVENUE CHURCH.

The special exercises held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church yesterday were of an interesting character. In the morning a special sermon was given to the children by Rev. Arthur Crane, the evangelist. In the afternoon there was regular Children's Day exercises. A feature of the afternoon programme was an illustrated talk given by O. S. Rogers, of this city. Mr. Rogers used chemicals to illustrate the Christian life and the life of sinfulness. This was followed with a short address by the paster, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, which the children enjoyed greatly. Assistant Superintendent Edward Beekman was in charge of the exercises. The decorations consisted of flowers and greens and were admired by all.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

The Children's Day exercises at Grace M. E. church were held yesterday morning, and there was a large attendance of members of the church and Sunday-school. The platform was attractively decorated with flowers and roses, presenting a pretty scene. Superintendent John Valiant was in charge of the programme which consisted of the following recitations and songs. Recitations, "Roses and Lilies," school; "The First Children's Day," Kittie Rutledge; "Dolly's Broken Arm," Helen Ross; "God's Voices," Bessie Taft; "The Child and the Rose," school; "Children's Day," Mariam Pierson; "The Children," Helen Ross; song, "Just a Pansy," Edna Sebring; anthem, choir; motion song, "God Knows," school; exercise by the Flower Band. The last number was an exercise entitled "A Cluster of Blossoms," by seven girls in the school. After the rendition of the above programme there was a short interesting address by Superintendent Valiant, and the pastor, Rev. G. W. Gardner, preached a helpful sermon to the children.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Children's Day exercises at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning, were of an interesting character. The services were held in the church auditorium, which was decorated with an abundance of flowers and potted plants placed in and about the pulpit and platform, while the National colors were conspicuous over the front of the organ. Seated upon the platform was the pastor, Rev. Charles E. Herring, and at his right was E. M. Cave, the superintendent of the Sunday-school, and on his left R. H. Radford, the assistant superintendent.

W. H. Miller presided at the organ and rendered a voluntary selection as the children of the Sunday-school filed in and took their seats. The exercises were opened with singing, followed by prayer by the pastor. Mr. Radford lead the responsive reading. After the hymn, "I Will Praise the Lord," eight scholars of the primary department gave a song recitation entitled "My Beautiful Teacher." Those who participated in this exercise were: Henrietta Englehart, Helen Gifford, Lillie Smith, Helen George, Anna Templin, Agnes Yergensen, Mabel Townley, Mary Cook. The school then rendered the hymn "I Must Tell Jesus." Louis Slocum, Edward Abbott, Charles Aller, Orlando Lounsbury and George Morrison were then called forward and presented by Superintent Radford with certificates promoting them from the primary to the main department. An interesting letter was read from Dr. J. A. Worden, the head of the Presbyterian Sunday-school publication work, enlisting the efforts of the school in behalf of the project to secure a half a million scholars in the Presbyterian Sunday-schools by April 1901. The pastor then gave a short talk to the children on the parable of the sparrow, taking his text from Luke 12; 6, and Matthew 10; 31. Louis Slocum, from Miss Blanch Fellows' class in the primary, was presented with a book for good department and attending Sunday-school every Sunday in the year past.

MONSTER TROLLEY INTERESTS MERGED.

Final Move in Consolidation of North New Jersey Lines.

MISSING LINK PICKED UP.

CHANDLER W. RIKER PURCHASES THE "WHITE LINE."

With the Acquisition of the Trolley Lines Controlled by This Company the Last Bar to a General Consolidation is Said to Have Been Removed — Plainfield Concerned in It.

Though the promoters of the Plainfield Street Railway Company and its counterpart, the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company, have all along publicly protested that these systems of trolley roads were to remain distinct from the other trolley interests of New Jersey, what is looked upon as next to the final step in the ultimate consolidation of all the trolley lines of North Jersey was consummated Saturday, when the New Jersey Electric Railway Company, whose traction lines run from Hoboken to Singac, was sold on a foreclosure sale at Secaucus for $1,500 000. And none other than Chandler W. Riker, one of the principal owners of the Plainfield road, was the man who bought the road and is taking steps to consolidate the lines of Northern New Jersey into one vast corporation, which will make one of the greatest street railway systems under one head in the country.

The Mercantile Trust Company, of New York, held the mortgage on the company. Chandler W. Riker, of Newark, was the only bidder, and at the start named the price at which he bought in the company. The sale was opened at 10 o'clock by James E. Howell, acting special master in chancery.

In reply to a question concerning the company for whom the purchase was made, Mr. Riker replied that he had made the purchase for himself. When the sale is confirmed by the court the company will be transferred to some corporation.

Among those present at the sale were Uzal A. McCarter, Thomas N. McCarter, Jr., Mr. Howell and Mr. Riker, of Newark, and E. C. Jones, of New York. The New Jersey Electric Company's line was known as the "White Line." In the court's order fixing the sale it was stipulated that the price should not be less than $1 000,000.

While the mileage and rolling stock of the New Jersey Electric Company, as originally constructed by that company, is small, it actually controls by lease of lines and purchase of bonds and stocks the entire property of all the trolley lines connecting Hudson and Passaic counties, including about twenty-six miles of street railroad.

This property has long been referred to as the "missing link," in the ultimate consideration of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, Orange and Passaic Valley Company and North Hudson Company. When the latter concern passed into control of the Shanley syndicate an effort was made to buy in the stock of the "White Line," and it was partially successful.

CAUGHT A SWARM OF BEES.

The Tribe Captured on a Bush by George Wyckoff Yesterday.

A large swarm of bees, numbering several thousand, was captured yesterday on North avenue by George Wyckoff almost directly in front of his house. The bees swarmed first on the limb of a tree and made a bunch as large a peck measure. Then the queen bee suddenly evacuated that spot and lit on a bush, where the rest of the tribe followed her. It took two hours to capture the swarm, which was done after much work with boxes, molasses and other things supposed to tickle the palate of the bee.

At Trinity Reformed Church.

Rev. George H Stephens, of Berwick, Pa., preached in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning and evening. In the morning his discourse was a very plain, practical illustration of the need and helpfulness of having God's Holy Spirit filling the hearts of Christian people, the preacher throwing his whole heart and soul into the sermon. His text was from Zachariah, fourth chapter, the latter part of the sixth verse—"Not by might, nor power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

At the evening service Mr. Stephens made a strong appeal for spreading the Gospel in heathen lands, basing his remarks on Christ's own command as contained in the two verses of the last chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel.

HEALTH THREATENED BY GREEN BROOK.

Drought Depletes the Volume of Water in the Stream.

RAIN ONLY TO REMEDY IT.

MANY HOLES THAT CAUSE A NAUSEATING STENCH TO ARISE.

Boards of Health Unable to Cope With the Present Situation—Householders in the Vicinity of the Stream Get Frequent Whiffs of the Smell—Lack of Water May Cause Trouble on the Central.

Green brook has for some years been the cynosure of the Boards of Health of this city and borough, and several attempts have been made to purify its channels so that there would be no likelihood of its breeding disease by reason of the impurities that arise from its waters. The bad condition of the stream was usually brought about by the substances that were sewered into it from properties skirting either side, but these offenses have largely been eradicated by the persistent and aggressive work of the health officials

Now, however, another cause is making the brook a disagreeable feature to people who live in proximity to it. It is the drouth. The continued dry weather has had the effect of greatly depleting the volume of water in the channel of the stream and at some points what was once called a sparkling, babbling rush of the brook is now nothing but slimy and stagnated water, over which a cloud of insects, bred by filth, hover. The atmosphere in the vicinity of these pest holes—and they are numerous all along the stream as it runs through the city—is permeated with a nauseating smell that invades the houses in the vicinity every time there is a brisk breeze to carry it along.

It is a condition that is not easily remedied by artificial means. A good hard rain of several hours duration, which will fill the brook again to its normal volume, is about the only thing that will have the right effect.

The condition of the brook is only one of the many disagreeable and disastrous features of the lack of rain but it is a serious one.

This morning's New York Hearld printed the following in connection with the low water in Green brook:

"There are no signs of a rainfall here yet, and it looks as if the Central Railroad of New Jersey would have serious trouble at the Green brook tanks, where the express trains of the Philadelphia and Reading and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads take water while at full speed. Green brook is the only point between Jersey City and Philadelphia where they can do this.

"Absence of water at this point means that a stop must be made to fill the engine tanks at either Cranford or Yardley, where always the supply is limited and the water of poor quality for boilers. For several days Green brook, from which the water is pumped up into tanks between the tracks, has been getting lower, and today the stream, ordinarily from fifty to sixty feet wide, is only about three feet across. In anticipation of such a condition, the railroad lately put in a pumping engine and attempted to form a reservoir by damming up the brook, but the lack of water has made their efforts futile. There is now apparently less than one day's supply at Green brook, and in the event of the brook going dry, there is less than one hour's supply of water."

Early crops in this neighborhood have been ruined by drought, and farmers have stopped work. Many people have no water in their cisterns or wells. Most of the mountain brooks are dry and the Raritan river is lower now than ever before, it is stated.

FARM BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Three Cows and Agricultural Implements Were Consumed.

The fire which was plainly seen in this city about 1 o'clock this morning, and which was thought to be at South Plainfield, proves to have been at New Dover, where one of the three large barns on the farm of Frank Noel was entirely destroyed by fire together with its contents.

With difficulty the horses in the barn were saved, but three cows and a large quantity of farm implements were burned. The origin of the fire is not known. The loss is estimated at $1,200. Mr. Noel carried an insurance in W. A. Woodruff's agency.

QUAKERS PAY HOMAGE.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN HONOR OF LATE REV A. M. POWELL.

Letters Paying Tribute to Him Read From Many Prominent People in Reform Work—Great Loss to Friends.

The memorial services held yesterday afternoon at the Friends' meeting house on Watchung avenue out of respect to the memory of the late lamented Aaron M. Powell, of East Sixth street, were attended by a large and appreciative audience who revered the memory of this good man, whose philanthropic work will be cherished by all classes. After a short period of silent prayer William D. Williams read a selection from the Bible. Then William M. Jackson, of New York, in a few words, introduced George D. Hallock, who read letters from Rev. Lyman K. Abbott, Miss Grace Dodge, William Lloyd Garrison and Commodore Eldridge T Gerry, president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of New York. Letters were also read by Mrs. Edward Rushmore and Mrs. A. J. Gavett from Mrs. Elizabeth Powell Bond, Miss Jackson, Dr. O. Edward Janney, W. D. Williams, A. H. Nickerson, Elias H. Underhill, Charles Underhill and Isaac Miller, all of whom spoke feelingly of the grand work the good man had been engaged in while at the head of the Friends' meeting in this city for so many years. His death was, indeed, a great loss to the society and it is keenly felt by all. The meeting closed by Miss Rushmore reading the very appropriate poem by Tennyson, entitled "Crossing the Bar."

MILLIONS FOR DRAKES.

THIRD GENERATION OF A FAMILY EXPECT TO BE MADE RICH.

Twenty Descendants in This Vicinity Declare Their Right to Have a Share in an Estate Worth Several Millions.

About twenty persons more or less interested in the estate of the late Francis Drake, who once resided in Metuchen, met at the home of Mrs Brice, in New Durham, the other day, to make their affidavits before Justice Moss, who had been taken there for that purpose by William A. Silence, of Oak Tree, acting in the interest of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lane, of Oak Tree, who is a sister of Mrs. Brice, of New Durham, and Mrs. Sutton, of Bonhamton, the three old ladies being descendants in the third generation from Francis Drake, who is said to have left an estate in New York city worth millions of dollars. The affidavits of the three sisters and others claiming to be interested in the property were taken, as were those of Mr. Brice and Joel Bloomfield, both of whom had been employed by Francis Drake.

The affidavits were taken in pursuance of an advertisement issued by a Dr. Drake, from some Western State.

PORTO RICAN CHANCES.

DAVID B. GRAY TALKS OF HIS EXPERIENCES ON THE ISLAND.

He Has Just Returned From the New Possession While Acting as Second Engineer on United States Transport Dixie.

David B. Gray, second engineer of the United States transport Dixie, has been visiting his parents, 217 Grant avenue. He has been in Havana, Porto Rico and Mantansas. Mr. Gray spoke enthusiastically to a Press reporter regarding the improvements being made by the United States Government along the water front at Havana. He believes that with the great improvements now under way and the enterprises to be brought into the Islands by Americans it will be the means of making Havana and Porto Rico among the most prosperous of any of the possessions over which Uncle Sam has jurisdiction. Mr. Gray believes that at least Porto Rico will yet prove to be one of the best business centers of the world and a pleasant place in which to live.

He expects to leave on another cruise on or about the 16th inst., but to what country the Dixie will be ordered he has no knowledge.

An Expression of Love and Appreciation.

A special meeting of the Rasores was held at the home of the first vice-president, Mrs. Patterson, this morning, to give expression in some slight degree to their love and appreciation of their late associate and charter member, Mrs. Walz, for thirteen years their loved and loving associate. Their sense of loss is keen, and they feel irreparable. Always gentle and unselfish, always interested in and for the club, always efficiently and quietly filling and more than filling her place, they desire to give their loving tribute to her memory.

GOLFERS SCORE FOR THE M'CUTCHEN CUP.

Light Rain Put the Links in Fine Condition.

BIG DAY ON THE HILLSIDE.

THIRTEEN WOMEN CONTEST FOR SCHOONMAKER CUP.

A Member of the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth, Made an Excellent Score on the Mountain Links—But Two Fair Contestants at the Park Club—Detailed Scores Made in Both Clubs.

The threatening weather of Saturday in a measure accounted for the rather limited attendance at the Park Golf Club course, although there was a good crowd on the links, and many were contesting for the Mrs. C. W. McCutchen cup, which is open to male members. In the ladies competition for the W. J. Buttfield cup there was a small number of contestants, and only two women recorded their scores Miss Sadie M. Howell made the lowest net score, 60, while Miss Adelaide Ball's net score was 66.

The scores recorded in the contest for the Mrs. McCuchen cup are as follows:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
Gus Faber	105	3	102
G. W. Cooley	119	0	119
F. S. Overton	130	22	108
C. W. McCutchen	138	30	108
W. J. Buttfield	143	30	113
C. A. Reed	151	30	121
J. H. Howell	145	18	127
S. S. Squire	141	12	129

The course was in fine condition, the light rain having had a good effect on the grass. T. F. Leoser, a member of the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth, was a visitor to the course, and he made two rounds in 101, which is one of the best scores made recently.

During the afternoon tea was served in the clubhouse by Mrs. E. T. Douglass, assisted by several members of the club.

Saturday was a big day on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds and the course was crowded with enthusiastic players. The threatening weather of the morning did not dampen the ardor of the thirteen women who entered the contest for the Schoonmaker cup, which was the event of the day. This was the third contest for the cup, which has to be played for five times. The one winning it one or more times is entitled to enter the final match play. This cup is played for twice a year, spring and fall, and the next play will be in October, while the fifth contest will come off next spring. In all there were nineteen entries for Saturday's play, but only thirteen played. The scores made are as follows:

	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
Miss VanHerwerden	142	36	106
Miss Corlies	128	12	116
Mrs. N. P. Rogers	119	0	119
Miss Schoonmaker	135	12	116
Miss May Holly	143	18	125
Miss Reinhart	148	22	126

Miss May Evans	151	16	135
Mrs. F. M. VanBuren	167	30	137
Miss Whiton	149	12	137
Miss S. VanBoskerck	170	16	154
Miss Cox	193	36	157
Miss Lee	201	36	165

During the afternoon there was the usual large crowd of enthusiasts on the course and the clubhouse was the scene of attraction for a host of people. Steward Ivamy was kept busy serving lunch, and in the evening a large number of people remained for dinner.

LET YOUR LIGHT SHINE.

Otherwise Bicyclists May Have a Run-in With the Police.

Edward Giles and Allison McLean were arrested late last night for riding their wheels without a light. The arrests were made by Officers McCarthy and Vanderweg. In the case of McLean the officers gave him quite a chase before effecting a capture. Judge Runyon imposed a fine of $1 upon McLean. Giles was not in court when his case was called. He will be apprehended later if he does not put in an appearance at police headquarters. This is the first case in this city where a fine has been imposed for riding a bicycle at night without a light.

MUST NOT DIVERT WATER FROM BROOK.

Important Decision In Supreme Court This Morning.

NOVEL AND EXPERT CLAIM.

SOURCE OF GREEN BROOK EFFECTED BY PERCOLATION.

On the Result of this Suit Depends the Starting of Damage Suits That Will Aggregate Over $100,000—It Was Bitterly Fought by Water Company in Somerset Court a Year Ago.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, June 12. — The Supreme Court this morning handed down a decision in the case of Harper, Hollingsworth & Darby, of Scotch Plains, against the Mountain Water Company, of Summit, confirming the verdict in favor of the plaintiffs, found in the Somerset County Court a year ago, for damages amounting to between $500 and $600. On the result of this action depended the starting of a number of other suits for damages against the water company, the aggregate of which will amount to over $100,000.

It was claimed that Mountain Water Company was diverting the natural source of supply of water in Green brook by percolation to their own commercial use and constantly depleting the volume of water in Green brook so that the mills along that stream were unable to depend on it for power. It was one of the most novel claims ever brought before a New Jersey court. The water company did not draw their supply direct from the brook, but pumped it out of wells sank at points where it was claimed the water should naturally flow to Green brook.

Three years ago all the mill owners from Plainfield to Summit decided to form an association to compel the water company to desist its practices. The case of Harper, Hollingsworth & Darby was selected for the fight in court. It was tried a year ago before Supreme Court Judge Magie in Somerville. It was bitterly fought by the water company, much expert evidence being heard and the trial lasting nearly a month. The jury brought in a verdict in favor of plaintiffs, and the case was immediately appealed.

Senator Reed, of Reed & Coddington, of this city, represented the plaintiffs, and Riker & Riker, of Newark, the defendants.

Now that the case has been decided in favor of the plaintiffs by the Supreme Court the other damage suits will be immediately instituted by Reed & Coddington.

STOLEN BY THE WAYSIDE.

Westfield Man Left His Bicycle for a Little While and it Was Stolen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 12—Jos. Singer, of Westfield, had occasion to leave his bicycle standing along Park avenue Sunday evening for a short time. When he returned the wheel was missing. Inquiry developed the fact that a stranger, apparently a novice at the art, was seen pedaling toward Plainfield only a few minutes before the discovery of the loss.

The man kept in the shade of the trees along the road as much as possible as though to hide his identity. Mr. Singer does not know the number of the wheel, and the only mark for identification is that it is a Cleveland with the name plate taken off. The chance of his recovering his property is rather slim.

BOWLING ON THE GREEN.

"Ladies'" Day With the Middlesex Club at Dunellen, Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 12.—Last Saturday was "ladies'" day at the home of Christian Schepflin, when the Middlesex Bowling Green Club entertained the fair sex in their usual delightful manner. There was the usual good crowd present and according to previous custom the green was given up entirely to the ladies. A very pleasant time was spent in bowling and some good scores were made.

A feature of the affair was the collation served by the club members. The menu was a fine one and everyone enjoyed it fully. There was a large number of ladies present and also a majority of the members. Guests were present from New Brunswick, New York, Brooklyn and several other places. The club will meet for regular bowling Saturday, June 24th.

Edward Martin and wife, of Newark, were visitors yesterday at the home of Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., of Jackson avenue.

CANNON TO REPEL TROLLEY INVASION.

A Desperate Resort of "Count" John K. VanNess.

GETTING THE RIGHT RANGE.

TESTING THE WEAPON CAUSED HIM TO BE ARRESTED.

Shooting the Cannon Saturday Night Attracted the Attention of Patrolman McCarthy and He Arrested the "Count" for Violating City Ordinances—Mr. VanNess Seems Bound to Win.

"Count" J. K. VanNess was arrested today on the formal charge of shooting firearms within the city limits without a permit, but behind the legal offense is a story of what is proving to be one of the most novel and desperate attempts to repel the progress of a trolley road over a certain territory that has ever been recorded in New Jersey.

When the Plainfield Street Railway Company commenced to make arrangements to extend their line to Scotch Plains they selected a route, after leaving East Second street, that runs over private property. Among the properties was that occupied by VanNess. The company secured consents for the right of way from the people they supposed to be owners of the property, but did not consult the "Count" in the plans. There is where they made a mistake. As soon as they got ready to start actual work in making the roadbed VanNess appeared upon the scene claiming to own the property. He declared that the company was trying to usurp his rights as a property owner, and that he did not propose to allow them to cross the property. He notified the officials of the company to that effect.

The company made no attempt to touch the "Count's" property, but nearly every day the latter visited the Italian workmen in the vicinity and upbraided them for proposing to invade his land. VanNess declared that he had planted dynamite along the proposed route of the trolley on his property, to which was attached electric wires running to his house, and that the first man to strike a spade into his land would be blown to atoms. This threat was not realized, however, but it was followed by an obstacle that was far more formidable to cope with.

This was the erection of a small, frame structure directly on the line of the surveyed route, in which the "Count" said he intended to reside in the future. He moved a few household goods into the structure and last Thursday he and his wife took up their residence in it, leaving a commodious, well furnished house on another part of the property to occupy it.

The Street Railway Company has steadily prosecuted their work of building the road and Saturday the workmen came in sight of the Van Ness' unique abode. In the meantime, however, the "Count" had secured a brass cannon which he planted directly in front of the shanty, its mouth pointing towards the route of the trolley. With this cannon the "Count" declared that he proposed to desperately repel any invasion of his property by the trolley people.

Saturday night he loaded it up with buckshot and powder, and tried to get the exact range of the spot where he anticipated the invasion of railway employes would be made. Then he fired it off. The range was not exact and he tried it over again three more times. In the meantime, Patrolman McCarthy heard the boom of a cannon. He hurried in the direction of the noise and came upon the "Count" as the latter was about to fire the cannon again. The patrolman asked why he was shooting the cannon off in violation of the city ordinances. VanNess said that he was getting the weapon in shape to protect his property from the trolley people, whom he proposed to shoot down like Spaniards if they crossed the dividing line of his property.

The patrolman could not see the matter in the same light that VanNess did and he placed him under arrest. He was told to appear in court this morning, but he failed to do so. He will be arraigned on the charge tomorrow.

The "Count" has been through many exciting encounters in his day, and as he is a man who will resort to extraordinary means to carry his point there is a great deal of interest centered in the case to see whether or not he will actually resort to shot and powder to keep the trolley people off his land.

DAMAGE FULLY A MILLION.

Claimed That Texas Floods Have Destroyed Property to This Amount.

THE WATERS RECEDING.

Great Amount of Damage Wrought Between Austin and the Mouth of Colorado River.

Crop Losses in the Valley of the Colorado and Its Tributaries Very Heavy—The Shores of Lake McDonald Piled High With Wrecked Buildings, Trunks of Trees and Dead Stock.

Austin, Tex., June 12.—The waters of the Colorado River here are receding slowly, but reports have been received that late heavy rains have caused another big rise along its upper course. Although the crop losses in the valley of the Colorado and its tributaries northwest of here are heavy, they are small compared with the damage wrought between this city and its mouth, where it empties into Matagorda Bay.

Lake McDonald, which is formed here by the great dam, is slowly getting back to its normal water level. Its shores are piled high with debris. Trunks of trees, cotton gin machinery, dead stock of all kinds, wrecks of houses and other kinds of wreckage cover the many miles of shore. Trustworthy calculations show that the number of miles covered by the flood in the Colorado River in its crooked course from the Pan Handle to Matagorda Bay is fully 2,000. The number of acres of cultivated land that was flooded cannot be estimated accurately.

As nearly an accurate list as can be obtained shows that the loss of life along the flood district is considerably greater than was first reported. It is now known positively that eighty-six persons in all have been drowned.

There has also been about 2,000 head of hogs, 4,000 cattle and 3,000 horses drowned.

Dallas, Tex., June 12.—Heavy rains have again fallen in the west and north west of Dallas, increasing the flood damage. It is estimated that the property loss in the valleys of Saba, Brazos, Llano and Colorado Rivers and their tributaries will reach fully $1,000,000.

Insane Woman's Awful Suicide.

Ottawa, Ontario, June 12.—Mrs. N. B. Allen, wife of the Township Assessor of Melancthon, Ontario, saturated her clothing with coal oil, applied a match to the bottom of her skirt and sustained injuries from which she died a few hours later. While her clothing was burning she stolidly bore the pain, keeping her face covered with her hands in order to prevent its disfigurement. The woman had been deranged for some time.

Fall River's Smallpox Scare Renewed.

Fall River, Mass., June 12.—The smallpox scare that agitated the city two weeks ago and that died out a few days ago has been renewed. Last Wednesday the last of the patients were removed from the North End to the pesthouse and the quarintine on the infected region was removed. On Friday night new cases were discovered in the same district. To-day two cases were found in Flint village, the thickly populated eastern district.

John Howard Set Free.

Sing Sing, June 12.—John Howard, who has proved himself one of the most valuable convicts ever incarcerated in Sing Sing Prison, has been released, his ten-year sentence having been commuted by the Governor to four years, which has now expired. Howard is the man who built the two fine organs for he Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels.

Eighty Days of Drought at Cape Cod.

Hyannis, Mass., June 12.—The wood fires on Cape Cod continue, although they are kept from doing serious damage by the fire fighters, who are constantly on the watch. This is the eightieth day since rain fell, and there is no sign of relief. It will be impossible to extinguish the fire until rain falls, and the residents of the cape are almost in despair.

BIG ADVANCE IN WAGES

Forty-Five Thousand Men Will Get a Raise of 25 Per Cent.

Detroit, Mich., June 12.—The final conference between the representatives of iron and steel manufacturers and the iron and steel Wage Committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers has ended.

The net result is that the wage scale for iron and steel workers, as fixed by the recent convention of the Amalgamated Association, are practically all accepted by the manufacturers. This means a general raise of 25 per cent for some forty-five thousand men employed in the manufacturing industries.

Cruiser Newark is Safe.

Washington, June 12.—The cruiser Newalk is undoubtedly safe. This despatch has reached the Navy Department:

"Montevideo, June 12.

"The purser of a steamer of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, which arrived at Montevideo June 2, saw the Newark enter Sandy Point May 28. COLBY."

While the Newark was much overdue at Sandy Point, in the Strait of Magellan, she is not overdue from that point to Valparaiso.

Shot a Highwayman Fatally.

Camden, N. J., June 12.—William Deary, a highwayman, knocked down Robert Ludlow, an aged man living at Bevelry, near Delanco, and started to rifle his pockets. As Ludlow lay on the ground he drew his revolver and shot twice at his assailant. One bullet entered the left breast, just above the heart. The other lodged in the right arm. Mr. Ludlow then made a prisoner of Deary and took him to Delanco. From there he sent him to the Cooper Hospital, in this city, under arrest. It is not thought Deary can recover.

Marion Strike Grows Serious.

Marion, Ind., June 12.—The carpenters' strike, which has been on for over four weeks, and which resulted in a sympathetic strike of the brick masons and plasterers, has now spread to the painters, decorators and paperhangers. The business men are very much alarmed, as the unions are all so thoroughly organized, and if a call is made by the Trades Council the clerks, printers and all union employes will join the sympathetic strike and completely demoralize business.

Coal Miners May Strike.

Pittsburg, Penn., June 12.—A strike of 25,000 coal miners in the central district of Pensylvania is threatened. Within the last ten days secret meetings have been held at Robertsdale and Clearfield, at which the National and district officers of the United Mine Workers' Association were authorized to prepare the machine miners of the whole district for a strike as soon as these officials thought the time ripe. A letter from a national organizer received here declares that this will be within a month or six weeks.

Buffalo Men Ordered Out.

FORMING BREWERY TRUST

New York Men Are Said to be After All the Plants in the United States.

A BILLION IS INVOLVED.

Upwards of 2,000 Breweries to be Bought up and Controlled by One Management.

The Plans for the Big Combine Formulated at the National Brewers Meeting in Detroit—Pennsylvania Breweries Already Consolidated—Will Take Three Years to Perfect the Scheme.

New York, June 12.—Albert Lieber, manager of the brewery syndicate of this city, which includes the three largest breweries here, has confirmed the story of the information of a giant brewery trust. Mr. Lieber has just returned from Detroit, and, after learning that the story was out, said:

"A Pittsburg broker named Merkle, representing the American Malting Company, has just closed a deal involving $92,000,000, whereby all the Pennsylvania breweries were consolidated. This was one of the first steps in the big scheme. Options are now out on a number of Indiana breweries, and the same is true of other States. The principal factor in the big scheme is Seymour Scott, a wealthy broker of New York City, who has been working on it for some time.

"The scheme is a stupendous one, and it will require at least three years to perfect it. The American Malting Company already has a monopoly on all the malt produced in this country. The distilleries will all be bought up and also all the 2,200 breweries. I should say it will require at least $1,000,000,000 to do the work.

"At the expiration of three years I look to see all the malt dealers, distilleries and breweries of the United States controlled by one working head."

Indianapolis, June 12.—The trust mania has finally reached the brewers, and it is said on the best authority that a scheme is on foot to form a trust with $1,000,000,000 capital and buy up all the breweries in the country.

It is said that the scheme, which is at present only in its inception, received impetus at the national convension of brewers at Detroit, when plans were discussed secretly.

It is said that several big Indiana capitalists are lending their support to the gigantic project, among them Crawford Fairbanks, the brewer of Terre Haute.

Thomas Baker Killed.

Louisville, Ky., June 12.—The Howards and Whites have kept their word, and Thomas Baker, the recognized leader of the Baker faction in the Baker-Howard feud, is a dead man. He was shot through the body and instantly killed a moment after he had obtained a change of venue in his trial on the charge of killing one of the Howrds. The killing was done in the Court House yard, with a battalion of militia all around at the time. The rifle shot was fired from a window in the house of Sheriff Beverly P. White, directly across the street from the Court House. White is one of the Howard faction.

New Stamp for Use in Cuba.

Washington, June 12.—The Postoffice Department has received from the Bureau of Printing nd Engraving a drawing of the special delivery stamp to be used in Cuba. A wealthy Brooklyn society woman, well known on account of her benevolent influence and the prominent part she takes in social, philanthropic and church work, tells this story concerning her experience with Ripans Tabules: "An attack of la grippe, from which I did not fully recover, left me in such a debilitated condition that I was obliged to go to North Carolina for the winter in search of health. I had tried many remedies to improve my condition but without success, and had finally decided to give it up. Nothing seemed to do me any good—all the remedies given me and spoken of by friends were tried without any satisfactory result. Ripans Tabules were offered me by a friend, who spoke so highly of them and insisted so much that I had to keep them rather than risk giving offense. I did not really intend to use the Tabules at all when I started for North Carolina, but my friend persisted in writing about them, and finally I promised to try them and finally did so. I found them excellent and immediately effective. At first they served the purpose of an alarm clock in the morning. Seth Thomas never made one that was more to be relied upon. They strengthened and invigorated me and made me feel so fine all day that I am simply delighted with them."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. [illegible] enough for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (TEN TABULES) [illegible] forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. [illegible] carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

THREE KILLED IN A WRECK

Weak Bridge Causes Fatal Accident on Norfolk and Western.

Petersburg, Va., June 12.—A westbound freight train on the Norfolk and Western Railroad was wrecked at Kilby Lake, one mile west of Suffolk. Workmen have been raising the bridge across the lake and repairing the abutments, and to this fact and the heavy rain may be attributed the accident. When the engine of the freight struck the east end abutment it gave way. The locomotive was thrown down the embankment and into the lake, where it now remains, the upper part showing above the water. Engineer W. A. Clayton and Fireman William Pool were killed. The forward train hand, a colored man named Tom Wells, was so badly hurt that he died of his injuries. Eight freight cars and gondolas were wrecked.

Santa Fe, N. M., June 12.—A telegram has been received from Binger Hermann, Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, which says: "After careful consideration of various reports adverse to sheep grazing, department declines to allow that privilege in Pecos reserve." RAINY SEASON IS NO BAR

American Troops Will Continue Activity Despite the Rainy Weather.

REPORTS ARE CORRECT.

Rains Not to Necessitate Inaction in the Philippines During the Next Two or Three Months.

The Original Course Recommended by General Otis to be Pursued in Carrying on the Campaign—Army Sanitariums to be Established for the Care and Protection of American Soldiers.

Washington, June 12.—The American advance from Manila south toward Paranaque confirms recent reports that the war against the insurgents would be carried on despite the rains. Gen. Otis recommended such a course some time ago, but the President was averse to subjecting the troops to any exposure which might bring a repetition of the terrible experience in the trenches around Santiago. The Morong expedition and the advance on Paranaque, however, is considered sufficient proof that the rains will not necessitate inaction in the next two or three months, and that he advantage already gained will be followed up.

While Gen. Otis's recommendation that the rainy season need not necessarily deter the American advance had great weight with the President, the visit of Gen. Miller, on his arrival from Manila, was even more convincing, as by personal conversaton and inquiry the President was enabled to view every phase of the situation. Gen. Miller told the President that the rainy season in the Philippines was vastly different from that experienced in Cuba. The rains, he said, were not continuous, and while the downpour at times was exceedingly heavy, it was spasmodic. The soil absorbed the water like a sponge, and half an hour after a storm ceased the ground was dry and hard enough to permit the advance of infantry, and even of artillery. The greatest danger, he said, was from the heat. More soldiers fell from heat exhaustion than from all other causes combined.

How well Gen. Miller's statements accord with the conditions is evidenced in the press despatches of the latest engagement. The American troops pursued their advance successfully and with little difficulty comparatively. The exhaustions from heat, however, were great, but officials here do not believe the prostrations to be dangerous beyond the enervating results which inevitably follow for a time. There are excellent points for recuperation within the American lines, and army sanitariums will be established for the care of the soldiers.

Manila, June 12.—A force of 450 men under Gens. Lawton, Wheaton and Ovenshine, advanced from San Pedro Macati, sweeping the country between the Bay of Manila and Bay Lake south of Manila. By noon the country had been cleared almost to Paranaque.

The Americans lost two officers killed and twenty-one soldiers wounded.

The rebels resisted desperately at the stronger of their positions, and left fifty dead in the trenches and many more wounded.

The heat was overpowering and there were many prostrations of American soldiers from that cause.

The double turreted monitor Monadnock and three other vessels shelled Paranaque and the natives promptly evcuated the place.

Manila, June 12.—The Filipino occupation of the Province of Cavite has been broken; and, as the result of the present movement, the Americans now control the important coast towns of Paranaque and Las Pinas, while a long line of insurgent trenches, facing our south line, has been cleared.

The insurgents have again proved their feility s dodgers, between 3,000 and 4,000 worriors, who seemed destined to be captured, having disappeared, the majority slipping away under cover of the night, after fighting the Americans all day. Many others came to meet our troops, with protestations of friendship. Our loss was one killed and nineteen wounded.

Diamond Match Company Plans.

Chicago, June 12.—The Diamond Match Company is to increase its capital stock $3,000,000, and possibly $4,000,000, within the next two weeks. Light and Water Contract Let.

Louisville, Ill., June 12.—The City Council has voted to contract with Messrs. Reed and Surrels, of Chicago, to put in an electric light and water works plant for this city, the same to cost $10,500.

When the children's best clothes come from the wash with the colors faded and streaked, and with worn spots showing in places where there should be no wear, then you may know that your laundress is using something besides Ivory Soap.

You can save trouble and expense by furnishing her with Ivory Soap, and insisting that she use it and nothing else. The price of one ruined garment will buy Ivory Soap sufficient for months.

STRIKE LOOKS SERIOUS

Fourteen Lines of the Big Consolidated at Cleveland, Tied Up.

Cleveland, June 12.—The strike on the fourteen lines of the Big Consolidated street railway has assumed lrage proportions, and from the threatening attitude of the strikers it is feared that trouble of a more serious nature than that which has already occurred will result before the matter is settled.

A number of the men who have taken the strikers' places have been assaulted and roughly handled, and not a car except those carrying United States mails are allowed to move along uninterrupted. Outside of being pelted with eggs, jostled about and jeered at by the strikers and those who sympathize with them, none of the men have up to this time suffered any serious injury, but the various lines operated by the Big Consolidated have been pretty well tied up, and nothing like the regular order of things has prevailed since the men walked out, and the patrons have suffered great inconvenience. Very few cars were run over any of the lines yesterday, and those that did attempt to run were stopped every few yards, and this was repeated so often that the occupants, in most cases, would get off and walk, not for fear of violence, however, but simply because they could make better time on foot than what in almost every instance proved a fruitless attempt to ride.

Some one in the crowd hit Division Superintendent Steffin in the head with a bottle, injuring him seriously. He was taken to his home in an unconscious condition.

The strikers' places are being filled with men from Buffalo, Toledo and Chicago.

The Paris Going to Pieces.

London, June 12.—The stranded American line steamship Paris is fast becoming a total wreck. Her boilers have shifted and her false bottoms gone. Further diving is impossible.

A despatch from St. Keverne says that a strong southeast wind is blowing, stirring up a heavy sea. The stern of the Paris has swung landward. The officers of the ship will leave her today.

Part of His Head Was Blown Off.

Bristol, R. I., June 12.—Just as the Columbia was half way out of the shop, preparatory to being launched, a distressing accident occurred. The explosion of a can of flashlight powder blew a leg and part of the head off Napoleon San Souci, 12 years old; broke the legs of two other boys, George Balfour, 10, and Luke Calin, 8, and injured several other people.

Big Torpedo Boat Launched.

Wilmington, Del., June 12.—The torpedo boat Stringham, which the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company is building for the Government, has been launched. Mrs. Edwina Stringham Creighton, of Morristown, N. J., granddaughter of the late Admiral Stringham, and daugter of the late Rear-Admiral Creighton, gave the vessel its name.

Headless Body Washed Ashore.

New York, June 12.—Floating in on the flood tide from the Narrows came to the Cresent Athletic Club pier at Bay Ridge the body of a man who had been murdered within 24 hours. It was headless and armless, and both legs had been cut off just below the knee. There were no marks of identification on the body.

Mr. Scudder Trotted Out.

Though the Westfield Republican is politically inclined as its title indicates it has the presumption to trot out a Democratic candidate in the person of Mulford Scudder, of Westfield, for the nomination of Sheriff in Union county. The Republican says: "Although Freeholder Swain, of Summit, and Jacob Glaser, of Elizabeth, are anxious to run for Senator on the Democratic ticket, the noblest Roman of them all is Mulford M. Scudder, of Westfield. If we are to have any kind of a decent campaign, let the unterrified put in the field a man who stands in his party as Senator Cross does in the Republican ranks. Mr. Scudder is a fighter, and it would be a merry war with our townsman in the lists against the excellent lawyer of Elizabeth."

The Jersey editor of The Tribune has the following pleasant word to say for Assemblyman Murray, but undoubtedly it will be gall and wormwood to many other Union county Republican leaders who do not like Mr. Murray's independence: "Some papers are saying that there is opposition to the renomination of Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, of Plainfield, because of his independence and of his fight in the last Legislature against the telephone monopoly. It is just because Mr. Murray showed such zeal and activivity that the voters of Union county will see that he is sent back to Trenton, where he is valuable as a champion of the rights of the people. The lobbyists don't like him, but 'the third house.'"

The Chicago Times-Hearld, which has been making an estimate of the population of the country at the next census in 1900, gives to New Jersey 2,027,000 as against 1,444,933 in 1880. Then, in population, this State ranked number eighteen, but, according to the estimate of the above journal, she will next year rank ahead of Virginia and Alabama, which at the last census, were ahead of New Jersey. The total estimate for all the states and territories, is 80,000,000, and that of the Philippines and Porto Rico added would make 90,000,000.

With the heavy increase which the State is likely to have in its State fund balance at the end of the year there is a fair prospect that an appropriation will be made next winter for enlarging the State House. The State fund balance will probably run very close to $1,500,000, thanks to the trusts that have taken advantage of New Jersey's friendly laws to become incorporated here. But is it worth the stigma that attaches to the State as a result of the business?

Admiral Upshur, who first suggested the gift of a residence in Washington to Admiral Dewey, has written a letter in which he says his idea was not that the house purchased for the purpose should become the personal property of the Admiral and pass to his heirs, but that it should be retained as the permanent home of the ranking officer of the Navy. The revised edition of the suggestion is a good one.

EDWIN MARKHAM, POET.

Though he has been known to a comparatively small circle of magazine readers for ten years, it was not until "The Man With the Hoe" appeared, about three months ago, that all the world read of Edwin Markham, the poet. Mr. Markham has for years been the principal of a school in Oakland, Cal.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The recent agitation for through trains from Plainfield to Newark had its origin in Newark and has awakened a progressive spirit in Plainfield, where an "Advancement Society" has been organized to boom local interests abroad. That's the kind of spirit that is going to make Plainfield some day a large and attractive residential city, not the Chinese policy which some narrow-minded and penny-wise traders in Plainfield started out to advocate for the town by demanding railroad isolation.—Newark Advertiser.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Edward Nelson, ticket agent at the Central Railroad station, has been presented with a piece of stone which Rev. E. M. Rodman brought with him from Jerusalem. It is claimed that the relic was secured from the quarry which supplied the stone from which King Solomon's Temple was constructed. The souvenir is highly appreciated by Mr. Nelson.

The Woman's Journal, of Boston, under date of May 27th, devotes considerable space to the celebration of the eightieth anniversary of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe's birthday. It publishes an excellent likeness of this celebrated woman, and also contains portraits of her famous husband and their brilliant children, and a full account of the celebration of her birthday by the New England Women's Club, together with many incidents of her childhood, girlhood and married life. Among the portraits published is one of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city. It is an excellent picture, as are also the portraits of the other members of this famous family. The Journal also contains an interesting article from the pen of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and another article from the pen of one of the daughters. The issue is an exceedingly creditable one throughout.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The season of the Empire Theatre in New York will close next Saturday night. It is unfortunate for "His Excellency the Governor," that it did not get a start on the local stage earlier in the season. KEEP COOL!

Very good advice, you say, but how are we to do so? Well! the proper thing to do first is to call on us, look over the vast array of "Summer Comforts" we display, decide upon what you want, buy it, use it—and there you have it in a nutshell.

SHIRT WAISTS. If there is a comfortable garment made it is a shirt waist. The enormously increasing demand for them proves the truth of this statement. Our assortment of shirt waists is not only larger, but we believe superior to that of any other house in the State of N. J. They are non-sweatshop made, beautifully designed, carefully finished, perfect fitting and exclusive in style, all of which qualities ladies of good judgement appreciate. The demand for white waists is very heavy. We anticipated just such a demand and made unusual preparations to meet it. Prices 98c to $5.00. Crash Suits, Pique Suits, Crash Skirts, Pique Skirts, Duck Skirts, etc., are equally comfortable and desirable.

WHITE LAWN DRESSING SACKS. Inconceivably dainty, they evidence a wonderful amount of careful thought in designing, and rare taste in the selection of materials. They are marvelously beautiful and delightfully dressy, to say nothing of the comfort and satisfaction derived from their use.

DAINTY LINGERIE.

We still have many of the sample garments left notwithstanding the enormous sale of them. This is a rare opportunity to get fine garments at exactly ⅔ value.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, June 12.—Children's Day exercises were held in the M. E. church last evening when members of the Sunday-school presented an interesting programme of music and recitations. There was also special music by the church choir. At the morning service there was special music by the choir, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Jamison, preached an interesting sermon on "Neglected Children." There were large congregations at both services and the church was appropriately decorated for the occasion.

There were special exercises in connection with Children's Day at the Presbyterian church last evening, under the auspices of the Sunday-school. Recitations, songs and an appropriate address by the pastor, A. I. Martine, comprised a programme of interest which a large congregation enjoyed. In the morning a communion service was held and Pastor Martine preached for the first time since his recent accident. His sermon was listened to with interest.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, June 12.—The members of the Methodist Sunday-school observed Children's Day in an appropriate manner last evening. The church was filled with the members of the school and its friends, and a very pretty and interesting programme was rendered, consisting of recitations, dialogues and singing by the school. At the close Rev. Mr. Woodruff spoke a few, but deserving, words of thanks to the different committees who had labored so hard for the success of the entertainment.

The cottage prayer meetings, which have been held by the members of the Baptist church this last two weeks in the village and Fanwood, are to be discontinued for a week or two. Rev. Mr. Shott says he feels very much encouraged by the support given the movement, and after a short vacation he hopes to take up the work again with even renewed vigor. But at the present time there were other engagements which would interfere materially with the movement.

The trolley extension was the objective point of interest to a large number of Scotch Plains people yesterday afternoon, The principal attraction was Count VanNess' "summer home" which has recently been placed in the path of the trolley we have all been waiting for so long.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that their is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even set up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at L. W. The First Anniversary.

It is just a year since the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road inaugurated its celebrated Pioneer Limited passenger train service between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis. This service marked a new era in the railway world in the line of passenger accommodations. At a cost of a quarter of a million dollars that progressive company furnished the traveling public, in its Pioneer Limited train, comforts and facilities the best ever produced. This train has been described many times in newspapers and magazines, but should be seen and examined to be appreciated. In beauty of finish, richness and elegance of furnishing nothing equal to it has ever been attempted by any other road. The car builders were nearly a year in completing the Pioneer Limited trains (there are two—one leaving Chicago for the West and the other leaving the Twin Cities for the East every evening in the year) and they stand today a monument to the builders art. No regular passenger train service in America is as well known as the Pioneer Limited. From the standpoint of passenger traffic the past twelve months have been the most successful in the history of the St. Paul road, made so very largely by the Pioneer Limited. The patronage of this service is a striking illustration of the fact that the public appreciates a good thing. 6 10 2

Household Talks

"MUSTARD TO MIX."

A Forehanded Hostess Had Everything Ready But the Mustard.

The phrase became a household watchword and the countersign with us after reading a domestic story thirty years ago. I do not recall the name of the author who dropped the seed into good and fruitful soil, says Marion Harland in the New York Herald, but hers is the blessing insured to them who sow beside all waters.

The tale was of a fidgetty housekeeper—one of the sort stigmatized in rough parlance of the sensible vulgar as "nasty particular." A friend, calling upon her soon after breakfast, found her fairly beside herself with worry because guests she had expected at noon had telegraphed that they would be with her at eleven o'clock that morning. Distracted Martha "could never in the world be ready for them. There was so much to do that she did not know what to take hold of first. It was enough to drive a woman out of her senses, &c., &c., &c."

"But what have you to do?"

"Do! Do! Do! Why—everything!"

The visitor drew off her glove.

"I will stay and help you. Shan't I get the spare room ready?"

A gesture of disdain.

"As if I would have put that off until to-day!"

"Can I help about the luncheon?"

"Well! I should be ashamed of myself if the cook hadn't her orders and materials and all before this!"

"Perhaps I could dust the parlors? or polish silver? or—" glancing around the perfectly appointed dining room, where the luncheon table was already laid—"I might arrange the flowers in the vases?"

It finally transpired that the frantic and "forehanded" hostess could specify but one thing that remained to be done before everything should be in order for the visitors—she had mustard to mix for the luncheon. She never mixed mustard long before it was used—"it got so dry and hard when kept."

Thenceforward, in one family at least, "mustard to mix," was the synonym for needless hurry and flurry and worry. When used interrogatively, it was the cabalistic formula that caused a precipitate settlement of many a muddy whirl of anxieties, the "Open Sesame" to a "chamber the name of which was Peace."

Half of the perturbations that chase the housekeeper "clean out of her wits" are as purely imaginary as those that beset the heroine of our wee scrap of a story. That other American Martha who cried out on Monday morning: "Washing to-day! Ironing on Tuesday! Baking on Wednesday! Bless my life, half the week gone and nothing done!" is hardly a caricature of the national housewife. Worry is a whirlwind that throws the weightier matters of the law of life out of plumb, and raises such a dust of minor duties and possible hindrances that the blinded victim can see nothing aright.

One of the fixed principles of the universe is that two objects cannot occupy the same space at the same time. Another, which we are more slow to admit, is that no two duties are cast for one and the same instant. The throngs of homely tasks that obscure our toiler's vision in the anticipation of "another day's work," drifting and dancing in the light of the new day—a flood of elusive moths—have really sequence and order. Let her take hold of her astral or inner self by the shoulders and hold herself steady until she can weigh and classify the important atoms. The pretty fairy tale of the task set for Graciosa by her wicked stepmother supplies another and a pat illustration. The poor girl had to sort a room full of feathers of all colors and sizes. After laboring vainly for hours, she called tearfully for her fairy lover, who, with one stroke of his wand, laid each kind in a separate heap from the rest.

Your wand—and my wand—dear Martha, is the cool, long breath of sober reflection that gives us time to say:—"All these things cannot be done at once. Some of the less important can be laid over into the convenient season which must fall to the lot of even an American housekeeper. I must keep each in its place. 'I will—a strong 'will,' a long 'will' and many 'wills' altogether—'I will think of but one thing at a time, and do it as if there were nothing else in the world for me to do."

The discipline of thought and nerves that must attend upon such a moral and mental effort will train lawless impulses and teach concentration of thought as well as the much vaunted higher mathematics could. Work need not, of necessity, be worry. Industry does not imply haste.

"Count five and twenty, Tattycoram!" entreated Mr. Meagles, when the foundling's temper was likely to get away from her.

In the same tone of affectionate warning I pass on my homely test of facts and values—"Mustard to mix." First, make sure of what you really have to do, and to do to-day. Second, having screened and sifted the mass, assort the ore before you begin to smelt it—and yourself!

Never Correct Without Cause.

In correcting the little ones try to arouse their moral sense, showing that you are deeply grieved at their conduct, and the withholding of some little treat or of some delicacy at tea time is a deterrent in many mild cases; but restriction in diet or to give dry bread is not right, as it may prove injurious to growing children. Never punish for an accident, however annoying it may be. A child may break a valuable vase owing to the weakness of his little fingers, but this should not be punished, while if he throws a two-penny tumbler down in a rage or out of naughtiness this is a decided offence. Let us have sympathy with the little ones, and try to see things with their eyes, which is the only way of being just to them; but let us not forget the dictum of the father of the great philosopher, Locke: —"Remove hope and fear, and there is an end of all discipline."

FASHION HINTS.

Summer Fancies In Stationery and Other Matters.

Walking skirts just touch the ground. Skirts of more formal costumes—for visiting, etc.—are a little longer. Ceremonious gowns require a train which differs in length according to the age of the person who is to wear it. An old lady has a longer train for the same occasion than a middle aged one, while a young unmarried woman should have no train at all, according to French fashions.

Blue stationery with a white crest or cipher is fashionable, as are also gray and green of the same style. White ink is provided for writing on colored paper with white trimmings, but dark decorations — wine, green or deep blue — are sometimes used instead of white when ink and sealing wax are chosen to match.

Soft materials are most sought after for summer wool gowns, and dark blue is a favorite color. Soft silks, especially foulard, are also much liked, and, besides the favorite blue with a white design, there are a charming shade of heliotrope and another of pale tan, also with white designs, which are very fashionable.

The cut shows a gown of mauve silk, the trained skirt having three flounces of mauve mousseline de soie bordered with ruches of the same material. The top flounce is draped at the side under a chou. The tunic of guipure de venise is closed at the side. The pointed bodice, of point de venise over mauve silk, has a drapery of silk across the upper part, draped at the side by pearl buttons and coquilles of mousseline de soie. The sleeves of mousseline de soie are shirred at the top. The toque is of guipure and mauve silk and is trimmed with mauve flowers and black feathers.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Hints With Regard to the Summer Wardrobe.

With tailor made costumes taffeta cravats are worn to relieve the severity of the general effect. The ends are often decorated with an application of lace or guipure, with additional trimmings of bands of velvet or ruches. These cravats may have a fancy collar to match or may be worn with a linen collar.

Soft taffetas, crepes de chine and silk crepons compose exquisite summer gowns, delicate, clinging and fragile looking to the last degree. Tucks and bands of open insertion are favorite decorations for the skirt, the same ornaments appearing on the bodice, which often has a guimpe of mousseline de soie. The sleeves are frequently of guipure over silk. These soft, crapy materials lend themselves wonderfully well to the tunic fashion and impart an almost classical effect to the drapery.

Thin, satin finished cloths, lightweight velvets and a numerous company of delicate wool materials vie with silks in the domain of summer gowns and are no mean rivals, veiling, cashmere and canvas composing very attractive toilets.

An illustration is given of a new jacket. It is of red cloth and is tight and plain, buttoning to the left side with wooden buttons. The body forms a point back and front, and there are long double basques sewed on, bordered with stitching, which also finishes the whole garment. The sleeves are tight, and there is a valois collar. The black straw hat is trimmed with red ribbon and red roses.

Zwickau. Der Verein zur Begründung von Volksheilstätten für Lungenkranke im Königreich Sachsen hat den Bau einer zweiten Heilstätte, die zur Aufnahme weiblicher Lungenkranker dienen und 430,000 Mark kosten soll, beschlossen. Sie wird im Erzgebirge bei Schönheide, nicht allzu weit von der Anstalt für männliche Kranke, errichtet. In dieser waren die Kurerfolge des vergangenen Jahres sehr günstig, denn von 362 Verpflegten mit über 30,000 Verpflegtagen schieden nur 11 Prozent ungebessert und von den 89 Prozent waren 66 Prozent wieder erwerbsfähig. Der Betriebsaufwand betrug 85,782M.

HOME-COMING.

Once more upon the old stile's top
I rest my arms and look
Upon the dear, oft-dreamed-of scene
Of meadow land and brook.
The tall fir trees about me stand
Like clustered soldiers grim,
And through their tops the evening breeze
Sighs, a soft requiem.

Those happy days of long ago,
When life was in its spring,
With youth's glad heart, as free from care
As birds that soar and sing.
And dreams of that sweet bygone time
Shine through the dark'ning past
As harbor lights to sailors' eyes,
Storm-tossed, show home at last.

From all the turmoil of my life
I find a sweet release,
And to my burdened, tired heart
Comes God's most perfect peace.
Ah, weary souls, whose dearest dreams
Earth's fate and grind may blight,
Let nature's teachings point the way
If you would find true light.

—MARY DEVEREUX.

SO GOES THE WORLD.

John Watterson sat on the edge of his bed in his little hall bedroom thinking. The lower drawer of the bureau in front of him within two feet of the bed was open, and in it two or three shirts lay in great disorder, as though tumbled by an impatient hand.

"They're all pretty bad—frayed and worn," said John to himself. "It's a question, though, whether to wear one of them or buy a new one and go without a decent dinner. Let's look again."

He took the shirts out, one after another, examined the bosom of each critically, and threw them in turn on the bed. Then he opened his wallet and took out some bills.

"Four dollars, and it's only the middle of the week," he sighed. "I shall have to buy the new shirt and eat a 30-cent table d'hote at Bucci's."

He threw the shirts into the drawer.

"If I hadn't sent those flowers this afternoon——" It came over him suddenly how absurd it was for him to buy roses, like those. But he remembered the fine sense of luxury he had experienced when buying them—only it was a bit humiliating to have to ask the price beforehand. But they were for her, and he would go without his dinner any time to be able to send her flowers. Still, it was absurd. What a bitter chance of fate it was that had thrown him into well-bred society, where people dressed well and dined well habitually—where he belonged, he felt, by every right, but the possession of filthy lucre. He said "filthy lucre" aloud, and took a certain pleasure in the phrase. Better for him to have lived quietly and known only the people he met everyday at his work—and never seen her.

He put on his hat and coat and went downstairs. As he was opening the front door his landlady entered the hall from the front parlor, and presented him with the bill for his lodging.

"Last week's, Mr. Watterson, you know ——"

"Yes, yes, Mrs. Higgins. This Saturday I will settle for last week and this week together. I overlooked it last Saturday, and I haven't the money with me just now. But this week Saturday——"

"Oh, all right. I thought I'd remind you——"

Watterson had closed the door and was out in the street.

A few minutes later he was sitting in Bucci's restaurant. He could not help noting the meanness of the place, the smoky atmosphere, the cheap pine chairs with cane seats, the thin table linen, and comparing them with the appurtenances of the dinners he had eaten in private houses. He found a certain pleasure in doing so. There was a piquant contrast in dining excellently three days a week, and wretchedly the other four.

"Here I am now at half-past 6 eating in this disgusting place"—he noticed that the man who was sitting opposite him at the table had his napkin tucked under his chin and was eating with his knife—"in two hours I shall be sitting in a beautiful drawing-room, where every object speaks of refinement and luxury, talking with ——"

It seemed hideous to think of her in his present surroundings. She did not know he dined, had to dine sometimes, in such places. Would she not be disgusted with him if she knew? The thought took away his appetite. He finished the insipid entree and the sickish pudding as soon as possible, lighted a cigarette to take the taste out of his mouth, and hurried out. On his way back to his room he stopped at a haberdasher's and bought a shirt.

Sitting on the edge of his bed, he began to argue with himself whether he should go to see her or not. He knew all the time that he would go. He realized that it was dangerous for him to go, that his eyes constantly betrayed his secret—which he knew she knew. Could he trust his lips not to betray it? Three words might put an end to everything. It was a terrible risk. He had decided long ago not to tell her, not until he had the right to say more than three words. But suppose—yes, suppose she should care a little—perhaps a great deal—— It was possible. He recalled two or three glances, two or three words, soft-spoken at a dance, which were burned into his memory. The old thrill of them returned. But suppose she should not—what then? Ah, yes, what then? Anyway, he would go to see her that night.

He put on his dress clothes and went out. Half an hour later he climbed the steps of a brown stone house, rang the bell and was admitted.

It was cold and late when he stood again on the brownstone steps. The street was deserted. Some one with creeking shoes was walking away in the darkness. The insistent clang of the cable-car bells sounded three blocks away. Watterson buttoned his coat tightly around him and walked slowly down the steps. Which way should he go? It didn't matter much—he would walk over to the avenue where the cable cars were. As he walked along the deserted cross street a perfect calmness came over him. After all, he was himself, living and breathing, seeing and feeling. It surprised him somewhat that it should be so, but it made his mere physical senses strangely acute. He noticed how hard the pavement was, how rough the brownstone copings, and he realized a certain pleasure in these keen sensations. But at the same time it seemed to him that part of himself was absent or asleep—that part of him that really noticed and felt—and that it would come back or wake up to acute sensation—he could not foresee exactly when.

In the middle of the avenue he stopped and peered down into the cable slot. The light from the arc lamp overhead poured down into the opening and he could see the cable and the little wheels on which it ran. How it rattled and galloped along! Miles and miles of it and hundreds of little wheels—it was interesting to think of. Suddenly it occurred to him that he wasn't interested in the least in the cable and the little wheels—that there was only one thing he was really interested in, and that thing he wanted to forget.

"It can never be."

The words rang suddenly in his ears and stunned him. The cable, the street, became hazy and indistinct, and at the same time the part of him that really felt seemed to come back or awake. "It can never be." That part seemed to be repeating like an echo, while he himself stood gazing at the cable slot and seeing nothing.

A violent clanging right in his ear brought him to himself. With a bound he reached the sidewalk and stood there with beating heart, while the cable cars whirred by.

"I will be calm," he said to himself. "I will walk back and think of something else."

He reached his room in a passive state of mind. "I am not sleepy," he thought, as he laid away his hat and coat. "I will sit down and read awhile and then go quietly to sleep."

"I am perfectly calm," he said to himself, after finishing two or three pages. "I understand perfectly all I am reading." He had read half a page further when a snatch of a tune somehow got caught in his head and kept repeating itself mournfully over and over again. He struggled to read on. Always that snatch of a tune. Why? He had never heard it under any circumstances to make him remember it. And yet there was a certain fitness about it to the present case. He felt that and he hated the tune for it. He threw down the book. "I will go to bed—and to sleep," he said.

In the darkness his thoughts became terribly vivid, almost tangible. And always that snatch of a tune kept repeating itself like the murmur of the orchestra in a theater when a melodramatic situation occurs. To-day had been marked, different from all other days. Would to-morrow be like the others? He wondered what it would be like? "I shall get up as usual and breakfast. Where? At the Hopkins. And what shall I have? Why not a good breakfast? Yes, I will have some fruit, and then some coffee and boiled eggs and some nice French rolls. That will not be so different, though. I have eaten that breakfast before. But yes, it will be different. Why? Because of to-day. Yes, that will make it different." After breakfast he should go to the office, see the same faces, do the same work, but it would all be different—because of to-day.

"It never can be."

But could it never be? Possibly it could be, years hence. She would marry some brute of a husband who would make her unhappy. Then, after years, she would be free—somehow. He would be famous, rich, very rich, perhaps, then. She would be poor. They would meet and then it might be. She would be willing then. But she had said it never could be and of course it couldn't be then. He should be too reconciled to its not being.

But then it was not because he wasn't rich or famous, it was because she didn't——. He felt something hot and moist on his cheeks. Why, he was crying. He didn't mean to let himself do that. He was glad it was dark. He felt ashamed. At the same time he was angry—angry that any one should have the power to make him cry. He almost hated her for a moment. Suddenly, while he was in this mood, the thought of pistols came into his mind. He pictured out what he would do. He would go and shoot himself on the doorstep, her doorstep, late at night—no, early in the morning. He saw himself lying there, covered with blood. Somebody opens the door—screams. He is recognized—bah! what nonsense. He wouldn't do anything like that. He would go on living just as he had been living.

Again he saw her married to some one who made her unhappy; then free. This time, though, he felt no resentment. He was saying something to her in low tones—the words sounded in his ears as he lay there in his bed, but he could not make out just what they were, and she was looking up with that look——

"It can never be."

Again the words rang in his ears.

"It is all at an end," he said, burying his face in his pillow. "But I love her—I love her—I love her!"

THE MAJOR'S BRIDE

In the year 1847, in the ancient city of Puebla, a young couple were carrying on a conversation which seemed to be of great interest to them. The one, a young fellow wearing the uniform of the United States Army, was saying, "Though you confess that you love me, you still declare that you cannot marry me?"

"Yes," said the other sadly, a beautiful young Mexican girl, "I love you, but I cannot be your wife. I have promised my hand to my cousin, to whom my father owes more than he can pay. But he has promised that if I marry him he will cancel the debt taking me in exchange. I hate him," she continued fiercely, "but I must keep my word."

"But," said the young man impetuously, "this barter and sale is barbarous. Can't you be made to reconsider your decision?"

"No," said the maiden despairingly, "it is impossible. We must part, and do not make our parting harder for me to bear by your reproaches."

Several months previous, just after the American army had entered Puebla on its victorious march to the capital, Captain Robert Reynolds had been able to perform a notable service for Senor Garcia, a Mexican of reputed wealth, and his daughter, Inez. One day while out driving the senor's carriage horses became frightened by the maneuvers of a company of soldiers, and twisting suddenly threw the coachman from his seat and started at full speed down the road. Captain Reynolds, seeing the danger, rushed into the street, and grasping the maddened horses by the bits after a severe fight succeeded in stopping them. The senor was voluble in his thanks and in his praise of the young American's courage, but far more acceptable to the young captain was the shy glance of gratitude he received from the senor's beautiful daughter. His acquaintance, thus formed with the family, soon ripened into intimacy, his intimacy into love. But on the day before he left Puebla with his command, when he told his love to the dark-eyed beauty, he was kindly but firmly rejected, as we have seen.

The next morning Captain Reynolds rode away at the head of his company, his dream of love rudely broken. But the army was soon too busily engaged to allow him to indulge in useless repining. At Contreras he distinguished himself, and having been so fortunate as to save his colonel's life was brevetted major for his gallant conduct. At the storming of Molina del Rey his company was one of the first to enter the works. Here, however, he was severely wounded, and when in a few days the City of Mexico surrendered he was borne into the conquered capital among the other injured Americans. His case was a critical one, and, as his head was severely injured, brain fever soon set in. It is a matter of history how the Mexican women tended and nursed our wounded and dying soldiers. So when one morning a woman in the garb of a nun presented herself at the hospital and offered her services as a nurse it excited no comment. The sick man's constant cry had been "Inez, Inez!" This served as an index to his ravings, and the surgeon said, "If we could only secure the presence of the Inez he talks about, it might possibly calm him and there would be some hope of his ultimate recovery."

After the arrival of the new nurse, who confined herself almost entirely to the bedside of Major Reynolds, this cry was hushed and his ravings in a measure ceased. Her presence would cool him in his wildest moments, and soon the care of the patient passed wholly into her hands.

At last the fever had run its course, and Major Reynolds, though not convalescent, had now, in the doctor's opinion, some chance for life. What was the invalid's surprise when he opened his eyes and recovered his faculties to see beside him the face of his only love, Inez Garcia, whom he recognized even with her disguising habiliments. "Is it really you, Inez?" said he, his voice surprising even himself in its weakness. "I thought it was a dream."

"Yes," said she, "but you must not speak or even think. Those are the surgeon's orders."

"Now, if you will promise to be quiet, I will tell you how I happen to be here. In the first place, I am not married and" (very demurely) "am not likely to be. My cousin was killed at Cherubusco, and my father, being next of kin, inherited his estate, so that now he is free from those difficulties which encompassed him some time ago. Hearing of your misfortune, I persuaded my father to come here so that I could take care of you."

"And now," broke in the major, "there is no obstacle to our marriage. Is that what you mean to imply?"

Her answer is not given, but it seemed satisfactory to all parties concerned.

"And now," continued Inez, "I must leave you, though I will visit you frequently in my own propria persona."

Reynolds' recovery, no longer doubtful, was rapid. But when he attempted to thank the surgeon that worthy replied:

"Young man, you owe your life not to me, but to the careful nursing of that nun who has so mysteriously disappeared."

The war was soon ended, and Reynolds, having been removed as soon as practicable to the home of his betrothed, soon recovered his usual health. The old senor, conquering his repugnance to the idea of marrying his daughter to one of the victorious Americans, at length granted his consent, and soon after the treaty that secured peace to both Nations was signed, the ceremony was solemnized with all due pomp and splendor.

There was a large attendance and an enjoyable programme was presented under the direction of Superintendent M. C. Dobbins. The programme is as follows: Recitations, Florence Miller, Cathe Mitchell, Anna Ross, Mattie Green, E. Wilson, Mamie Doyle, Bertha Hill, Hay Kline, Edward Berm, Maude Green, Hattie Wood; chorus, "Hail Day of Gladness;" vocal solo, Maude Green; vocal duets, M. Kline and H. Wood; Cathe Mitchell and Annie Conant

After the rendition of the programme two interesting addresses were made. The first one by Geo. H. Bachelor, superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, and the other address was by Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the church.

Those who took part in the programme and gave the various recitations and songs, were drilled by Miss Maynard, and to her much credit is due. She also played the piano during the exercises.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Children's Day exercises at the First Baptist church yesterday morning were of a pleasing character and the attendance was quite large. They were held in the Sunday-school room at 10 o'clock and were in charge of Superintendent G. H. Batchelor. The platform was prettily decorated with flowers, while a large American flag was suspended over the platform in the rear. Howard Case presided at the piano and songs appropriate to the day were sung by the scholars. The usual opening devotional exercises were held and during the service there were songs by the Primary school entitled "Little Feet Be Careful" and "Children's Part." Features of the programme were two recitations. The first one was given by Josephine Serrell and the second one, "God's Little Ones," was by Beulah VanWinkle.

Mrs. Powelson, superintendent of the Primary department, was in charge of the several parts taken by that department, and her training showed effective work.

After these exercises the Sunday-school scholars adjourned to the main part of the church and occupied seats in the gallery. At this service Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes preached an earnest and powerful discourse to the children. There was also special music by the choir, consisting of anthems, solos, etc. The decorations in the church were greatly admired for their beauty.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The celebration of Children's Day at the Congregational church took place at the usual hour for morning service. The sermon was by the pastor, Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich. The subject was "The Fly," and Mr. Goodrich told his audience many entertaining facts about the lively little insect, and drew helpful lessons from his doings. One little girl was christened, and two boys, seven years old, who were baptized by the pastor in infancy, received copies of the Bible from him. Two musical numbers, a selection from "Lohengrin" and Thome's "Simple Aveu," were rendered by the instrumental trio of the church, Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organ; Mrs. M. E. Dwight, piano, and P. Ludwig Conde, violin. The Primary department sang two songs, and a graduating class, consisting of five girls and four boys, recited the Commandments, and the Books of the Old Testament.

CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH.

A service especially for the young people was held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 10:30 yesterday morning. The church was tastefully trimmed with daisies and peonies, and a very large congregation was in attendance. The sermon was by the pastor, Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, and was from the text "They returned into Galilee, to their own city, Nazareth." Luke 2, 39. Dr. Richards told of the journey of Mary and Joseph, with their little son, to Jerusalem, and their return to Nazareth, but an especially interesting part of his address was his description of his own visit to the town, during his late trip abroad, and his experiences there. The children of the Primary department of the Sunday-school were seated in the choir, and sang a number of songs very sweetly. A vocal solo by Charles L. Lewis was a pleasing feature of the programme. Several little children whose parents are members of the church were brought forward to be christened, the presenting of the little ones to the Saviour being especially fitted to form a part of the Children's Day service.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church held their Children's Day service at 7:45 in the evening. Mrs. Alice Spangenberg Runyon, superintendent of the school, presided, and the music was led by the school choir, consisting of Miss Ada Runyon, Miss Adelia Runyon, Wheaton S. Lowry and Thomas Adams Cuming. The pastor, Rev. John Wilbur Richardson, read the Scripture lesson and offered prayer, but the address of the evening was by Rev. Mr. Dorwood, of the Baptist church of Stelton. His text was "I am the light of the world," and his subject "Lights." Just before the address, a lighthouse exercise was given by Miss Cora Brokaw, Miss Emily Runyon, Walter Poole, Henry Cuming, Miss Henrietta Cuming, Herbert Brokaw and Miss Elizabeth VanWinckle who built up a lighthouse on a table, the fountain being the rock Christ Jesus, the stones Faith, Hope and Love, and the beacon the cross. The Primary department had also a part in the service, two songs being sung by all the little ones, solo recitations being given by Martha Soper, Susie Whitney and David Smalley, a recitation for three children, by Jeannette Ingham, Flossie Moffett and Edith Whitney, a recitation for five children by Arline Brown, Robert Wyckoff, Mabel Stutzman, Gordon Moy and Reginald Purdy and a little song by Lillian Cuming.

WARREN CHAPEL.

Special services were held at Warren chapel yesterday afternoon consisting of recitations and songs by members of the Primary department, all of which were appropriate to Children's Day celebration. Superintendent Lovell was in charge and made a few remarks to the scholars. There were 381 scholars and teachers present, the largest attendance on a similar occasion. A feature of the exercises was an address by Rev. Dr. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, who told about his trip to Palestine. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, also made a few appropriate remarks. The collection, amounting to $18, will be devoted to Sunday-school work in the west.

HOPE CHAPEL.

Superintendent Squires was in charge of the Children's Day exercises at Hope chapel and a very interesting programme was presented. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of Crescent Avenue church, was present and gave a very interesting talk to the scholars and teachers, after which he presented two pictures to the school. One was of Corinth, and the other of Mars Hill from which point St. Paul spoke. Both are beautiful pictures and they will be placed in the parlor of the new church soon to be erected. During the service all were much pleased with a beautiful contralto solo given by Miss Perry, of the Crescent Avenue church choir.

MARCONNIER CHAPEL.

The Children's Day exercises at the Marconnier Union chapel, at Oak Tree, yesterday, were highly interesting and pleased the large number of children as well as the older people who were present. Among the features of the services was the recitation, "Sing for Jesus," by Alice Eckfield; dialogues by fifteen children entitled "The Fairest Month of All," and "What the Flowers Said," by five children. The Children's Day greetings was given by Rebecca Terrill. Rev. M. E. Dwight delivered the address.

A Church Festival.

There was a pleasant evening passed Saturday night at the strawberry and ice cream festival held at the First Church of Christ, on Grove street. Some impromptu singing and instrumental music was supplied by Mr. and Mrs. McKane and other members of the church. The affair was highly enjoyed, though the attendance was not large. The receipts were small.

Mrs. A. V. Lunger and daughters, of Watchung avenue, spent Sunday with friends at White House, Hunterdon county.

SENATORS SEEK SECOND TERMS.

Aspect of the Situation in Several of the Counties.

THIRD TERM NOT ALLOWED.

SENATOR CROSS WILL PROBABLY BE RENOMINATED.

A Story Set in Circulation That He May be Appointed Chancery Clerk, But it is Said There is No Truth in it—Senator Ketcham, of Essex, Has Disappeared From List of Aspirants.

All of the Republican State Senators whose terms are to expire with the year are, with the exception of Ketcham, of Essex, candidates for re-election. Francis, of Monmouth; Cross, of Union; Reed, of Somerset; Stanger, of Gloucester; Miller, of Salem, and Johnson, of Camden, hope to help re-elect General Sewell to the United States Senate next January, and to be permitted to represent their respective constituencies at Trenton for another three years.

Ketcham's disappearance from the list of aspirants is because of his having been accorded two terms, and a third term is not to be thought of for even so capable and serviceable a man as he has proven himself to be. Even second terms in elective offices with three years of tenure are discouraged by the politicians, and some of the ambitious Senators may find their wings clipped by the primary voters.

Cross, of Union, may, however, be considered as an exception to the rule governing renominations. He has not had a full term. He went into the Senate last winter only to serve the last year of Governor Voorhees' unexpired term. Party usage—ordinary civility, in fact—entitled him to a nomination at the hands of the coming convention. It will not be possible to defeat him of it if he goes seriously into the poll. But, then, there are some folk in Union who would like to defeat him, and the story that he is to be made Clerk of the Court of Chancery by Governor Voorhees seems to have been set in circulation by them with a view to weakening his candidacy for the Senate. Those who are closest to him talk in a way indicating that he has no idea of withdrawing from the political contest.

It is not likely that Francis will meet with serious opposition in Monmouth. This is due chiefly to the fact that Monmouth is a Democratic county and the belief that a Republican nomination is not worth much there. At the same time the history of the county shows that the county has been more frequently represented in the Senate by Republicans than by Democrats. Francis, Bradley, Brown, Nevius and Applegate were her spokesmen on the Senate floor for twelve of the last twenty years, and even the Democrats who have been sent to Trenton by her have been of the ultra-conservative kind, like the late Dr. Chalble and George C. Beekman. Henry S. Terhune is the only out-and-out Democrat who has represented her since 1880, and when he ran for re-election, in 1893, Bradley defeated him. Mr. Terhune is still regarded as one of the strongest Democrats in the county. The certainty that Terhune is to be made the Democratic standard-bearer next fall may have frightened off all the ambitious Republicans and left Francis in command of the Republican field.

Dr. Stanger is threatened with some opposition to his candidacy in Gloucester. This is Speaker David O. Watkins' county. The Speaker was understood to be ambitious to succeed Stanger. When he was provided with the position of United States District Attorney that ended his candidacy, of course, and it was assumed that it also ended the opposition to Stanger. But Watkins no sooner retired than he shoved Pierson, the young man who has sat at his side in the Speaker's chair as a private secretary, forward as his substitute. Just what that hostile demonstration is going to amount to it is not possible as yet to say, but it does not look virile, and the likelihood is that Stanger will be favored with a second nomination.

The conditions as to Essex and Somerset have undergone no recent change, except that Reed seems to have become more assured than ever of the renomination in Somerset. Clerk in Chancery Thompson, who was understood to be in opposition to him, seems to half concede now that he will be given a chance for a second term. It remains to be seen what the nomination will be worth to him. The factional split among the Somerset Republicans is a very serious one, and the Republicans are not so sure of carrying the county after all.

RUNAWAY GIRL HOME.

JOSEPHINE SEADER TAKEN IN CUSTODY IN NEWARK.

Sent to Her Parents in North Plainfield—Says That She Does Not Know Where Mary Peterson Has Gone.

Josephine Seader, the 14-year-old daughter of Peter Seader, of North Plainfield, was arrested in Newark yesterday by Policeman Early who found her on the street. When arraigned before Judge Lambert the girl admitted that she had run away from her home. She had been employed as a domestic by a family in North Plainfield but becoming dissatisfied with her work decided to seek a new home in another city.

Josie induced her friend, Mary Peterson, an orphan who lived with her uncle, William Pierson, to accompany her. They left home Sunday afternoon. Their absence greatly alarmed their parents and friends and a general alarm was sent out. It appears that the girls took a train for Newark.

When Josie left home Sunday she told the lady for whom she worked as domestic that she was going to the Mission Sunday school. It appears that the girl parted company soon after reaching Newark and the whereabouts of the Peterson girl are unknown. The Seader girl was sent home to her parents.

SIGHTS SEEN IN ROME.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE DELIVERED BY DR. RICHARDS.

Given for the Benefit of the Boys' Missionary Band of the Crescent Avenue Church—Illustrated by Stereopticon.

The interesting lecture given under the auspices of the Boys' Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church last evening by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, attracted a large and cultured audience to the chapel of the church. The lecture was on Ancient and Modern Rome. It was illustrated by stereopticon views and proved highly entertaining.

Previous to the lecture Mrs. Isaac Miller, who is sponsor for the boys in their good work, said that the object of the mission was to benefit those engaged in missionary work. She expressed the thanks of the boys for the interest that had been shown by the people of Plainfield in the good work and expressed her gratitude for the interest manifested. The views consisted of scenes of the Coliseum, Palistine Hill, the Catacombs and several of the churches, whose beautiful architecture is considered the finest in the world, the palace of the Vatican—residence of Pope Leo, etc. Dr. Richards is a most entertaining person on all occasions, but his knowledge of this ancient city is broad and his description last evening of the many points of interest to be seen in Rome held the attention of his audience closely. Perhaps the most amusing portion of his lecture was his description of a fire in Rome and the primitive methods of the city fire department, which appeared on the scene of the threatened conflagration some little time after the blaze had been extinguished. The lecturer said the apparatus resembled not a little a toy fire engine and hook and ladder truck, which had the appearance of being more ornamental then useful.

Sprigg-Howard Nuptials.

The marriage of Miss Mary Howard, of Park avenue, and Charles Sprigg, of Howard street, was solemnized Saturday evening. Rev. Dr. Richards officiated. Miss Carrie Howard, sister of the bride, was bridemaid, while Joseph Clark was best man. After a short honeymoon the couple will take up their residence in this city.

THE "COUNT" STILL HOLDS THE FORT.

Trolley Company Rapidly Nearing the Trocha.

SETTLEMENT NEAR AT HAND

RAILWAY OFFICIALS EXPECT TO ADJUST MATTERS THIS WEEK.

The "Count" Indulges in Some Picturesque Language About the Way Trolley Companies Act—He Will Be Arraigned Before City Judge Runyon Tomorrow for Violating City Ordinance.

"Count" John K. VanNess, of East Front street, still holds the fort against the Plainfield Street Railway Company in the latter's attempt to cross his property in order to construct their Scotch Plains extension. But it is expected that the trolley company will capitulate to the "Count" without much more ado, as VanNess seems to hold the superior position in his improvised shanty home directly on the surveyed route of the trolley line, which he has protected with a brass cannon, whose range sweeps the point where an invasion of trolley employes would have to be made to oust the "Count" from his vantage. The rails are nearly laid today to the fence, which the "Count" declares is the trocha which it will be dangerous for any Italian laborers to cross with picks and shovels.

Last night City Judge Runyon notified the "Count" that he need not appear in court till tomorrow morning to answer the charge of discharging firearms within the city limits without a permit, the offense being committed when he was getting the right range with his cannon Saturday night to enfilade the ranks of the trolley company should they invade his precincts.

"Though these men would not come to my terms, I've got them practically beaten," VanNess said today. "They know they can't budge me and they will have to come to terms. If they don't they will never get across my land, not so long as my ammunition holds out. Why, I've got a document right in my pocket signed by a Judge of the Supreme Court, and those men can't touch me.

"They want a strip of land 1,400 feet long and 80 feet wide. These trolley men have no hearts when it comes to taking a man's property. They would take a man's backbone for a trunk line, use his ribs for switches and then kick him off a car if he didn't have a nickel.

"I'm not an obstructionist and there is nothing personal in the matter, but this old timer knows his rights. I caught a surveyor on my property not long ago, a nice young man—they are all gentlemen, and I'd drink with them in a minute, to show there's no hard feeling—a nice young man he was, but I kicked him off and belted him with my cane."

VanNess says that he has received an offer from the trolley company to allow the work to proceed over his property, but it is understood that the company claim that he has no power to stop them when they secure the permits of two men who are said to be the real owners of the ground. As soon as these permits are assured it is said there will be a lively time if the "Count" does not get out of the way in double quick time.

Work on the Richmond street section of the extension was started this morning, Civil Engineer VanEmburgh having previously staked out the route. As soon as the rails are laid to VanNess' place Mr. VanEmburgh says that the employes will start work on the side of the former's property and continue building the road to the Plains.

Private School Closed.

The private school conducted by Miss Scribner and Miss Green closed Friday last for the summer vacation. There were two graduates, Miss Margaret Goddard and Miss Charlotte Suydam, both of this city. Exercises appropriate to the occasion were held and thus the closing of the school was made an event of great interest to the many scholars who attend.

"GOOD-BYE, YOU'LL SEE ME NO MORE," HE SAID

Bold Escape of Constable Gjettleson's Prisoner.

HE TOOK RAPID LEG BAIL.

THE CONSTABLE UNABLE TO CATCH THE FUGITIVE.

Charles Bogart Accused of Assault and Battery—Constable Did Not Put Handcuffs on the Man, and as a Result He is Now Unable to Produce Him in Court as the Law Directs Him.

Charles Bogart, a big, good-natured young fellow, is a fugitive from justice. Just now he is wanted badly by Constable Gjettleson, from whose custody he made good his escape about 8:45 o'clock this morning. Bogart was arrested yesterday afternoon at Dunellen by the constable, who had a warrant for Bogart's apprehension, which had been issued by Justice of the Peace Mosher, of this city.

The charge against Bogart was assault and battery, preferred by Abram Wolfe, who charges this young Hercules with giving him a thrashing last Saturday night. The accused was lockup over night at the station house. At 8:30 o'clock this morning the constable arraigned his prisoner before Justice Mosher. Counselor William G. DeMeza was on hand to look after Bogart's interests, and at the lawyer's request an adjournment was granted until 2 o'clock this afternoon. Constable Gjettleson then started to take his man back to the lockup. Just as the officer and his prisoner reached the foot of the stairway, the latter was suddenly seized with an inspiration and made a dash for liberty.

"Goodby," said Bogart, "I'll see you later!"

Before the astonished guardian of the law could recover from his surprise the prisoner was sprinting up East Front street. By the time Constable Gjettleson could catch his breath and set his wits to work the big fellow had a start of several hundred yards. He was soon lost to sight, and all efforts of the officer to keep up with him were futile.

The first knowledge Justice Mosher had of the fact that Bogart had eluded the officer was when the constable came puffing up the long flight of stairs and dropping exhausted into a chair. Exclaimed: "He's gone! I couldn't catch him."

It is believed that Bogart is well out of the State by this time and will not be apprehended. When arraigned before the justice it is alleged that Bogart threatened Justice Mosher with bodily harm should he send him to jail.

Bogart has the reputation of being a hard character, and while in the station house is believed to have tampered with the padlock on the cell door, as it was with difficulity that the lock was opened when the constable went after him this morning.

The Fourth of July committee will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at Red Men's Hall to perfect arrangements for the proposed celebration. It is highly important that all members of the committee and any others who are interested in the success of the affair should be present. The subscription committee is hard at work soliciting funds, and there is a fair prospect that the amount of money, $2,500, needed to ensure the success of the undertaking, will be secured. A Restful Spot.

Plainfield people and others in search of a quiet restful place to spend a few days, a few weeks or the summer, are reminded of the VanOver House at Lake Hopatcong, conducted for many years by Mrs. M. J. Tygar. Last winter the old house burned down and this summer a new and modern house has been erected in its place. It is not a hotel, but a boarding house where home comforts are dispensed to all alike. The location is just far enough away from the lake and railroad station to make it a very desirable place to rest and enjoy delightful scenery, as well as a good table.

He Feels Like a New Man.

Albert Runyon, 41 Mountain avenue, says for several years his bunions and ingrowing toe nails kept him in misery. Large shoes, so-called cures nor anything else done any good. After everything else failed to give relief he went to Mr. Brown, at 145 West Second street, who, by his painless and bloodless treatment, has made his feet as sound as a dollar. He can now wear close-fitting shoes and walk with ease and comfort. It is certainly a boon to suffering humanity to have so experienced and skillful a chiropodist in the city.

A Job With a Railroad.

Charles M. Dolliver, of Fairview avenue, who has been studying law in the office of W. R. Codington, has accepted a position for the summer with the New Jersey Southern Railroad at Lakehurst. He has charge of the supply store at that place. In the fall he expects to take up his law work and enter a college to finish his education.

Returned Missionary to Talk.

Next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Warren chapel Miss Milleken, a returned missionary from Honolulu, will make an address before the members of the King's Foreign Missionary Circle of the chapel. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

Would Like to See Delinquents.

Collector James Martin again calls attention to the fact that many 1898 delinquent taxpayers have failed to settle their accounts. He would like to see them very soon.

AN EXCITING ROAD RACE.

ROUTE WAS UPPER EAST FRONT STREET TO FANWOOD AND BACK.

Henry Angerbauer Was the Promoter of the Event, Which Attracted a Big Crowd—Charles Dodd the Winner.

There was a big crowd of wheelmen and much excitement on East Front street last evening at the starting of the road race which was promoted by Henry Angerbauer. The run was from opposite Farragut avenue on East Front street to Fanwood and return, a distance of about five miles.

Among those who participated were Charles Dean, Albert Marsh, Edward Duck, Lawrence Benner, James Montross, Joe Johnson, Jeppe Jorenson, of this city, and Charles Dodd, of Elizabeth.

Dean was given a minute and a half handicap and was the first to start. Matthew Sweeney was starter.

The men finished in this order: Dodd, first, time, 17 minutes, 33 seconds; Sorensen, 17 minutes, 33½ seconds; Benner, 18 minutes, 34 seconds; Duck, 18 minutes, 35 seconds.

The prizes consisted of two nickel plated bicycle lanterns for the man making the best time and being first in. A china tea set was given for the second prize. It is possible that another road race will be held on the afternoon of July 4th.

CRUISE OF RESERVES.

JERSEY JACK TARS TO GO TO SEA ON THE PRAIRIE.

It is Not Certain That There Will be a Large Turnout This Year on Account of Niggardly Treatment of the State.

The New Jersey Naval Reserves, Battalion of the East, which includes the Plainfield boys, received information last week that they would take their annual cruise during the week beginning Wednesday, July 19th. The cruise is to be taken on the auxiliary cruiser Prairie, which was used by the Massachusetts Reserves during the war with Spain. The Prairie is now cruising with the Virginia Reserves and is working her way up the coast gradually.

It is not certain that there will be a large turnout of Jerseymen when the Prairie gets here, for of all the States in the Union where there are Naval Reserve organizations, New Jersey is said to be the only one that does not pay the Reserves when on cruise. The National Guardsmen are paid while at Sea Girt, but no provision whatever is made to reimburse the sailormen for wages they may loose while on the cruise. The Battalion of the East of New Jersey has made in all four cruises, including the cruise last year while on the blockade off Cuba. The State paid the men nothing except for the last cruise, and the members of the battalion are not inclined to go out this year in large number.

The Newark division should send over sixty men when the Prairie arrives, but if forty go aboard the officers will consider themselves fortunate. It was expected that the State would come forward and treat the Reserves as similar organizations are treated elsewhere, after the excellent service done off Cuba, but somehow the politicians at Trenton did not rise to the occasion, and as a result many of the boys will stay at home.

TOO MUCH BEER.

An Italian Suffered a Scalp Wound as a Result of Intoxication.

Frank Blumby, aged 35 years, an Italian, was taken to the hospital last evening in the ambulance suffering with a scalp wound caused by falling off of the railroad embankment. To use Blumby's own words he said that he "had too much beer," and this no doubt accounts for the accident. He also says that he has only been intoxicated twice since coming to this country some years ago. The wound he received in the head is not a serious one and he will only be detained at the hospital a short time. Blumby is a married man and has three children. His home is on Cottage place.

Likes the Scenery.

John H. Worth, of Grove street, is the proud owner of a handsome rubber tired runabout and a stylish road horse. He is very fond of the scenery along the Raritan river and if he is able to take a vacation from his business during the hot weather he will probably spend it in Somerset county, near the county seat.

Mrs. DeMeza's Sister Dead.

Mrs. Samuel Gibson, of Paterson, a sister of Mrs. Charlotte DeMeza, of West Second street, this city, died yesterday after a short illness. She is survived by a husband and one child. Mrs. Gibson was well known in this city where she had many friends.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT BEING PUSHED ALONG

Old Monument Committee Asked to Co-operate.

NUCLEUS FOR A BIG FUND.

OLD ASSOCIATION HAD BETWEEN $2,000 AND $3,000 PLEDGED.

Two Thousand Circulars Have Been Sent Out Appealing to Citizens for Subscriptions, But the Responses Thus Far Have Not Been Very Liberal—Miniature Monument May Be Secured.

Last evening at the home of Rev. W. C. O'Donnell there was a meeting of the soldiers' monument committee. All the members were present and it can be considered that progress was made along the lines as originally mapped out.

In the first place it was decided that an effort should be made to have the old monument association call a meeting as soon as possible and to learn exactly what the old association did, what money they have in ther possession, and to secure a list of those who subscribed to the monument fund. At this meeting a representative of the present monument committee will be present so that it will be known exactly what takes place.

A motion was adopted that Nelson Runyon, of the old association, be requested to call a meeting as soon as convenient It was the sense of the meeting that if possible a limited number of people be encouraged to give $100 each to start the fund. This added to what is already in hand would prove as an incentive to others to give. So far as could be learned last evening the old association has about $200 in cash and between $2,000 and $3 000 in subscriptions. The Sons of Veterans have donated $200. These various amounts will assist materially in giving the scheme a boom.

The question of putting a float in the Fourth of July parade was discussed, but was not considered favorably. It was agreed, however, that if possible it would be wise to have some advertisement placed in the programme to be issued for that day.

An excellent idea was advanced by one of the members to the effect that a miniature monument be secured, about a fac-simile of the proposed monument, and have it placed on exhibition in the city, where everyone can see it.

Thus far 2,000 circulars have been sent out asking for subscriptions and in response some money has come in, but not so much as was anticipated. It is hoped that there will be a more liberal response. J. F. Buckle, of North avenue, is the treasurer, and he will gladly receive any amount a person desires to contribute.

RECEPTION TO ART PUPILS.

Miss Harriet French Entertained at Her Home.

Miss Harriet French, of Somerset street, gave a reception yesterday afternoon to her pupils in art and their friends. Among the older pupils the work of Miss Curtis, Miss Dwight and Miss Waring, deserves special mention, and among the younger girls Marion Dwight and Margaret Townsend.

Miss French was a former pupil of the Artist-Artisan Institute of New York, of which John Ward Stimpson, of this city, now of Saranac Lake, N. Y., was superintendent. Later Miss French studied at the Teachers' College, N. Y., with William S. Robinson.

A BOLD ASSERTION

The Assertion Made In The Introduction to this Plainfield Citizen's Statement is Literally True.

There is only one proprietary article on the market which gives local evidence touching its merits; home proof to back up its claims; Plainfield evidence for Plainfield people. Statements from people we know in place of statements from strangers. That preparation is the one endorsed by

Mrs. M. A. Hall, of 219 Prescott place, who says:—"Doan's Kidney Pills without exception are the best medicine I ever used. My kidneys troubled me for several years with dull, aching pain across my back, and at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night, stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. I was also subject to severe headaches and was more or less nervous. A kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient also existed and though I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was surprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."
